

SENATE—Tuesday, July 30, 1996

The Senate met at 9:30 a.m., and was called to order by the President pro tempore [Mr. THURMOND].

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. Today's prayer will be offered by our guest chaplain, the Reverend Charles Hart, of Salem, OR.

We are pleased to have you with us.

PRAYER

The guest chaplain, the Reverend Charles F. Hart, of the Associated Churches of God in Oregon and Southwest Washington, offered the following prayer:

Eternal God, our Maker, our God most holy, Your unconditional love surrounds us, and everywhere we look, we see the beauty of Your creative power. We join our hearts with the psalmist who prayed, "O Lord, our Lord, how majestic is thy name in all the Earth." You are a God of refuge and strength and a very present help in times of important decisions that the men and women of the U.S. Senate will face from day to day.

Our prayer this day, O sovereign Lord, is for Your limitless, fathomless, most holy wisdom and love to permeate these great leaders of our great Nation as they lead the United States of America into the 21st century. May our Nation always be known as peacemakers and peacekeepers.

May the grace and the glory of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you always. Amen.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. The able Senator from Oregon is recognized.

THE REVEREND CHARLES F. HART

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, it is a pleasure today to introduce to my colleagues the Reverend Charles Hart. Reverend Hart understood Christ's words when he told his disciples, "Where your treasure is, there your heart will be also." Charles Hart's treasure has been in his service to God by acting on his faith with the skills that he has been given and blessed with.

Reverend Hart earned his undergraduate degree at Arlington College in Long Beach, CA. While Reverend Hart's first love was baseball, finance and his faith won out in his life. He began his career with Security Pacific Bank while at the same time serving as the associate pastor of South Bay Church of God in Torrance, CA.

Reverend Hart's skill in finance led to a successful career in the secular world of banking. While this type of success can bring satisfaction, it did not bring to him the deepest satisfaction that comes from serving God full time. At that point, Reverend Hart decided to use his skills as a development officer for a small Christian liberal arts college in California. Reverend Hart has continued in his capacity by lending financial expertise to Christian institutions throughout this career.

From Azusa Pacific University, he went on to Warner Pacific College in Portland where he still serves as a member of the board of trustees. He has also assisted Wycliffe Bible Translators in raising funds to translate God's word to all nationalities and is currently working with the Associated Churches of God in Oregon and Southwest Washington in securing expansion funds. Reverend Hart has also worked to share the treasure of his faith with others in the business community through his 25-year involvement with the Christian Businessmen's Committee.

God provides us all with special skills, and Reverend Hart is a prime example that we can use those skills to better ourselves and the world in which we live.

Again, on behalf of my Senate colleagues, we are privileged that Reverend Hart is willing to fulfill the duties of Senate Chaplain today, and I would like to officially welcome him to this Chamber. Also accompanying him today is his wife, Sally, and his son, Ken Hart, who is my press secretary, and Ken's wife, Sheila.

SCHEDULE

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, on behalf of the majority leader, this morning the Senate will immediately resume consideration of the energy and water appropriations bill. Under the agreement reached last night, there will be 30 minutes of debate prior to a series of rollover votes which will begin at 10 a.m. this morning. Senators should be aware that the first vote in the sequence will be the normal 15 minutes in length with the remaining votes limited to 10 minutes each.

Once again, the majority leader asks for the cooperation of all Members in allowing us to proceed to these votes in an orderly and timely fashion.

Senators should be prepared to remain in or around the Chamber during these stacked votes. During this voting sequence, the Senate will also be voting on amendments and completing action on the legislative appropriations bill. The Senate may remain in session late this evening to consider other available appropriations bills and conference reports that are available. Therefore, additional votes may occur.

ENERGY AND WATER DEVELOPMENT APPROPRIATIONS ACT, 1997

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. BROWN). Under the previous order, the Senate will now resume consideration of S. 1959, which the clerk will report. The assistant legislative clerk read as follows.

A bill (S. 1959) making appropriations for energy and water development for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1997, and for other purposes.

The Senate resumed consideration of the bill.

Pending:

McCain amendment No. 5094, to clarify that report language does not have the force of law.

McCain amendment No. 5095, to prohibit the use of funds to carry out the advanced light water reactor program.

Bumpers amendment No. 5096, to reduce funding for the weapons activities account to the level requested by the Administration.

Johnston (for Wellstone) amendment No. 5097, to ensure adequate funding for the biomass power for rural development program.

Grams amendment No. 5100, to limit funding for the Appalachian Regional Commission and require the Commission to be phased out in 5 years.

Domenici (for McCain) amendment No. 5105, to strike section 503 of the bill.

Feingold amendment No. 5106, to eliminate funding for the Animas-LaPlata participatory project.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who seeks recognition?

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The absence of a quorum is noted.

The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, parliamentary inquiry. What is the business before the Senate?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Currently, there is 20 minutes equally divided between the Senator from New Mexico and the Senator from Louisiana. At 9:50 a.m., we will recognize Senator MCCAIN for remarks concerning his amendment.

Mr. DOMENICI. Let me just state for Senator JOHNSTON's benefit, we have, as he probably knows, reached an agreement with Senator MCCAIN on his report language. I think he will find that satisfactory.

So, when Senator MCCAIN arrives, when his time has expired, we will do this second-degree amendment, and then we will vote, if he desires a roll-call vote; if not, we will adopt the amendment.

What would be the next order of business after that amendment is disposed of?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The unanimous-consent order from last night talks about a 10 a.m. vote, with 2 minutes allotted to each side and a vote on the McCain amendment.

Mr. DOMENICI. What is the next amendment after that, Mr. President?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Following that, amendment No. 5095, which is another McCain amendment.

Mr. DOMENICI. On advanced light water reactor?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. That is correct.

Mr. DOMENICI. And there are 2 minutes on each side on that?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Again, 2 minutes on that, and then we will move to a Bumpers amendment No. 5096.

Mr. DOMENICI. I am going to yield now—we only have about 6 minutes—if the Senator from Louisiana would like to speak to the light water reactor amendment or whatever he would like to speak to.

AMENDMENT NO. 5065

Mr. JOHNSTON. Mr. President, I thank my distinguished colleague from New Mexico. There is a McCain amendment on cutting the funds, $22 million for the light water reactor. This is the fifth year of a 5-year program.

There are many reasons to be against the McCain amendment, but the clearest, most indelible, most compelling reason is that to cut these funds now would subject the U.S. Government to greater penalties for termination costs than it would be to finish it.

Moreover, the U.S. Government would lose, according to Terry Lash, who is the Director of the Department of Energy office in charge of this, the U.S. Government would lose up to $125 million to which they would otherwise be entitled. The reason for that is, the AP-600, which is the reactor, which is 90 percent complete would be completed by this last year. When the first of those is sold, the Federal Government is entitled to a $25 million recoupment, plus $4 million for every reactor sold after that, plus the United States Government is entitled right now to $3 million from GE for reactors already sold under this program to Taiwan and others in the pipeline.

For the United States to, in effect, break their contract and terminate, subjects the Government not only to a greater amount in loss but the loss of future revenues as well.

Mr. President, the AP-600, which is the Westinghouse reactor, which would be finished under this program, is exactly what all of us in the Congress have been saying all this time that we ought to be doing; that is, it is a passively safe reactor, it is one generically designed and is, I believe, going to be a very hot item, particularly in Asia. The Chinese have already obligated themselves to 6,000 megawatts of nuclear power between now and the year 2000 using Russian technology, Canadian technology, and French technology, because we do not permit our nuclear technology to go to China after Tiananmen Square. We expect that that negotiation will take place in the not too far distant future to allow American nuclear technologies to get in on that huge market.

