information” and that information was not available at the time of permit issuance * * * and would have justified the application of different permit conditions at the time of issuance.” Pursuant to EPA regulations, “[w]hen a permit is modified, only the conditions subject to the modification are reopened.” 40 CFR 122.62.

In the case of the 2008 CGP, a permit modification is justified based on the new information EPA received since issuance of the 2008 CGP in July 2008, in terms of the new actions EPA is planning or undertaking that are putting new demands on the Agency’s available resources in the NPDES stormwater program. New actions and the resulting resource demands have come about as a result of EPA’s desire to respond to the 2008 National Research Council report, Urban Stormwater Management in the United States (see http://www.epa.gov/npdes/pubs/nrc_stormwaterreport.pdf), and to take action under the President’s May 2009 Executive Order on Chesapeake Bay Protection and Restoration (see http://www.whitehouse.gov/the_press_office/Executive-Order-Chesapeake-Bay-Protection-and-Restoration/). Related to these efforts, EPA has announced its intention to initiate a national rulemaking to establish a program to reduce stormwater discharges from new development and redevelopment, and to make other regulatory improvements to strengthen its stormwater program. Refer to http://www.epa.gov/npdes/stormwater/rulemaking. EPA’s meeting these new demands, while implementing new Federal requirements for the construction and development industry, is not practical in a seven-month time period. Additionally, at the time of the 2008 CGP was issued, EPA did not know the final content of the C&D ELC. If this information was available at the time of permit issuance, it would have justified EPA establishing an expiration date for the 2008 CGP later than midnight June 30, 2010. As a result, cause exists under EPA regulations to justify modification of the 2008 CGP to extend the expiration date of the permit from midnight June 30, 2010 to midnight June 30, 2011.
