FOR OTHER PURPOSES

MARCH 17, 1999.—Committed to the Committee of the Whole House on the State of the Union and ordered to be printed

Mr. YOUNG of Florida, from the Committee on Appropriations, submitted the following

REPORT

together with

DISSENTING AND ADDITIONAL VIEWS

[To accompany H.R. 1141]

The Committee on Appropriations submits the following report in explanation of the accompanying bill making emergency supplemental appropriations for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1999, and for other purposes.

BILL HIGHLIGHTS

The bill recommended by the Committee includes $687,000,000 of emergency relief from the devastating impact of Hurricanes Mitch and Georges for several Latin American countries and of which $10,000 is for relief from the recent earthquake in Colombia. It also includes $80,000,000 for additional border costs related to Hurricane Mitch for the Immigration and Naturalization Service and $194,900,000 to reimburse the Department of Defense for transportation costs already sustained in providing initial assistance in response to this hurricane. The bill includes $100,000,000 for economic support and foreign military financing for Jordan. The bill includes $152.4 million for direct and guaranteed farm operating loans that will provide a loan authorization of $1,095,000,000. Additionally, the bill includes several minor non-emergency appropriations for various miscellaneous activities that are within the Committee's regular spending allocation. Finally, all spending in the bill is offset with recessions included therein.

TITLE I
EMERGENCY SUPPLEMENTAL APPROPRIATIONS
CHAPTER 1
DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE
FARM SERVICE AGENCY
SALARIES AND EXPENSES

The Omnibus Consolidated and Emergency Supplemental Appropriations Act, 1999, (Public Law 105-277) provided $40,000,000 in Department of Agriculture (USDA) emergency salaries and expenses funds. This funding was in recognition of the administrative burden placed on USDA's Farm Service Agency (FSA) by the disaster assistance provisions in that bill. FSA now estimates that it will require an additional $42,753,000 to support additional temporary staffing for five months in order to deliver the disaster assistance provisions fully. This proposal would not fund additional permanent staff.

This entire amount has been requested by the President, and has been designated by the President as an emergency requirement pursuant to the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985, as amended.

AGRICULTURAL CREDIT INSURANCE FUND PROGRAM ACCOUNT

The Omnibus Consolidated and Emergency Supplemental Appropriations Act, 1999 (Public Law 105-277) provided $2,800,000,000 in Department of Agriculture (USDA) farm loans supported by more than $121,000,000 in credit subsidies. This funding is expected to be depleted for all farm loan programs by April 15, 1999. The Department of Agriculture projects a need for an additional $105,609,000 in credit subsidies in order to provide an additional $1,095,000,000 in loans, as follows:

Program	Budget authority	Loan level
Farm operating loans:
Direct	$12,635,000	$185,000,000
Guaranteed	16,169,000	185,000,000
Subtotal	28,804,000	370,000,000
Farm ownership loans:
Direct	29,940,000	200,000,000
Guaranteed	5,565,000	350,000,000
Subtotal	35,505,000	550,000,000
Emergency loans	41,300,000	175,000,000
Total	105,609,000	1,095,000,000

In addition, the Department estimates that it will require an additional $4,000,000 for administrative expenses to carry out these loan programs.

These amounts are required in order to respond to unprecedented demand for agricultural credit due to persistently low commodity prices. In FY 1998, Department of Agriculture loan programs served 26,000 farmers. Funds provided in Public Law 105-277 supported an increase in that number for FY 1999 to 31,000. The amount recommended in this bill will allow the Department of Agriculture to assist more than 12,000 additional farmers in need of capital, bringing the total to over 43,000 in FY 1999.

This entire amount has been requested by the President, and has been designated by the President as an emergency requirement pursuant to the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985, as amended.

CHAPTER 2

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE

IMMIGRATION AND NATURALIZATION SERVICE

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

ENFORCEMENT AND BORDER AFFAIRS

The Committee recommends that $80,000,000 in emergency funding be made available until expended for 2,945 additional detention beds for the detention of criminal aliens from Central America and illegal aliens from Central America apprehended at or near the border. The Committee understands that these funds are necessary to prevent criminal aliens from Central America from being released into the community while awaiting deportation and to provide for detention space at or near the border for apprehended illegal aliens from Central America. This is connected with the Administration's determination to delay returns to countries severely impacted by Hurricane Mitch. The need for emergency detention space is in large part a direct result of INS's failure to plan for and request in a timely fashion sufficient detention space to meet its statutory requirements and represents the latest in the long and continuing series of management failures by the INS.

The Committee has determined that, given the INS's inability to timely identify its detention needs and effectively manage its resources, that all funds made available for the INS under this Act should be administered by the Attorney General.

Section 303 of the Illegal Immigration Reform and Immigrant Responsibility Act of 1996 requires that certain criminal aliens be detained by the INS after they have served their criminal sentence and throughout the removal procedures. That provision also contained a 2-year transition before all designated categories of criminal aliens were required to be detained.

In light of this statutory requirement, INS has failed to adequately identify its detention needs and to request the necessary funds to prevent criminal aliens from being released (or from being placed into detention), and to support the border enforcement strategy in which both the Congress and the Administration have heavily invested resources.

This is not the first time that INS has not planned ahead and not requested sufficient detention space to house criminal and illegal aliens. In fiscal year 1997, Congress provided program increases of over $114,000,000, $70,000,000 over the Administration's request, for funds for detention due to the then-shortage of detention space which resulted in INS releasing criminal and illegal aliens.

In fiscal year 1998, Congress provided over $178,000,000 for detention and related costs, including construction funds for expanding INS detention facilities, representing the full amount that the Administration requested for such costs.

In fiscal year 1999, the first year that the mandatory criminal alien detention rules became fully effective, the INS requested no funds for detention spaces for either contract facilities or from State and local prisons (except for juvenile detention), the most expedient form of obtaining immediate, additional detention space. With the exception of requesting activation funds for a 400-bed facility which is due to open this fiscal year—which the Congress provided—INS chose to request funds for construction of future detention space, thereby providing no relief to its now critical detention problem.

Further, on August 6, 1998, a reprogramming request was submitted by the Administration for INS which included transferring $25,000,000 from detention funding to free up funds for its naturalization initiative. While Congress ultimately provided funding for the naturalization initiative in the Omnibus Consolidated and Emergency Supplemental Appropriations for fiscal year 1999, it did not approve the transfer of $25,000,000 from detention funds, and instead provided that amount in direct appropriations. Therefore, in fiscal year 1999, INS actually has $25,000,000 more in detention funds than it would have if Congress had funded the naturalization initiative in the manner it was requested. And yet, INS still finds itself in emergency straits and has had the audacity to suggest that Congress did not provide the necessary resources.

On October 1, 1998, the first day of fiscal year 1999, the mandatory detention provision from the 1996 Immigration Act became fully effective. In October, after the mandatory detention rules became effective, the INS approached Congress to request statutory relief from the mandatory detention provision, stating that it did not have enough detention space to fulfill the mandates of the law. This last-minute request is evidence that the INS once again did not identify, plan for, nor timely communicate its detention needs and was hoping to be bailed out by the Congress.

Given the choice of providing emergency funding or allowing criminal aliens to be released in this country for lack of detention space, the Committee has approved the emergency funding. In addition to administering these funds, the Attorney General is expected to take all necessary actions to correct the continuing saga of INS mismanagement.

CHAPTER 3

DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE—MILITARY

The President requested $188,500,000 in emergency supplemental fiscal year 1999 appropriations for the Department of Defense to cover the costs of disaster relief efforts in Central America resulting from Hurricanes Mitch and Georges. The Committee recommends $194,900,000, which includes the amounts requested by the President plus an additional $6,400,000 to meet requirements identified by the Department of Defense subsequent to transmittal of the President's request. Of the amounts in this chapter, $132,500,000 is to replenish funds diverted from various defense appropriations accounts to support emergency response efforts. The remaining $62,400,000 is to support planned National Guard and Reserve training in the region, including reconstruction, engineering and medical services.