In the first decade after the year 2000, the Chinese expect to do another 11,000 megawatts, many, many billions of dollars, and they have a longstanding relationship with Westinghouse, they like the AP-600, and we ought to have it finished.

So, Mr. President, you can finish it for less money than to terminate it, and then you lose all the additional funds you would get.

So, Mr. President, I hope we will not be so foolish as in a fit of antinuclear pique to go out and accept one of these bumper-sticker-type arguments that this is corporate welfare. The fact of the matter is that the corporations involved here, relying upon the Government, have put up almost $500 million to get this program finished, and now it takes another $22 million to finish the program and the Congress is saying, "Let's not do it." If this argument was to have been made and this decision was to have been made, it should have been made back in 1992 when the Energy Policy Act was up, when the issue was debated and when the Congress decided to go ahead with the program.

To stop it at the 11th hour at greater cost than to complete it is nothing short of madness, which is not to say that the Congress has not done that kind of thing before. We have done some exceedingly foolish things in this Senate before, as my colleagues all know. But at least we should not go into this one, which not only would be exceedingly foolish but exceedingly simple and exceedingly easy to understand. It ought to be easy for anyone to understand that you should not terminate a program that costs more money to terminate than to continue.

Moreover, there would be a huge amount of potential profits to be lost and a very, very useful technology.

One final note, Mr. President. I note that the United States is now getting serious about global warming, and in the New York Times of July 17, 1996, there is an article entitled "In a Shift, the U.S. Will Seek a Binding Agreement by Nations To Combat Global Warming."

Mr. President, if we are, in fact, serious about global warming—and I will submit that to the conscience and intelligence and state of knowledge of each Senator as to whether you are or not serious about global warming—I can tell you that there is one solution that stands out above all the rest, and that is nuclear energy, if you really are serious about global warming, because how else are you going to generate large amounts of power?

We have a huge amount of money in this bill for renewables. We have increased it. You know, I am for it. But, Mr. President, if you think you are going to solve global warming by something short of major powerplants at a time when there is huge growth in the world, industrial growth, I believe, Mr. President, you would be mistaken.

All over the Pacific rim where there are these enormous rates of growth, unparalleled in the history of the world for a region of such huge populations to be growing at such leaps and bounds, there is also an air pollution problem of unprecedented severity. That is why the Chinese and the Indonesians and the Japanese are very serious about a big nuclear program. All of those nations are. And American technology should be able to compete. This technology, which is almost complete, about 90 percent complete, would be America's best way to get into that global competition.

So, Mr. President, I hope my colleagues will vote against the McCain amendment when it is brought up, the McCain amendment with respect to the advanced light water program.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator's time has expired.

Under the previous order, the Senator from Arizona has the time from 9:50 to 10 a.m. The Senator from Arizona is recognized.

AMENDMENT NO. 5094

Mr. MCCAIN. Mr. President, I want to thank the Senator from New Mexico for his agreement on our changes to his amendment. I appreciate that very much. I do want to make it clear, though, that we are talking about a very important issue here; that is, the differentiation between report language and bill language. The report language is sometimes ignored. I understand that many of our Members are very frustrated from time to time when report language is ignored.

The administration does sometimes ignore report language at its own peril. We know that if the administration acts in direct contradiction to report language that Members will come up with numerous ways to force the administration to do their bidding.

The effective language contained in this bill—before the amendment—I believe was dangerous for two reasons. First, by giving report language the force of law, we essentially passed statutory language that has not been agreed to by both Houses and signed into law. This is, on its face, unconstitutional.

Mr. President, let me just quote from Justice Scalia where he said:

As anyone familiar with modern-day drafting of congressional committee reports is well aware, the references to the cases were inserted, at best by a committee staff member on his or her own initiative, and at worst by a committee staff member at the suggestion of a lawyer-lobbyist; and the purpose of those references was not primarily to inform the Members of Congress what the bill meant. . .

Mr. President, as I have been around here about 10 years, I agree with Justice Scalia. I have seen it time after time. Mr. President, the D.C. Circuit Court, in International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, Local Union No. 474 versus NLRB noted:

. . . [w]hile a committee report may ordinarily be used to interpret unclear language contained in a statute, a committee report cannot serve as an independent statutory source having force of law.

And in Rubin versus U.S., the eighth circuit court stated:

A conference report, moreover, is just that—a report, not a legislative act requiring the votes of the requisite number of legislators.

Second, by codifying report language, which is written by the staffs of the 13 full committee chairmen, you have essentially disenfranchised every other Senator of his or her right to amend legislation. Report language cannot be amended. I cannot stand on the floor of the Senate and try to amend and change report language. The minority party cannot change report language. No one but that chairman that writes it can dictate what is in report language.

Mr. President, codifying report language is creative budget chicanery and an affront to this institution and the Constitution, and it should not be done. If a Member of Congress wants to force the administration to take a certain specific action, whether to spend money on a project or do something else, then that Senator has the right to offer an amendment.

We all know the rules here. An amendment can be debated, further amended, filibustered, or tabled. But report language cannot be touched. Therefore, it should not be codified into law.

Mr. President, the Office of Management and Budget specifically mentioned its opposition to this language in the statement of administration policy. OMB is correct in that this provision should be struck from the bill.

I recognize that report language has been codified in the past. It was wrong then, and it is wrong now. We should not do this ever, in my view.

Mr. President, I appreciate the concern of the Senator from New Mexico concerning the lack of cooperation on the part of the administration to carry out the will of Congress and the will especially expressed in legislation that he has so much expertise and knowledge of, and I respect all that.

I appreciate the fact that Senator DOMENICI has modified his amendment. I also understand why he would want a report on how the Department is spending those appropriated funds. I would point out in passing, although I certainly agree with the amendment, that one of my goals has been to reduce the number of reports that flow over to the Congress and are demanded by the Congress of the executive branch.

But, in this case, I understand the urgency that the Senator from New Mexico feels is associated with this language and with the efforts that he has made on behalf of the people of this country and, in the form of his chairmanship, this very proper appropriations subcommittee.

Mr. President, I yield the floor.

Mr. DOMENICI. The leader has asked that I make the following unanimous-consent request. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the vote schedule at 10 a.m. be postponed until 10:15—that is because of an emergency that our leader recognizes—with the time before that being equally divided, if we want to use the time. We can yield it to other Senators.

I say to Senator MCCAIN, let me thank you for your efforts with reference to the report language that essentially was put in this bill at my request. I do understand that language that I have in the bill that says:

Notwithstanding [other provisions of the law.] funds made available by this Act . . . shall be available only for the purposes for which they have been made available by this Act and only in accordance with the recommendations contained in this report.

We are going to strike that with your amendment, and we are going to offer a second-degree amendment that requires regular reports to this subcommittee on how it has complied with this bill.

I am going to cite only four or five examples of what I consider egregious departures from the intent of the bill. I will give you one. We worked very hard on technology transfer, and we got that to a dollar number of $150 million. It had been higher. The administration wanted less. We worked it out. We debated it. The Secretary decided to use only $50 million of it, and to put $100 million somewhere else at her choosing.

That is nice. It is just that, for many of us who worked hard on these issues, it is sort of insulting to go through all this work and have it happen. We accepted, after debate, an amendment by Senator KERREY with reference to a certain math and science initiative which the Department was requested and in report language required to do it. It was a half million dollars. Totally ignored. The money went somewhere else.

The McCain amendment would strike "and only in accordance with the recommendations contained in this report."

Why is the language necessary?

The act provides funds in very large chunks. For example, the act provides $2.749 billion for energy supply, research, and development.

Only the report indicates that $247 million should go to solar and renewable energy programs—that is not in the act.

Only the report indicates that $389 million is for biological and environmental research which funds the Human Genome Program—that is not in the act.

