

the highest expectations and creates an atmosphere of mutual respect between the teacher and students.

Mrs. Waller's professional responsibilities are fulfilled with great care. She maintains an organized recordkeeping system that monitors individual student achievement and progress. Constantly interacting with students, parents, colleagues, and administrators, Mrs. Waller works collaboratively to ensure the academic success and social development of her students.

Madam Speaker, I ask that you join with me today to honor Leah Waller in her acceptance of the 2007-2008 Baltimore City Teacher of the Year Award. Her legacy as a dedicated, enthusiastic educator will be forever remembered by the grateful students who walk through her classroom doors. It is with great pride that I congratulate Leah Waller on her exemplary career in education and her outstanding performance at Marea G. Farring Elementary School in Baltimore City.

GUYANA'S 42ND BIRTHDAY: MUCH TO CELEBRATE, QUITE A LOT TO HOPE FOR

HON. CHARLES B. RANGEL

OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, June 10, 2008

Mr. RANGEL. Madam Speaker, I rise today in recognition of Guyana's 42nd anniversary of independence.

Guyana achieved independence on May 26, 1966, and became the Co-operative Republic of Guyana on February 23, 1970, with a new constitution. Guyana is a located on the northern coast of South America between Venezuela, Brazil, and Suriname. It is the lone English-speaking nation on the South American mainland, a country of 83,000 square miles, dense tropical forests, and 800,000 people.

This former British colony is rich in human resources, bauxite, gold and arable land. The young country had promising expectations but success was not immediately attained. In fact, Guyana, at times, is described as one of the poorest countries in the Western Hemisphere and qualifies for debt concessions through the global initiative to reduce burden on the world's highly indebted poor countries.

After years of economic decline, failure to maintain its infrastructure, political conflict between Afro and Indo Guyanese, Guyana's largest ethnic groups, and factors that fueled an exodus of its brightest, the country needed reform. Today, it is rebuilding both its economy and infrastructure and with prospects of finding large deposits of oil, Guyana now has the potential for growth and prosperity expected of it since the 1960s.

Guyana still faces many obstacles today. Earlier this year, two massacres took the lives of more than 20 men, women and children but a period of relative calm has followed. Yes, crime and violence remain a serious problem as they do elsewhere in the Caribbean.

The latter is the dichotomous image that Guyana presents to the world as it celebrates its 42nd anniversary of independence.

As a member of the international community, Guyana has made important contributions to the resolutions of major conflicts around the world through its participation in the United Nations Security Council, in the Organization of American States, on the World Court and in other global bodies.

This anniversary offers us an occasion to thank the people of Guyana for their strength, their courage, and their contributions to our global community. So, on this anniversary of independence, I stand in camaraderie with the Guyanese people to celebrate and appreciate the growth and change of Guyana.

CONGRATULATING TEXAS' EXEMPLARY CHILDREN'S HOSPITALS

HON. MICHAEL C. BURGESS

OF TEXAS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, June 10, 2008

Mr. BURGESS. Madam Speaker, I rise today to congratulate the outstanding accomplishments of our leading Texas hospitals. Texas Children's Hospital in Houston, Children's Medical Center in Dallas, Children's Cancer Hospital at M.D. Anderson in Houston, and Cook Children's Medical Center in Fort Worth were recently recognized as among our nation's top hospitals by U.S. News and World Report.

Texas Children's Hospital in Houston was ranked sixth in the country in general pediatrics, third in heart surgery, and in the top five of several other specialties. Cook Children's Medical Center in Fort Worth was ranked 29th nationwide for its respiratory disorders specialty. Children's Medical Center in Dallas was ranked 15th among cancer specialties, and ranked in the Top 30 on four other categories as well, including General Pediatrics and Digestive Disorders. Children's Cancer Hospital at M.D. Anderson in Houston was ranked 21st among cancer specialties.

The U.S. News rankings were based on surveys of pediatricians, outcome of patient care including surgeries, and care-related measures including nurse staffing, availability of important technologies, and patient volume.

As a physician, it is inspiring to see that the medical profession, and specifically the hospitals and doctors serving Texas, are so adamantly dedicated to their service and are able to provide such exceptional care to our nation's children. Health care affects every facet of our lives, and America's devotion to innovation and advancements in medicine is vital in maintaining our position as having the best health care system in the world.

Madam Speaker, it is with honor today that I rise and extend my sincerest congratulations to these outstanding children's hospitals in Texas. It is my hope that they will continue to lead the way in pediatric care, maintaining the discipline, focus, and compassion that has earned them their reputations for excellence.

TRIBUTE TO MR. CORNELIUS ALLEN

HON. DANNY K. DAVIS

OF ILLINOIS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, June 10, 2008

Mr. DAVIS of Illinois. Madam Speaker, I rise to pay tribute Mr. Cornelius Allen who passed away on May 28, 2008; and an individual whom I learned was my cousin a few years ago.

Madam Speaker, Cornelius Allen was one of the friendliest and most delightful persons I have known. Cornelius was born on October 13, 1928, in Gary, Indiana to the parentage of Mr. Diston and Mrs. Addie P. Allen. Mr. Allen attended high school at Oakwood Academy in Huntsville, Alabama; graduating with the class of 1947. He was then drafted into the United States Army and served as a private first class until honorable discharged in 1952, and remained in the reserve until 1957.

In 1955, Cornelius joined the Chicago Transit Authority and quickly became an Ambassador of Goodwill as he often spoke with passengers and exhibited friendship to school children. After thirty years of loyal service to the Chicago Transit Authority, Mr. Allen retired and spent the rest of his life doing good deeds.

Cornelius Allen was a real proponent of education and encouraged young people to take advantage of every educational opportunity available to them. He was family centered and exhibited great pride in family history, tradition and unity.

To Cornelius's closest relatives, Dell Allen and wife Debbie, his daughters Addie Allen, grandchildren, Marcus Allen, Dell 'Rome' Allen, Justus Cornelius Allen Pugh, great grandchildren Cameron Allen, Lyndon Allen and Lucas Allen; his brother Ray Shepherd and Rosenwald (Eunice) Allen Sr. and his sister, Mary Ann Guyton, I say you have been blessed to have such a great soul to be an intimate part of your life.

Cornelius was a good man whose footsteps were ordered by the Lord and just as he brought joy to your lives, he brought joy to countless others.

May he rest in peace.