The following table provides details, by appropriations account, of the emergency supplemental appropriations in this chapter for disaster relief.

CHAPTER 4

The Committee recommends emergency supplemental appropriations of $687,000,000 as the United States share of the international recovery efforts in the Central American and Caribbean nations devastated by Hurricanes Mitch and Georges in late 1998. This amount includes $10,000,000 in assistance to victims of the January, 1999, earthquake in Colombia. The Committee also recommends supplementals totaling $100,000,000 for Jordan.

HURRICANES MITCH AND GEORGES

The Committee recommendation reflects the compassion extended by the people of the United States to our neighbors in Central and South America and the Caribbean who have suffered greatly from the recent catastrophic natural disasters in the region. The Committee recognizes that the purpose of this emergency supplemental assistance is twofold. First, this funding draws upon the best traditions of the American public in providing generous humanitarian support to help alleviate suffering of those in dire need. Second, the Committee recognizes that this reconstruction assistance strengthens U.S. national security by supporting the economic growth of these nascent democracies and deterring the possibility of increased illegal immigration into the U.S.

The toll from these disasters, in both human and economic terms, was staggering. On September 20, 1998, Hurricane Georges struck the Eastern Caribbean, inflicting significant damage to the Dominican Republic, Haiti, and other parts of the Eastern Caribbean, including Antigua, Barbuda, St. Kitts and St. Nevis. Georges left more than 400 dead and up to $2 billion in economic damage in its wake.

Between October 26 and 31, 1998, Hurricane Mitch struck Central America. It ranks as one of the worst hurricanes ever to hit the region. Mitch resulted in more than 9,000 dead, 9,000 missing, 13,000 injured, and at least 3 million people displaced. The financial devastation was enormous as well: according to the U.S. Corps of Engineers, the costs to repair damaged or destroyed infrastructure in Central America is at least $8.5 billion.

Hurricane Mitch hit Honduras particularly hard. According to AID, more than one-third of Honduras' schools were damaged or destroyed. Much of the country's road and bridge infrastructure was destroyed, severely hampering relief efforts. Nearly 70,000 homes were damaged or destroyed requiring the evacuation of 2.1 million people, many of whom remain homeless today. In Nicaragua, the rains and floods caused landslides leaving hundreds of thousands of people homeless and without food. Hurricane Mitch caused significant damage in El Salvador and Guatemala as well.

Most recently, on January 25, 1999, a catastrophic earthquake, registering 6.0 on the Richter scale, struck northern Colombia. The region hardest hit includes the cities of Armenia, Calarca and Pereira. This powerful earthquake and its aftershocks killed nearly 1,000 people, injured more than 4,000, left 4,000 missing and 250,000 homeless. The earthquake caused an estimated $1.5 billion in damage.

The Committee recognizes the urgency in providing relief to those affected by these disasters. In fact, the United States has already begun that effort. Since the devastation caused by these disasters, the United States has already committed more than $300 million in urgently needed humanitarian assistance, primarily for food, medical supplies, and to transport commodities. The supplemental funds are urgently needed to help reduce the risk of widespread public health problems, to assist in the re-opening of schools and to help ensure that needed agricultural inputs are widely available prior to the spring planting season.

THE PRESIDENT'S EMERGENCY REQUEST

On February 16, 1999, the President transmitted to Congress an emergency supplemental funding request for $687,000,000 in new budget authority for fiscal year 1999 for relief and reconstruction assistance and for other purposes. The President's entire supplemental funding request was presented to Congress as an emergency, pursuant to the Balance Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985.

The Committee conducted a public hearing on the request on February 24, 1999. At the hearing, concern was expressed about the lack of detailed justification regarding use of the requested funds. Subsequent to the hearing, the Office of Management and Budget coordinated the provision of additional justification documents to the Committee. The Committee also notes that the Inspector General of the Agency for International Development is working with the Committee to ensure Congress is in a position to conduct proper oversight of the use of these funds.

A bipartisan Committee delegation visited Honduras between March 5 and March 7, accompanied by General Charles Wilhelm, Commander in Chief, U.S. Southern Command. The delegation met with Honduras President Carlos Flores and fully discussed the supplemental request as it pertains to Honduras. The delegation also met with Hondurans from all walks of life and visited reconstruction activities throughout the country.

The President's request for relief and reconstruction includes the following:

- $283 million to assist economic development efforts by repairing rural roads, by providing micro-credit loans, and by providing basic agricultural inputs, such as seeds, tools and fertilizer to farmers.
- $136 million to reconstruct and rehabilitate hospitals and health clinics, to provide water and sanitation services, and to provide disease control and prevention.
- $64 million for technical assistance for environmental management and disaster mitigation.
- $55 million to build, repair, and re-equip schools, provide school supplies and to build 6,000 housing units.
- $41 million for debt restructuring and relief, including a $25 million contribution to the recently created Central America Emergency Trust Fund and $16 million for the cost of reducing Honduras' bilateral debt to the United States.
- $25 million to partially replenish AID's international disaster assistance contingency account.
- $12 million for anti-corruption programs.
- $10 million for anti-crime and anti-drug programs.
- $3 million for outreach programs to the U.S. private sector.
- $42 million for reconstruction assistance in the Dominican Republic, Haiti and other Eastern Caribbean nations affected by Hurricane Georges.
- $10 million for earthquake recovery efforts in Colombia.

BILATERAL ECONOMIC ASSISTANCE

FUNDS APPROPRIATED TO THE PRESIDENT

AGENCY FOR INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

INTERNATIONAL DISASTER ASSISTANCE

The Committee has provided $25,000,000 for the International Disaster Assistance account as requested by the President. These funds will partially replenish funds expended in response to Hurricanes Mitch and Georges and the earthquake in Colombia. According to USAID, it has spent $35,000,000 from this account in response to Hurricane Mitch alone.

The Committee notes that the International Disaster Assistance account is a contingency account, not a program account. As such, it is designed to respond to unanticipated disasters and not to supplement AID's regular programs.

OTHER BILATERAL ECONOMIC ASSISTANCE

ECONOMIC SUPPORT FUND

The Committee recommendation includes $50,000,000 for economic support for Jordan. This is the amount requested by the President on an urgent basis in his transmittal of January 19, 1999.

The Committee strongly supports the provision of this assistance as an expression of America's support for Jordan and its people. The late King Hussein was a strong proponent of stability in the region and was a courageous promoter of the Middle East Peace Process. A stable transition in Jordan is essential to promoting U.S. interests in Middle East peace and stability. The United States has played a leadership role in mobilizing broad international support for Jordan in the wake of King Hussein's death. The Committee believes that provision of this assistance will enable the United States to continue to provide strong support for King Abdullah and Jordan, and to leverage contributions from the Gulf States, G-7 partners, and the European Union in the form of additional trade and financial support for Jordan, including the provision of debt relief. These funds will also play a crucial role in maintaining Jordan's progress on economic reform.

The Committee strongly supports the full fiscal year 2000 request for Jordan contained in the President's transmittal and expects to favorably consider it in subsequent legislation.

The entire amount recommended for Jordan in fiscal year 1999 has been offset with rescissions in this act. For technical reasons it is designated as an emergency requirement pursuant to the Balanced Budget Act of 1985.

CENTRAL AMERICA AND THE CARIBBEAN EMERGENCY DISASTER RECOVERY FUND

The Committee recommends $621,000,000 for a new Central America and the Caribbean Emergency Disaster Recovery Fund. The President requested an additional amount of $621,000,000 for the Economic Support Fund. The Committee believes establishing this new fund, rather than comingling these funds with previously appropriated funds, will help ensure that this emergency supplemental is used solely to meet the requirements associated with Hurricanes Georges and Mitch and the earthquake in Colombia. Creation of a separate account allows the Committee greater ability to conduct proper oversight of these emergency funds.