Without the proposed language, the DOE does not have to follow the Senate's guidance.

Last year, I worked hard to provide $150 million for technology transfer—but it was only in the report and so DOE provided only $50 million.

Last year, Senator KERREY of Nebraska included report language that $500,000 should go to the Nebraska math and science initiative—DOE did not provide the money—they did not have to, it was just report language.

Last year, Congress eliminated funding for in-house energy management—private sector companies now offer the service for free. But, Congress only eliminated the program in report language so DOE provide $4 million for the program—after Congress thought we had eliminated it.

Financial irregularities abound at the DOE:

Funds have been reprogrammed from their original purpose to purposes specifically denied by the Congress last year;

The Department created a furlough relief fund to augment appropriations specifically reduced by Congress;

A recent draft inspector general report noted that the Department deliberately ignored a statutory funding limitation on the use of representational expenses and spent more than appropriated for receptions.

The language is necessary for two reasons:

First, it is the only way funding for programs of interest to Members can be assured, and;

Second, without it, the Department can ignore congressional intent.

Frankly, the Secretary and her administrative assistants understand the concern we have about departures from what is the clear intent. I will just ask those who are for renewable energy, if they know that we just put a very large sum of money in, and in report language we recommend the renewables that you just alluded to, I say to Senator JOHNSTON.

Obviously, if the Secretary wants to, the way they act on other things, they could decide to cut that in half and spend the money elsewhere. Now, we go through a lot of effort on those kinds of issues. Frankly, I believe we must do something.

So you are right. My language went too far. I think language that comes after it saying we want you to report to us, we will set the right tone.

AMENDMENT NO. 5121 TO AMENDMENT NO. 5094

(Purpose: Second degree amendment to the McCain first degree amendment regarding report language)

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I send a second-degree amendment to the desk, to the McCain amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection to consider the second-degree amendment? Without objection, it is so ordered. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from New Mexico [Mr. DOMENICI] proposes an amendment numbered 5121 to amendment No. 5094.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that further reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

On line 3 of amendment number 5094, strike "Act" and insert in lieu thereof the following: "Act. The Department of Energy shall report monthly to the Committees on Appropriations of the House and Senate on the Department of Energy's adherence to the recommendations included in the accompanying report."

Mr. DOMENICI. Now, Mr. President, if Senator MCCAIN is willing, we will adopt the second-degree amendment by voice vote.

Mr. BYRD addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from West Virginia is recognized.

Mr. BYRD. I compliment the Senator from Arizona on this amendment. It is the first time that I have been aware of language that, in effect, incorporates the committee report language as a part of the bill. The committee report language cannot be amended, and if we are going to start down this road, we are going to rue the day we began on this journey.

I hope we will not have a voice vote in this. Have the yeas and nays been ordered?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The yeas and nays have been ordered on the underlying amendment.

Mr. BYRD. I think we ought to have a vote and let that record be there for all to see in the future.

Let me ask a question without losing my right to the floor, Mr. President. Does the distinguished Senator from Arizona know of any other bill, appropriations bill, in the recent past or ever in the past, that has utilized this approach of incorporating amendment language as a part of the bill?

I have been unaware of it if this has been done before.

Mr. MCCAIN. Answering a question like that to the distinguished Senator from West Virginia is like asking a minor league baseball player to pitch the World Series.

The Senator from West Virginia is all corporate knowledge on these issues, and I bow to his knowledge. He has been intimately involved in this process for so long. I believe I am correct in responding when I say I know of no other case, except one case that took place sometime in the mid-1980's when this particular instance happened, but I have not heard of it before.

I ask in return, does the Senator from West Virginia know of any place where this happened?

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, I do not know, but that is not to say that it has not been done. It may have escaped my attention, but whether or not it has been done heretofore, I think we ought to put a stop to it if it has been done. I think it ought to be stopped now.

I congratulate the Senator on his amendment. I shall object to vitiating the yeas and nays on this amendment if the request is made.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the second-degree amendment to the McCain amendment.

The amendment (No. 5121) was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 5095

Mr. MCCAIN. Mr. President, I want to discuss very briefly the other amendment that I have pending. I, of course respect the views of the Senator from Louisiana. Let me state at the beginning I am a supporter of nuclear energy and I believe at some point in our history we may turn back to that as a source of power for our energy needs.

Continuing the advanced light-water reactor program is a mistake. I point out that this program has already received more than $230 million over the past 5 years. This amendment does not create any termination costs of the program. The contract between Westinghouse and the Department of Energy specifically provides reimbursement for costs incurred as a result of termination, "shall be subject to the availability of appropriated funds."

General Electric recently announced it is canceling its simplified boiling water reactor after receiving $50 million from the Department of Energy under the program because "extensive evaluations of the market competitiveness of the 600-megawatt-size advanced light-water reactor have not established the commercial viability of these designs." The Westinghouse AP-600 is a similarly designed reactor that is scheduled to receive advanced light-water reactor support and is of a similar size and design and is facing similar market forces that led General Electric to cancel that program.

These facts are significant because the Government cannot recoup its costs for reactors not sold. The Westinghouse reactor is like the canceled reactor and will likely never be sold, and no costs can be recouped.

Last year, there was opposition to end funding for the advanced light-water reactor program by arguing that this year, fiscal year 1996, would be the fifth year of the 5-year program. Now, a year later, the same argument is being made.

The way to end this taxpayer subsidy is by the will of the Congress exercised here today. Mr. President, I hope my colleagues will support the amendment. I yield the floor.

AMENDMENT NO. 5094, AS AMENDED

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, on the first amendment by Senator MCCAIN, as amended by the second-degree amendment, we are working to try to get that adopted.

Senator BYRD, let me suggest we are ready to acknowledge openly that the amendment went too far. The intention, I still feel very comfortable with, because I believe the Department truly in egregious ways violates the intent and spirit by moving money around, but I think Senator BYRD has made the case, and Senator MCCAIN has made the case. Clearly it is not going to happen.

I think the Senate knows that we are not going to be doing this, but I would like to make sure that what comes out of the Senate is kind of balanced, that the Department does not get the idea that they have all the latitude in the world and will never be called to task. I think this would better be served, overall, if we just proceed to adopt the amendment by voice vote.

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, if the distinguished Senator will yield.

Mr. DOMENICI. I am happy to yield to the Senator.

Mr. BYRD. I think the two managers have made a very salient point. I have discussed this matter with them privately and the majority manager has stated the case well. I am willing to yield to their request that we vitiate the yeas and nays but I hope the distinguished Senator from Arizona will continue his superb surveillance of bill language in the future so that we will be aware of any future attempt to incorporate, in essence, incorporate committee report language into the bill as a law.

I thank the distinguished Senator for yielding.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the yeas and nays be vitiated, and we proceed to the McCain amendment, as amended.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment before the Senate is amendment 5094, as amended with the Domenici amendment. The question is on agreeing to the amendment.

The amendment (No. 5094), as amended, was agreed to.

Mr. JOHNSTON. I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. DOMENICI. I move to table the motion.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 5095

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment under consideration now is amendment numbered 5095.

The Chair reminds Senators that by unanimous consent rollcall votes will commence at 10:15. Sponsors of the amendment and their opponents have 2 minutes each with which to comment on the amendment.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, it is the understanding of Senator MCCAIN from Arizona and the manager of the bill that Senator MCCAIN has an additional 10 minutes reserved on the light water reactor amendment. He has indicated to me he would like to vitiate that.

Mr. MCCAIN. That was before final passage that I ask to vitiate that.

