TECHNICAL CORRECTIONS TO THE WESTERN AND CENTRAL PACIFIC FISHERIES CONVENTION IMPLEMENTATION ACT

SEPTEMBER 20, 2010.—Ordered to be printed

Mr. ROCKEFELLER, from the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation, submitted the following

REPORT

[To accompany S. 2871]

The Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation, to which was referred the bill (S. 2871) to make technical corrections to the Western and Central Pacific Fisheries Convention Implementation Act, and for other purposes, having considered the same, reports favorably thereon without amendment and recommends that the bill do pass.

PURPOSE OF THE BILL

The purpose of S. 2871 is to make technical corrections to the implementing statutes for the Western and Central Pacific Fisheries Commission and the Pacific Hake/Whiting Agreement.

BACKGROUND AND NEEDS

The Western and Central Pacific Fisheries Convention Implementation Act (WCPFC Implementation Act) implements the Convention on the Conservation and Management of Highly Migratory Stocks in the Western and Central Pacific Ocean (Convention), adopted on September 5, 2000, in Honolulu, Hawaii. The Convention, which the United States signed in 2000, became effective on June 19, 2004, prior to U.S. ratification. The President transmitted the Convention to the Senate on May 16, 2005, and the Senate provided its advice and consent on November 17, 2005. The objective of the Convention is to ensure the long-term conservation and sustainable use of tuna and other highly migratory stocks in the Western and Central Pacific Ocean. Additionally, the Convention is intended to help to reduce the impact of fishing for such stocks on non-target species. The Convention adopts provisions that implement key aspects of the 1995 United Nations Fish Stocks Agreement, including provisions on compliance and enforcement, and bycatch of non-target species.

The WCPFC Implementation Act calls for the appointment of United States Commissioners and the establishment of a permanent Advisory Committee to be composed of individuals with experience in or knowledge of the fisheries covered by the Convention. However, the statute also applies Federal conflict of interest laws to both the Commissioners and the members of the Advisory Committee. Industry members serving as Commissioners or Advisory Committee members, chosen based on their direct knowledge and experience in Western and Central Pacific Fisheries Commission matters, are considered to have a conflict of interest as defined by Federal conflict of interest laws, and therefore, cannot provide the expertise for which they were appointed without violating Federal conflict of interest laws.

A separate statute, the Pacific Whiting Act, implements the Agreement between the Government of the United States and the Government of Canada on Pacific Hake/Whiting. It was negotiated in 2003 to end the disagreement between the United States and Canada over conservation and management of Pacific whiting. It specifies joint committees and management protocols to ensure the long-term health of the whiting stock and sustainability of these critically important U.S. fisheries.

The Pacific Whiting Act calls for the appointment of a Joint Management Committee, Joint Scientific Review Group, Joint Technical Committee, and Advisory Panel. The Joint Management Committee and Advisory Panel are to include individuals from the commercial sector of the whiting fishing industry. However, the statute also applies Federal conflict of interest laws to the members of the Advisory Panel and Joint Management Committee. As a result, industry members chosen to serve in either of these capacities will, based on their direct knowledge and experience in Pacific Whiting matters, be disqualified from serving. In other words, they cannot serve on the bodies and provide the expertise for which they were appointed without violating Federal conflict of interest laws.

Most implementing legislation for international fish commissions does not include language that treats Commissioners and Advisory Committee members as Federal employees except, in certain cases, for the purposes of injury compensations and tort claims. The WCPFC Implementation Act and Pacific Whiting Act, in contrast, expanded the Federal employee status of Commissioners and Joint Committee and Advisory Panel members to include: (1) requirements concerning ethics, conflicts of interest, and corruption; and (2) other criminal or civil statutes or regulations governing the conduct of Federal employees. This expanded language is unlike other implementing legislation for international commissions and has the unintended consequence of precluding some of the individuals who should be appointed as Commissioners or advisory panel members because they could potentially benefit economically from carrying out the functions for which they were appointed. In other words, the industry committee representatives and Advisory Panel members required under the two Acts cannot serve because they are part of the industry.

To fulfill the congressional intent for the appointment of industry members, amendments to the two Acts are necessary to remove the expansion language. This will make the WCPFC Implementation Act and Pacific Whiting Act consistent with other international fishery commissions to allow for full participation of members. The bill would strike the conflict of interest language included in the WCPFC Implementation Act and the Pacific Whiting Act. Until there is a resolution of the current conflict of interest issue for the members of the Advisory Panel and joint committees, the United States cannot fully implement the Acts.

SUMMARY OF PROVISIONS

S. 2871 would amend section 503 of the WCPFC Implementation Act to consider non-Federal individuals serving as Commissioners on the Commission for the Conservation and Management of Highly Migratory Fish Stocks in the Western and Central Pacific Ocean or advisory committee members to be Federal employees only for purposes of injury compensation or tort claims liability.

