INDIAN HEALTH CARE IMPROVEMENT ACT AMENDMENTS OF 2005

MARCH 16 (legislative day, MARCH 15), 2006.—Ordered to be printed

Mr. MCCAIN, from the Committee on Indian Affairs, submitted the following

REPORT

[To accompany S. 1057]

The Senate Committee on Indian Affairs, to which was referred the bill (S. 1057), to amend the Indian Health Care Improvement Act to revise and extend that Act, having considered the same, reports favorably thereon with an amendment in the nature of a substitute and recommends that the bill, as amended, do pass.

PURPOSE

The purpose of the Indian Health Care Improvement Act Amendments of 2005 (S. 1057) is to reauthorize the Act and improve the Indian health care delivery system. This legislation is intended to raise the health status of American Indians and Alaska Natives to the highest possible level in accordance with Healthy People 2010.1 S. 1057 sets forth policies, programs and procedures designed to address health care deficiencies in native and urban Indian communities and streamline service delivery to those communities. In addition, S. 1057 addresses the health problems and associated socio-economic conditions in native communities by authorizing the Indian Health Service (IHS) and tribes to adopt current health industry “best practices”.

BACKGROUND

Enacted in 1976, the Act established the first comprehensive framework for the delivery of health care services for native people, including various health programs, projects, and facilities. The Act was last reauthorized in 1992.

THE REAUTHORIZATION PROCESS

The work on the latest reauthorization began in 1999. Bills have been introduced since the 106th Congress\(^2\) to enact a series of improvements and updates to current law, most of which are contained in S. 1057.

NATIONAL STEERING COMMITTEE (NSC)

In June, 1999, the Director of the IHS convened the NSC comprised of tribal leaders and representatives from Indian health organizations to facilitate the reauthorization. The NSC held a series of meetings in 1999 during which extensive discussions were held between the NSC and Department of Health and Human Services (DHHS) officials. The NSC also received technical assistance from the DHHS officials during these meetings.

The NSC set out to craft a comprehensive legislative proposal that would reflect a consensus of the Indian tribes. With over 560 federally-recognized Indian tribes, each with unique histories, cultures, locations and needs, the NSC faced serious challenges. Despite the many differences, they coalesced around a draft document which formed the basis of the bills introduced, S. 2526 (106th Congress) and S. 212 (107th Congress). Neither bill was enacted, but S. 212 did receive significant attention from the Administration.

By letter dated September 27, 2001, the Administration provided its views on S. 212 to the Committee. During 2002, tribal officials and Committee staff reconvened to address the Administration's concerns. The legislation was not passed by Congress that year, and S. 556 was introduced in the next Congress.

During the 108th Congress, the Committee, the NSC and the Administration engaged in extensive negotiations over the reauthorization, but a final bill was not concluded before the 108th Congress ended. Several recommendations developed during these negotiations were incorporated into S. 1057.

OVERVIEW OF INDIAN HEALTH CARE HISTORY

The history of the Federal responsibility for Indian health care is quite extensive and well-documented in numerous sources, including past Senate Reports on prior legislation. See e.g., Senate Report Nos. 94–133, 102–392 and 108–411. The underlying responsibility to provide health care did not originate with the Act; rather, the Act was passed after Congress recognized that a sea-change in administration was needed to ensure improvements were achieved in Indian health status and services.

\(^2\)S. 2526 (106th Congress), S. 212 (107th Congress), S. 556 (108th Congress).
The administration of Indian health had initially been managed in a piecemeal approach, then ultimately coalesced within the IHS, an agency of the DHHS.\textsuperscript{3}

Based on that history and in fulfillment of the special obligation to Indian people,\textsuperscript{4} Congress passed the Act to provide coordinated programs and meaningful direction in Indian health care administration.

THE PRE-IHCIA INDIAN HEALTH SYSTEM

At the time of passage of the Act in 1976, the information on Indian health painted a stark portrait of existence in Indian communities. The Senate Report accompanying S. 522, the Indian Health Care Improvement Act, which was signed into law as Public Law No. 94–437, indicated that the “vast majority of Indians still live in an environment characterized by inadequate and understaffed health facilities, improper or nonexistent waste disposal and water supply systems, and continuing dangers of deadly or disabling diseases.”\textsuperscript{5}

Health status. These conclusions were based upon the statistics at the time. For example, the “incidence of tuberculosis for Indians and Alaska Natives [was] 7.3 times higher than the rate for all citizens of the United States. * * * [T]he suicide rate * * * [was] approximately twice as high as in the total U.S. population.”\textsuperscript{6} Also troubling was the infant mortality rate for Indian babies which was significantly higher than the national average.\textsuperscript{7}

Health professionals. Compounding the low health status were the difficulties in recruiting and retaining qualified health professionals—Indian health professionals, in particular—to work in the Indian communities. The available information indicated that out of 500 doctors in the Indian Health Service, only 3 were Indian.\textsuperscript{8} Overall, “in 1975, there were only 72 American Indian physicians.”\textsuperscript{9} Likewise, only half of the number of pharmacists needed were employed in these Indian communities.\textsuperscript{10}

Health facilities. The conditions and availability of health facilities did not fare any better. A significant number of the existing facilities were over twenty years old. Many others were “old one-story, wooden buildings with inadequate electricity, ventilation, insulation and fire protection systems, and of such insufficient size as to jeopardize the health and safety of their occupants.”\textsuperscript{11} The Joint Committee on Accreditation of Hospitals (JCAHO) found that “only 24 of the 51 existing IHS hospitals” met accreditation standards and “two-thirds [were] obsolete and that 22 need[ed] complete replacement.” 12

\textsuperscript{3}The responsibility for Indian health first fell to the War Department in 1803, then to the Interior Department in 1849, before finally being transferred to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (DHEW), the predecessor of the DHHS, in 1955. The Division of Indian Health within DHEW had initial responsibility for Indian health before eventually being renamed the Indian Health Service. See Task Force on Indian Health in the Final Report to the American Indian Policy Review Commission (Final Report) at 32.

\textsuperscript{4}Based on the U.S. Constitution, treaties, statutes and the historical, political and legal relationship with the Indian tribes, the United States has assumed responsibility for the provision of health care to Indian people. Those laws and relationships serve as the backdrop for the government-to-government relationship.

Funding. The funding situation also revealed significant disparities. For example, “[p]er capita expenditures for Indian health purposes [were] 25 percent below per capita expenditures for health care in the average American community.” 13

Thus, the goals of the Act, by improving funding, direction in programs, and access to other programs such as Medicare and Medicaid, held great promise for the advancement of Indian health.

CURRENT INDIAN HEALTH SYSTEM

Since 1976, significant improvements have been made in the programs and funding levels for Indian health through the Act and the amendments thereto. Yet, a comparison of historic statistics with current status indicators show that, while real progress has been made, significant disparities still persist.

Indian health status. Indian mortality rates from tuberculosis were 400% greater than other U.S. populations. 14 Despite a decrease of 64% over a period spanning 1972 to 1999, Indian infant mortality rates still remained 24% higher than other U.S. populations. 15 Other Indian mortality rates far exceeded the mortality rates of other U.S. populations for causes including alcoholism (638%), diabetes mellitus (291%), unintentional injuries (215%), pneumonia and influenza (67%), gastrointestinal disease (38–40%) and heart disease (20%).

Even during the short period of 1997 to 2001, the overall “prevalence of diabetes increased by 33% in all major regions served by the Indian Health Service.” The most alarming increase, however, occurred among the Indian youth ages 15–19, for whom diabetes increased by 106% from 1990–2002. 16

Recent information on suicide indicates that these rates are also astonishing. In 2005, the Committee held two hearings on the issue of Indian youth suicide. A field hearing was held in Bismarck, N.D. on May 2, 2005, and an oversight hearing was held in Washington, D.C. on June 15, 2005.

According to national data for 2002, suicide was the second leading cause of death for Indians of both sexes in the 15–34 year age range, and the fourth leading cause of death for both sexes in the 10–14 year age range. On the reservations of the Northern Great Plains (States of North and South Dakota, Iowa, Minnesota and Nebraska), the rate of Indian youth suicide is up to 10 times higher than it is elsewhere in the country.

Yet, in terms of services at several Indian health facilities, the demand for mental health care outstripped their capacity. 17 least one facility, the mental health services would be cut by 20% in FY 2005 because funding had been depleted.18

Another alarming and growing problem arising in Indian communities is the use of methamphetamines. According to the National Survey on Drug Use and Health, the use rate during a 2002–2004 survey period among Indians, aged 12 and older, is higher than nearly every other population.19

Health facilities. According to the most recent data, 413 facilities exist within the Indian health system with an average age of 30 years.20 Approximately 49 of those facilities are hospitals ranging in capacity from 4 to 156 beds, but only 19 of the hospitals have operating rooms.21

Besides hospitals, “there were 231 health centers * * * offering primary care and some ancillary services such as pharmacy, laboratory and X-ray”.22 Also, the 133 health stations in the Indian health system provided primary services.23

According to the IHS Health Facilities Construction Priority System, the estimated unfunded total cost to meet the need was nearly $1.5 billion as of FY 2005.24 In addition, the backlog for the maintenance and improvement needs of current facilities was estimated at $482,956,000.25 However, on the bright side, “[t]he gastroenteric and post-neonatal death rates among the Indian people * * * primarily because of the increased prevalence of safe drinking water supplies and sanitary waste disposal systems.”26

The IHS noted that “in 1955, more than 80% of American Indians and Alaska Natives were living in homes without essential sanitation facilities.”28 The gastrointestinal death rate was “15.4 per 100,000 population, * * * 4.3 times higher than that for all other races in the United States.”29 But by 1995, that death rate was reduced to 1.7 per 100,000, although it is still 38–40% higher than the rate for all races in the United States.30

In FY 2004, approximately $139 million was available for sanitation facilities construction, of which nearly $93 million came from Indian Health Service funds and more than $46.5 million came... from other Federal agencies and non-Federal sources.\textsuperscript{31} The Indian Health Service estimated that in FY 2004 sanitation facilities were provided to a total of 24,928 homes.\textsuperscript{32} However, the total estimated costs to address the sanitation deficiencies in existing homes was nearly $1.9 billion, with nearly 150,000 Indian homes still needing sanitation facilities, 36,000 of which did not have potable water.\textsuperscript{33}

\textit{Health professionals.} The number of Indian health professionals has increased since the Act was signed into law. According to the latest Census information, there were over 1,300 Indian physicians and surgeons and over 10,000 Indian registered nurses.\textsuperscript{34} These numbers suggest that the incentives in the Act have assisted in increasing these numbers.

However, vacancy rates for key health professionals indicate that a substantial need still exists for qualified health professionals in the Indian health system. The vacancy rates for health professions with the greatest shortfalls consist of Dentists (24\%), Certified Registered Nurse Anesthetists (33\%), Medical Imaging (including x-rays, ultrasounds, CT scans etc.) (20\%), Nurses (14\%) Pharmacists and Physicians (both 11\%).\textsuperscript{35}

\textit{Types and level of services.} The IHS and tribal and urban Indian health programs provide an array of basic medical, dental and vision services. For example, the personal health services including inpatient care, and routine and emergency ambulatory care; and medical support services including laboratory, pharmacy, nutrition, diagnostic imaging, medical records, physical therapy, etc.\textsuperscript{36}

Even though basic services may be available, access to those services is not assured. In its study on the availability of health services to Indians, the Government Accountability Office (GAO) found that Indian patients often had to wait more than 30 days— in some cases 2 to 6 months—between setting the appointment for services and receiving the services, a time frame “in excess of standards and goals identified in other federally operated health service delivery systems.”\textsuperscript{37}

Moreover, “[t]he most frequent gaps were for services aimed at the diagnosis and treatment of medical conditions that caused discomfort, pain, or some degree of disability but that were not emergent or acutely urgent.”\textsuperscript{38} For example, in some cases, adult Indian patients “could wait as long as 120 days to get approval for eyeglasses.”\textsuperscript{39}

According to one tribal official interviewed by the GAO, these situations create an environment in which Indian patients become demoralized and may wait until their condition becomes “an emergency that required a higher level of treatment.” 40 The GAO also noted that gaps in care were common.

The Committee is deeply concerned with the GAO’s findings and its conclusions that the disturbing result of these gaps are “diagnosis or treatment delays that exacerbate[ ] the severity of a patient’s condition and create[ ] a need for more intensive treatment.” 41 The Committee is further concerned that these gaps are increasing health care costs and diminishing the potential for prevention efforts.