Mr. DOMENICI. Yes, 10 minutes before final passage. He asks that that be vitiated at this point. On his behalf, I ask unanimous consent that it be vitiated.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. DOMENICI. Now, Mr. President, parliamentary inquiry. Has all the time provided been used on the second McCain amendment on the light water reactor?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Each proponent and opponent are reserved 2 minutes each for debate. By previous agreement, votes will not commence until 10:15.

Mr. DOMENICI. Senator MCCAIN does not desire any further time at this point, and Senator JOHNSTON needs no more time. I ask unanimous consent that the 2 minutes each be vitiated.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I move to table the second McCain amendment, and I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There is a sufficient second.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the motion to table amendment No. 5095.

The yeas and nays have been ordered, and the clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk called the roll.

Mr. NICKLES. I announce that the Senator from Kansas [Mrs. FRAHM] is necessarily absent.

Mr. FORD. I announce that the Senator from Rhode Island [Mr. PELL] is necessarily absent.

I also announce that the Senator from Rhode Island [Mr. PELL] is absent because of a funeral.

I further announce that, if present and voting, the Senator from Rhode Island [Mr. PELL] would vote "no."

The result was announced—yeas 53, nays 45, as follows:

NOT VOTING—2

The motion to lay on the table the amendment (No. 5095) was agreed to.

Mr. JOHNSTON. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote by which the motion was agreed to.

Mr. DOMENICI. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 5096

The PRESIDING OFFICER. According to the previous agreement, there are now 2 minutes equally divided on the motion to table the Bumpers amendment No. 5096. The Senate is reminded that the rollcall vote on the motion to table the Bumpers amendment will be reduced to 10 minutes.

The Senate will be in order. Members who wish to converse, please retire to the cloakrooms.

Mr. BUMPERS addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Arkansas is recognized.

Mr. BUMPERS. This amendment deals with an account in this bill called weapons activities. This account has $516 million more than it had last year, which is a 14-percent increase—14 percent. Incidentally, it is $300 million above the House, $269 million more than the President requested. My amendment simply takes them down to a 7-percent increase.

It is the account where you deal with testing. And we have had a testing moratorium for 3 years. Under the START Treaty we are going to go from 24,000 weapons and 25 types to 3,500 and 7 types. We are increasing the budget to do all of that by 14 percent. If they cannot get by with a 7-percent increase, they ought to be abandoned.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator's time has expired.

Mr. BUMPERS. Mr. President, has a motion been made to table my amendment?

Mr. DOMENICI. The motion has been.

Mr. BUMPERS. Have the yeas and nays been ordered?

Mr. DOMENICI. The yeas and nays have been ordered.

Mr. President, the United States is committed now to a new stockpile stewardship program because we no longer will do underground testing. This amendment will take $269 million out of the stockpile stewardship, which means the building of the scientific capacity to make sure our nuclear weapons are adequate and trustworthy, a whole new effort on the part of the Department of Energy's DOD activities.

Stockpile management is part of that. The maintenance of backup facilities to this stockpile stewardship are in States like Texas, Missouri, and INEL in Idaho, and also there is program direction for that entire new program.

Frankly, in essence, we get the same increase in defense spending that the other parts of defense get. I think if we want a robust nuclear deterrent that is trustworthy and safe, and do not want to build any new ones, we better not take any risks with this part of the defense budget. And that is why I move to table. I believe we are right in our assessments. We want to leave that money in.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator's time has expired.

Under the previous order, the question now occurs on agreeing to the motion to lay on the table the amendment No. 5096 offered by the Senator from Arkansas, [Mr. BUMPERS]. The yeas and nays have been ordered. Those wishing to table the Bumpers amendment will vote yea. Those opposing the tabling of the Bumpers amendment will vote nay. The clerk will call the roll.

The bill clerk called the roll.

Mr. NICKLES. I announce that the Senator from Kansas [Mrs. FRAHM] is necessarily absent.

Mr. FORD. I announce that the Senator from Rhode Island [Mr. PELL] is necessarily absent.

I also announce that the Senator from Rhode Island [Mr. PELL] is absent because of a funeral.

I further announce that, if present and voting, the Senator from Rhode Island [Mr. PELL] would vote "nay."

The result was announced—yeas 61, nays 37, as follows:

The motion to lay on the table the amendment (No. 5096) was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 5106

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The pending amendment is the Feingold amendment number 5106.

The Senator from Colorado is guaranteed 10 minutes under the previous agreement.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, the Senator from Colorado has been patiently waiting and attending our sessions. He is not on the floor.

Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I ask to move now to the Feingold amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The pending question is the Feingold amendment.

Who seeks recognition?

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, this matter is of great importance to the Senator from Colorado.

Mr. CAMPBELL. Thank you, Mr. President, and I thank my friend from New Mexico.

Mr. President, it is said that the great Chief Ten Bears in his later life after being deprived of his freedom by Government troops, was asked if the U.S. Government had made his people any promises. His answer was this: "They made us many promises, more than I can remember. And they broke all but one: they promised to take our land and they took it."

Mr. President, no matter how you sugarcoat this bitter pill—you can coat it in economic terms, you can coat it in environmental terms, you can coat it in endangered species terms but under all the sugarcoating, the bitter pill of another broken promise remains.

I was not here when the Animas La Plata was authorized in 1968. Few of my colleagues were, but I knew Wayne Aspinall, the congressman of Western Colorado who had such great vision to include it in the original authorization, with both the Central Arizona Project and the Central Utah Project—of the three, only the Animas La Plata languishes. Wayne Aspinall was a man of great vision who helped the desert bloom where only parched land had been.

Unlike the Senator from Wisconsin, I was here in 1988 when, after careful negotiations between the two Colorado Indian tribes, the States of Colorado and New Mexico, and nine separate Government agencies, we reached an agreement to share the scarce water in the San Juan Basin between Indians and their non-Indian neighbors. The tribes agreed to drop their lawsuit against the Federal Government, which they would have surely won since they have such ironclad priority rights in water matters, in return for a cash settlement and an agreement by this Government to proceed with a water storage project for both Indian and non-Indians to share. Two public votes were taken of all the people affected, and both the repayment contract for the water users and the compromise itself were overwhelmingly accepted by the people of southwest Colorado and northern New Mexico.

Still, as in matters such as this, there will always be voices of opposition, some saying we went too far and others saying we did not go far enough. We in this body have all experienced that reaction. However, since the 1988 agreement and subsequent law that I authored which implemented the agreement, those voices of opposition have made up in shrillness what they lack in reason and fairness. Yet, even above the Sierra Club's carping, virtually every elected official from the local level to the President of the United States supports this project. In fact, President Clinton had $10 million designated in his budget for this project. President Bush supported it, as did President Reagan before him. All of the Colorado delegation, save one person, support the project and voted for the necessary appropriations on the House side. The lone Member who opposed it neither lives in Colorado nor cares about abiding by this agreement, even though she voted for it in 1988. Our Governor supports it, our attorney general supports it, and all of Colorado's major newspapers support it.

I ask those who want to strip the appropriation for this project just how is the State of Colorado going to be repaid under the Feingold amendment, if it prevails, for the $30 million we have spent of taxpayers' money as our part of the agreement? Who is going to repay the almost $60 million of taxpayers' money that the Federal Government has paid both of the tribes to drop the original lawsuit? Who will pay the hundreds of Indian and non-Indian ranchers who risk losing their water rights should the tribes go back to court, win the lawsuit, and claim their rightfully owned water, thereby drying up what some say is as much as one-fourth of all non-Indian irrigated farmland in the valley? Who pays for litigation when the Department of the Interior is put in the position where the Bureau of Indian Affairs has to defend the Indian tribes against its fellow agency, the Bureau of Reclamation, for nonperformance? The answer is that the taxpayer pays untold litigation fees on both sides.

