OMB Control Number: 0596-0003.

Summary of Collection: Domestic livestock grazing currently exist on approximately 90 million acres of National Forest Service (NFS) lands. This grazing is subject to authorization and administrative oversight by the Forest Service (FS). Economic Research Service

Title: Study of Re-Engineering the Welfare System.

OMB Control Number: 0536-NEW.

Summary of Collection: In 1996, President Clinton signed into law the Personal Responsibility and Work Opportunity Reconciliation Act of 1996 (PRWORA), thereby dramatically changing the system that had provided welfare cash assistance and food stamp benefits to low-income households since the early 1970's. In addition to the changes enacted in PRWORA, states have begun the process of modernizing and improving their FSPs. New technological innovations have increased the use of computers to provide enhanced systems for service delivery, eligibility determination, benefit delivery and maintenance of program integrity. The primary purpose of the study is to provide USDA with a thorough view of the administrative changes states have made, are making, or will make to their Food Stamp Programs in FY 1999. The Economic Research Service (ERS) has awarded a contract to the Health Systems Research, Inc. (HSR) to collect existing documents from Food Stamp Directors and abstract data from these documents into a descriptive database. States will be requested to provide documents that fit within six basic re-engineering categories: the changing role of the caseworkers; organizational changes; changes in client tracking and accountability systems; changes in program accessibility and certification systems; increases in program monitoring and evaluation; and plans for implementing the simplified Food Stamp Program. ERS will collect information using mail and telephone surveys.

Need and Use of the Information: ERS will collect information on the number and percentage of states that have implemented or plan to implement administrative changes in their Food Stamp Program; the number and percentage of states and county-administered programs that have implemented or plan to implement administrative changes; methods used by states (regulatory, legislative, executive order, etc.) to implement changes; differences between the type of administrative changes made between states with state-administered FSPs and county-administered FSPs; number and percentage of states making organizational changes in their governmental structure as a result of welfare reform; the number and percentage of states making privatization efforts, by type of state and administrative activity; and the type of privatization efforts being made by states, by state demographic characteristics. The report will be used to assist ERS in determining future needs and measuring progress toward achieving Food Stamp Program goals.

Description of Respondents: State, Local or Tribal Government.

Number of Respondents: 102.

Frequency of Responses: Reporting: On occasion.

Total Burden Hours: 119.
