(3) If the Board determines that unusual circumstances exist, as described in 5 U.S.C. 552(a)(6)(B), and more than 5,000 pages are necessary to respond to the request, then the Board may charge search fees, or, in the case of requesters described in paragraph (c)(2) of this section, may charge duplication fees, if the Board has:

(i) Provided timely written notice to the requester in accordance with the FOIA; and

(ii) Discussed with the requester via written mail, email, or telephone (or made not less than three good-faith attempts to do so) how the requester could effectively limit the scope of the request in accordance with 5 U.S.C. 552(a)(6)(B)(ii).

(4) If a court has determined that exceptional circumstances exist, as defined by the FOIA, a failure to comply with the time limits shall be excused for the length of time provided by the court order.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Background

On June 30, 2016, the Freedom of Information Act¹ (FOIA) was amended by the FOIA Improvement Act of 2016² (FOIA Improvement Act). Among other things, section 3 of the FOIA

Improvement Act requires each federal agency to revise its disclosure regulations and procedures for processing FOIA requests in order to conform to the substantive amendments made by section 2 of the FOIA Improvement Act by December 27, 2016. As it pertains to the Committee's Rules Regarding Availability of Information (Rules), the Committee is required to make a number of changes to comply with the FOIA Improvement Act's amendments. In addition, the Committee is making certain technical changes to the Rules to make the FOIA process easier for the public to navigate, to make certain provisions clearer (removing obsolete language), and inform the public of additional electronic methods for submitting FOIA requests and administrative appeals. In drafting the amendments to the Rules, the Committee consulted the "Guidance for Agency FOIA Regulations" issued by the U.S. Department of Justice's Office for Information Policy. The following is a section-by-section discussion of the changes.

II. Description of the Interim Final Rule

This interim final rule amends the Committee's Rules, as described below.

Section 271.3—Published Information

The Committee has made a technical change to section 271.3(c) of its Rules to delete certain outdated information about publishing Committee information in the Federal Reserve Bulletin and to clarify that members of the public no longer need to contact the Publications Services section of the Federal Reserve Board (Board) to obtain certain information, because such information is already made publicly available on the Web sites of the Board or Federal Reserve Banks.

Section 271.4—Records Available for Public Inspection

As required by the FOIA Improvement Act, the Committee is revising this section to clarify that the Committee's records, which are available for public inspection pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552(a)(2), specifically include records requested three or more times, and that such records will be made available in electronic format. Thus, the Committee is revising section 271.4(a) and (b) of its Rules to specifically reference the availability of records described in 5 U.S.C. 552(a)(2) for public inspection in electronic format. The Committee also is adding language to paragraph (b)(1) of section 271.4 to direct members of the public to the Web site of the Committee's electronic reading room. Additionally, in paragraph (b)(1) of section 271.4, the Committee updated information on how to obtain access to the Committee's reading room at the Board's Freedom of Information Office to reflect updated security procedures and because the Board's Freedom of Information Office has moved from the location at 20th Street and Constitution Avenue NW. Lastly, because all the records described in 5 U.S.C. 552(a)(2) are now required to be made available in electronic format, which necessarily would also include records created on or after 1996, the Committee removed and reserved paragraph (c) of section 271.4.

Section 271.5—Records Available to the Public on Request

The Committee is adding language to section 271.5 of its Rules to inform members of the public that they have the option to electronically submit FOIA requests using the Committee's online FOIA request form.

Section 271.6—Processing Requests

The Committee is making a technical correction to paragraph (c)(2) of section 271.6 of its Rules, to remove the reference to paragraph (i) and replace it with paragraph (h).

The FOIA, as revised by the FOIA Improvement Act, requires that, whenever an agency extends the 20-day time limit to respond to a FOIA request by more than ten working days due to "unusual circumstances," then the agency must provide the requester with an opportunity to limit the request's scope and must notify the requester of the availability of dispute resolution services from the FOIA Public Liaison and the Office of Government Information Services (OGIS). Accordingly, the revisions to paragraph (d) of section 271.6 reflect these statutory requirements.