While many colleagues bring charts and graphs to the floor of the Senate to emphasize a point—there seems to be a common belief in this body that if you have a graph or chart, or it is written somehow, that it automatically becomes true—I bring two objects of great reverence to traditional Indian people. These objects are from a culture that did not need protection from one another by a written contract. They represent a culture that believed your word was your bond, in which honor was held in highest esteem. They represent a culture which never broke a treaty with the U.S. Government. Traditional Indian people committed nothing to written contract and yet believed that great nations, like great men, must honor their agreements. Yet, from the time the first Indian affixed his fingerprint to the first document with the U.S. Government, which he could not read and little understood, he has learned the hard way that all too often this Government does not keep its word.

This is a pipe, Mr. President. In traditional Indian beliefs, before any words of import were spoken, a pipe like this was smoked. The traditional belief is that the smoke would take your words to the Creator. One does not lie or break his word to the Creator.

This is a fan, a wing from Wanbli, the eagle who was designated by the Creator as the keeper of the Earth to oversee his children and to see that they did the right thing. I submit that the actions of this body, which begins its deliberations each day with prayer, could learn at least as much from the objects as they can from all the paper documents to which this Government subscribes. Why be a party to a legal document if we are going to break it?

Just last week, this body reaffirmed its commitment to North Vietnam, of all places, to the tune of $1.5 million in order to teach them the American system of law. Shall we also teach them that under our system of law it is perfectly acceptable to deceive people, to enter into agreements and to unilaterally break our word? How can we teach the Vietnamese a code of conduct based on legal agreements if we do not practice that code ourselves? Perhaps we should tell them that these principles of law do not apply to American Indians. They apply to everyone else, but not to American Indians. It is easy to break our word to American Indians—we have done it lots of times.

In fact, Mr. President, from 1492 at Columbus' landing until the 1900's when the new century began, according to the National Congress of American Indians, 473 treaties were signed. Of those, 371 were ratified by this body, the U.S. Senate. Some, as you know, were written virtually at gunpoint and others through clever maneuvering on the part of Government negotiators. Yet, as the American Indian lost more and more, as they lost their land, as they lost their water, as they lost their families and, finally, their freedom, they never broke a single treaty with the U.S. Government. How many has the Government broken with the Indians? I defy anybody in this Chamber to give me that number. I had to look it up myself. Mr. President, they broke every single one. They broke every one with the American Indian.

I note with interest, Mr. President, there are a number of Indian people sitting in the gallery today as silent witnesses to our deliberations. I have to say that I salute them for their patience. I ask my colleagues to look into their hearts before voting on this amendment. Do not just compare statistics and charts and graphs and notes. Ask yourself, do you want to add one more broken promise to this infamous total of broken promises? Do you want to make this vote No. 474 in broken promises? America is better than this, Mr. President. The American people are better than this. Let us keep our promise. Let us do the right thing and table this amendment.

Mr. President, at this time, I ask unanimous consent to have printed in the RECORD a number of letters of support for this project. They include a letter from the City of Durango; a letter from the attorney general of the State of Colorado; a letter from the Native American Rights Fund; a letter from the Colorado House of Representatives; a letter from the Colorado General Assembly; and a Denver Post article dated July 28, 1996.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

CITY OF DURANGO,

Durango, CO, July 10, 1996.

HONORABLE MEMBERS OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES: The City Council of the City of Durango, Colorado, urges your support of ongoing funding for the Animas-La Plata Project.

The public water supply needs of this community have been put on hold for over a decade in anticipation that Congressional commitments associated with the project would be honored and funding would be authorized in a timely fashion.

The Animas-La Plata Project remains as the most economical and efficient means of addressing the future water supply needs of this region. Failure by Congress to provide additional funding for the project at this time may bring about its demise, thereby thrusting the responsibility of developing future water resource needs back into the shoulders of the local governments and Indian Tribes in this region, thus eliminating the economies of scale inherent in the federal project.

Accordingly, we ask your positive support in providing continued funding of the Animas-La Plata Project.

Sincerely,

LEE R. GODDARD,
Mayor.

STATE OF COLORADO,
DEPARTMENT OF LAW,
Denver, CO, July 5, 1996.

Hon. DICK ZIMMER
U.S. House of Representatives,
Washington, DC.

DEAR REPRESENTATIVE ZIMMER: I am writing to you to urge your continued support of the Animas-La Plata Project. We must not simply walk away from the solemn commitments made to the Southern Ute and Ute Mountain Ute Tribes in the Colorado Ute Indian Water Rights Final Settlement Agreement and the Colorado Ute Indian Water Rights Settlement Act of 1988. The Animas-La Plata Project should go forward because it settles long-standing Tribal water claims.

It is important to remember the reasons this project is necessary. In 1976 the United States, on behalf of the Southern Ute and Ute Mountain Ute Indian Tribes filed an application in Colorado water court for adjudication of their reserved water rights on numerous tributaries covering virtually all of southwestern Colorado. If these rights were confirmed, numerous vested water rights would become junior to the Tribes' water rights. Cities, industry, farmers, ranchers and numerous other water users feared that the Tribes could take water from existing uses and could frustrate future non-tribal development.

The underlying agreement took years to negotiate and was based on commitments and compromises made by all parties, Native Americans and non-native Americans alike. A look at the general purposes set out in the settlement agreement confirms the very importance of us meeting our obligations. That agreement finally determined all rights and claims of the Tribes for water, settled existing disputes and removed causes of future controversy among the Tribes, State of Colorado, the U.S. concerning the rights to beneficially use water in southwestern Colorado. It secured for the Tribes an opportunity to generate revenue from the use of reserved water rights obtained under the agreement.

Pursuant to the terms of the agreement, if parts of the Animas-La Plata project are not completed by the year 2000, the Tribes have the option to go back to water court and pursue their original claims in the Animas and La Plata river systems. The result could be costly litigation between the U.S., State, and individual water right holders throughout the region. Further uncertainty regarding the practical use and value of many water rights would exist.

Congress has recognized its contractual and moral obligations to the parties of the settlement agreement by continuing to fund the project. Congress further recognized the project's importance by requiring the Bureau of Reclamation to construct the project without further delay in legislation passed last year.

Critics have stated that the settlement agreement can no longer be met. That, I believe, is a surprise to many of those parties to the agreement. To completely scrap the project by no longer funding it will wreak havoc on economies and water administration in the State of Colorado. The Tribes would most likely be forced to reopen their claims in a long and costly court battle. Certainty, with respect to these reserved rights could not be expected for many more years, perhaps decades.

Both the Southern Ute and Ute Mountain Ute Tribes strongly support building Animas-La Plata to implement the Settlement Agreement. In fact, the Tribes have filed a civil action against the Environmental Protection Agency in the U.S. District Court in Denver to compel EPA to fulfill its contractual and statutory duties to the Tribes and refrain from obstructing construction of the project.

The economic viability of the project has been criticized. However, as the Bureau points out in its report, the analysis does not take into account the tangible and intangible benefits of resolving the Tribes' reserved rights claims without lengthy, costly litigation that would pit Indian and non-Indian neighbors against each other.

The project will comply, as required by law, with the Endangered Species Act and all other applicable environmental statutes. The environmental effects of Animas-La Plata are carefully considered and addressed in the April 1996 Final Supplement to the Final Environmental Statement (FSFES). Extensive mitigation measures are proposed for the project.

Some project critics have urged that further studies be done on the Project. Further studies would do nothing more than delay the project beyond the settlement agreement deadline and further escalate costs. Alternatives were considered in the 1980 environmental impact statement, they were considered again during negotiation of the Settlement Agreement, and the Bureau took a fresh and extremely thorough look at them in the FSFES, which took over four years to complete.