The Committee appreciates the Administration’s efforts in promoting prevention as a key to reducing health care costs, but believes greater effort is needed to reduce gaps in health services to Indians. Improvements are needed in all areas of the Indian health care system to ameliorate problems and delays in service delivery. The improvements outlined in S. 1057 for programs and policies, the Bi-partisan Commission study on health service delivery, and other new provisions in S. 1057 are designed to help address these problems.

THE INDIAN HEALTH CARE IMPROVEMENT ACT

In passing the Act, Congress set forth ambitious goals for improving the health of Indians, including encouraging their participation in “the planning and management” of health services. 25 U.S.C. 1601(b). The Act “would provide the direction and financial resources to overcome the inadequacies in the existing Federal Indian health care program.” Senate Report No. 94–133, at 13.

These goals built upon the foundation laid in President Nixon’s 1970 “Special Message to the Congress on Indian Affairs”. 42 In his Special Message, President Nixon declared that “[t]he time ha[d] come to break decisively with the past and to create the conditions for a new era in which the Indian future is determined by Indians acts and Indian decisions.” 43

Breaking decisively with the past meant a radical change in health care delivery, beginning with the administration of the programs and policy-making. Placing administrative and decision-making authority in the hands of Indian tribes, rather than solely in the agency’s hands, was a fundamental and logical approach in health care delivery. Such a modification took several years to overcome difficulties in achieving tribal participation in the administration of these programs. 44

Today, nearly half of the IHS budget is administered through tribal contracts or compacts under the Indian Self-Determination and Education Assistance Act of 1976 (ISDEAA), U.S.C. 450 et seq. This not only reflects Congressional policy of promoting tribal self-determination, but generates a higher level of cooperation between the Indian health providers.45

GENERAL PRINCIPLES IN THE REAUTHORIZATION

During the reauthorization process, a critical assessment of the Act was undertaken by the Committee and the Indian health community and several basic principles evolved. As a general matter, the history of Indian health and the interplay between the ISDEAA and the Act must be kept in mind when developing Indian health policy.

Self-determination. Since self-determination was declared to be the new direction in Federal Indian policy, tribal participation has significantly contributed to improving services for Indian people.46
Meaningful participation by tribes in administering programs through contracting or compacting has been a principal means of implementing the self-determination policy.

However, simply administering a program designed and handed down by the agency does not accomplish the vision embodied in self-determination. Indian participation is critical in the development of the framework of these programs and services. Tribal self-determination involves tribes initiating programs, and the ideas, concepts and methodology of how those programs or services should be delivered to their own communities.

Such involvement means appreciable engagement between the agency and Indian tribes. Numerous tools have successfully increased that involvement. For example, negotiated rulemaking has been found to be useful in several initiatives such as education, housing and self-governance.47

The Committee has received testimony from tribal participants in negotiated rulemaking that “true understanding among Tribes and with IHS is achieved”48 through that process. That true understanding is consistent with the Committee’s desire to foster consensus-building and reduce obstacles that negatively impact service delivery.

The Administration has expressed concerns about the time and resource constraints involved in negotiated rulemaking. The Committee strongly supports fiscal accountability, but believes that the long-term benefits of negotiated rulemaking exceed the short-term costs.

The Committee believes that the Indian tribal and urban health providers—as first responders in the health system—should be directly involved in developing health programs and the regulations that govern them. Tribal involvement in rulemaking not only leads to a more informed rule, but it fosters tribal support. Negotiated rulemaking can save costs to all parties in the long run. By building a higher level of consensus in the regulations, the IHS lowers sions, 109th Cong., 1st Session, S. Hrg. 109–162 at 725 (July 14, 2005) (statement of Don the potential for legal challenges to the rules and associated litigation costs. The Committee favors consensus-building over litigation and encourages this long-term view.

Besides negotiated rulemaking, the Committee has favored consultation with tribes as another tool to increase tribal participation, but has generally left the manner or method of consultation to the discretion of the Secretary.

For example, the ISDEAA simply requires an annual consultation on the budget. However, the Secretary has in the past implemented a rigorous regional and national schedule for budget consultation.49

The Committee recognizes that the Administration has made efforts to involve Indian tribes in decision-making through the consultation policy issued by the DHHS.50 The Committee recognizes that the Department’s policy has attempted to address a wide variety of matters affecting Indian communities. However, the Committee is concerned that the scope of the Department policy may not fully encompass all critical matters for which the Committee believes consultation should be used.

Such matters involve the development of program eligibility or criteria, or relate to specific tribes, Indian population groups (e.g., women) or to special tribal history, customs, or practices. Consequently, the Committee has provided for robust consultation in several key areas, leaving the manner of consultation to Secretarial discretion, and it remains committed to promoting tribal input by institutionalizing consultation.

Flexibility. In addition, the Committee believes that less bureaucracy and more flexibility are needed to tailor programs or services to address local community health needs.51 The Committee is pleased that the Administration has joined in supporting flexibility, new approaches to health care, and expanding the range of options of health services.52

However, in the course of negotiating this legislation, the Administration has indicated its preference to change mandatory programs to discretionary ones to meet budgetary constraints and to give the Secretary maximum flexibility.53 The Committee has accommodated these principles based on the understanding that Indian tribes would also be accorded the same flexibility under the Act and the ISDEAA.

The Committee understands that, in the past, the Indian tribes had been foreclosed from implementing programs that the agency did not actually implement either under the Act or the Snyder Act, 51 Flexibility also eliminates the need to identify each and every program that may be administered by IHS, the tribal or urban programs (e.g., the definition of “health professions” does not identify every profession that may be authorized). Many of the decisions or priorities are left to the Indian health providers to determine to implement as needed. The Committee is aware that the IHS, Indian tribes and urban programs engage in extensive budget consultations involving which programs and professions to implement, sometimes two years in advance of implementation.

25 U.S.C. 13. Simple program authorizations under the Act and the Snyder Act were deemed insufficient to allow the Indian tribes to administer the programs even under the redesign provisions of the ISDEAA.

It is the Committee’s intent, however, that simple authorizations are sufficient to enable tribes to implement programs, even if the Federal agency chooses not to, provided all other applicable provisions of the Act, the Snyder Act and the ISDEAA are met. The Committee believes that this interpretation is necessary to enable Indian tribes to meet the needs of their communities and required if the Secretary is to experience the flexibility desired.

In the past, the Committee has been apprehensive about eliminating certain mandates such as those requiring studies. In reviewing the studies conducted and annual reporting information, it appears that quite a few studies mandated by the Act were not completed. These studies were intended to provide insight into the accomplishments and challenges in Indian health and assist the Committee in seeking new approaches to service delivery. The Committee is troubled that the health status of Indians reflects many of the same problems it did in 1976 and that several mandates in current law have been disregarded.

Consequently, the Committee has included in S. 1057, a Bi-partisan Commission to thoroughly review opportunities for improvement. During the 108th Congress, the bill to reauthorize the Act, S. 556, contained provisions wherein the Bi-partisan Commission would study the potential of funding Indian health as an entitlement. Based on the Administration’s recommendations offered during the 108th Congress, the Committee modified the Commission’s objectives in S. 1057.

In addition, the Committee has included the Native American Health and Wellness Foundation provisions to promote the mission of IHS in improving Indian health. This Foundation is not a substitute for the federal obligation to Indian health, but is intended to complement the federal obligation in ways in which the United States has fallen short.

Oversight and Reporting. While much discretion and flexibility is provided, the Committee must preserve the necessary mechanisms to fulfill its oversight function. The primary means is through active reporting requirements by the Secretary. Congress simply cannot leave unfettered the operations of these important programs without appropriate assurances that Indian people are being served consistent with Congressional intent and priorities. Moreover, Congress should be informed of how and when these programs meet—or fall short of meeting—the basic health needs of Indian people.

KEY PROVISIONS

Several key improvements and provisions of S. 1057 are particularly noteworthy:

Non-Eligibles. Congress has recognized that “without a proper health status, the Indian people will be unable to fully avail themselves of the many economic, educational, and social programs already directed to them.” Senate Report No. 94–133, at 23. Providing services to Indian people improves the health of Indians in a direct manner.
However, protecting the health of Indians requires attention to issues other than direct services to Indians. In the 1800s, services such as vaccinations were provided to Indians located near forts to protect the health of soldiers.54 Now the tables are turned. Individuals not otherwise eligible for Indian health care may receive a limited scope of health services under the Act to protect the health of Indians.

Serving non-eligibles for these purposes comports with the Administration’s goals of promoting healthy “Indian * * * communities” and “including new approaches to delivering care”.55 Serving non-eligibles has been a policy of the Act for many years and it reflects a logical and reasonable approach to protect Indian health.

For example, the Act provides that services may be provided to a non-eligible pregnant woman carrying an Indian’s child. 25 U.S.C. 1680c(c)(3) (Section 807(d)(3) of S. 1057). In addition, services may be provided to prevent the outbreak of communicable diseases such as tuberculosis. 25 U.S.C. 1680c(c)(2) (Section 807(d)(2) of S. 1057).

In including these “non-eligible individuals” in the service delivery, Congress has set forth considerations for the IHS and Indian tribes to address prior to providing the services—the “two-part determination”. This two-part determination consists of determining that

(i) the provision of such health services will not result in a denial or diminution of health services to eligible Indians; and

(ii) there is no reasonable alternative health facility or services, within or without the service area of such service unit, available to meet the health needs of such individuals. 25 U.S.C. 1680c(b)(1)(A).

However, the Committee is aware that questions have arisen regarding how the two-part determination applies to Indian tribes with contracts or compacts under ISDEAA.

Where services are directly provided by the IHS (direct services), the Indian tribe(s) served by the Service Unit and the IHS jointly make the two-part determination. 25 U.S.C. 1680c(b)(1)(A). Section 807 of S. 1057 provides that, for programs administered by an Indian tribe pursuant to a contract or compact under the ISDEAA, the Indian tribe is authorized to provide services to non-eligibles, but “shall take into account” the two-part determination.

Congress has made it clear that the determination shall be made in both instances: in the case of direct services it is made by both IHS and the Indian tribes and, in the case of ISDEAA contracts or compacts, by Indian tribes. Congress did not provide in the Act express substantive or procedural provisions governing how the determinations should be made, given the innumerable variances in circumstances for the Indian communities.

However, Section 807 does provide some guidance on how the parties may determine whether there will be no diminution of services. For example, the non-eligibles receiving services “shall be liable for payment of such health services under a schedule of charges prescribed by the Secretary. See GAO Report No. GAO–05–789.

In addition, health services may be provided to indigent non-eligibles if there is a reimbursement agreement with the State or local governments. These provisions, however, do not limit the ability of either the IHS or Indian tribes to include additional considerations in determining whether services would be decreased. Other budgetary factors, delays in services, appointment waiting times, etc. are all other considerations that may be appropriate, depending on the particular circumstances.

Likewise, when assessing reasonable alternatives, the IHS and Indian tribes may be confronted by factors such as remote locations, distances to other health facilities and other unique difficulties, which render other health care alternatives unavailable. Questions surrounding what is available should be placed in the context of the following policy considerations. First, services under this Act are for the ultimate protection of Indian health. Second, the IHS and tribal health programs are the payors of last resort which means, in this situation, that all other avenues of obtaining health services should be exhausted prior to seeking assistance from either IHS or the tribal health programs.

The Committee has been informed that some health providers may refuse to serve Medicaid beneficiaries, thus making any other health service alternative unavailable. If all entities have made good faith efforts to obtain services and all avenues have been exhausted, it appears that there may be an arguable case of unavailability.

When making these determinations, Indian tribal leaders are placed in a difficult situation. On the one hand, the federal obligation for Indian health—which the Indian tribe is administering—is secured for the benefit of Indians. It may also be politically disastrous for tribal leaders to authorize services for non-eligibles, so the determinations are not made lightly by Indian tribal leaders. On the other hand, withholding services from these non-eligibles under the limited circumstances enumerated in this Act may serve to do harm to Indian people by not eliminating general health hazards.

Evaluations were left in S. 1057 to the IHS and Indian tribes based on their individual circumstances and, if appropriate, could be developed more fully through negotiated rule-making or consultation.

Third Party Reimbursements. Funding from sources other than IHS was identified as a factor which affected the availability of health care services for Indians. Those funding sources include third-party reimbursements from Medicaid and Medicare. In some cases, these reimbursements constitute up to 50% of the medical care budget for a particular Indian health program.

With more resources, the Indian health care system could provide more services and the Committee strongly encourages IHS and the Indian tribes to seek additional resources to supplement the appropriated sums provided annually.\textsuperscript{59} The GAO noted that “facilities with higher reimbursements had additional funds with which they could hire staff, purchase equipment and supplies, and renovate their buildings.”\textsuperscript{60} In one case, 31 percent of a facility’s clinical providers and other staff was funded by third party reimbursements.\textsuperscript{61}

S. 1057 provides for an increase in access to Medicaid by removing barriers through waivers of premiums and cost-sharing at Indian health facilities and by codifying agency regulations or practices which recognize the unique nature of and special circumstances applying to Indian property, particularly trust and restricted property.\textsuperscript{62} Likewise, S. 1057 provides other means of removing barriers to obtaining third-party reimbursements, such as the process for seeking waivers of sanctions, which promotes favorable state-tribal relations.