The Committee's amendments to paragraph (e) of section 271.6 conform to the amendments of the FOIA Improvement Act, which require that all determination letters advise requesters of the right to seek assistance from the Committee's FOIA Public Liaison and, in the case of an adverse determination, that requesters be informed of the right to seek dispute resolution services from the Committee's FOIA Public Liaison or OGIS.

In order to mirror the more expansive language of the FOIA and to reflect the Committee's current practice, the Committee also has made technical edits to paragraphs (e) and (h) of section 271.6 to clarify that a requester has the right to administratively appeal any "adverse determination" by the Secretary of the Committee (not just to appeal denials or partial denials of requests for records). The new language in paragraph (e) provides examples of the adverse determinations that may be appealed. In paragraph (h) of section 271.6, the Committee is adding language to inform members of the public that they also have the option to submit administrative appeals via email to the Secretary of the Committee and providing the email address to use for such administrative appeals.

Lastly, in paragraph (g) of section 271.6, the Committee has added language providing that a requester also may be sent copies of requested records in electronic format to the requester's email address. This technical change clarifies that requesters are not limited to receiving records by U.S. postal mail.

Section 271.9—Fee Schedules; Waiver of Fees

The FOIA Improvement Act restricts an agency's ability to charge search or duplication fees in certain circumstances. The Committee has added paragraph (i) to section 271.9 to reflect the statutory restrictions on charging fees.

III. Request for Comments

The Committee invites comment on all aspects of the interim final rule.

IV. Administrative Law Matters

A. Administrative Procedure Act

Pursuant to the Administrative Procedure Act, 5 U.S.C. 553(b)(3)(B), notice and comment are not required prior to the issuance of a final rule if an agency, for good cause, finds that "notice and public procedure thereon are impracticable, unnecessary, or contrary to the public interest." As discussed above, this interim final rule implements the substantive amendments made by the FOIA Improvement Act. Congress provided federal agencies with no discretion in amending their disclosure rules to comply with the statutory amendments made to the FOIA, and required that such conforming amendments become effective by December 27, 2016. Given that the substantive amendments to the Committee's Rules are mandated by the FOIA Improvement Act, and that the other amendments made to the Committee's Rules are technical in nature, the Committee for good cause finds that prior notice and comment on this rulemaking is impracticable, unnecessary, or contrary to the public interest pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 553(b)(3)(B). For these same reasons, the Committee finds good cause to dispense with the delayed effective date otherwise required by 5 U.S.C. 553(d)(3). While the interim final rule is effective immediately upon publication, the Committee is inviting public comment on the interim final rule during a 60-day period and will consider all comments in developing a final rule.

B. Regulatory Flexibility Act

The Regulatory Flexibility Act, 5 U.S.C. 601 et seq., applies only to rules for which an agency publishes a general notice of proposed rulemaking. Because the Committee has determined for good cause that a notice of proposed rulemaking for this rule is unnecessary, the Regulatory Flexibility Act does not apply to this final rule. 5 U.S.C. 601(2).

(i) Provided timely written notice of unusual circumstances to the requester in accordance with the FOIA; and

(ii) Discussed with the requester via written mail, email, or telephone (or made not less than three good-faith attempts to do so) how the requester could effectively limit the scope of the request in accordance with 5 U.S.C. 552(a)(6)(B)(ii).

(4) If a court has determined that exceptional circumstances exist, as defined by the FOIA, a failure to comply with the time limits shall be excused for the length of time provided by the court order.

ACTION: Interim final rule.

SUMMARY: The Federal Financial Institutions Examination Council (FFIEC or Council), on behalf of its members, is amending its regulations to incorporate changes to the Freedom of Information Act (FOIA). This interim final rule reflects the required changes necessitated by the FOIA Improvement Act of 2016 (Act) consisting of extending the deadline for administrative appeals, including information on dispute resolution services, and amends parts of the fee determination. The Council has reviewed the proposed regulations and adopt them in this interim final rule.