The Settlement Agreement requires that Animas-La Plata be built without further delay. The State of Colorado has already spent over $11,000,000 to implement the Settlement Agreement, with an additional $48,000,000 set aside in escrow. The United States should likewise honor its commitment to the Tribes and the settlement. I strongly urge you to oppose any attempt to delete appropriations for the Animas-La Plata Project from the 1997 Energy and Water Development Appropriations Bill.

Sincerely,

GALE A. NORTON,
Attorney General.

NATIVE AMERICAN RIGHTS FUND,
Boulder, CO, July 2, 1996.

U.S. HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,
Washington, DC.

DEAR REPRESENTATIVE: The Native American Rights Fund opposes any effort to delete funding for the Animas-La Plata Project which would affect the implementation of the 1988 Colorado Ute Indian Water Rights Settlement Act.

During the House consideration of the FY 1997 Energy and Water Appropriations bill, it is anticipated that Congressmen Petri and Defazio will offer an amendment to delete any funding the bill contains for this project and settlement.

The Ute Tribes and their non-Indian neighbors negotiated in good faith, rather than pursuing long, costly and divisive litigation.

Their goal was to share invaluable water resources and provide the Tribes with water promised them more than a century ago. Since the settlement became law in 1988, the Tribes and project sponsors have fully cooperated with federal agencies and complied with environmental law.

It is now time for the federal government to live up to its moral and legal obligation to the Tribes. Denying funding and forcing negotiation of a new deal is an extreme step which breaches the United States' trust responsibility.

Please vote against any amendment which would cut off funding for the Animas-La Plata Project and the Colorado Ute Tribes' Settlement.

Sincerely,

JOHN E. ECHOHAWK,
Executive Director.

STATE OF COLORADO,
HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Denver, CO, July 1, 1996.

Hon. NEIL ABERCROMBIE,
U.S. House of Representatives, Longworth
House Office Building, Washington, DC.

DEAR REPRESENTATIVE ABERCROMBIE, When the House considers the FY '97 Energy and Water Appropriations bill, it is my understanding that Congressmen Petri and DeFazio may offer an amendment to delete any funding for the Animas La Plata Project and therefore the related Indian water rights settlement between the Ute Tribes and the State of Colorado.

I, along with Sen. Ben Alexander (R-Montrose), represent the project area, the Tribes and the non-Indian parties to the settlement. We strongly encourage you not to pull the rug out from under this negotiated agreement by withdrawing funds to implement it.

My constituents have negotiated in good faith, and avoided costly litigation which in the end would not provide real water to the Tribes and divide cultures which have worked well together. When the parties signed the settlement agreement, they took the federal government at its word. All other parties have lived up to their end of the bargain, including the State of Colorado which has a $60 million commitment to this project and settlement.

It is time for the United States Government to keep its word and begin construction on at least those project features defined in last year's appropriations bill, which told the Secretary of the Interior to construct "without delay."

I respectfully request that you vote against any amendment which would cut off funding for the Animas-La Plata Project and the Colorado Ute Indian Water Rights Settlement.

Sincerely,

JIM DYER,
State Representative.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY;
STATE OF COLORADO
Denver, CO, July 1, 1996.

Hon. DICK ZIMMER,
U.S. House of Representatives, Cannon House
Office Building, Washington, DC.

DEAR REPRESENTATIVE ZIMMER, when the House considers the FY '97 Energy and Water Appropriations bill, it is my understanding that Congressmen Petri and DeFazio may offer an amendment to delete any funding for the Animas-La Plata Project and therefore the related Indian water rights settlement between the Ute Tribes and the State of Colorado.

I, along with Rep. Jim Dyer (D-Durango), represent the project area, the Tribes and the non-Indian parties to the settlement. We strongly encourage you not to pull the rug out from under this negotiated agreement by withdrawing funds to implement it.

My constituents have negotiated in good faith, and avoided costly litigation which in the end would not provide real water to the Tribes and divide cultures which have worked well together. When the parties signed the settlement agreement, they took the federal government at its word. All other parties have lived up to their end of the bargain, including the State of Colorado which has a $60 million commitment to this project and settlement.

It is time for the United States Government to keep its word and begin construction on at least those project features defined in last year's appropriations bill, which told the Secretary of the Interior to construct "without delay."

I respectfully request that you vote against any amendment which would cut off funding for the Animas-La Plata Project and the Colorado Ute Indian Water Rights Settlement.

Sincerely,

BEN ALEXANDER,
State Senator.

[From the Denver Post, July 28, 1996]

SENATE SHOULD RESTORE A-LP

Environmental groups won a round against Western and Native American interests last week when the U.S. House of Representatives voted 221-200 to delete $10 million in funding for the Animas-La Plata water project in Southwestern Colorado. But prospects are good that the Senate will keep the project alive.

The thinly populated Rocky Mountain states have little clout in the House, where environmental groups waged a concerted assault on the water project. As Colorado Rep. Scott McInnis whose 3rd District would host the project, notes, it's easy for a member of Congress from the East or South to please environmentalists by voting against a water project in Colorado. But the Senate—where the sparsely settled Rocky Mountain states have the same two senators as larger states do—is a much more favorable battleground for the West. And in Ben Nighthorse Campbell, the only Native American now serving in Congress, the project has a powerful champion.

"Look for Ben Campbell to come out swinging," a project supporter told a Post editor Thursday, the day after the House vote. We didn't have to look for long—Campbell called minutes later to reaffirm his support for the project.

"The Senate Appropriations Committee has already appropriated $9.5 million for Animas-La Plata," Campbell said. "I think it will stay in on the floor and stay in the bill later after we go to conference with the House."

"A lot of those House members who voted against Animas-La Plata weren't here in 1988 when the Indian Settlement Act passed and the project was authorized," Campbell said. "There have been 270 treaties between the U.S. government and the Indians and they have all been broken, without exception. I would hope this is not another broken promise."

We share Campbell's hopes, for selfish as well as moral, reasons. As part of the 1988 settlement, the Southern Ute and Ute Mountain Ute tribes agreed to abide by the "law of the river," a complex set of regulations that includes the Colorado River Compact. But if Congress repudiates its own pledge to convert the abstract Indian water rights into "wet water" the tribes can actually use to preserve their lifestyle, the Utes can return to court. In the process, they could rip huge holes in the fabric of state water law and of the Colorado River Compact itself.

That is decidedly not what the Utes want. What they want is what they deserve—their water. We trust the Senate will recognize that the Animas-La Plata project is the only practical way to meet a long-standing obligation to a people who have been cheated far too many times.

Mr. CAMPBELL. Mr. President, an amendment to strike funding for the Animas-LaPlata project is an attempt to further delay a project that was first authorized by Congress in 1968 and is the cornerstone to fulfilling the provisions of the Colorado Ute Indian Water Rights Settlement Act, enacted and signed into law by President Bush in 1988.

It seems to be that assumption of many people that "a feasibility of the project study" has not been completed, or that "feasible alternatives that may be available to fulfill the water rights of the Ute tribes", have not been explored. Frankly, Mr. President, the Senator from Wisconsin is mistaken.

In an effort to further clarify the record, I would like to share with my colleagues a brief chronology of events that show that all possible alternatives have been explored, debated, and even voted on in various public referendums.

In 1968: Congress authorized the Colorado River Basin Project Act.

Congress appropriated funds for advance studies.

In 1974-1977: the Southwestern Water Conservation District and the Bureau of Reclamation sponsored a thorough process of public involvement that compared four major alternatives and dozens of sub-alternatives for each of the four major plans. In total, approximately 100 alternatives were considered.

In 1979: The Definite Plan Report, detailing the new configuration of Ridges Basin and Southern Ute Reservoirs is completed.