To preserve flexibility within this account, the Committee has not recommended that funds be earmarked for specific purposes. However, these funds should be used to meet the most urgent requirements including:

- Infrastructure repair and restoration including roads, bridges, potable water systems, schools, and health clinics.
- Development of rural areas and small municipalities, including refurbishment of farm-to-market roads, bridges, and levees, restoration of agricultural storage and processing facilities, and provision of credit for small farmers and businesses.
- Electric power capacity restoration, including priority attention to mitigating the adverse effects of the February 1999 fire at the El Cajon Dam power generating plant in Honduras.
- Microcredit programs targeted to the needs of small businesses and farmers, with a special emphasis on opportunities that can reduce poverty in households headed by women; and
- Environmental reparation and protection, including technology transfers in support of reforestation and agro-forestry.

The Committee supports inclusion of the U.S. private sector in efforts to help relevant government agencies and nongovernmental organizations in the region monitor the use of aid funds in order to prevent corruption and misuse.

The Committee also intends that funds be allocated in ways that promote the decentralization of decision making and the involvement of private citizens. Funds should be channeled through municipal governments to the extent practicable to strengthen the capacity and role of local governments. The Committee further expects that AID missions will seek substantial input from citizens organizations which reflect the diversity of social and political opinions during the reconstruction process.

The Committee also commends the efforts of returned Peace Corps volunteers who have volunteered to assist in the Central America reconstruction effort. Sufficient funds should be made available to the Crisis Corps in Central America to support the community projects undertaken by the Corps in cooperation with nongovernmental organizations active in the region.

Hurricane Mitch has severely damaged the North Coast and Guanaja and other Bay Islands. Essential infrastructure repairs are needed to support the resumption of agricultural exports and eco-tourism. While U.S. businesses are committed to spending in excess of $100,000,000 of their own funds in this region, much smaller amounts are required to support rapid repair of public infrastructure, especially bridges, dams, and levies. The Committee recommends that the Executive branch include these Honduras public sector requirements in its reconstruction plans. The Committee recognizes that the Administration's request incorporates many of these priorities, but strongly urges that these types of projects take priority over other initiatives proposed by the administration.

Efforts in these areas will directly benefit U.S. national interests by helping restore the economic viability of these nations, thereby slowing the process of migration.

The Committee has included language requiring that funds in this account be made available subject to the provisions of chapter 4 of part II of the Foreign Assistance Act, which governs the use of the Economic Support Fund. Further, these funds may only be utilized subject to the provisions of title V of the Foreign Operations, Export Financing, and Related Programs Act, 1999, as contained in Public Law 105-277, except for section 558. All funds in this account are subject to the regular notification procedures of the Committee on Appropriations and the ceiling on population planning activities or other population assistance contained in section 580 of the 1999 Act.

The Committee expects that, to the extent practicable, contracts and grants should be awarded to U.S. private organizations and individuals, especially those linked with indigenous Central American counterparts, provided that such a preference does not delay or hinder the delivery of assistance.

The Committee includes bill language which prohibits funds from being used for nonproject assistance.

Of the funds made available from this account, the Committee has provided for the transfer of up to $5,000,000 to the administrative account of AID for the purpose of implementing disaster relief and reconstruction projects. In addition, up to $2,000,000 may be transferred to AID's Inspector General for the purpose of auditing and monitoring the use of these supplemental funds. The Committee is informed that without these additional funds the Inspector General would be forced to postpone or forego entirely certain financial and performance audits elsewhere in the world in order to ensure these supplemental funds were adequately monitored. Given the Committee's lack of confidence in the ability of AID's New Management System (NMS) to accurately track agency expenditures in general, there is particular concern that these supplemental appropriations be audited thoroughly by the Inspector General.

The Committee has learned that the Colombian National Police (CNP) expended nearly $500,000 conducting airborne rescue and support operations in response to the recent earthquake. CNP aircraft transported food, medical supplies and other urgent humanitarian aid, as well as injured persons, in support of relief efforts. The Committee is aware that these funds were originally dedicated to counter-narcotics efforts and encourages the Administration to make available funds from within this account directly to the Colombian National Police to replenish CNP funds expended for earthquake relief.

The President requested the entire amount of the funds recommended under this account as an emergency requirement under the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985. However, his designation would only affect funds appropriated under the Economic Support Fund. Due to the fact the Committee is proposing a new account for disaster recovery activities in Central America and the Caribbean, for technical reasons the recommendation includes bill language requiring a Presidential designation of the funding as an emergency requirement.

DEPARTMENT OF THE TREASURY

DEBT RESTRUCTURING

The Committee is recommending $41,000,000 for debt restructuring as requested by the President. These funds will be utilized for two purposes: $16,000,000 will be made available for the budget cost of reducing Honduras' bilateral debt owed to the United States beyond the reduction provided for in the regular fiscal year 1999 Act and up to $25,000,000 will be made available to a multilateral Central America Emergency Trust Fund to help Central American governments cover the costs of debt service owed to the World Bank, the Inter-American Development Bank and other international financial institutions. The Committee is aware that, in addition to this assistance, the Administration intends to defer all bilateral debt obligations to the U.S. from Honduras and Nicaragua over the next two years.

The Committee notes that the Foreign Operations Act for fiscal year 1999 already provided funds for debt reduction of 50 percent of the debt owed by the government of Honduras to be forgiven. The $16,000,000 provided in this Act would allow reduction of 67 percent of Honduras' debt owed to the United States.

The Committee is aware that prior to Hurricane Mitch, Nicaragua was classified by the World Bank as a Heavily Indebted Poor Country (HIPC). Foreign debt for Nicaragua stands at $6,100,000,000 including a substantial debt stock owed to the former Soviet Union and to Libya. The Committee expects that no U.S. funds will be used to repay debt owed to these nations. According to the Treasury Department, total foreign debt for Honduras is $3,600,000,000, including $1,300,000,000 owed to bilateral creditors. The Committee urges the Administration to encourage other bilateral creditors to reduce or forgive outstanding debt owed by these nations.

The Committee urges the U.S. executive directors at the Inter-American Development Bank, the World Bank and other relevant international financial institutions to exercise caution when considering large new lending programs for the affected countries. The provision of new loans to governments that cannot service existing debt is a questionable practice.

MILITARY ASSISTANCE

FUNDS APPROPRIATED TO THE PRESIDENT

FOREIGN MILITARY FINANCING PROGRAM

The Committee recommends $50,000,000 for grant military assistance to Jordan. This is the amount requested by the President on an urgent basis in his transmittal of January 19, 1999.

The Committee strongly supports the provision of this assistance as an expression of America's support for Jordan and its people. The late King Hussein was a strong proponent of stability in the region and was a courageous promoter of the Middle East Peace Process. A stable transition in Jordan is essential to promoting U.S. interests in Middle East peace and stability, and the United States should continue to provide strong support to King Abdullah and Jordan. These funds will play a crucial role in improving Jordan's military readiness and modernization objectives, help Jordan to defend its borders, and strengthen U.S./Jordanian bilateral military ties.

The Committee strongly supports the full fiscal year 1999, fiscal year 2000, and fiscal year 2001 requests for Jordan contained in the President's transmittal. These total $300 million in both the Economic Support Fund and the Foreign Military Financing Program. The Committee expects to favorably consider the outyear requests in subsequent legislation.

The entire amount recommended for Jordan in fiscal year 1999 has been offset with rescissions in this Act. For technical reasons it is designated as an emergency requirement pursuant to the Balanced Budget Act of 1985.

UNITED STATES ARMY CORPS OF ENGINEERS

The Committee commends the work of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers in response to Hurricane Mitch. The Corps maintains field offices in Honduras, El Salvador, Panama, and Colombia which greatly enhanced its ability to respond quickly to these natural disasters. The Committee intends that the Department of State and AID will utilize the planning, engineering, design, environmental, and technical capabilities of the Corps when considering reconstruction projects. Further, the Committee expects that the State Department and AID will use the Corps to support disaster recovery projects in Central America including: rural farm-to-market road and bridge building; storm drain and levee reconstruction; rehabilitation of health clinics and homes; watershed stabilization and soil conservation activities; and water and sanitation programs which directly strengthen child survival efforts.