Health Professions. Difficulties in recruiting and retaining qualified health professionals have long been recognized as a significant factor impairing Indians’ access to health care services.\textsuperscript{63} Noting that many Indian communities are often in remote locations and lack adequate housing and educational and recreational opportunities for employees and their families,\textsuperscript{64} the GAO reported that some critical positions such as for pharmacists and dentists remained vacant for several years in some locations.\textsuperscript{65}

The provisions in Title I address the health professional shortage in Indian communities. Congress specifically included these provisions in 1976 because the existing programs to improve manpower capabilities were woefully inadequate or completely unsuitable for Indian health providers and communities.\textsuperscript{66}

The programs existing in 1976 did “not link the recipients [of scholarships] directly to the Indian Health Service,” were “not designed to recruit and support Indians,” and were too limited in the “category of health professionals” supported by these programs.\textsuperscript{67}

Consequently, Congress developed a new approach and the IHS scholarship program was born. Fears of duplication were quickly disproven by the obvious need for and success of these programs in filling vacancies and returning Indian health professionals to the Indian communities. Today, the program has expanded to include a wide variety of health professions as determined by the priorities set by the IHS and the Indian tribes. The program also now includes, besides the scholarships, loan repayments, a tribal scholarship program, and bonus incentive payments.

These programs specifically target the needs of the Indian health system. For example, the scholarship priorities are developed through a year-long consultation process wherein the IHS sends the program information and request for priority to each tribal leader and the tribal education and health programs. The comprehensive list is developed based on the IHS and tribal health professional projected needs, vacancies and available positions. By focusing on the specific needs of Indian communities, the Committee believes that this approach has significantly improved Indian health.

Just as targeting the specific needs of the Indian health system became the hallmark of the health professional policy, a holistic approach also became a key policy component in increasing the number of Indian health professionals. The Committee strongly encourages the Secretary to evaluate all opportunities to improve the chances of success for Indian health professionals, including obtaining the licenses or certifications necessary for providing health care services. The Committee has been made aware of the need to increase the number of licensed health professionals in the Indian health system and included provisions in S. 1057 to address that need. S. 1057 provides for portability of current licenses for tribal health professionals consistent with other Federal health licensing provisions. In addition, S. 1057 authorizes programs to enhance and facilitate enrollment in and completion of courses of study in health professions.

The Committee believes that the Title I programs should fully equip the individuals with the tools needed to transition into the health profession, including successfully completing all courses of study and passing the required licensing or board examinations. In addition, the Committee expects that the IHS would also ensure that scholarship recipients are provided every opportunity to fulfill their service obligations, including technical assistance in understanding their obligations.

The remedial programs, scholarships, grants, externships, service obligations and advanced training established in Title I are all designed to provide seamless opportunities for successfully transitioning Indians into health professions. As part of the long-term view of Indian health professions, the Committee believes continuity is appropriate in administering the Title I programs.

The incentives fostered by scholarships, loan repayments, and bonuses are multiplied when combined with professional development programs for health professionals which the Committee believes to be essential components of recruitment and retention programs in the Indian health system. S. 1057 establishes several professional development programs in Title I such as opportunities for advanced training and research, tribal cultural orientation, training in the administration and planning of tribal health programs and tribal demonstration projects for innovative recruitment, placement and retention programs, which may include professional development programs.

Such additional training for health professionals is particularly important in developing leadership and collaboration skills and ensuring that a culturally-competent workforce exists within the Indian health system. The Committee strongly encourages the Secretary and tribal and urban Indian health providers to develop innovative programs or take advantage of existing models for such professional development to increase and maintain the number of Indian health professionals in the Indian health system.
In addition, the Committee took a long-term view of health professions in S. 1057. The most dire placement needs are in the direct care positions, such as doctors, nurses, and pharmacists. In the long-term, Indian health professionals are also needed in educational positions to bolster recruitment and improve the new Indian health professionals’ chances of success.

The Committee has been informed that an appreciable need exists at the tribal colleges and universities to increase the number of Indian instructors in the nursing programs.68 The Committee recognizes that Indian instructors often have personal knowledge of the health disparities in Indian communities and a deep commitment to serve these communities for the long-term. Indian educators increase the likelihood of success for Indian students and bring to the classroom the unique cultural competence required in the Indian health field.

With that in mind, the Committee included provisions in Title I of S. 1057 wherein a scholarship recipient may fulfill his or her service obligation (required in exchange for the scholarship) by teaching in a tribal college or university nursing or other health related program, provided the Secretary determines that the health services to Indians will not be decreased. In addition, the Secretary may, prior to waiving any service obligation or repayment of a scholarship, consider placement of a scholarship recipient in a teaching capacity in a tribal college or university nursing or related health program. Other provisions for nursing grants were added to extend a preference in grant awards to tribal college and university nursing programs.

Prior to including these provisions, the Committee considered the likelihood that inexperienced, new graduates might be placed in teaching positions. One tribal college President indicated that “these are clinically seasoned, mature [Bachelor of Science-Nursing] prepared nurses returning to school for educational and career mobility.”69 Teaching positions available for these individuals would include lab coordinators and clinical instructors. This tribal college President also indicated that “new [Registered Nurse] graduates of associate or generic baccalaureate programs would not be qualified to teach. * * * *”70

The Committee believes these positions should be filled by experienced faculty and expects that the Secretary and the tribal colleges or universities would be selective in placing these individuals to avoid compromising the quality of education and accreditation.

The Committee strongly encourages the Secretary to examine the Title I programs with targeted, holistic, long-term approaches in mind and to develop more opportunities to increase the number of Indians in the health professions. The Committee believes that in the long-run, improving health educational opportunities at every level will also contribute to improving the health of Indian communities.

Home Health Care. Current law authorized a feasibility study to be conducted on hospice care services. However, the IHS never conducted that study and now, thirteen years later, to conduct such a study would greatly delay what have already been demonstrated to be much needed services.

The Committee has been informed that some Indian tribes and tribal organizations, through pilot projects, have provided this type of service or other services such as home-health care with great success. The Committee is concerned that not authorizing through the Indian health care system these services and other long-term or home health care services that have been an accepted part of the national health care system and Medicare since 1983 will prevent IHS and tribes from utilizing a proven, effective health delivery vehicle.

Currently, home health care, long-term care and hospice care are not readily available to most Native communities. Indians must travel long distances only to be placed in facilities that are far from home, culturally unfamiliar, and not conducive to their well-being. Having culturally-appropriate facilities close to Indian communities will not only promote the patient’s well-being, but will enable family members to more easily visit the patient.

Section 213 of S. 1057 authorizes the Secretary to fund other services which meet the policy objectives set forth in section 3 of the legislation. A partial list of such other services includes hospice care, assisted living, long-term health care, home- and community-based services, public health functions, and traditional health care practices.

Concerns have been raised regarding the economic feasibility of facilities providing these types of services, if access is limited to just Indians. Therefore, subject to the “two-part determination” under Section 807 of the bill, the IHS, Indian tribes, or tribal organizations may provide the types of care authorized in Section 213 to persons otherwise ineligible for the health care benefits of the IHS, provided that such persons furnish reimbursement of reasonable charges for such services. The inclusion of these individuals may be necessary in some circumstances to achieve the minimum patient base needed to make the venture economically feasible and to realize the cost efficiencies of providing these services.

With regard to the services authorized by Section 213, the Department of Justice informally expressed concerns with a subset of the home- and community-based services, specifically “chore services”. These concerns primarily focus on potential liability for the Federal government that may arise under the Federal Tort Claims Act from: (1) services provided in a setting other than an IHS or tribal facility that are not directly associated with the medical condition being treated, (2) whether the providers will be adequately trained, and (3) family members’ support being included as a standard service.

To address these concerns the Committee struck the words “homemaker” and “chore services” from the definitions in the substitute amendment adopted in Committee. The substitute amendment further clarified the “Personal care services” definition to specify that ancillary tasks, when performed, must be associated with support services related to activities of daily living. Last, the substitute amendment makes clear that home- and community-based services do not include services provided by an individual who is legally responsible for the provision of such services, such as a family member or legal guardian.

Traditional Health Care. The 1928 Merriam Report generated several initiatives to improve health conditions for Native Americans. One reform was the active solicitation of traditional Indian healers to participate in federal health services to Indians—an abrupt change from the prior assimilationist policies promoted by the Federal Government.

Several provisions in the Act reflected those reforms as well. In particular, the Community Health Representatives in the Act were required to “promote traditional health care practices of the Indian tribes served consistent with the Service standards for the provision of health care, health promotion and disease prevention.” 25 U.S.C. 1616(b)(6).

The Committee is aware that Indian tribes have long sought to promote traditional healing in the framework of the Indian health system, but that concerns have been raised regarding inclusion of traditional healing in the IHCIA.

One concern involves the possible legal liability to the Federal Government in connection with the traditional practices. Under the ISDEAA, Federal Tort Claim Act (FTCA) coverage applies when Indian tribes or tribal organizations administer programs or services pursuant to a contract or compact. If traditional health practices were services provided under an ISDEAA contract or compact, such practices would be covered by the FTCA.

Other concerns have been raised regarding whether the Federal Government or courts should be scrutinizing tribal traditions in the defense against claims arising under the FTCA. To address these concerns, the Committee encourages the Secretary and Indian tribes to thoroughly examine the traditional healing provisions through the implementation plan under Section 803 of S. 1057, or through consultation, particularly on how the traditional practices and healers fit within the FTCA framework.

Behavioral Health. S. 1057 has a strong focus on behavioral health. Title VII takes a comprehensive and integrative approach to behavioral health, providing both prevention and treatment programs for Indian children, youth, women and elders. The bill also emphasizes the interconnectedness of services related to alcohol and substance abuse, child welfare, suicide prevention and social services. Particular programs are authorized for Indian youth, Indian women, those affected by fetal alcohol disorder in Indian communities, and both the victims and perpetrators of child sexual abuse in Indian households.

In addition to a comprehensive approach to addressing behavioral health services, the Committee recognizes and affirms the importance of providing care within the context of an individual's family, community and particular tribal culture, such as is used by the systems of care model.

72 Other federal agencies also appear to be considering the value of traditional healing in assisting Indian people recover from various maladies such as post-traumatic stress disorders. See e.g., www.helenair.com/articles/2005/11/30/montana/a06113005_01.txt, (Last reviewed November 30, 2005).
Indian Youth Suicide Prevention. The alarming suicide rates among Indian youth indicate a great need for improved, comprehensive behavioral health care services.

The nation was shocked in March, 2005, when a troubled 16-year old member of the Red Lake Band of Chippewa Indians in Minnesota shot and killed his grandfather, his grandfather’s partner, five fellow high school students, a high school teacher and a security guard and seriously wounded several others at Red Lake High School on the reservation before killing himself. Several other young people subsequently took their own lives.

The publicity around the nation’s second-most deadly school shooting on the Red Lake reservation brought attention to the fact that in Indian Country, suicide is characterized by higher rates among a younger group than is experienced in the rest of the country. The suicide rate for Indian and Alaska Native youth, aged 15–24, is two and one-half times higher than the national average. Youth suicide “clusters” have also occurred on reservations in North and South Dakota, New Mexico and Arizona and in Native communities in Alaska.

In response to this tragedy, a number of resources were provided to the Red Lake reservation, including services by such Federal agencies as the IHS, SAMHSA and Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention, as well as by state and tribal agencies.

The Committee held two hearings specifically on the issue of Indian youth suicide, one in Bismarck, North Dakota on May 2, 2005, and the other in Washington, DC, on June 15, 2005, to discuss the kinds of resources and services being provided to Indian youth who have expressed suicidal thoughts or attempted suicide, and to explore what more might be done.

Based on the information developed through hearings, the Committee added provisions to Title VII of S. 1057 which address youth suicide as part of the behavioral health program provisions. Other provisions added in Title I encourage more Indian people to enter into the psychology profession by increasing the number of grants for the program commonly referred to as In-Psych (Indians into the Psychology) from 3 to 9 and by authorizing a specific level of funding.

The provisions also add a significant cultural component to the suicide programs. They authorize the Secretary to award grants for telemental health demonstration projects to provide counseling to Indian youth and health providers, training for Indian community leaders, and the development of culturally-relevant materials.