Endangered Species Act, nonjeopardy opinion on Animas-La Plata project is issued by the Fish and Wildlife Service.

In 1980: The final environmental statement is completed.

In 1986: The Department of the Interior accepts cost-sharing arrangement that calls for State and local entities to provide 38 percent of the upfront funding.

Enactment of the Colorado Ute Indian Water Rights Settlement Act.

In 1987 and in 1990, voters in La Plata County, CO, and in San Juan County, NM, overwhelmingly endorsed BOR's construction of the ALP project.

October 6, 1991: Ground breaking ceremony is held in Durango.

In 1992, the San Juan River Recovery Implementation Program was executed with the dual goals of the recovery of the endangered fish in the San Juan River and allowing water development to go forward.

And as recently as the last 2 months, again the city of Durango, in a vote of confidence for the project, approved a resolution in support of the ALP project.

Since 1992, the project has been mired down in litigation by project opponents involving a laundry list of environmental related issues.

The fact is that the Ute Indian Tribes own the water rights to the Animas La Plata system by virtue of various treaties with the U.S. Government. These treaty rights have been upheld by the Supreme Court of the United States when disputes have arisen in other States.

The tribes and the water districts chose negotiation over litigation. Rather than engage in expensive and divisive legal battles, the tribes and the citizens of Colorado and New Mexico chose to pursue a negotiated settlement. The Ute Tribes agreed to share their water with all people. The people came together in partnership and cooperation with the Federal Government to reach a mutually beneficial solution: the construction of the Animas La Plata project. Their settlement agreement was executed on December 10, 1986. The Settlement Act was ratified by Congress and signed into law on November 3, 1988.

The Settlement Act also approved a cost-sharing agreement. The water districts and the States of Colorado and New Mexico have put their money where their mouth is—and have already lived up to the terms of these agreements. Consider that:

First, the State of Colorado has committed $30 million to the settlement of the tribes' water rights claims, has expended $6 million to construct a domestic pipeline from the Cortez municipal water treatment plant to the Ute Mountain Ute Indian Reservation at Towaoc, and has contributed $5 million to the tribal development funds;

Second, the U.S. Congress has appropriated and turned over to the Ute mountain Ute and Southern Ute Indian Tribes $49.5 million as part of their tribal development funds, and Third, water user organizations have signed repayment contracts with Reclamation.

The construction of the ALP project is the only missing piece to the successful implementation of the settlement agreement and the Settlement Act. It is time that the U.S. Government kept its' commitment to the people.

Historically, this country has chosen to ignore its obligations to our Indian people. Members of the Ute Tribes had been living in a state of poverty that can only be described as obscene. Their only source of drinking water was from ditches dug in the ground. I find it most distressing that the same groups and special interests who are now scrambling to block this project also, in other contexts, hold themselves out as the only real defenders of minority rights in this country.

This project would provide adequate water reserves to not only the Ute Nation, but to people in southwestern Colorado, northern New Mexico, and other downstream users who rely on this water system for a variety of crucial needs which range from endangered species protection to safe drinking water in towns and cities—perhaps even filling swimming pools for some of our critics.

The Southern Ute Indians and the Ute Mountain Ute Indian Tribes have rejected any buy out proposals. They simply want decent and reliable water supplies—using their own water—for their people. In exchange, all the people of the area will benefit. The Sierra Club, National Wildlife, and other opponents are apparently willing to spend even more hundreds of millions of tax dollars to buy off the Indians than it would cost to complete the project.

Mr. President, on March 1, of last year Secretary Babbitt testified before the House Appropriations Subcommittee on Energy and Water Development, that the Department of Interior has devoted the resources of his agency to carrying out the will of Congress on the ALP project, and will continue to do so.

He further stated that "the Benefit/Cost issue has already been settled and decided by the Congress." And further that "it is no longer on the table as far as his [Secretary Babbitt's] experience over 30 years across the West. And that is not an issue that any court is going to take up.

And more recently, the Director of the Colorado Department of Natural Resources earlier this year testified before the House Energy and Water Subcommittee in support of the Animas-LaPlata project.

In conclusion, I would like to include for the record several items that includes a letter from a Mr. Harrick Roth, chairman of the Colorado Forum, that appeared in the Denver Post.

He writes:

There are no secrets about ALP. There are 25 years of documents produced by the Bureau of Reclamation, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Colorado River Salinity Control Project, the EPA, the New Mexico Interstate River Commission, the Colorado Water Conservation Board and the Colorado Water and Power authority—just to name a few.

On the question of meeting the needs of the native Americans, he writes:

To the Editor: You have done it yet again. Treat Indians as our wards, you say. Give them "taxpayer" welfare benefits. Your "howevers" continue as you argue that it will be cheaper for taxpayers to take any alternative course. Since paleface Americans, like yourselves and myself, have made it historical practice to break treaties with Native American nations and relegate tribes to "reservations" of limited geography, your editorial prescribes "continue the course!!".

Just yesterday, July 28, yet another article appeared in the Denver Post in support of the ALP project.

Mr. President, the bottom line is, there has been exhaustive efforts to accommodate all parties from an environmental perspective and an economic perspective. The completion of this project will summarily fulfill the obligations of the Federal Government to the Ute Indian Tribes. For these reasons would ask my colleagues to oppose this amendment that seeks to strike funding for the Animas-LaPlata project.

Mr. President, is the time appropriate now to move to table the Feingold amendment?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The time is appropriate.

Mr. CAMPBELL. I, therefore, move to table the Feingold amendment and ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There is a sufficient second.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The motion before the body is the motion to table the Feingold amendment No. 5106. The yeas and nays have been ordered.

Mr. DOMENICI addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New Mexico.

Mr. DOMENICI. I ask unanimous consent that there be 2 minutes equally divided.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, there will be 2 minutes equally divided between the Senators.

Mr. FEINGOLD addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Wisconsin is recognized.

Mr. FEINGOLD. I thank the Senator from New Mexico. I recognize there are strong feelings on this project and deep divisions in the region. I say to the junior Senator from Colorado, we must honor our commitment to this tribe. The question is how to honor the commitment.

This project was first authorized in 1968. As I understand it, it had little or nothing to do at that time with the issue of water for the native American tribe. Three decades later, it has not been built. Realistically, my colleagues, it will never be built. It is not economically or fiscally feasible that we keep spending money on it. There are legitimate Indian needs that should be addressed and have to be addressed. Remember, only one-third of the water concerned here will go to native American tribes; two-thirds goes to others. Yet, there are substantial questions, in the end, under this project, that the tribes in consideration here will be able to obtain the water.

This project is dead. Let us return to the drawing board and scale this down so it can meet our commitment without wasting substantial taxpayer dollars.

I urge the members to support the amendment and oppose the motion to table.

I want to make a few remarks to clarify several points in the committee report dealing with the Animas-La Plata water project. The committee report contains a discussion of the status of efforts by the Bureau of Reclamation to comply with numerous laws applicable to the project. It is my understanding that the committee report simply sets forth the views of the committee and is not intended to waive any provision of law or to declare that the Bureau's efforts at compliance are sufficient to satisfy any law.

I want to make it clear, for the record, that the committee report cannot have the effect of circumventing the jurisdiction or procedures of any administrative agency with respect to the Animas-La Plata project.

It is important to make this clear because the project has been and is at present the subject of litigation concerning compliance with various environmental and reclamation laws. The committee report cannot have the effect of making any factual findings which would usurp the jurisdiction of the courts or the relevant administrative agencies with respect to whether the Animas-La Plata project is in compliance with applicable environmental, financial, and reclamation laws.