DONOR COORDINATION AND BURDEN SHARING

In December 1998, donor nations and the leaders of Central American nations convened in Washington, D.C. to discuss reconstruction efforts in the wake of Hurricane Mitch. At this Consultative Group meeting, $6.3 billion in emergency aid and reconstruction support was pledged. The Committee is aware that the President's supplemental request accounts for only 17 percent of these worldwide assistance pledges and supports other nations' promises of aid. The Committee requests AID and State, not less than 5 days following the conclusion of the next scheduled donor's meeting in May, report to the Committee on the status of donor coordination and burdensharing efforts.

MINE CLEARING

The Committee is concerned that the floods and mudslides caused by Hurricane Mitch may have shifted the location of anti-personnel mines previously identified in Central America, rendering new areas potentially unsafe. The rapid identification of the current location of landmines, and their safe removal is essential to subsequent road and bridge construction and renewal of productive agricultural activity. The Committee supports the request of the Inter-American Defense Board for additional mine detection dogs and handlers to be sent to Central America in conjunction with the emergency response to Hurricane Mitch.

ROLE OF WOMEN IN RECONSTRUCTION EFFORTS

The Committee recognizes the devastating impact that Hurricane Mitch had on the region generally, but in particular, its effect on women. Fully one-third of the households that lost homes are headed by women. The primary borrowers in many micro-credit programs wiped out by the disaster are women. Women occupied many of the jobs lost in the agricultural and textile sectors. Finally, the bulk of the short-term employment opportunities generated by the recovery effort, such as construction and road building, are generally the kind from which women are barred. Therefore, the Committee expects that all agencies involved in carrying out programs funded with this emergency assistance will take the specific needs of women into account as programs are designed and implemented. In addition, the needs of women creditors should be taken into account as new micro-credit programs are designed and existing micro-credit institutions are restructured.

GENERAL PROVISION—THIS CHAPTER

Sec. 301. For the remainder of fiscal year 1999, the Committee allows the President to exercise his authority under section 506(a)(2) of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961 to drawdown up to $75,000,000 in Defense Department articles, services and military education and training without any such drawdown being counted against the ceiling limitation of that section.

RECONSTRUCTION AND CONSTRUCTION

The Committee recommends $5,611,000 for emergency repairs in the Caribbean National Forest in Puerto Rico as a result of Hurricane Georges and other natural disasters. These funds are also to be made available to repair damages to the International Institute of Tropical Forestry.

PEACEKEEPING OPERATIONS

(RESCISSION)

The Committee recommends a rescission of $10,000,000 from the funds appropriated for voluntary international peacekeeping operations in Public Law 105-277.

MULTILATERAL ECONOMIC ASSISTANCE

FUNDS APPROPRIATED TO THE PRESIDENT

INTERNATIONAL FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS

CONTRIBUTION TO THE INTERNATIONAL BANK FOR RECONSTRUCTION AND DEVELOPMENT

GLOBAL ENVIRONMENT FACILITY

(RESCISSION)

The Committee recommends rescission of $25,000,000 from the United States contribution to the Global Environmental Program administered by the World Bank.

REDUCTION IN CALLABLE CAPITAL APPROPRIATIONS

(RESCISSION)

The Committee recommends the rescission of a total of $648,000,000 from the balances of unobligated funds appropriated prior to 1980 for callable capital stock of the World Bank, the Inter-American Development Bank, and the Asian Development Bank.

Since 1980, the United States has subscribed to $32,835,963,000 in callable capital stock for the same multilateral development banks. All of the $32,835,963,000 was approved in appropriation acts, but none of it was actually appropriated or scored as budget authority, as before. The Committee's recommendation to reduce callable capital previously approved is not without precedent. It does not signal any change in the Committee's support for the multilateral development banks.

INTERNATIONAL ORGANIZATIONS AND PROGRAMS

(RESCISSION)

The Committee recommends a rescission of $10,000,000 from the funds appropriated for international organizations and programs in Public Law 105-277.

DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION

OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY

PAYMENTS TO AIR CARRIERS

(AIRPORT AND AIRWAY TRUST FUND)

(RESCISSION OF CONTRACT AUTHORIZATION)

The Committee recommends a rescission of $815,000 in contract authority provided for "Small community air service" by Public Law 101-508 for fiscal years prior to fiscal year 1998. This rescission has no effect on the essential air service program.

FEDERAL HIGHWAY ADMINISTRATION

STATE INFRASTRUCTURE BANKS

(RESCISSION)

The Committee recommends a rescission of $6,500,000 from the state infrastructure bank program. These funds are in excess of the funds necessary to support those states currently participating in the program.

FEDERAL TRANSIT ADMINISTRATION

TRUST FUND SHARE OF TRANSIT PROGRAMS

(HIGHWAY TRUST FUND)

(RESCISSION OF CONTRACT AUTHORIZATION)

The Committee recommends a rescission of $665,000 in contract authority from the trust fund share of transit programs provided in Public Law 102-240 under 49 U.S.C. 5338(a)(1). These funds are in excess of the annual obligation limitation placed on the program and are not available for obligation in fiscal year 1999.

INTERSTATE TRANSFER GRANTS—TRANSIT

The Committee recommends a rescission of $600,000 in unobligated balances of interstate transfer grants—transit. The Committee directs the Federal Transit Administration to reduce only those available balances for projects for which no current program plan is in place for the obligation of funds.

GENERAL PROVISION—THIS TITLE

The Committee bill includes section 1001, which reduces the amounts made available in Public Law 105-277 by $40,000,000. This action is recommended in order to provide offsets for the bill. Details regarding this adjustment may be found in a classified annex accompanying the Committee report.

TITLE II

SUPPLEMENTAL APPROPRIATIONS AND RESCISSIONS

CHAPTER 1

THE JUDICIARY

SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

The Committee recommends $921,000 to remain available until expended for salaries and expenses of the Supreme Court of the United States, as requested. This is to provide an additional 36 police officers under the jurisdiction of the Court to enhance the capability of the police in order to assure coverage of the building under standards comparable to those recently adopted by the Capitol police with respect to public buildings under their protection. These funds represent one-quarter year of salary and benefits plus funds for associated training, supplies and equipment.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE AND RELATED AGENCIES

RELATED AGENCY

UNITED STATES INFORMATION AGENCY

BUYING POWER MAINTENANCE

(RESCISSION)

The Committee recommends a rescission of $20,000,000 from unobligated balances under this heading. The balances in this account result from exchange rate gains over the past several years, and exceed the potential requirements on the fund prior to the consolidation of the Agency into the Department of State on October 1, 1999.

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE

NATIONAL OCEANIC AND ATMOSPHERIC ADMINISTRATION

OPERATIONS, RESEARCH, AND FACILITIES AND FISHERIES FINANCE
PROGRAM ACCOUNT

The Committee does not recommend funding requested for the Operations, Research, and Facilities and the Fisheries Finance Program accounts. The supplemental request included $5,000,000 for these programs, $3,120,000 for the Fisheries Finance Program account to fund a vessel buy-out in the Northeast inshore cod fishery in the Gulf of Maine and $1,880,000 and 20 full-time-equivalent employees for Operations, Research and Facilities for scientific and management activities in connection with this fishery.

In the fiscal year 1999 Appropriations Act, the Committee already provided $5,000,000 in emergency funding for emergency disaster assistance for individuals and communities impacted by declines in the Northeast multispecies fishery, including the Gulf of Maine. To date, NOAA has not provided a spending plan, nor obligated any of this fund. In fiscal year 1999, the Committee also provided significant increases for fisheries management programs, including the northeast region for scientific and management activities. In addition, the Committee understands that the Magnuson-Stevens Fishery Conservation and Management Act requires that an industry-wide referendum be conducted and an implementation plan approved with set time periods for public comment and consideration in order to implement a vessel buyout. These actions have not been initiated, and therefore any buyout could not be undertaken in fiscal year 1999.