The Committee is aware that suicide prevention for Indian youth is a long-term effort that must address many multi-factorial causes. Questions such as whether the loss of cultural identity contributes to the youth suicide problem remain unanswered. Consequently, S. 1057 makes suicide a priority for the IHS research agenda, particularly the identification of various factors that either protect the tribal community or make that community at risk for suicides, and the role the loss of tribal identity plays in suicidal behavior.

Urban Indians. Providing for urban Indian health has been a part of Federal policy for nearly 40 years. Congress began funding urban Indian clinics in 1967 when $321,000 was provided for an Indian clinic in Rapid City, South Dakota.\textsuperscript{73}

Congress specifically included urban Indian health programs as part of the Indian health care system in the Act in 1976, recognizing that the Federal obligation for health care extended to these individuals, to correct disparities in health levels for Indians living in urban areas first as pilot programs and then permanently in the Indian health care system. See Senate Report Nos. 94–133, 100–508 and 108–411.

The policies and status of Indians and Indian tribes under Federal laws, treaties and judicial decisions provide ample support for continuing and improving programs for urban Indians. Under this varied history, the Federal government had dealt with Indian tribes in a variety of ways: some by treaty, others not by treaty. For some Indian tribes, the Federal Government had ignored completely. Some Indian tribes were legislatively blocked from some administrative programs, yet were allowed to exercise treaty rights. Some Indian tribes were “terminated”, yet later “restored”.

Courts have long held with great favor that Congress has the broad power to legislate for the benefit of Indians, even if located off the reservation, and to define who is an Indian, even if they may not be an enrolled member of a federally-recognized Indian tribe, and for what purposes they may be provided services.\textsuperscript{74}

For example, Congress has enacted laws which define Indians in different ways for different purposes. See e.g., Indian Arts and Crafts Act, Pub.L. 101–644, 25 USC 305; No Child Left Behind Act, Pub.L. 107–110, 25 USC 7491; and the American Indian Probate Reform Act of 2004, Pub.L. 108–374. Even the criminal statutes under Title 18 of the U.S. Code regarding crimes on Indian reservations do not define who is an Indian.

In other cases, Congress did not define Indians, nor place geographical limitations on the service areas in which they may be served. The Snyder Act, 25 USC 13, authorizes permanent funding for health care for “the Indians throughout the United States”. This statute does not confine the services to Indians who are members of current Federally-recognized tribes or to those living only on reservations. The Snyder Act has never been repealed nor otherwise limited in this respect.

Under this Act, Congress has provided a more inclusive definition of urban Indian than mere membership in a federally-recognized Indian tribe, including members of “terminated” tribes, that is, groups that once had a political government relationship with the United States.

Termination was another failed Federal Indian policy designed to end the government-to-government relationship with Indian tribes and assimilate their members into the larger society. However in \textsuperscript{73}Senate Report No. 94–133, pg 136. In 1972, Congress added funding to the IHS appropriations for a pilot program in Minneapolis. Others followed in 1973 in Oklahoma City, Seattle and California (which covered nine urban Indian organizations).

\textsuperscript{74}U.S. Const., Art. I § 8, cl. 3. See also Cohen, Felix. Handbook of Federal Indian Law, at 23. 1982 ed.; Cohens v. Holliday, 70 U.S. 407, 417 (1865) (the broad power also includes Congress’ dealings with individual Indians). As the courts suggest, federal policy for Indians cannot be confined to reservation boundaries. (“The overriding duty of our Federal Government to deal fairly with Indians wherever located has been recognized by this Court on many occasions.” Morton v. Ruiz, 415 U.S. 199 (1974) citing Seminole Nation v. U.S., 316 U.S. 286, 296 (1942); (“Patterns of cross or circular migration on and off the reservations make it misleading to suggest that reservations and urban Indians are two well-defined groups.” U.S. v. Raschkevitz, 169 F.3d 459, 465 (7th Cir. 1999).
remedying the devastating effect of termination, Congress saw fit to continue the health services in the Act to those individuals. See Menominee Tribe v. U.S., 391 U.S. 404 (1968). Likewise, by including members of state-recognized tribes, Congress recognized that several Indian tribes had treaty relations with individual states before the Federal government was established, often referred to as “state-recognized tribes”.

Congress did not in this Act recognize either the “terminated tribes” or the state-recognized tribes on the same basis or for the same purposes as the federally-recognized tribes under this Act. However, the U.S. Supreme Court has found that extending Federal protection for limited purposes, such as in this Act, is within Congressional power.

Further, in adopting S. 1057, the Committee is of the opinion that the Congress was on firm constitutional footing based on longstanding precedent. Indeed, the U.S. Supreme Court has held that “it is not meant * * * that Congress may bring a community or body of people within the range of this power by arbitrarily calling them an Indian tribe, but only that in respect of distinctly Indian communities the questions, whether, to what extent and for what time they shall be recognized and dealt with as dependent tribes requiring the guardianship and protection of the United States are to be determined by Congress, and not by the courts.” U.S. v. Sandoval, 231 U.S. 28, 46 (1913) (emphasis added). Accordingly, the Act extends health benefits to members of these groups (terminated tribes and state-recognized tribes) without extending Federal recognition to them for all purposes.

In enacting this Act, the Committee has found ample justification for extending health services to the Indians who ended up in these urban areas because of several major developments:

First, Indians were provided an opportunity to work and share in the Nation’s prosperity in industries prior to and during World War II; second, thousands of Indian men and women served in the Armed Forces away from their reservation, traditional communities or Alaska Native villages; third, formal government relocation programs moved many Indian families from low employment, rural areas to urban areas where “employment opportunities” were considered more readily available; and fourth, countless numbers of Indians attempting to escape depressed conditions on their reservations voluntarily relocated.75

The comprehensive approach of this Act is needed to more fully implement the federal responsibility for Indian health care and, even more so today, to address health disparities facing the Indians that had moved from the reservations as a result of the relocation policies. Relocating Indians from reservations to urban areas is the Federal policy and program first begun in 1931.76 “Relocation complemented other termination programs designed to promote rapid assimilation. Once relocated, Indians were cut off from the special 75 Senate Report 94–133, page 131.

Congress has previously recognized that the establishment of urban Indian health programs was necessary to rectify the errors of failed Federal Indian policies such as relocation. See Senate Report No. 94–133 at 138. The Committee further found that Title V “represent[ed] a Federal policy commitment to provide the essential authorities and financial resources to permit urban Indian organizations to develop needed health services and to strengthen relationships with existing community health and medical care programs.” Senate Report No. 94–133 at 140.

The justifications for that policy are still valid today. The most recent statistics indicate that urban Indians suffer health disparities as do Indians located on reservations. For example, the mortality rates are higher due to accidents (38% higher than other populations), chronic liver disease and cirrhosis (126% higher), diabetes (54% higher), alcoholism (178% higher), and sudden infant death syndrome (157% higher).

The Committee believes that continuation of services to urban Indians, recognized by S. 1057, makes sense from both policy and fiscal perspectives. The Committee has received testimony that these urban Indian health programs improve health services for Indians located in the urban centers in a highly cost-effective manner.

In addition, the Committee has received testimony that without the urban Indian health programs, urban Indians would not seek care or could delay seeking proper medical attention until their health problems erupt into emergency situations or reach advanced stages when treatment is costlier and the rate of survival is much lower.

By being located closer to the urban Indians than the tribal health programs on the reservations, urban Indian health programs reduce the number of emergency room visits by providing early disease prevention services.

For example, the South Dakota Urban Indian Health Center operates 3 clinics and experiences over 17,500 patient encounters per year under the Title V program. This center provides such services as a foot care home visit program whereby Community Health Representatives conduct home visits to assess diabetic patients (or those at risk for diabetes). These home visits are a critical part of chronic disease management, particularly in avoiding amputations due to diabetes.

The First Nations Community HealthSource in Albuquerque, New Mexico provides dental, primary, and behavioral health care for approximately 45,000 urban Indians and handles approximately 12,700 patient encounters per year under the Title V program.

The Native Americans for Community Action in Flagstaff, Arizona provides immunizations, mental health and youth substance abuse prevention services among several other primary care services for urban Indians. The Committee has received testimony suggesting that the patients at this urban Indian health center would either have to travel 100 or more miles to visit an IHS clinic on federal services that had been available to them as reservation residents.”

the reservation or wait two or three weeks for an appointment at the local Community Health Center. Either alternative would impose significantly more burdens on the patient, and the testimony further suggests that most patients would simply avoid the care altogether.

The Tucson Indian Center in Tucson, Arizona also provides important disease prevention services such as substance abuse prevention, wellness programs and immunizations. This Center provides services for over 2,500 patient encounters under the Title V programs.

The health program operated by the Nevada Urban Indians, Inc. in Reno, Nevada provides, among other things, immunization and diabetes education programs and experienced over 9,000 patient encounters in 2005. The Native American Rehabilitation Association of the Northwest, Inc. in Portland, Oregon experiences nearly 9,300 patient encounters per year, including 1,040 for mental health care and 3,400 for alcohol and drug treatment. The N.A.T.I.V.E. Project in Spokane, Washington provides a community wellness program and community outreach services for diabetes screening and health education for a community of approximately 12,000 urban Indians.

These programs, particularly the wellness, diabetes, and behavioral health programs are critical to preventing the development of diseases which may require long-term disease management such as for diabetes and alcohol or drug addictions. In addition, the outreach, screening and home-based care programs are a vital component in ensuring the patients receive early intervention and care rather than waiting until they need emergency services which cost far more than intervention services.

Urban Indian health programs provide culturally-appropriate health care for Indians. The Committee has received testimony that Indians may avoid non-Indian (or “mainstream”) health providers who are unfamiliar with or insensitive to Indian culture. The urban Indians have confidence in the urban Indian health programs and are more likely to seek care when the provider recognizes and respects culturally-appropriate care.

Urban Indian health programs also address continuity of care for Indians migrating between the urban areas and reservations. Even though the disavowed policy of relocation no longer forces such migration, moving from the reservation to urban areas is not uncommon for these individuals, and neither is their return to the reservation. For example, the urban Indians may travel to the reservation for traditional ceremonies, tribal political (elections) or cultural events (e.g., pow-wows, festivals), clan or family events, and so on. On the other hand, Indians may move to the urban areas for job or educational opportunities—and carry with them the need for continuity of care. The Committee has received testimony that these programs recognize the migration and account for it in their patient care, particularly for quality follow-up care.

The urban Indian health programs provide services for the uninsured Indians who might not be able to obtain care elsewhere. With poverty rates of urban Indians hovering at 25% (compared to 14% for the general population), and nearly half living below 200% of the Federal poverty level (compared to 30% for the general popu-
The Committee has received testimony that in Boston, Massachusetts, 87% of the Boston Indian Center's clients have no health insurance and nearly two out of three urban Indians in Arizona have no insurance.

The Committee believes that the urban Indian health programs are a crucial component in the overall Federal effort to reduce the health disparities for the urban Indians. Without such services by the Title V health programs, it is quite likely that the health disparities among the urban Indians will increase. This result would contradict the Congressional policy embodied in this Act and other statutes of increasing access to health care and of remediying health disparities resulting from the past failed Federal Indian policies.

Dental health aides. Decades of inadequate access to dental care, along with other factors that contribute to the generally worse health condition of Indians as compared to the general population, have led to a true epidemic of dental disease in Indian communities and for Alaska Natives in particular.

According to Oral Health in America: A Report of the Surgeon General, the incidence rates for periodontal disease among Indians is 2 1/2 times that of the general public. In Alaska Native communities, it is not uncommon for the children to require extraction of all of their baby teeth due to pervasive caries. Nor is it uncommon for the nutritional status of Alaska Native elders to be compromised by their inability to consume healthy foods due to dental pain or missing teeth.

This situation is exacerbated by a chronic shortage of dentists. Alaska Tribal health programs are currently experiencing a persistent 25 percent vacancy rate among dentists, with an annual 30 percent turnover rate. Even if the number of dentists in the IHS/tribal system were doubled, it would take 10 years to address the unmet need for dental services. A recent independent evaluation of the DHAT Program in Alaska reports that “five full-time paid dentist positions in the Yukon-Kuskokwim Delta have remained vacant for six years despite a salary/benefits package starting at $177,000.”

