This draft guidance is not final nor is it in effect at this time.

DATES: Although you can comment on any guidance at any time (see 21 CFR 10.115(g)(5)), to ensure that the Agency considers your comment on this draft guidance before it begins work on the final version of the guidance, submit either electronic or written comments on the draft guidance by January 12, 2016.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Background

FDA has developed this guidance document to assist industry in designing evaluation strategies for, and reporting the results of, animal studies for medical devices. The animal studies utilized for the assessment of these devices typically provide initial evidence of device safety, their potential performance when used in a living system, and the biologic response that a living system may mount towards the device. The intent of this guidance is to provide a reference of best practices for the approach to, and conduct of, animal studies, and the presentation of animal study data intended to demonstrate that the device under study is sufficiently safe for early human experience (e.g., to support an investigational device exemption application) or to demonstrate device safety in support of a marketing application, while incorporating modern animal care and use strategies. We encourage sponsors to consult with us if they wish to use a non-animal testing method they believe is suitable, adequate, validated, and feasible. We will consider if such an alternative method could be assessed for equivalency to an animal test method.

This draft guidance, when finalized, will supersede the July 2010 guidance entitled “Guidance for Industry and FDA Staff: General Considerations for Animal Studies for Cardiovascular Devices.”

II. Significance of Guidance

This draft guidance is being issued consistent with FDA’s good guidance practices regulation (21 CFR 10.115). The draft guidance, when finalized, will represent the current thinking of FDA on General Considerations for Animal Studies for Medical Devices. It does not establish any rights for any person and is not binding on FDA or the public. You can use an alternative approach if it satisfies the requirements of the applicable statutes and regulations.

III. Electronic Access

Persons interested in obtaining a copy of the draft guidance may do so by downloading an electronic copy from the Internet. A search capability for all Center for Devices and Radiological Health guidance documents is available at <http://www.fda.gov/MedicalDevices/DeviceRegulationandGuidance/GuidanceDocuments/default.htm>. Guidance documents are also available at <http://www.regulations.gov>. Persons unable to download an electronic copy of “General Considerations for Animal Studies for Medical Devices,” may send an email request to CDRH-Guidance@fda.hhs.gov to receive an electronic copy of the document. Please use the document number 1802 to identify the guidance you are requesting.

IV. Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995

This draft guidance refers to previously approved collections of information found in FDA regulations. These collections of information are subject to review by the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) under the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995 (PRA) (44 U.S.C. 3501–3520). The collections of information in 21 CFR part 58 have been approved under OMB control number 0910–0119; the collections of information in 21 CFR part 807, subpart E, have been approved under OMB control number 0910–0120; the collections of information in 21 CFR part 812 have been approved under OMB control number 0910–0078; the collections of information in 21 CFR part 814, subparts A through E, have been approved under OMB control numbers 0910–0231; and the collections of information in 21 CFR part 814, subpart H have been approved under OMB control number 0910–0332.

This draft guidance also refers to proposed collections of information described in FDA’s August 14, 2014, draft guidance entitled, “De Novo Classification Process (Evaluation of Automatic Class III Designations)” (de novo draft guidance) (79 FR 47651). The proposed collections of information described in the de novo draft guidance are subject to review by OMB under the PRA. As required by the PRA, FDA has published an analysis of the proposed information collection described in the de novo draft guidance (79 FR 47651 at 47653) and has submitted them for OMB approval.