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION

GENERAL PROVISION

The Committee does not recommend adoption at this time of a requested provision to repeal the provision of the Balanced Budget Act of 1997 that requires the auction of spectrum between 746–806 megahertz to be conducted in 2001, and instead requiring that the competitive bidding process be started in 1999, and conducted in such a way as to ensure that all proceeds are deposited not later than September 30, 2000.

The intent of the requested provision is to accelerate this auction, thereby shifting the collection of receipts to fiscal year 2000. The Office of Management and Budget anticipates $2.6 billion in fiscal year 2000 receipts resulting from this provision, and a decrease of $1.3 billion in receipts in each of fiscal years 2001 and 2002. However, it is not clear that the adoption of this provision would result in the deposit of receipts before fiscal year 2001, so the rationale for inclusion of this provision has not been established.

CHAPTER 2

UNITED STATES COMMISSION ON INTERNATIONAL
RELIGIOUS FREEDOM

The Committee recommends $3,000,000 for necessary expenses for the United States Commission on International Religious Freedom as authorized by title II of the International Religious Freedom Act of 1998 (P.L. 105–292). These funds shall remain available until expended.

EXPORT AND INVESTMENT ASSISTANCE

EXPORT-IMPORT BANK OF THE UNITED STATES

(RESCISSION)

The Committee recommends the rescission of $25,000,000 from prior year unobligated balances intended for the tied-aid war chest.

CHAPTER 3

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR

BUREAU OF LAND MANAGEMENT

MANAGEMENT OF LANDS AND RESOURCES

(RESCISSION)

The Committee recommends the rescission of $6,800,000 from Management of Lands and Resources. The funds are to be taken from the Automated Lands and Minerals Record System (ALMRS) program. The issue of continued funding for the ALMRS program is under review and these funds, which were appropriated in fiscal year 1998, exceed current requirements.

OFFICE OF THE SPECIAL TRUSTEE FOR AMERICAN INDIANS
FEDERAL TRUST PROGRAMS

The Committee recommends $21,800,000 for Federal Trust Programs. Within the funds provided $6,800,000 is to implement the Trust Management Improvement Project High Level Implementation Plan to ensure that the Department of the Interior meets its fiduciary obligations to Native Americans and $15,000,000 to support costs associated with ongoing litigation involving the Department of the Interior and approximately 300,000 holders of Individual Indian Money (IIM) trust accounts. The $15,000,000 will support document production, a court-appointed Special Master, and statistical sampling of trust accounts as a means of providing a baseline for settlement purposes.

CHAPTER 4

DEPARTMENT OF LABOR

EMPLOYMENT AND TRAINING ADMINISTRATION

STATE UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE AND EMPLOYMENT SERVICE OPERATIONS

The Committee recommends a reduction of $21,000,000 in this account, instead of the reduction of $5,700,000 requested by the President. Part of the reduction, $16,000,000, is taken in the unemployment insurance contingency fund; the revised amount for the fund would be $164,933,000. This fund is used to supplement the base administrative allocations to the States. Based on continued low unemployment rates, the full amount of the contingency appropriation is not needed to fund State administrative workload. The President requested a reduction of $5,700,000. In addition, the Committee recommends a reduction of $5,000,000 in excess funds in the unemployment insurance postage account. State postage costs are expected to be lower than originally estimated.

DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH AND HUMAN SERVICES

HEALTH RESOURCES AND SERVICES ADMINISTRATION

FEDERAL CAPITAL LOAN PROGRAM FOR NURSING

(RESCISSION)

The Committee recommends a rescission of $2,800,000 from unobligated balances in the Federal Capital Loan Program for Nursing account. The program has been inactive for more than eight years.

DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

EDUCATION RESEARCH, STATISTICS AND IMPROVEMENT

(RESCISSION)

The Committee recommends a rescission of $6,800,000 from the Fund for the Improvement of Education. The Committee is aware that only $2,000,000 of the $10,000,000 originally included in this account for an evaluation of voluntary national test development is actually needed in fiscal year 1999 to carry out this activity.

The recommended rescission level assumes that the Department of Education will transfer $1,200,000 of the $10,000,000 from the Fund for the Improvement of Education program to the Historically Black Colleges and Universities program for a payment to the University of the District of Columbia. It is the Committee's understanding that this transfer is subject to (1) a determination by the Secretary that such an award will not violate the intent of Section 324(g) of Title III of the Higher Education Act and (2) the Secretary's receipt of a properly completed application from the University of the District of Columbia as required under Section 325 of Title III of such Act.

CORPORATION FOR PUBLIC BROADCASTING

The Committee provides $48,000,000 for the Corporation for Public Broadcasting and National Public Radio to proceed with negotiations for a public radio satellite replacement. Of this total, $30,600,000 is provided in fiscal year 1999 and $17,400,000 is provided as a fiscal year 2000 advance.

In 1998, the satellite servicing the Public Radio Satellite System failed unexpectedly, and the system is currently operating on a temporary back-up satellite that will become unavailable in Fall 1999. Public radio needs to make contractual arrangements with a satellite vendor in Spring 1999 to ensure continuity of services to public radio listeners. The President requested this supplemental in his fiscal year 2000 budget submission.

CHAPTER 5

CONGRESSIONAL OPERATIONS

ARCHITECT OF THE CAPITOL

CAPITOL BUILDINGS AND GROUNDS

HOUSE OFFICE BUILDINGS

House Page Dormitory—The bill contains $3,760,000 to renovate and furnish the House-owned property at 501 First Street, S.E., for the purpose of relocating a dormitory necessary to accommodate the House pages. The pages currently occupy two floors at the O'Neill House Office Building which have been converted to dormitory space. That building has been determined to have several structural and life safety deficiencies. A recent audit conducted by the House Inspector General has revealed fire safety issues and the Architect of the Capitol has long held that the building is not structurally suited for its current use.

The facilities at 501 First Street are suited for conversion to dormitory space. The building was originally constructed as a residence hall, and its most recent use included a day care center. The basic mechanical and life safety features of the building are satisfactory and within the various regulations that govern comparable applications. It is expected that the Architect of the Capitol will consult with the House Office Building Commission, the House Page Board, and other appropriate authorities as the design work progresses.

O'Neill House Office Building—The bill contains $1,800,000 necessary to correct life safety, particularly fire-related, deficiencies in the O'Neill House Office Building. The Architect of the Capitol and the House Inspector General have identified several items that require immediate remedial attention such as extending the sprinkler system, updating the fire escapes and elevators, pressurizing stairwells, and replacing the alarm system. Although the Architect has advised that the O'Neill building is not suitable in the long run for continued use as an office building, the Committee believes these improvements should be made to protect the building occupants until more satisfactory space can be found.

ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISIONS—THIS CHAPTER

Two administrative provisions are included. One provision adjusts certain leadership allowances and the second provision allows leadership offices to utilize appropriated funds for any official, authorized purpose. The latter provision is comparable to authority recently provided to all House Members with respect to the Members' Representational Allowances.

CHAPTER 6

POSTAL SERVICE

Payments to the Postal Service Fund

1999 appropriation	$71,195,000
1999 supplemental estimate	29,000,000
Committee recommendation	29,000,000

The Committee recommends an appropriation of $29,000,000 for reimbursements to the Postal Service as authorized by 39 U.S.C., 2401(d).

EXECUTIVE OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

FUNDS APPROPRIATED TO THE PRESIDENT

UNANTICIPATED NEEDS

(RESCISSION)

The Committee recommends a rescission of $10,000,000 from amounts previously appropriated under this heading in Public Law 101-130, the Fiscal Year 1990 Dire Emergency Supplemental to Meet the Needs of Natural Disasters of National Significance, as proposed by the President. All of the funds were transferred to Departments and agencies to carry out necessary activities. These funds are no longer needed.

CHAPTER 7

COURT OF VETERANS APPEALS

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

The Court of Veterans Appeals requested supplemental appropriations of $372,000. The Committee has determined there is not justification for additional funding at this time, but is evaluating the additional funding in the context of the fiscal year 2000 legislation.