At its joint hearing on S. 1057 on July 14, 2005, with the Senate Health, Education, Labor and Pensions Committee, the Committee examined issues surrounding the Dental Health Aide Therapist (DHAT) program currently operated under the Community Health Aide/Practitioner (CHAP) program in Alaska Native communities. The Committee received testimony regarding the crisis in oral health care in Alaska Native communities and how the DHAT program was a result of Alaska Native leaders and health providers searching for a means of addressing it. The Committee believes that the use of Alaska Natives trained through the DHAT program to serve as dental health aide therapists in Alaska is a necessary response to this access to care crisis.84

At the July 14 joint hearing, Dr. Willard, who serves as a dentist for the Yukon-Kuskokwim Health Corporation in Bethel, Alaska, testified before the Committee that the CHAP program has been used in Alaska for 30 years and that the dental health aides are part of the often-remote Native communities.85 She further testified that DHATs must meet the same dental standards and quality assessments that IHS uses for dentists, and that their skills are equal.

The DHAT program in Alaska has been part of the CHAP program since 2002, and DHATs provide a wide range of oral health care promotion and disease prevention services. For the most part, the DHAT program is supported and applauded for its efforts in reducing the extraordinary dental crisis in Alaska Native communities. However, some activities have generated controversy because they require the performance of certain irreversible procedures, specifically, the treatment of dental caries, pulpotomies and extractions of teeth.

Despite strong concerns expressed by the American Dental Association about the quality of care that would be provided by the DHATs, the Committee has received letters indicating strong support of the DHAT Program in Alaska from the State of Alaska’s Department of Health and Human Services, the Alaska Native Health Board, the Alaska Native Tribal Health Consortium, the American Dental Hygienists’ Association, and others.86

The Committee wants to ensure that Alaska Natives receive the best feasible care and appreciates the concerns for patient safety regarding the use of DHATs to perform surgical dental procedures (extractions, pulpotomies and diagnosis and treatment of caries). However, the difficult policy decisions lie in balancing perceived risks to patient safety against the alternative reality of their receiving no care at all.

Consequently, the Committee has determined to limit the DHAT program to Alaska and require a study of the program. The study will be conducted by a panel of neutral experts, including clinicians with experience in providing care to remote populations and clinicians who can measure and evaluate oral and medical complications, community practitioners from Alaska, economists with experience in dental delivery, oral epidemiologists, and Alaskan Natives with experience in the health delivery system.

In developing the study parameters, the Secretary must consult with appropriate professional organizations, among other parties. The Committee expects that the American Dental Association will be specifically included in that consultation given their concerns and expertise in these matters.

84Because no U.S. dental school provides mid-level dental training, DHATs are trained at the University of Otago, New Zealand, under a two-year program. The Committee has been informed that the DHAT Program is operated with wide success in Canada and 40 other countries. See World Oral Health Country/Area Profile Programme, World Health Organization Collaborating Center.
86See also Id., at 716 et seq. (statement of Don Kashaveroff, President, Seldovia Village Tribe).
Furthermore, the Committee believes that the study should compare the care provided by the DHATs with care provided by other dental delivery systems, such as the “Integrated Dental Health Program for Alaska Native Populations” model developed by Drs. Howard Bailit, Tryfon Beazoglou, Amid Ismail, and Thomas Kovaleski. During the term of this study, the Secretary should engage in appropriate oversight and take actions necessary to ensure that patient health and safety is not compromised.

SECTION-BY-SECTION ANALYSIS

A significant portion of current law has been carried forward by S. 1057 and reorganized in the various titles according to subject matter. S. 1057 also adds several new provisions to current law which may (1) amend current law, such as turning a demonstration project into a permanent program, (2) simply clarify or make small additions, such as including tribal organizations in various sections, or (3) introduce brand new programs to the Indian health care system, such as hospice care.

The following section-by-section analysis will, where relevant, identify whether current law has been changed followed by an explanation of the current law to be reauthorized by S. 1057. In addition, the codified section in current law will also be noted to provide ease of reference.

Section 1. Short title. This Act may be cited as the “Indian Health Care Improvement Act Amendments of 2005.”

Section 2(a). Indian Health Care Improvement Act Amended. This section begins the provisions of the Act ending with Section 816. The following section numbers of this analysis will reflect the section numbers of the Act.

Section 1. Short title; table of contents

This Act may be cited as the “Indian Health Care Improvement Act.” Section 1 also contains the table of contents.

Section 2. Findings

This section maintains current law.

Current law: Section 1601 of current law (25 U.S.C. 1601) sets out Congressional findings for the Act which indicate that the health levels of Indians are below that of the rest of the U.S. population and that the provision of health care is consonant with the Federal relationship and responsibility to Indian people.

Section 3. Declaration of national Indian health policy

This section amends current law by (1) replacing the enumerated list of health level objectives with the goals contained in the Healthy People 2010 national health agenda; and (2) adding new language to (a) add trust to the responsibilities being fulfilled by the national policy, (b) allow Indians to set their priorities according to their needs, (c) increase the health profession degrees awarded to Indians so the levels of Indian health professionals in each Service Area is at least the level of the general population, (4) require consultation consistent with Indian self-determination, and (5) provide funding to Indian tribal programs and facilities consistent with levels of IHS programs and facilities.
Current law: In Section 1602, Congress declares that the national policy, in fulfillment of special responsibilities and legal obligation to Indians, is to assure the highest possible health status for Indians and urban Indians and to provide all resources necessary to effect the policy. In addition, the policy is to meet an enumerated list of health status objectives for Indians such as reducing coronary heart disease to no more than 100 per 100,000. It is also the intent of Congress that the proportion of degrees awarded in the health professions to Indians be increased to 0.6 percent. The Secretary is also required to report on the progress made in each objective annually.

Section 4. Definitions

This section (Section 1603 in current law) maintains current law and adds several new definitions to reflect current practices, significant updates and coordination in health services to Indians, as follows: accredited and accessible, Area Office, Assistant Secretary, behavioral health, community college, contract health service, Department, Indian health program, junior or community college, reservation, telehealth, telemedicine, Traditional Health Care Practices, tribal college or university, and Tribal Health Program.

TITLE I—INDIAN HEALTH, HUMAN RESOURCES, AND DEVELOPMENT

Section 101. Purpose

This section maintains current law and adds language indicating Congressional intent to maximize the number, and assure an optimum (not merely adequate) supply, of health professionals in the Indian health system.

Current law: Under Section 1611, the purpose of Title I is to increase the number of Indian health professionals and to assure an adequate supply of health professionals to provide health services to Indians.

Section 102. Health professions recruitment program for Indians

This section maintains current law.

Current law: Section 1612 authorizes funding for recruitment programs, to include identifying Indians with potential for entering health professions, publicizing funding sources, and establishing programs to facilitate enrollment in applicable courses of study. This section also addresses funding applications and amount of funding to be provided, as well as outlining the eligibility for these programs.

Section 103. Health professions preparatory scholarship program for Indians

This section maintains current law and adds new provisions authorizing extensions of pregraduate scholarship award terms up to 2 years according to Secretarial regulations and authorizing regulations for determining part-time equivalents for the compensatory preprofessional scholarships.

Current law. Section 1613 authorizes scholarships to Indians for compensatory preprofessional education as well as pregraduate education leading to a baccalaureate degree in a preparatory field.
for a health profession. The compensatory preprofessions scholarships are awarded for up to two years on a full or part-time basis and pregraduate scholarships are for up to four years (S. 1057 adds 2-year extensions). This section specifies certain conditions on these scholarships which include the types of costs that may be covered and prohibits denial of a scholarship based solely on scholastic achievement if the applicant has already been admitted or maintains good standing at an accredited institution or if the applicant is eligible for assistance under another Federal program.

Section 104. Indian Health Professions Scholarships

This section maintains current law and adds new provisions that (1) require a year-for-year service obligation for scholarship recipients, (2) require Secretarial guidelines for fulfilling the service obligation in private practice, and (3) allow a recipient to fulfill the service obligation by teaching in a tribal college or university nursing program if health services to Indians are not diminished.

Current law. Section 1613a authorizes scholarships, designated as Indian Health Scholarships, to Indians who are enrolled full or part time in accredited schools pursuing courses of study in the health professions. Scholarship recipients are then required to fulfill a service obligation by either working for an IHS, tribal or urban Indian health program or in private practice located in a health professional shortage area with the length not specified in statute. The section further sets forth how the funding for these scholarships is to be allocated and addresses all the requirements of the active duty service obligation incurred as a result of the scholarship, including breach of contract situations.

Section 105. American Indians Into Psychology Program

This section maintains current law and adds new language which (1) sets the number of colleges or universities that may receive grants from at least 3 to 9 and (2) establishes a maximum grant amount of $300,000, for a total of $2.7 million for each of FY 2006 through 2015.

Current law: Section 1621p authorizes grants to at least 3 colleges and universities for developing and maintaining Indian psychology career recruitment programs, including one to develop and maintain the Quentin N. Burdick American Indians Into Psychology Program at the University of North Dakota. This section directs the Secretary to issue regulations for competitive funding and specifies conditions of the grants and active duty service requirements.

Section 106. Scholarship programs for Indian tribes

This section maintains current law and adds new language which (1) amends the source of funds for the scholarship costs by allowing 20% to be from any source instead of only non-federal sources, (2) requires that licensing and educational requirements for all health professions, instead of only the doctor and nursing professions, be met, and (3) adds Title XXI of the Social Security Act to the non-discriminatory provisions.

Current law: Section 1616m authorizes the Secretary to make funds available to Tribal Health Programs for the purpose of educating Indians to serve as health professionals in Indian communities. This section specifies the requirements for receiving such funds; the course of study; contract conditions; specific parameters for a breach of contract; the relationship of a scholarship under this section to the Social Security Act; and conditions of continuance of funding are all specified in this section. The recipient cannot discriminate against patients who receive assistance under Titles XVIII and XIX of the Social Security Act. The recipients shall be required to fulfill service obligations and use the scholarship for tuition and reasonable education or living expenses.

Section 107. Indian health service extern programs

This section maintains current law and adds provisions (1) extending the extern program to tribal or urban Indian health providers (on a discretionary basis) or other DHHS agencies (as available) instead of only the IHS, (2) instead of entitling the externs to employment, gives them a preference for employment with the IHS, and allowing an extern program for high school programs.

Current law: Section 1614 gives preference for employment in the Service (and as added by S. 1057, a Tribal Health Program, Urban Indian Organization or other agencies within the Department), to any recipient of a scholarship pursuant to section 1613a or 1616m. The section specifies that such employment does not count toward any active duty service obligation. It specifies the timing and length of employment and exempts the program from any competitive personnel system or agency personnel limitation.

Section 108. Continuing education allowances

This section maintains current law, except for the deletion of the set-aside for postdoctoral training, and adds language which extends the continuing education allowances to tribal and urban Indian health providers, not just the IHS, and includes all health professionals.

Current law: To encourage health professionals to join the IHS and continue working in rural or remote areas where significant numbers of Indians reside, Section 1615 permits the Secretary to provide allowances to health professionals employed by the IHS to enable them to take leave of their duty stations for a period of time each year for professional consultation and refresher training courses. Section 108 also authorizes a set-aside of not more than $1 million for postdoctoral training programs.

Section 109. Community Health Representative Program

This section maintains current law and adds language which formally identifies the health paraprofessionals as Community Health Representatives (CHRs) and extends the use of CHRs to tribal and urban Indian health programs.

Current law: Section 1616 authorizes the CHR Program for training and using Indians as CHRs. This section specifies the duties of the Service regarding this program, including providing supervision, an evaluation system and a high standard of training for CHRs to ensure that they provide quality health services to Indian communities served by this program. This program may also promote traditional health care practices consistent with IHS standards for health care.
Section 110. Indian Health Service Loan Repayment Program

This section maintains current law and (1) eliminates the obsolete set asides during FY 1993–1995 for nursing and mental health professions, (2) establishes priorities among applications rather than requiring the priorities be subject to the list of positions established by the Secretary, and sets a 21-day notice requirement instead of merely prompt notice.

Current law: Section 1616a establishes the Indian Health Service Loan Repayment Program in order to ensure an adequate supply of trained health professionals needed to maintain accreditation and provide health care services to Indians. The section specifies eligibility for the program which includes individuals with a degree or license in a health profession, in graduate training or about to complete an approved course of study. The application information must clearly explain rights and obligations and be available very early so individuals can timely complete the applications. This section outlines how the priorities for program participants will be established. Recipient contracts are required which set forth the rights and obligations. This section establishes deadlines for decisions on applications (21 days under S. 1057). The loan repayment program includes payment of principal, interest and related expenses of school loans up to $35,000 for each year of obligated service and, in addition to this payment, may include an amount to cover tax liability incurred for this payment. This section also includes a waiver from any employment ceiling; recruitment programs; non-applicability of Section 215 of the Public Health Service Act; assignment of individuals; breach of contract; waiver or suspension of obligation; and the requirement of an annual report to Congress.

