PURPOSE AND SUMMARY

H.R. 5630 was introduced on June 29, 2010, by Representative John Boozman of Arkansas, Ranking Member of the Subcommittee on Economic Opportunity. H.R. 5630 seeks to set minimum professional qualifications for Vocational Rehabilitation Counselors and Vocational Rehabilitation Employment Coordinators within the Department of Veterans Affairs (VA). The bill would also require the Secretary of the VA to prescribe and enforce a remediation program for Counselors and Coordinators who do not meet or maintain such qualifications.

BACKGROUND AND NEED FOR LEGISLATION

To qualify for the VA Vocational, Rehabilitation, and Employment (VR&E) program, a veteran must have a 20 percent service-connected disability rating and an employment handicap that has a substantial impact upon the veterans’ ability to “prepare for, obtain, or retain employment consistent with such veteran’s abilities, aptitudes, and interests.” Veterans with a 10 percent service-connected disability rating which creates a “serious employment handicap” may also be eligible for VR&E benefits.

The VR&E program includes:

- Comprehensive rehabilitation evaluation to determine abilities, skills, and interests for employment;
- Vocational counseling and rehabilitation planning for employment services;
- Employment services such as job training, job-seeking skills, resume development, and other work readiness assistance;
- Assistance finding and keeping a job, including the use of special employer incentives and job accommodations for On-the-Job Training (OJT), apprenticeships, and non-paid work experiences;
- Post-secondary training at a college, vocational, technical or business school;
- Supportive rehabilitation services including case management, counseling, and medical referrals for Independent Living services for veterans unable to work due to the severity of their disabilities.

To provide these services to disabled veterans requires a significant level of education and clinical training. A Government Accountability Office (GAO) report titled VA Vocational Rehabilitation and Employment: Better Incentives, Workforce Planning, and Performance Reporting Could Improve Program (GAO 09–34, January 2009) stated that “[i]n terms of skill shortages, almost one-third of the regional offices reported that the skills of their counselors no more than moderately meet the needs of the veterans they serve and almost one-third reported the same for their employment coordinators” (GAO report at 17).

Vocational Rehabilitation Counselors provide all initial testing and evaluation to assist a disabled veteran with placement in one of the five VR&E tracks. VR&E Counselors also provide continuing case management services while the veteran is participating in the program. Although it is the Committee’s understanding that VA currently only hires rehabilitation counselors with master’s de-
There is no requirement to obtain or maintain professional certification in the field. H.R. 5630 would place such initial hiring qualifications in statute and require counselors to obtain and maintain certification of their counseling skills from a national accrediting organization within five years of employment at VA.

VR&E Employment Coordinators are responsible for assisting VR&E participants with finding employment upon completion of the program of rehabilitation. This function also requires a level of skill and education to properly evaluate the skills and needs of disabled veterans completing VR&E.

H.R. 5630 would require that in order to be employed by the VA as a Vocational Rehabilitation Employment Coordinator, an individual must have completed a bachelor’s degree in a relevant field, obtain certification within five years after being first employed by an accredited certifying body recognized by the National Commission for Certifying Agencies, and maintain such certification as a condition of continued employment. In order to be employed as a Vocational Rehabilitation Counselor, an individual must have completed a master’s degree in vocational rehabilitation counseling, obtain certification within five years after being first employed by an accredited certifying body recognized by the National Commission for Certifying Agencies, and maintain such certification as a condition of continued employment.

H.R. 5630 also directs the Secretary to develop a remediation plan for counselors and coordinators who fail to meet these standards and to terminate any such employee who fails to meet the requirements of the tailored remediation plan.

The Subcommittee on Economic Opportunity held two oversight hearings regarding the VA’s Vocational Rehabilitation and Employment program during the 111th Congress on April 2, 2009, and May 6, 2010.

accommodations within the meaning of section 102(b)(3) of the Congressional Accountability Act.

SECTION-BY-SECTION ANALYSIS OF THE LEGISLATION

Section 1. Qualification for vocational rehabilitation counselors and vocational rehabilitation employment coordinators employed by the Department of Veterans Affairs

This section would establish the completion of a master’s degree as the minimum qualification to be hired by VA as an employment counselor and a bachelor’s degree as the minimum qualification to be hired by VA as an employment coordinator. This section also would require obtaining and maintaining national certification.

This section also requires the Secretary of VA to tailor a remediation plan for counselors and coordinators who fail to meet or maintain such qualifications and to terminate those who do not successfully comply with a remediation program.