DEPARTMENT OF HOUSING AND URBAN DEVELOPMENT

COMMUNITY PLANNING AND DEVELOPMENT

COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT BLOCK GRANTS

The Committee has included new bill language which makes a technical adjustment to the amount of funds made available for two Economic Development Initiative grants in Public Law 105-276. The Committee notes that this technical change has no budgetary impact.

MANAGEMENT AND ADMINISTRATION

OFFICE OF INSPECTOR GENERAL

The Committee recommends extending the time period for expending funds from one year to two years, as proposed by the Administration. The extension is needed to implement the HUD Anti-fraud initiative created by Congress in fiscal year 1998.

GENERAL PROVISIONS—THIS ACT

The Committee bill includes section 2002, which prohibits the Secretary of Agriculture from discounting loan deficiency payments under the Agricultural Market Transition Act for club wheat, and compensates club wheat producers who received discounted loan deficiency payments.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

CITRUS CANKER ERADICATION

The citrus industry in the state of Florida is threatened by the spread of citrus canker, which has the potential for devastating impacts on commercial production. This extremely contagious bacterial disease has been spread by hurricane and other storm systems. The disease now threatens the entire industry, which contributes $8,000,000,000 annually in economic impact and provides for 121,000 jobs. The impact of the spread of citrus canker is $200,000,000 annually in increased production costs and market restrictions. Detection and eradication of the disease is possible with existing methods and technology.

The Committee urges the Secretary of Agriculture to establish an emergency eradication program, using the authorities and funds of the Commodity Credit Corporation. Further, the Committee directs the Secretary to report not later than March 31, 1999, on the Department's plans for addressing this emergency.

RUSSIAN FOOD AID

Based on past experience with regard to U.S. commodity shipments to Russia, the Committee is seriously concerned about the likelihood of diversion in the distribution of the current $1,200,000,000 Russian food aid package which was negotiated by the Executive Branch. The Committee urges the Secretary of Agriculture to implement swiftly the provisions of the sales agreement that allow suspension of shipments if and when diversions occur. In addition, the Secretary should ensure that sufficient staff is available for oversight, monitoring and control procedures to minimize potential misuses and improper losses of food commodities provided under the three food aid agreements between the Governments of the United States and the Russian Federation. The Committee expects the Secretary to directly involve the Inspector General in auditing these shipments.

The Secretary of Agriculture shall report to the Committee by June 15, 1999, regarding his efforts to increase oversight and monitoring; the extent to which other federal agencies and Non-Governmental Organizations have contributed to the monitoring effort; the number and frequency of spot-checks and their findings; how the agency handled reports of diversions; and the extent to which the distribution of commodities was coordinated with local government officials and private farming organizations. The Committee also expects the Secretary to report on how the food aid package was coordinated with the State Department to meet our strategic goals in the region and the involvement of the Interagency Task Force assembled by the U.S. Embassy in Moscow to oversee these shipments. The Secretary shall also report on how this and subsequent food aid shipments contribute to the development and reform of private agriculture in the Newly Independent States.

COMMODITY CREDIT CORPORATION

The Committee is concerned that the Committee on Agriculture has not remedied the problems associated with the section 11 cap for CCC reimbursements, which will result in NRCS ceasing technical assistance work for the Conservation Reserve Program and furloughing about 800 field staff after the current carryover funds are expended in May 1999. The Committee urges the Secretary of Agriculture to work with the Congress to remedy the problems associated with the section 11 cap.

TITLE III

TECHNICAL CORRECTIONS

The Committee has included several provisions that would correct errors and insert clarifying language into the Omnibus Consolidated and Emergency Supplemental Appropriations Act, 1999 (Public Law 105-277). Due to the large volume of this law and the relative short amount of time available to develop the final version of it, a few errors were made and the intent of the managers was not clearly provided in a few instances. The provisions in this title would correct these problems.

DISSENTING VIEWS

The minority members of the Appropriations Committee find this supplemental very troubling for a number of reasons. It contains several provisions that were added at the last minute at the direction of the Republican House leadership, which threaten both American economic security and our nation's ability to keep weapons of mass destruction out of the hands of terrorists. It also demonstrates that the Republican leadership in the House has decided to continue exercising direct interference in the decision making process of the House committee system despite repeated statements to the contrary. Finally, it raises serious questions as to whether the Republican leadership is sincere in its stated goal of moving legislation in a responsible and timely manner.

HOW A STRATEGY FOR CONSENSUS BECAME ANOTHER PARTISAN BATTLEGROUND

On Monday, March 1, Chairman Young circulated proposed legislative language for a relatively small but time sensitive supplemental appropriations bill. Following consultations with committee members, House leaders and representatives of the executive branch, Chairman Young had decided in mid-February to move only the most pressing of the Administration's requests for fiscal 1999 supplemental funds. It was expected that his package would receive broad bipartisan support and could be passed prior to the Easter recess. It contained $956 million in assistance to deal with hurricane damage in Central America and the Caribbean (including $80 million to help the Immigration and Naturalization Service meet the increased challenges of illegal immigration brought on by those hurricanes and $10 million for earthquake damage in Columbia) and $100 million to help support the new Government in Jordan. The funds provided for Jordan were not considered emergency in nature and were therefore required to be offset by reductions in spending from other areas of the budget. The requested disaster relief funding clearly fell within the emergency spending definitions of the Budget Act and did not require offsets.

On Tuesday, March 2, House Republican leaders decided that on further reflection the Young package should include the President's $154 million request for emergency agricultural assistance and directed that these funds be offset by cuts in other parts of the budget.

But the bombshell did not come until Wednesday, March 3rd. With less than 24 hours left before the scheduled mark-up of the Young package before the full Appropriations Committee, House Republican leaders reversed themselves on the issue of requiring offsets for hurricane disaster assistance. The leadership decided that while assistance provided to Central America by the U.S. military would not be required to be offset, the roughly 75% of the package to reimburse AID and other non-defense agencies would require offsets. The prospect of finding nearly another $800 million in spending cuts halfway through the fiscal year meant that the committee meeting scheduled for the following day had to be canceled and that the prospects for quick action on the supplemental had all but vanished.

The morning on which the committee meeting had been scheduled, Roll Call Newspaper carried the headline: DeLay Planning Attack on Supplemental Spending Bill. The story quoted an aide to Republican Whip Tom DeLay saying, "DeLay plans to jump back into the ring and become Clinton's worst nightmare on Capitol Hill." Roll Call continued, "He started yesterday with a phone call to Appropriations Chairman Bill Young (R-Fla.) to inform him that the $1 billion-plus emergency spending bill for Jordan and hurricane-damaged South American countries is deal on arrival unless drastic changes are made."

While the cause of the abrupt change in signals by the House Republican leaders may or may not be fairly reflected by this story, the results of that change can be more clearly documented.

FINDING OFFSETS

The direction given by Republican leaders to find offsets for the emergency hurricane relief resulted in several new rescissions being added to the bill. The first involved elimination of $648 million in funds appropriated some years ago to guarantee the solvency of the multilateral development banks. The second involved elimination of $150 million appropriated last fall to permit the continued disarming of Russian nuclear weapons and safe disposition of the highly enriched uranium and plutonium coming from those weapons. The majority has argued that neither of these rescissions would negatively affect U.S. policy. Closer examination has proven this to be untrue on both counts.

Rescinding a portion of our guarantee to international banks

The majority argued that rescinding the $648 million appropriated to guarantee the U.S. commitment to the World Bank, the Asian Development Bank and the Inter American Development Bank in no way reduced the legal or moral responsibility of the U.S. to meet those commitments. While that may be true in a strictly legal and technical sense, it is also true that other member nations and many investors around the world are increasingly uneasy about the willingness of the U.S. and particularly, the U.S. Congress to make good on its legal and moral commitments. These same investors watched the Congress repeatedly refuse to provide the International Monetary Fund with a needed infusion of capital through the depths of the Asian financial crisis and are also aware that the Congress continues to refuse to provide the funds necessary to pay off the billion-plus in back debts to the United Nations.