Section 111. Scholarship and Loan Repayment Recovery Fund

This section maintains current law and adds provisions expanding the source of funds for this Recovery Fund, in addition to appropriations, to include collections from contract breaches for the scholarships or loan repayment programs and interest. Tribal health programs may also use payments received to provide scholarships, in addition to the current uses of recruitment and employment of health care professionals. The Secretary of DHHS may now determine what amounts are not required to meet withdrawals for the Fund, rather than the Secretary of the Treasury.

Current law: Section 1616a–1 establishes an Indian Health Scholarship and Loan Repayment Recovery Fund within the Treasury of the United States wherein funds collected for breaches of contractual obligations under the IHS or tribal scholarships or under loan repayment programs. The section specifies the use of these funds which includes employment or recruitment of health professionals, the investment of the funds, and the sale of obligations by the Secretary of the Treasury. The Secretary of the Treasury may also invest funds in this Fund which are not necessary to meet withdrawals for the uses specified in this Section.

Section 112. Recruitment activities

This section maintains current law and adds language to allow reimbursement for health professionals seeking positions with tribal and urban Indian health programs, in addition to the IHS.
Current law: Section 1616b permits the Secretary to reimburse certain travel expenses to health professionals seeking positions with the IHS. Potential candidates for contracts under section 110 and their spouses are all eligible for such reimbursement of travel. In addition, this section requires the Secretary to assign one individual in each Area Office to have full-time responsibility for recruitment activities.

Section 113. Indian Recruitment and Retention Program

This section maintains current law and adds language which (1) sets a time limit of three years for demonstration projects funded under this section instead of an open-ended timeframe under current law and (2) clarifies that the Indian organizations eligible to compete are urban Indian organizations.

Current law: Section 1616c requires the Secretary to fund innovative demonstration projects (under S. 1057 for up to 3 years) to enable Indian tribes, tribal and Indian organizations to recruit, place, and retain health professionals to meet the staffing needs of Indian health programs. The section also specifies that any Indian tribe, tribal or Indian organization is eligible to apply for these funds and compete on the same basis as IHS programs which receive grants under this section.

Section 114. Advanced training and research

This section maintains current law and adds language which limits the advanced training or research opportunities to health professionals who have worked for the IHS, tribal or urban Indian health programs for a substantial period of time, instead of merely being employed by one of these programs at the time of application.

Current law: Section 1616d establishes a demonstration project to enable health professionals who are employed in an Indian Health Program or Urban Indian Organization at the time of application to pursue advanced training or research areas of study, where a need exists. The section also imposes a service obligation for the recipients and requires equal opportunity for participating in the program.

Section 115. Quentin N. Burdick American Indians into Nursing Program

This section maintains current law and adds language which (1) includes advanced practice nurse programs in addition to nurse practitioners, (2) authorizes grants for midwife or nursing programs at tribal colleges and universities or, in their absence, other colleges and universities, instead of only at the other public or private institutions, (3) includes tribal colleges and universities in the preferences among grant applicants.

Current law: Section 1616e authorizes the Quentin N. Burdick American Indians into Nursing Program for the purpose of increasing the number of nurses, nurse midwives, and nurse practitioners who deliver health care services to Indians. The section specifies potential grant recipients and requires that one of them be for the program at the University of North Dakota; how grants may be used; information which must be included in applications for the grant; preferences for grant recipients; establishment and maintenance of a program at the University of North Dakota; and an active duty service obligation.

Section 116. Tribal cultural orientation

This section maintains current law and adds language which (1) ensures that employees in each Service Area obtain cultural orientation, rather than merely establishing a program for cultural orientation, (2) requires the program to include instruction on the relationship of the Indian tribes with the IHS, rather than simply a history of the IHS, and a description of the traditional health care practices of the Indian tribes in the Service Area and (3) requires consultation with affected tribal and urban Indian organizations.

Current law: Section 1616f requires appropriate employees of the Service who serve particular Indian Tribes to receive instruction in the history and culture of the tribes they serve and in the history of the IHS. The section requires the Secretary to develop such a program in consultation with the affected Indian tribes, which shall, to the extent feasible, be implemented through tribal colleges or universities and include instruction in Native American studies.

Section 117. INMED Program

This section maintains current law and adds language which (1) authorizes grants to an unspecified number of colleges or universities instead of the previous mandate of at least 3 schools, (2) clarifies that the regulations govern the grants, including substantive provisions such as criteria and application requirements, rather than only the competitive award process, and (3) eliminates an old 1988 requirement of a report to Congress on the program and recommendations for changes.

Current law: Section 1616g authorizes the Secretary to provide grants to at least 3 colleges and universities to maintain and expand the Indian health careers recruitment program (Indians Into Medicine Program). The Quentin N. Burdick Indian Health Programs at the University of North Dakota is to be one of the authorized grants. This section also specifies requirements for institutional applicants for these grants.

Section 118. Health training programs of community colleges

This section maintains current law and adds language which (1) recognizes accredited and accessible community colleges as eligible recipients of grants, (2) requires the colleges to have a relationship with a hospital, rather than merely having access to a hospital, (3) requires Indian preference for program participants, (4) increases the ceiling amount of the grant from $100,000 to $250,000, and (5) establishes priority for tribally-controlled colleges in Service Areas where they exist if other requirements in the section are met.

Current law: Section 1616h requires the Secretary to award grants to (under S. 1057, accredited, accessible) community colleges to assist in establishing health profession education leading to a degree or diploma for individuals who desire to practice such profession on or near a reservation or in a tribal clinic. The Secretary is also required to award grants to the colleges that already have these programs. The Secretary must provide technical assistance to encourage community colleges to establish and maintain such programs. Finally, any program receiving assistance under this section is required to provide advanced training for health professionals.

Section 119. Retention bonus

This section maintains current law and adds language expanding the bonuses (1) to any health professional, rather than only doctors and nurses, so funding set-asides between these 2 professions have been deleted, (2) to health professionals employed by the tribal or urban health programs, rather than employed only by the Service, and eliminates the requirement that the retention bonus be paid at the beginning of the term of service.

Current law: Section 1616j permits the Secretary to provide retention bonuses for health professions where recruitment or retention is difficult if the individual has completed 3 years of employment and any service obligation from federal scholarships or loan repayment programs. Rates for retention bonuses may cover multiple years, but not exceed an annual rate of $25,000. Refunds shall be required if the health professional does not complete the term of service under any retention agreement, unless the default is not the fault of the individual.

Section 120. Nursing residency program

This section maintains current law and adds language which establishes this program for Indian nurses and includes advanced degrees or certifications in nursing or public health as eligible programs, besides a Master’s degree as appropriate post-baccalaureate training.

Current law: Section 1616k establishes a program to enable nurses working for an Indian Health Program or Urban Indian Organization to pursue advanced training. The participants are required to enter a service obligation. The program shall include a combination of education and work study leading to either an associate or bachelor’s degree in nursing degrees or a Master’s degree.

Section 121. Community health aide program

This section maintains current law and adds provisions which (1) require the Secretary to establish a neutral panel, whose membership is also set forth in this section, to study the dental health aide therapist program in Alaska Native communities and to submit a report on the study to appropriate Congressional Committees and (2) authorizes the expansion of the Community Health Aide Program, except for the dental health aide therapist program, to Indian communities in the lower 48 states.

Current law: Section 1616e directs the Secretary to develop and operate a Community Health Aide Program in Alaska. Requirements are specified for the Alaska program including the (1) development of training and curriculum combining theory and practical experience, (2) instruction in acute care, health promotion, (3) establishment of a certification Board, and (4) development of systems for continuing education and supervision.

Section 122 Tribal health program administration

This section maintains current law and adds language which specifies that the training shall be for Indian individuals.
Current law: Section 1616n requires the Secretary to provide training in the administration and planning of Tribal Health Programs.

Section 123. Health professional chronic shortage demonstration programs
This section amends current law by changing a lone pilot program to address health professional shortages into a national demonstration project.

Current law: Section 1616o authorizes the Secretary to make a grant to the School of Medicine at the University of South Dakota to fund a pilot program on an Indian reservation at one or more service units in South Dakota to address the chronic manpower shortages in the Aberdeen Area of the IHS. The pilot program shall incorporate a program advisory board composed of representatives from the tribes and Indian communities which are served by the program.

Section 124. National health service corps
This section maintains current law and adds urban Indian health programs within the protections against removal of any member of the Corps working in the programs. The section also exempts National Health Service Corps scholars qualifying for the Commissioned Corps in the United States Public Health Service from full-time equivalent limitations when serving as a commissioned corps officer in a Tribal Health Program or an Urban Indian Organization.

Current law: Section 1680b prohibits the Secretary from removing a member of this Corps from an Indian health program or withdrawing funding to support such member, unless the Secretary ensures that Indians will experience no reduction in services.

Section 125. Substance abuse counselor educational curricula demonstration programs
This section maintains current law and adds language including accredited and accessible qualifications for the community colleges eligible for these programs and extending the initial grant period from one year to three years and the renewal periods from one year to two years.

Current law: Section 1665j allows the Secretary to enter into contracts with or make grants to colleges and universities (including tribal) to establish demonstration programs developing curricula for substance abuse counseling. Duration and renewal of the grant are both for periods of one year each. The section also states the criteria for review and approval of the applications, requires the Secretary to provide technical and other assistance to grant recipients, requires the Secretary to submit an annual report to the President for inclusion in the annual report to Congress and defines the term “educational curriculum” and “eligible community college”.

Section 126. Behavioral health training and community education programs
This section maintains current law and (1) adds tribal organizations and urban Indian organizations as participants in the program, (2) clarifies that the tribal and urban Indian organizations are part of the consultation process, (3) changes the focus from solely on mental health to behavioral health and (4) eliminates the requirement that the staff be assigned primarily to the IHS Service Units.

Current law: Section 1621h(d) requires the Secretary, with the Secretary of the Interior and in consultation with representatives of the Indian Tribes, to conduct a study and compile a list of certain types of staff positions within the Bureau of Indian Affairs, the Service and Indian Tribes, which should include training in any aspect of mental illness, dysfunction, or self-destructive behavior. The Secretary is then required to provide training criteria appropriate for each type of position and ensure that this training is provided. On request of the appropriate Indian entity, the Secretary is required to develop and implement a program of community education on mental illness, as well as technical assistance to tribal entities to obtain and develop community education materials. Within 90 days of enactment of this Act, the Secretary is required to develop a plan to increase mental health services by at least 500 staff positions within 5 years, with at least 200 of such positions devoted to child, adolescent, and family services. Such staff would be assigned primarily to the IHS service unit levels.

Section 127. Authorization of appropriations

Section 127 authorizes appropriations as are necessary to carry out this title for each fiscal year through 2015.

TITLE II—HEALTH SERVICES

Section 201. Indian Health Care Improvement Fund

This section maintains current law and adds provisions clarifying that the Secretary may expend funds either directly or through contracts or compacts under the Indian Self-Determination and Education Assistance Act, as well as provisions regarding the use of telemedicine and Traditional Health Care Practices.

Current law: Section 1621 authorizes the use of funds, designated as the “Indian Health Care Improvement Fund”, for the purposes of eliminating the deficiencies in health status and resources for tribes; eliminating backlogs and meeting the needs in health care services; eliminating the inequities in funding for direct care and contract health service programs; and augmenting the ability of the Indian Health Service to meet its various responsibilities. Funding authorized by this section may not be used to offset appropriated funds and must be used to improve the health status and reduce the resource deficiencies of tribes. This section also defines “health status and resource deficiency” and requires that Tribal Health Programs be equally eligible for funds as the IHS. A report is required to be submitted to Congress 3 years after enactment which addresses the current health status and resource deficiency for each Service Unit. Funds appropriated under this section are to be included in the base budget of the IHS for determining appropriations in subsequent years. Finally, nothing in this section is intended to diminish the primary responsibility of the IHS to eliminate backlogs in unmet health care, or to discourage additional efforts of IHS to achieve parity among Tribes.
Section 202. Catastrophic Health Emergency Fund

This section maintains current law and adds language which requires the use of negotiated rulemaking for promulgation of regulations issued for this section.

Current law: Section 1621a establishes the Catastrophic Health Emergency Fund (CHEF) to be administered by the Secretary through the central office of the Indian Health Service in order to meet the extraordinary medical costs associated with the treatment of victims of disasters or catastrophic illnesses. No part of the CHEF or the administration thereof is to be subject to contract or grant, nor shall these funds be apportioned on an Area Office, Service Unit, or other similar basis. The Secretary is required to promulgate regulations for the administration of these funds. This section prohibits funds appropriated to CHEF from being used to offset or limit other appropriations made to the Indian Health Service. It also requires that all reimbursements to which the Service is entitled from any source by reason of treatment rendered to any victim of a disaster or catastrophic illness the cost of which was paid from CHEF be deposited into CHEF.

