II. Background

On June 22, 2016, President Obama signed into law the Frank R. Lautenberg Chemical Safety for the 21st Century Act, which amended the TSCA Act of 1976. A number of statutory changes have enhanced the EPA’s authority to evaluate chemicals and make determinations regarding their unreasonable risk to health and the environment prior to commercialization. Specifically, under section 5 of the amended TSCA, there are new requirements and additional determinations that EPA must make. These requirements provide EPA new authority to review and determine risk associated with the manufacturing and processing of new chemicals.

Background on EPA’s New Chemicals Review Program. EPA’s New Chemicals Review Program has and will continue to help manage the potential risk to human health and the environment from chemicals new to the marketplace. The program functions as a “gatekeeper” that can identify conditions, up to and including a ban on production, to be placed on the use of a new chemical before it is entered into commerce. Under section 5 of TSCA, anyone who plans to manufacture (including import) a new chemical substance for a non-exempt commercial purpose, is required to provide EPA with notice before initiating the activity. Additionally, EPA must also be notified before chemical substances are used in new significant uses. Pursuant to the amended law, EPA is now required to make an affirmative determination as to whether or not the new use or new chemical presents, may present, or is not likely to present an unreasonable risk of injury to health or the environment, or, alternatively, if there is insufficient information to allow for a determination. This amendment went into effect immediately after the law was signed by the President and has resulted in significant changes for both the EPA’s New Chemicals Review Program and those manufacturers submitting notices, including manufacturers of the notices under review on June 22, 2016. EPA has worked to keep manufacturers informed of these changes and hopes to continue this dialogue during this public meeting.

Additional information on the revisions to TSCA can be found at https://www.epa.gov/assessing-and-managing-chemicals-under-tscas-frank-r-lautenberg-chemical-safety-21st-century-act.