There are three multilateral development banks (MDBs) for which the United States has appropriated funds to ensure that lenders to the banks will be repaid in the event that substantial portions of the bank's own loans failed to be repaid. These banks include the World Bank, the Asian Development Bank and the Inter American Development Bank and they are responsible for sustaining financial stability and growth in precisely those portions of the world where American markets are being threatened by lack of confidence in both public and private financial institutions.

The MDBs collect guarantees for debt repayment (known as callable capital) from member countries. These guarantees allow them to sell bonds on world capital markets at close to the same borrowing costs that the member countries themselves would have to pay. They are then able to use the proceeds of their bond sales to make loans in the developing world that would be otherwise prohibitively expensive to the borrowers. In the 50 years since this system was started, hundreds of billions of dollars have flowed into developing countries and created new businesses that have generated the income to repay the loans. All bonds that have been issued by these institutions have been repaid on time and no country has ever had to actually pay a dime of callable capital to any of the MDBs. The world economy has expanded by at least four fold in that time and the richest markets for American products have been in these developing economies.

This system has been highly effective but it is also highly dependent on trust. The critical link in the system is the perception by commercial bankers throughout the world (who are the principal buyers of bonds issued by the MDBs) that bonds offered by these institutions are almost certain to be repaid. That certainty is already in some jeopardy. Less than two years ago Asian Development Bank bonds could be sold with yields of only three hundredths of a percentage point higher than World Bank bonds. Perceived difficulties in loan repayment in that portion of the world have pushed Asian Bank bond yields up to more than thirty hundredths of a percentage point above World Bank bonds. Similar concerns are affecting issues by the Inter American Bank and the World Bank itself. As developing countries are forced to refinance existing debt at higher and higher rates their prospects of repayment decline and the whole system becomes increasingly shaky.

The proposed rescission of American appropriated callable capital that is contained in this supplemental adds a new element of uncertainty to the system. The United States has guaranteed $44 billion in bond issues to these three banks, $12 billion with monies that have actually been appropriated. If the Congress reduces the appropriated portion of this guarantee is it an indication that the United States is less willing to meet its declared obligations? If the steely eyed analysts who protect the capital of the world's great money center banks believe that there is even the slightest increase in the probability that the guarantee on these bonds won't be kept, it will place significant upward pressure on MDB interest rates and destabilize currencies and markets in developing countries around the world. This is precisely why the Secretary of the Treasury immediately responded to this proposal by informing the Committee that he would recommend that this entire supplemental be vetoed, if this provision is included.

This provision should be stricken from the legislation now before it raises any more questions about either the banks or this Congress. If the Republican leadership insists on offsetting the emergency disaster relief, and there is an alternative cut of $648 million that can be made, they should place that cut before the House now. Otherwise we are either wasting our time on legislation that is going nowhere or simply voting on a placeholder which denies the House the opportunity to know what the real cut will be before this legislation is sent to the Senate.

Rescinding funds for securing weapons grade nuclear material

The committee has argued that while it has no intention of allowing nuclear materials to get into the wrong hands, none of the $525 million appropriated for the safe disposition of fissionable material from Russia in the last Congress could be spent in the current fiscal year. They have indicated that they would appropriate the money for next year if there is an indication that it can be spent. This information has proven to be flatly in error. The Department of Energy will obligate a total of $325 million of the funds in this account next week following the visit to Washington of Russian Foreign Minister, Yevgeny Primakov. During his visit, Minister Primakov is scheduled to sign an agreement with the U.S. to ensure the sale of Russian highly enriched uranium. The pending supplemental will not be enacted in time to block the signing of that agreement.

The remaining $200 million in this account is intended to help finance an agreement to encourage Russia to continue to dismantle nuclear warheads and to provide for the safe disposition of plutonium extracted from dismantled Russian nuclear weapons. Negotiations for that agreement are now underway and it is hoped that they can be completed by next fall. It is hard to imagine a single budget reduction that would be less in the interest of the American people than removing $150 million of this $200 million from the negotiating table. Such a move would certainly leave Russian negotiators with the understandable perception that the Congress may refuse to provide the funds required by the agreement. Their willingness to make the necessary concessions to reach agreement could be significantly curtailed.

It is difficult to find assessments of the political and security situation in Russia that do not indicate control over nuclear weapons and the materials from which they are made is not becoming increasingly problematic. Press accounts indicate that employees of the installations that house these materials, including the guards, have in many instances not been paid in months. At the same time there is every indication that countries such as Iran and terrorist organizations such as the Bin Laden group are intensifying efforts to penetrate Russian security and gain access to such weapons. Russian criminal organizations may also decide to profit from the opportunity that these illegal exports offer.

It is absolutely mind boggling to consider why a political party that wishes to make missile defense a central issue in the coming year would not want to also do whatever can be done to keep fissionable materials out of the hands of rogue states and terrorists. While we should guard against conventional threats such as air and missile attacks, we should also be mindful that the most likely threat to the American people at the current time is through non-conventional means. In either case, we need to keep nuclear technology out of the hands of those who would use it against us whether they intend to deliver it on the tip of a missile or in the back of a truck.

THE COST OF ANOTHER SLOW RESPONSE

The original intention of Chairman Young to proceed with a supplemental bill containing a very limited number of items and no offsets for the largest position of the bill dealing with natural disasters was to pass the legislation quickly so that funds could reach those in need in a timely fashion. The decision by Republican leaders to demand offsets delayed Committee action on the measure by one week. Because of the legislative schedule, it resulted in delaying floor action by at least two weeks. Because of the scheduled two week Congressional recess, it will delay a possible conference on the bill by about a month. In addition, it will in all probability make agreement between the House and Senate far more difficult to reach since the Senate is quite likely to object to many of the House offsets. Finally, even if the Senate does acquiesce to some of the House offsets, it will make agreement on a bill that the President will sign far more difficult.

This is extremely unfortunate given the importance of timeliness will respect to two major spending items in the bill. Many American farmers are facing one of the most serious challenges to their continued existence since the Dust Bowl days of the 1930s. The collapse in Asian markets has also brought about a collapse in foreign demand for American farm products. This coupled with a continued high level of production has brought about a collapse in commodity prices. Farmers are not only losing money, they have suddenly found that bankers are wary of lending when wheat, corn, soybeans and other commodities are selling at record low prices.

For that reason, the President has requested that the Congress appropriate $110 million to finance about $1.1 billion in additional farm loans and loan guarantees needed for spring planting. The federal farm credit programs act as lenders of last resort, and natural and economic disasters in farm country have led to far greater demand for these loans and guarantees than would normally be expected. As a result, major federal farm credit programs began running low on lending authority in December, and four of the six programs have now virtually exhausted all lending ability. Another is expected to run out of funds only a few days after Congress returns from its Easter recess.

The planting season has already begun in some states, and it is clear that it will be planting time in much of the country by the time a conference can get to work on this legislation in April. If things don't go quickly at that point, Congress could be providing farmers with needed spring planting funds about the same time the first tomatoes start to turn red in South Texas.

The hurricane disaster assistance for Central America is no less time sensitive. The United States is already seeing a stream of illegal immigrants from Honduras, Nicaragua and other parts of Central America crossing U.S. borders. But officials in this administration and in affected countries warn that that stream could quickly become a flood if assistance efforts are not significantly expanded before the beginning of the rainy season in May. The misery brought on by the delaying of a full-scale relief effort in Central America could easily spill over into communities across North America.

The prospect of massive numbers of illegal immigrants from Honduras and Nicaragua would not only have economic and social impacts, but direct budget impacts as well. The U.S. Supreme Court has ruled that localities must provide education to the children of all residents, regardless of immigrant status. The Urban Institute, based on a study of eight states with the largest immigrant populations, estimates that 22% of all illegal immigrants are children who are enrolled in public schools at an annual cost of well over $4000 per pupil. Illegal immigrants are also eligible for emergency medical services and some will run afoul of the law with an average annual cost of incarceration of $22,000 per inmate.