Section 203. Health promotion and disease prevention services

This section maintains current law, but moves the definition of health promotion and disease prevention to the definitions section and adds Congressional findings.

Current law: Section 1621b directs the Secretary to provide health promotion and disease prevention services to Indians in order to meet the Act’s health status objectives. An evaluation statement of the resources required to undertake these health promotion and disease prevention activities would be included in a required report to Congress.

Section 204. Diabetes prevention, treatment, and control

This section maintains current law and (1) adds (a) tribal organizations as eligible participants in these programs, (b) effective ongoing monitoring of disease indicators, (c) the requirement that screening shall be to the extent medically indicated and with informed consent, (d) funding for dialysis programs, (e) consultation requirements; (2) changes the model diabetes projects into permanent programs to be continued along with any new programs developed with recurring funding; and (3) still allows employment of diabetes control officers, but if these positions and activities are administered by the Tribes or Tribal Organizations, then the funding and activities would not be divisible under the Indian Self-Determination and Education Assistance Act.

Current law: Section 1621c requires the Secretary to determine the incidence of this disease and its complications among Indians and the measures needed to prevent, treat and control it. The Secretary is also required to screen Indians for diabetes and for conditions which indicate a high risk for diabetes. The Secretary is required to continue to fund model diabetes projects (and under S. 1057, dialysis programs). To the extent that funding is available, the Secretary is required to work with each Area Office to establish patient registries in Area Offices and ensure that data collected are disseminated to other Area Offices, subject to privacy laws. The Secretary is also allowed to maintain diabetes control officers in each Area.

Section 205. Shared services for long-term care

This section amends current law by changing a demonstration project into a permanent program and adding new provisions which (1) authorize other services similar in nature to long-term care and construction for facilities for the similar services and (2) encourage the use of existing underused facilities or allow the use of swing beds for long-term or similar care.

Current law: Section 1680l allows the Secretary to enter contracts for 6 demonstration projects to deliver long-term care services to Indians which may also authorize sharing of staff, construction and proportionate allocation of funding between the tribes and IHS. Any nursing facility funded under this section must meet the requirements for such facilities under section 1919 of the Social Security Act. In addition, the Secretary is required to provide necessary technical and other assistance to enable applicants to comply with the provisions of this section.

Section 206. Health services research

This section amends current law by (1) eliminating the specific set-aside of $200,000 for research and replacing it with general authority to fund research for Indian health programs, instead of only the IHS, (2) requiring the Secretary to coordinate, to the extent practical, the resources and activities for Indian health research needs, and (3) authorizing the funding for both clinical and nonclinical research.

Current law: Section 1621g authorizes funding for research to further the performance of the health service responsibilities of the IHS. Indian tribes and tribal organizations contracting under the Indian Self-Determination and Education Assistance Act are to be given equal opportunity to compete for these research funds.

Section 207. Mammography and other cancer screening

This section amends current law by authorizing other cancer screening, eliminating the minimum age requirement of 35 for Indian women and opening the mammography screening to all Indian women, at a frequency under appropriate national standards.

Current law: Section 1621k requires the Secretary to provide for mammography for Indian women 35 years or older at a frequency determined by the Secretary in consultation with the National Cancer Institute and consistent with appropriate standards to ensure the safety and accuracy of the mammogram under the Social Security Act.

Section 208. Patient travel costs

This section maintains current law and adds language which allows the use of appropriate and necessary qualified escorts and transportation by private vehicle where no other transportation is available, specially equipped vehicle, ambulance or by other means required when air or motor vehicle transport is not available.

Current law: Section 1631l requires the Secretary to provide funds for the travel costs of patients, for emergency and non-emergency air transport where ground transport is not feasible, associated with receiving health care services.

Section 209. Epidemiology centers

This section amends current law by (1) maintaining the centers in existence on the date of passage of this Act, but still requiring the establishment of centers in the remaining Areas without reducing funds for the existing centers, (2) allowing the funding for any new centers to be administered, but not divisible, by tribes and tribal organizations under the Indian Self-Determination and Education Assistance Act, but no longer by tribal consortia and (3) eliminating the requirements that the Secretary establish the data and formats for reporting and establish the system for monitoring progress toward the health objectives.

Current law: Section 1621m requires the Secretary establish epidemiology centers in each Service Area. Newly established centers may be operated by Tribal Health Programs. The functions of these centers are delineated in this section. The Director of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention is required to provide technical assistance to the centers and the Secretary is authorized to provide funding to Tribes and Tribal Organizations to conduct epidemiological studies of Indian communities.

Section 210. Comprehensive school health education programs

This section maintains current law and adds language which (1) clarifies the types of purposes for which the funds may be used such as for both regular school and after school programs, for the benefit of Indian and urban Indian children, for oral health programs, for violence prevention and for other health issues as appropriate, (2) includes tribal organizations and urban Indian health organizations as eligible for funding, (3) consolidates the reporting requirements into the application criteria which is now subject to consultation between the Secretary and the Indian tribes, tribal organizations and urban Indian organizations.

Current law: Section 1621n allows the Secretary to provide grants to Indian Tribes for the development of comprehensive school health education programs for children from pre-school through grade 12. The specific purposes for which funds may be used are delineated. Upon request, the Secretary is required to provide technical assistance in the development and dissemination of comprehensive health education plans, materials and information. The Secretary shall establish criteria for review and approval of applications for this funding. For Bureau of Indian Affairs funded schools, the Secretary of the Interior shall develop similar programs.

Section 211. Indian Youth Program

This section maintains current law and adds tribal organizations and urban Indian organizations as participants in the program and consultation and includes urban Indian youth as beneficiaries of program services.

Current law: Section 1621o allows the Secretary to establish and administer programs for innovative mental and physical disease prevention and health promotion and treatment for Indian pre-adolescent and adolescent youths. Allowable and prohibited uses of the funds authorized by this section are delineated. The Secretary is required to disseminate information regarding models for delivery of comprehensive health care services to Indian youth; to encourage the implementation of these models; and to provide technical assistance upon request. The Secretary will establish criteria for review and approval of applications under this section.

Section 212. Prevention, control, and elimination of communicable and infectious diseases.

This section amends current law by expanding the communicable diseases from simply tuberculosis to other communicable and infectious diseases, by encouraging the Indian tribes to coordinate with the Centers for Disease Control, by eliminating superfluous provisions which reduce the grant amount for expenses incurred by the federal government or for supplies or equipment furnished to the grant recipient.

Current law: Section 1621q authorizes the Secretary to fund projects specifically for the purpose of preventing, controlling and eliminating tuberculosis. Funding is also authorized for public information and education programs, and skills improvement activities. Funding under this section requires an application or proposal for funding. Entities which receive funding under this section must provide assurances they will coordinate their activities with the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention as well as State and local health agencies. Finally, in carrying out this section, the Secretary may provide technical assistance upon request and shall submit a report to Congress on the use of the funds and the progress made toward prevention, control, and elimination of tuberculosis among Indians.

Section 213. Authority for provision of other services

This section amends current law by making permanent a demonstration project for home- and community-based care. The new provisions also (1) add special requirements for the home- and community-based care, (2) add several definitions, and (3) eliminate the exclusion of cash payments, room and board, construction and nursing facility services.

Current law: Section 1680k authorizes the Secretary to establish not more than 24 demonstration projects for home- and community-based care, excluding cash payments, room and board, construction and nursing facility services, for functionally disabled Indians. Discretion is provided to the Indian Health Service, Indian Tribes, or Tribal Organizations to provide such care to persons otherwise ineligible for the health care benefits of the Indian Health Service (on a cost basis). The Secretary is required to submit to the President for inclusion in a report to Congress the findings of these projects. “Home- and community-based services” and “functionally disabled” are defined.

Section 214. Indian women’s health care

This section amends current law by eliminating the Office of Indian Women’s Health and, instead, requiring the Secretary to monitor and improve the quality of Indian women’s health through the various programs administered by IHS.
Current law: Section 1621v establishes an Office of Indian women's health to oversee efforts of the IHS to monitor and improve health care for Indian women of all ages.

Section 215. Environmental and nuclear health hazards

This section maintains current law and adds language which (1) requires ongoing monitoring of trends in health hazards to Indians and other environmental hazards to Indian communities, (2) provides additional considerations for the studies conducted under this section and (3) requires consultation with Indian tribes and tribal organizations in developing plans for addressing the health problems.

Current law: Section 1677 requires the Secretary, in conjunction with other Federal agencies, to conduct studies to determine trends in the health hazards to Indian miners and other Indians as a result of nuclear resource development. Upon completion of such studies, the Secretary shall develop health plans to address the health problems studied. During the 109th Congress, Senator McCain introduced S. 1057, the Indian Health Care Improvement Act Amendments of 2005, on May 17, 2005, for himself and Senator Dorgan. The bill was referred to the Committee on Indian Affairs and reported favorably with amendments on October 27, 2005.

On June 7, 2005, Senator Johnson was added as a cosponsor. On July 14, 2005, Senators Kennedy and Bingaman were added as cosponsors. On October 24, 2005, Senators Cantwell and Murray were added as cosponsors.

The Committee has held nine hearings since the 106th Congress on the reauthorization of the Act.

During the 109th Congress, on July 14, 2005, the Committee held a joint hearing with the Senate Committee on Health, Education, Labor and Pensions to reauthorize the IHCIA. The hearing addressed the need for reauthorization and several key issues, including negotiated rulemaking, Federal Tort Claim Act coverage and the DHAT program. The witnesses included DHHS, members of the National Steering Committee, tribal leaders and health providers and the American Dental Association.

In an open business session on October 27, 2005, the Committee considered a substitute amendment proposed by Senator McCain and other amendments offered by Senators Dorgan, Crapo, Coburn, and McCain. The Committee adopted the amendment offered by Senator McCain by unanimous consent.

The Committee adopted by voice vote the amendments offered by Senators Dorgan and Crapo. The Committee, by roll call vote, rejected the amendment offered by Senator Coburn. Then, by a unanimous vote, the Committee ordered the substitute amendment, as amended, favorably reported to the full Senate with the recommendation that the bill do pass.

Paragraph 11(b) of rule XXVI of the Standing Rules of the Senate requires that each report accompanying a bill to evaluate the regulatory and paperwork impact that would be incurred in carrying out the bill. The Committee has concluded that S. 1057 will not require the promulgation of regulations so the regulatory and paperwork impact should be minimal.

The Committee has not received any formal communication on S. 1057 from the Administration other than the written testimony from the Department of Health and Human Services submitted at 87 Senate Report No. 108–411 provides a detailed chronology of the legislative activity that has occurred since the 106th Congress.

the Joint Hearing on S. 1057 on July 14, 2005, which is attached hereto as an Exhibit.

STATEMENT OF DR. CHARLES W. GRIM, DIRECTOR, INDIAN HEALTH SERVICE, DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH AND HUMAN SERVICES

Mr. Chairmen and Members of the Committees:

I am honored to testify before you today on the important issue of reauthorization of the Indian Health Care Improvement Act (IHCIA). Accompanying me today are Robert McSwain, Deputy Directory, Craig Vanderwagen, M.D., Acting Chief Medical Officer, and Gary Hartz, Director, Office of Environmental Health and Engineering.

This landmark legislation forms the backbone of the system through which Federal health programs serve American Indians/Alaska Natives and encourages participation of eligible American Indians/Alaska Natives in these and other programs.

The IHS has the responsibility for the delivery of health services to more than 1.8 million Federally-recognized American Indians/Alaska Natives through a system of IHS, tribal, and urban (I/T/U) health programs based on judicial decisions and statutes. The mission of the agency is to raise the physical, mental, social, and spiritual health of American Indians/Alaska Natives to the highest levels, in partnership with the population we serve. The agency goal is to assure that comprehensive, culturally acceptable personal and public health services are available and accessible to the service population. Our foundation is to uphold the Federal government’s responsibility to promote healthy American Indian and Alaska Native people, communities, and cultures and to honor and protect the inherent sovereign rights of Tribes.

Two major statutes are at the core of the Federal government’s responsibility for meeting the health needs of American Indians/Alaska Natives: The Snyder Act of 1921, P.L. 67–85, and the Indian Health Care Improvement Act (IHCIA), P.L. 94–437, as amended. The Snyder Act authorized regular appropriations for “the relief of distress and conservation of health” of American Indians/Alaska Natives. The IHCIA was enacted “to implement the Federal responsibility for the care and education of the Indian people by improving the services and facilities of Federal Indian health programs and encouraging maximum participation of Indians in such programs.” Like the Snyder Act, the IHCIA provides the authority for the Federal government programs that deliver health services to Indian people, but it also provides additional guidance in several areas. The IHCIA contains specific language addressing the recruitment and retention of health professionals serving Indian communities; the provision of health services; the construction, replacement, and repair of health care facilities; access to health services; and, the provision of health services for urban Indian people.
Since enactment of the IHCIA in 1976, statutory authority has substantially expanded programs and activities to keep pace with changes in healthcare services and administration. Federal funding for the IHCIA has contributed billions of dollars to improve the health status of American Indians/Alaska Natives. And, much progress has been made, particularly in the areas of infant and maternal mortality.