The bill would also amend the Pacific Whiting Act of 2006 to: (1) reduce to two the number of individuals appointed by the Secretary of Commerce to serve as scientific experts on the joint technical committee; and (2) consider non-Federal individuals serving on the joint management committee, the scientific review group, the joint technical committee, or the advisory panel, to be Federal employees only for purposes of injury compensation or tort claims liability.

LEGISLATIVE HISTORY

S. 2871 was introduced by Senator Inouye on December 10, 2009, and was cosponsored by Senators Cantwell, Wyden, and Murray. The bill was referred to the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation. On March 24, 2010, the Committee met in open executive session and, by voice vote, ordered S. 2871 reported without amendment.

ESTIMATED COSTS

In accordance with paragraph 11(a) of rule XXVI of the Standing Rules of the Senate and section 403 of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974, the Committee provides the following cost estimate, prepared by the Congressional Budget Office:

April 6, 2010.

Hon. John D. Rockefeller IV,
Chairman, Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation,
U.S. Senate, Washington, DC.

Dear Mr. Chairman: The Congressional Budget Office has prepared the enclosed cost estimate for S. 2871, a bill to make technical corrections to the Western and Central Pacific Fisheries Convention Implementation Act, and for other purposes.

If you wish further details on this estimate, we will be pleased to provide them. The CBO staff contact is Jeff LaFave.

Sincerely,

Douglas W. Elmendorf.

Enclosure.
S. 2871—A bill to make technical corrections to the Western and Central Pacific Fisheries Convention Implementation Act, and for other purposes

S. 2871 would amend existing laws related to certain international fishing agreements. Based on information from the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA), CBO estimates that implementing the legislation would have no significant cost. Enacting S. 2871 would not affect direct spending or revenues; therefore, pay-as-you-go procedures would not apply.

Under current law, individuals appointed to serve on commissions and advisory bodies under certain international fishing agreements are subject to various eligibility requirements. Under the bill, some of those eligibility requirements would be changed. Because those changes would not affect the number of individuals appointed to serve on those bodies, CBO estimates that implementing this provision would not affect the federal budget.

S. 2871 also would reduce the number of scientific experts appointed to the joint technical committee under the Pacific Whiting Act of 2006. Although members of that committee do not receive compensation, implementing S. 2871 could reduce the cost of reimbursable expenses paid to committee members. Based on information from NOAA, CBO estimates that any savings from a reduction in those expenses would be negligible.

S. 2871 contains no intergovernmental or private-sector mandates as defined in the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act and would impose no costs on state, local, or tribal governments.

The CBO staff contact for this estimate is Jeff LaFave. The estimate was approved by Theresa Gullo, Deputy Assistant Director for Budget Analysis.

REGULATORY IMPACT STATEMENT

In accordance with paragraph 11(b) of rule XXVI of the Standing Rules of the Senate, the Committee provides the following evaluation of the regulatory impact of the legislation, as reported:

NUMBER OF PERSONS COVERED

S. 2871 would not authorize any new regulations, and therefore would not subject any individuals or businesses to new regulations.

ECONOMIC IMPACT

S. 2871 is not expected to have an adverse impact on the nation's economy.

PRIVACY

The reported bill would not have any adverse impact on the personal privacy of individuals.

PAPERWORK

S. 2871 would not increase paperwork requirements for the private sector.
CONGRESSIONALLY DIRECTED SPENDING

In compliance with paragraph 4(b) of rule XLIV of the Standing Rules of the Senate, the Committee provides that no provisions contained in the bill, as reported, meet the definition of congressionally directed spending items under the rule.

SECTION-BY-SECTION ANALYSIS

Section 1. Technical Corrections to the Western and Central Pacific Fisheries Convention and Implementation Act.

This section would amend section 503 of the WCPFC Implementation Act (16 U.S.C. 6902) to clarify that the Commissioners appointed to the Western and Central Pacific Fisheries Management Commission should include the chairman or a member of the Western Pacific Fishery Management Council and the chairman or a member of the Pacific Fishery Management Council. This section would clarify the employment status of Commissioners and remove conflict of interest language that prevents U.S. industry members from participating in the substantive discussions on international management of fisheries in this area.

This section would amend section 605(a)(1) of the Pacific Whiting Act of 2006 (16 U.S.C. 7004(a)(1)) to reduce to two the number of individuals appointed by the Secretary of Commerce to serve as scientific experts on the joint technical committee. This section would also amend section 609(a) of the Act (16 U.S.C 7008(a)) to clarify the employment status of committee and advisory panel members and remove conflict of interest language that prevents U.S. industry members from participating in the substantive discussions on international management of fisheries in this area.
CHANGES IN EXISTING LAW

In compliance with paragraph 12 of rule XXVI of the Standing Rules of the Senate, changes in existing law made by the bill, as reported, are shown as follows (existing law proposed to be omitted is enclosed in black brackets, new material is printed in italic, existing law in which no change is proposed is shown in roman):