The failure of the Congress to provide these funds in a timely manner could also greatly weaken the political stability of these countries and their recent movement toward democracy. It will weaken our national influence in the region and reduce our ability to work cooperatively with those governments for more effective drug interdiction and more fair and productive trade relations.

THE ACCOUNTING GAME

Perhaps the great irony of the strategy which Republican leaders now pursue with respect to this bill is that it is supposed to be more responsible from a budget standpoint. Despite the fact that those who have studied federal budgeting over the years have come to the conclusion that unanticipated emergency needs cannot reasonably be offset with spending cuts once a fiscal year is already underway (Richard Darman, President Bush's Director of OMB, was the author of the current rule) some elements of the Republican caucus continue to insist on this approach supposedly because it will protect the projected size of government surpluses. But as Congressman Sabo quite eloquently pointed out in the full committee debate on this legislation, these offsets have little or no connection to the surplus. They were in fact selected because they were funds that had been appropriated but the committee staff expected that they might never be spent. As a result their rescission will not reduce outlays and will have no impact on projected surpluses in this or any future year.

The Congressional Budget Office has estimated that all of the new spending authority in this legislation will increase outlays and reduce the size of the fiscal 1999 surplus by $445 million. The two items added to offset the Central American hurricane relief will probably reduce outlays by $0.

If the reduction in American appropriated guarantees to the international banks sparks enough panic that massive defaults on bank loans take place we could face an equally massive increase in outlays flowing from our other commitments to those institutions. But under no circumstance would the rescission of these funds reduce outlays.

If the committee is to be taken at its word on the funding for a plutonium agreement (that these funds will be appropriated as soon as an agreement is reached), there are only two possibilities. First, if no agreement is reached the funds will never be used and no outlay will occur. In the second instance, an agreement will be reached and the committee will make good on its promise and provide the funds which will outlay at the same rate whether the money is left in the treasury or is rescinded.

This fight is really over a shell game—a shell game created to fool some in the public and perhaps some in the Majority party who do not understand the intricacies of government accounting. In the end this shell game offers no prospect of protecting the surplus but it does offer the prospect for serious mischief. It could destabilize the already fragile economies of Asia and Latin America. It could expose American cities to the threat of nuclear weapons that have reached the wrong hands because we did not do all that was necessary to secure Russian plutonium. It already has delayed funds desperately needed by American farmers and Central American relief workers to prevent the enormous problems which they face from growing much worse in the coming weeks and months.

DAVE OBEY.

ADDITIONAL VIEWS

This first major budget bill of the new 106th Congress is a major disappointment. Despite the pressing need for expeditious passage of this vital emergency appropriations package to help struggling U.S. farmers and our Central American neighbors, the House has become bogged down by partisanship and phony rhetoric about budgetary offsets for this emergency assistance.

I fear that this bill reflects the same tired old partisan policies that haunted the last Congress. Rejecting the recommendation of our Committee chairman, the majority leadership insisted on controversial “offsets” for this bill that make dubious political points and will provoke a veto fight. The predictable delay and needless controversy this will cause simply adds to the anguish of innocent men, women, and children in Central America whose homes, schools, and jobs have been wiped out by hurricanes and earthquake.

The fact is, contrary to the Senate majority leader’s recent assertion that “there is no engine for this train” and that assistance to American farmers and Central American disaster relief must be delayed for weeks, there is overwhelming support to provide this relief quickly. If the Republican congressional leadership would follow its rhetoric and reach out to the middle, I believe it would find an overwhelming number of Democrats ready to vote for this aid as an emergency appropriation.

A BUDGETARY SHAM

Instead, we have been treated to misleading and plainly wrong assertions that the spending in this bill must be and is fully offset to protect Social Security and Medicare. This is a poorly conceived ruse.

No respectable economist would say that the added outlays of this emergency bill (equaling about four one-hundredths of one percent of the expected 10-year surplus) jeopardizes the viability of the Social Security trust fund. Even so, the Republican leadership chose to make this argument and used it to justify some highly questionable program cuts that do not save much money, but could have far reaching negative effects on the world economy and on programs to combat nuclear terrorism.

I would give the Republican leadership some limited credit for holding to such a rigorous standard if, in fact, they produced a bill that lived up to their rhetoric. But, in fact, the bill doesn’t come close to meeting the Republicans’ own standard of offsetting new emergency spending.

According to the CBO, this bill as written by the Republican leadership would spend an additional $445 million more than it saves in FY 1999. Over the next five fiscal years, FY 1999–2004, the bill spends a total of $876 million more than it saves. Over time, this bill will never save as much as it spends.

CBO Estimates of Spending in This Bill

	Millions
FY 1999 additional spending (outlays)	$606
FY 1999 spending reductions (outlays)	– 161
	<hr/>
Total new spending	445

There are two principal reasons for this.

First, no attempt is made to offset $195 million ($64 million in FY 1999 outlays) provided in the bill to reimburse Defense Department expenses for providing disaster assistance in Central America. These funds are simply taken out of the surplus.

While I have no quarrel with the decision to provide additional funding to reimburse the Defense Department without offset, it does beg the question why humanitarian assistance provided by one agency of government should be treated differently than humanitarian assistance provided by another agency of government. The one clear message this arbitrary budget policy sends is to give the administration the clear incentive to use our military first and often in these kinds of situations, since that is the only way this Congress seems willing to meet its responsibility to provide extra emergency funds.

Secondly, the Republican leadership insisted on inserting a dangerous provision in this bill that backs away from $648 million worth of binding “callable capital” commitments used to guarantee bonds of the World Bank, the Asian Development Bank, and the InterAmerican Development Bank. These “full faith and credit” obligations are essentially insurance reserves for the World Bank and other multilateral institutions allowing these banks to borrow at highly favorable rates. Because of this, these banks can cheaply finance billions of dollars worth of viable economic recovery projects in Asia, Latin America, Africa, and elsewhere. These projects strengthen the overall global economy and expand demand for US exports. The rescission of callable capital could raise the cost of borrowing for these institutions, thereby slowing down the flow of capital to regions of the world struggling to recover from the economic turbulence of the last several years.

Besides being highly questionable economic policy, this action is nonsensical budget policy. The Congressional Budget Office acknowledges that, inasmuch as these obligations have never been “called” and no money has really been spent due to these obligations, the $648 million so-called spending reduction in this bill will result in no real spending savings. This $648 million rescission included in the bill is expected to have no effect whatsoever on the federal budget surplus in FY 1999 or in the future.

The callable capital rescission represents the very worst kind of policy in this bill. It risks damaging the world economy. It purports to pay for other necessary appropriations when it does not. It is simply perplexing that the majority party would choose to proceed with this approach.

HONESTY IN RHETORIC AMENDMENT

There is one real and simple test to prove whether the majority really believes it has offset the spending in this bill. If all spending is truly offset, there is no need to include bill language designating each new appropriation in the bill an "emergency" under the Balanced Budget Act of 1985. Such a designation exempts an appropriation from the budget caps, and therefore from any requirement to be offset by other reductions.

If the majority truly believed the new spending in its bill is paid for, they should have no trouble eliminating the "emergency" designations in the bill. If the new spending in this bill is not fully offset, then the promises of the majority to offset funds in this bill to save funding for Social Security and Medicare have not been met.

I offered an amendment in full committee (Roll Call #3) to remove this designation. It failed due to opposition from the majority, although it was never clearly stated why the majority was so strongly against it.

WHEN SHOULD WE OFFSET SUPPLEMENTAL SPENDING?

The test for this bill should be simple: Are the proposed expenditures for new loans to American farmers and ranchers, for Central American disaster recovery, and to support the Middle East peace process urgent, unforeseen, and essential? If so, they qualify as emergency appropriations and should be treated as such. If not, they should be offset.

I believe that we should expeditiously provide emergency assistance to American farmers and disaster victims in Central America. However, I cannot support the phony budgetary offsets contained in this bill. They are doubly harmful because they have the potential to undermine some of our nation's vital international goals, and they produce no meaningful budgetary savings.