The Department under this Administration’s leadership reactivated the Intradepartmental Council on Native American Affairs (ICNAA) to provide for a consistent HHS policy when working with the more than 560 Federally recognized Tribes. This Council gives the IHS Director a highly visible role within the Department on Indian policy, where he serves as vice chairperson of the Council.

The Department has also recently completed work ushering through a revised HHS Tribal consultation policy and involving Tribal leaders in the process. This new policy further emphasizes the unique government-to-government relationship between Indian Tribes and the Federal government and assists in improving services to the Indian community through better communications. Consultation may take place at many different levels. To ensure the active participation of Tribes in the development of its budget request, an HHS-wide budget consultation session is held annually. This meeting provides Tribes with an opportunity to meet directly with leadership from all Department agencies and identify their priorities for upcoming program requests. Last year, Tribes identified inflation and population growth as their top budget priorities and IHS’s FY 2006 budget request included an increase of $80 million for these items. Both the House and the Senate have included these increases in FY 2006 appropriations action, and we appreciate their efforts in this regard.

Through the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS), a Technical Tribal Advisory Group was established which provides Tribes with a vehicle for communicating concerns and comments to CMS on Medicare, Medicaid and SCHIP policies impacting their members. And, the IHS has been vigilant about improving outcomes of Indian children and families with diabetes by increasing education and physical activity programs aimed at preventing and addressing the needs of those susceptible to, or struggling with, this potentially disabling disease.

It is clear the Department has not been a passive observer of the health needs of eligible American Indians/Alaska Natives. Yet, we recognize that health disparities among this population do exist and are among some of the highest in the Nation for certain diseases (e.g., alcoholism, tuberculosis, diabetes, and injuries), and that improvements in access to IHS and other Federal and private sector programs will result in improved health status for Indian people.
The IHCIA was enacted to provide basic primary and preventive services in recognition of the Federal government’s unique relationship with members of Federally recognized Tribes. Members of Federally recognized Tribes are also eligible for other Federal health programs (such as Medicare, Medicaid and SCHIP), on the same basis as other Americans, and many also receive health care through employer-sponsored or other healthcare coverage.

It is within the context of current law and programs, that we turn our attention to S. 1057.

S. 1057

We are here today to discuss reauthorization of the IHCIA, and its impact on programs and services provided for in current law. Improving access to healthcare for all eligible American Indians and Alaska Natives is critical to the Department and a priority for all of those involved in the administration of these important programs. We, therefore, commend your interest and will note positive provisions in S. 1057. However, we will also note concern on provisions which may negatively impact our ability to provide needed access to services by establishing program mandates and burdensome requirements that may divert resources from important services. We hope to work with you to address these issues.

The Department brings a keen awareness of the health care needs of Indian country and is supportive of reauthorization of the IHCIA. We support provisions that increase the flexibility of the Department to work with Tribes, to increase the availability of health care, including new approaches to delivering care, and to expand the range of options of health services available to eligible American Indians and Alaska Natives. Accordingly, I commend Congress for including in S. 1057 various changes that respond to concerns raised in previous proposals. Some of these changes go a long way toward improving the ability of the Secretary to effectively manage the program within current budgetary resources.

Moreover, I would like to note our particular interest in other provisions of S. 1057.

In the area of behavioral health, title VII of S. 1057 provides for the needs of Indian women and youth and expands behavioral health services to include a much needed child sexual abuse and prevention treatment program. The Department supports this effort, but opposes language in Sections 704, 706, 711(b) and 712 that requires the establishment or expansion of specific additional services. The Department should be given the flexibility to provide for all Behavioral Health Programs in a manner that supports the local control and priorities of Tribes, and to address their specific needs within IHS overall budgetary levels.

PROVISIONS RELATED TO MEDICARE AND MEDICAID

In general, we believe the provisions of the bill that relate to the Medicaid and State Children’s Health Insurance (SCHIP) programs should be considered by the authorizing committees and in a framework consistent with the FY 2006 Budget Resolution and the Reconciliation process. As part of the larger Resolution and Reconciliation process, a Medicaid Commission was established to examine many aspects of that program. The Commission is charged with advising the Secretary on ways to modernize the Medicaid program so that it can provide high-quality health care to its beneficiaries in a financially sustainable way. Tribes are represented on the Commission through Secretary Leavitt’s recent appointment of the Chair of the Centers for Medicaid and Medicaid Services Tribal Technical Advisory Group.

REPORTING REQUIREMENTS

S. 1057 includes new requirements for reporting to Congress within the President’s Budget. The IHS and HHS will work with Congress to provide the most complete and relevant information on IHS programs, activities, and performance. However, we recommend striking language that provides additional specificity about what should be included in the President’s budget request.

INDIAN HEALTH PROFESSIONS SCHOLARSHIPS

Currently, the scholarship program regularly consults with the I/T/U’s to determine the priorities. Each year, the program sends letters to all tribal chairmen, tribal health directors, urban program directors, IHS clinical directors, and IHS headquarters offices. Through this communication, scholarship program staff will update the relevant parties regarding the health professions for which awards were made in the current year and ask for their recommendations for the professions for which awards should be made in the coming year. Recommendations are aggregated and reviewed with the Office of Public Health and the Office of Management Support to determine which professions will be funded for the coming year.

New section 104(a)(2) proposes to allocate the program funding by formula to the twelve IHS areas. If allocation by formula is authorized Indian, students will not be given an opportunity to apply for a scholarship if their area does not receive adequate allocation and if their profession is not considered a priority in their area; e.g., dental hygienist, physical therapist, medical technology. This would even impact a medical student who has identified general surgery or general psychiatry as a specialty. They will not receive the scholarship, because it is not a priority or there are no positions available for these disciplines/specialties.

We are concerned that the large areas will receive the greatest amount of appropriated funds, leaving the smaller areas with amounts sufficient to fund only a small portion of their health professional needs. If an area chooses to allocate the funds among the tribes within the area, funds available to many will be insufficient to support even one student.
We recommend retaining the provision in current law which would maintain the national focus of the scholarship program to more appropriately meet the health professions needs of Indian country.

DIABETES EVALUATION AND COORDINATION

The bill has eliminated the current requirement for an evaluation of the 20 model diabetes programs for effectiveness and for each Area to employ at least one diabetes control officer, commonly now known as the Area Diabetes Consultant/Coordinator, to coordinate and manage on a full-time basis activities within the Area Office for the prevention, treatment, and control of diabetes. Area Diabetes Consultants/Coordinators are critical to the ability of the Service to provide support to the local Indian health programs as they implement the Special Diabetes for Indians Program formula and competitive grants programs. The evaluation provision for the model diabetes programs also is important to ensure that this program’s effectiveness is assessed to make sure it maintains a productive role in the context of the implementation of the Special Diabetes for Indians Program at the local level. Both the National Diabetes Program and the Tribal Leaders Diabetes Committee (TLDC) have advocated for Area Diabetes Consultant/Coordinators.

We recommend that the requirement to employ at least one diabetes control officer in each of the 12 areas, as well as the requirement to evaluate the effectiveness of services provided through model diabetes projects established under this section, be retained.

HEALTH CARE FACILITIES

Sanitation facilities construction is conducted in 38 States with Federally recognized Tribes who take ownership of the facilities to operate and maintain them once completed. There are 49 hospitals, 247 health centers, 5 school health centers, over 2000 units of staff housing, and 309 health stations, satellite clinics, and Alaska village clinics supporting the delivery of health care to Indian people.

HEALTH CARE FACILITIES NEEDS ASSESSMENT AND REPORT

New section 301(d)91) authorizes Government Accountability Office (GAO) to complete a report, after consultation with Tribes, on the needs for health care facilities construction, including renovation and expansion needs. However, efforts are currently underway to develop a complete description of need similar to what would be required by the bill. The plan is to base our future facilities construction priority system methodology application on a more complete listing of tribal and Federal facilities needs for delivery of health care services funded through the IHS. We will continue to explore with the Tribes less resource... intensive means for acquiring and updating the information that would be required in these reports.

We recommend the deletion of the reference to the Government Accountability Office undertaking the report because it would be redundant of and a setback for IHS’s current efforts to develop an improved facilities construction methodology. This would allow the IHS to complete its new priority construction methodology which will address the future federal and tribal health facility needs.

RETROACTIVE FUNDING OF JOINT VENTURE CONSTRUCTION PROJECTS

New section 311(a)(1) would permit a tribe that has “begun or substantially completed” the process of acquisition of a facility to participate in the Joint Venture Program, regardless of government involvement or lack thereof in the facility acquisition. An agreement implies that all parties have participated in the development of a plan and have arrived at some kind of consensus regarding the actions to be taken. By permitting a tribe that has “begun or substantially completed” the process of acquisition or construction, the proposed provisions could force IHS to commit the government to support already completed actions that have not included the government in the review and approval process. We are concerned that this language could put the government in the position of accepting space that is inefficient or ineffective to operate and recommend that it be deleted.

SANITATION FACILITIES DEFICIENCY DEFINITIONS

New section 302(h)(4) provides definitions of the sanitation deficiencies used to identify and prioritize water and sewer projects in Indian country, which are ambiguous. As proposed deficiency level III could be interpreted to mean all methods of service delivery (including methods where water and sewer service is provided by hauling rather than through piping systems directly into the home) are adequate to meet the level III requirements and only the operating condition, such as frequent service interruptions, makes that facility deficient. This description assumes that water haul delivery systems and piped systems provide a similar level of service. We believe it is important to distinguish between the two.

In addition, the definition for deficiency level V and deficiency level IV, through phrased differently, have essentially the same meaning. Level IV should refer to an individual home or community lacking either water or wastewater facilities, whereas, level V should refer to an individual home or community lacking both water and wastewater facilities.

We recommend retaining current law as more appropriate for distinguishing the various levels of deficiencies which determine the allocation of existing resources.
THRESHOLD CRITERIA FOR SMALL AMBULATORY PROGRAM

New Section 305(b)(1) amends current law to set two minimum thresholds—one for number of patient visits and another for the number of eligible Indians. In order to be eligible under the criteria of S. 1057, a facility must provide at least 150 patient visits annually in a service area with no fewer than 1500 eligible Indians. Aside from the fact that these are both minimum thresholds and so somewhat contradictory, the new makes implementation difficult. First, the IHS cannot validate patient visits unless the applicant participates in the Resource Patient Management System (RPMS). Since some tribes do not participate in the RPMS, it is difficult to ensure a fair evaluation of all applicants. Second, the term “eligible Indians” refers to the census population figures, which cannot be verified, since they are based on the individual’s statement regarding ethnicity. In order to make the language clear and equitable, the provision should provide one minimum threshold that can be validated.

NEW NEGOTIATED RULEMAKING AND CONSULTATION REQUIREMENTS

We are concerned about the remaining requirements for negotiated rulemaking and increased requirements for consultation in the bill because of the high cost and staff time associated with this approach. We are committed to our on-going consultation with Tribes and urban Indian organizations under current Executive Orders, as well as promulgating regulations where necessary to carry out IHCIA using the procedures required by Chapter V of title 6, United States Code (commonly known as the Administrative Procedures Act).

We have other objections to S. 1057, including, for example: new requirements using “shall” instead of “may” in provisions that will create budget pressures on current program activity; expansion of the scope of Federal Torts Claim Coverage for service provided to otherwise ineligible non-Indians; expansion of authorities for Urban Indian Organizations; elimination of the term “grant” and replacement with the term “funding”; and new provisions that contemplate the Secretary exercising authority through the Service, Tribes and Tribal Organizations which is not tied to agreements entered into under the Indian Self-Determination and Education Assistance Act (ISDEAA). The Administration may also have additional views on this legislation.

I reiterate our commitment to working with you to reauthorize of the Indian Health Care Improvement Act, and the strengthening of Indian health care programs. I hope to work with this Committee and other Committees of the Congress, the National Tribal Steering Committee, and other representatives of Indian country to develop a bill that all stakeholders in these important programs can support. Again, I appreciate the opportunity to appear before you today to discuss this important legislative proposal. I will be pleased to try to answer any questions that you may have. Thank you.

COST ESTIMATES

The Committee has not yet received the final cost estimate from the Congressional Budget Office.