I expect that the Congress will be revisiting the future of this project, regardless of the outcome this year, and it is important in the meantime that there be no misunderstanding as to the applicability of existing laws which constrain further development.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New Mexico.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I rise to compliment the distinguished junior Senator from Colorado. I believe that was as elegant a speech as we have ever heard. It did not take him very long, but he made the point.

Actually, the United States of America has committed to two Indian tribes for which this project would proceed. I believe he stated it right. People with different ideas and different justifications enter this case, but I believe that the project has been proven technically sound. It has continued to receive the full support of those who will put it together and finalize it.

I think the Senator has put the final touches on it with his argument that we ought to live up to our commitments to the Indian people.

I might suggest, although all the water does not go to the Indian people, that there are non-Indian people who have been relying on this water and waiting for it, also. They should not be ignored just because some people want to now change midstream.

I hope we support the motion to table and move on to take this to conference with the House.

I yield the floor.

Mr. CRAIG. Mr. President, I rise in strong opposition to the amendment by the Senator from Wisconsin. Despite its superficial appeal, the effects of his amendment would be devastating not only to the Ute Tribes in Colorado, but also for every other tribe and State who are attempting to resolve disputes over water rights through negotiated settlement rather than endless litigation.

The Senator from Wisconsin pretends that his amendment will save money—he is wrong. Indian litigation is the closest this country has come to the situation Dickens described in Bleak House. There are law firms that probably can no longer even remember who the partner was who first brought the litigation, but generations have profited—generations of lawyers both within and without the Government.

The Colorado Ute Settlement Act was a remarkable accomplishment, and it has served as a model for other settlements in Utah and Arizona. It would be unconscionable to overturn that settlement, especially for the specious arguments put forward by the opponents.

Mr. President, even Secretary Babbitt has grudgingly endorsed completion of the Animas-La Plata project because of the importance of fulfilling the Federal obligations under the negotiated settlement. Remember, this is Secretary Babbitt—the Secretary who wants to take down a really big Federal dam, the Secretary who has waged an incessant war against farmers, ranchers, miners, and those who work the land to produce the food, fiber, and material to support this Nation. This is the Secretary who repeatedly has decry what he views as an individualistic concept of private property and who has attacked State jurisdiction over water resources. This is the Secretary who would have used the Reclamation Reform Act as a lever for Federal regulation of farm operations and proposed Federal definitions of what constituted beneficial use to override State water law in his proposed lower Colorado regulations. Even this Secretary, no friend to any farmer, Indian or non-Indian, has supported funding the Animas-La Plata project.

Mr. President, the funding in this appropriation measure is not some incidental addition from the Congress. This administration requested $10 million for the Animas-La Plata project for work on the Ridges Basin Dam and Reservoir, and for preconstruction activities, cultural resource mitigation, environmental compliance, and endangered species studies. I hesitate to mention that the Fish and Wildlife Service is proximately responsible for the situation on the San Juan, and at least in this Senator's view, should bear all the costs associated with species recovery and mitigation. This administration—the same one that opposed $5 million to provide potable water to the rural residents at Fort Peck—this administration supports funding this project. That is how important having the Federal Government fulfill its obligations under the Colorado Ute Settlement Act is.

Mr. President, I oppose the amendment by the Senator from Wisconsin and urge my colleagues to support the action taken by the Appropriations Committee.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the motion of the Senator from Colorado to lay on the table the amendment of the Senator from Wisconsin. On this question, the yeas and nays have been ordered, and the clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk called the roll.

Mr. NICKLES. I announce that the Senator from Kansas [Mrs. FRAHM] is necessarily absent.

Mr. FORD. I announce that the Senator from Rhode Island [Mr. PELL] is necessarily absent.

I also announce that the Senator from Rhode Island [Mr. PELL] is absent because of a funeral.

I further announce that, if present and voting, the Senator from Rhode Island [Mr. PELL] would vote "nay."

The result was announced—yeas 65, nays 33, as follows:

NOT VOTING—2

Frahm PELL

The motion to lay on the table the amendment (No. 5106) was agreed to.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote by which the motion was agreed to.

Mr. JOHNSTON. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I think the next amendment is the Grams amendment with reference to ARC.

AMENDMENT NO. 5105

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair's record shows the next amendment in order is McCain amendment No. 5105. Does the Senator from New Mexico request the Grams amendment be taken up next?

Mr. DOMENICI. I believe it is appropriate to withdraw that amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, the amendment is withdrawn.

The amendment (No. 5105) was withdrawn.

AMENDMENT NO. 5100

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on the Grams amendment. There are 2 minutes equally divided. The Senator from Minnesota is recognized.

Mr. GRAMS. Mr. President, thank you very much. This is a very moderate and very straightforward amendment. All it does is simply adopt the funding of the Appalachian Regional Commission—

Mr. DOMENICI. May we have order?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator will suspend. The Senate will be in order.

Mr. DOMENICI. Might I just say to the Senators who are walking out of here, in 2 minutes, we are going to start voting again on this amendment. So it might be best to stay around.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Minnesota is recognized.

Mr. GRAMS. Thank you, Mr. President.

Mr. President, again, as I said, this is a very moderate and straightforward amendment. All it does is simply adopt the funding for the Appalachian Regional Commission at the House-passed level of $10 million less than that approved by the Senate.

It requires that the commission provide a specific plan for future downsizing. Like many Federal programs, the ARC was created back in 1965 as a temporary response—temporary response—to poverty in Appalachia.

Today, over 30 years later and despite the infusion of more than $7 billion of taxpayer money into the region, we are still pouring money into the area under the pretext of fighting poverty. This program is one of 62 Federal economic development programs. The ARC is the only major Government agency targeted toward a specific region of the country.

This program has outlived its original mandate. It is ineffective and it is expensive and simply does not work. American taxpayers can no longer afford such extravagant spending. That is why CBO, the Senate, the House budget committees all recommended elimination of the ARC. Even President Clinton recommended reducing it by $500 million in budget authority and $300 million in outlays over the next 5 years. Although I strongly believe the ARC should be terminated, the Grams-McCain amendment does not zero out funding for the ARC, nor does it reduce it significantly. It simply reduces the level of funding to that approved by the House of $155 million, not the $165 million in the Senate budget. It also provides a specific plan for future downsizing. I urge my colleagues to support this very moderate amendment. Thank you, Mr. President.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair will note that while we have been observing 2 minutes equally divided, there is not an agreement limiting debate on this amendment to that level. Who seeks recognition?

Mr. JOHNSTON addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Louisiana.

Mr. JOHNSTON. Mr. President, we strongly oppose the Grams-McCain amendment and strongly support the Appalachian Regional Commission at this level. Mr. President, this has been an effective program to fight poverty in Appalachia. Appalachia is still one of the most expensive places to build roads, one of the poorest places on the face of the United States, and one of the most needed functions of Government that I can think of.

It is an ongoing program that brings roads and access to people in the mountains and hollows and poor areas of West Virginia and other States in Appalachia. We strongly oppose the Grams amendment and support Senator DOMENICI's motion to table.

Mr. DOMENICI addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New Mexico is recognized.

Mr. DOMENICI. I move to table the amendment and ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second? There appears to be a sufficient second.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

Mr. FORD addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Kentucky.

Mr. FORD. Mr. President, I rise today in opposition to the Grams amendment to further reduce spending for the Appalachian Regional Commission. ARC serves parts of 13 States including 39 counties in my State, and I'm disappointed to see that my colleague from Minnesota is still not convinced of the importance of this program.

The people of eastern Kentucky have much to be proud. That region of the country has a strong tradition of producing some of this country's most gifted musicians, writers, and artists.

But, unfortunately, they also produce something none of us are particularly proud of—poverty.

Back in 1993, the Washington Post wrote that "the last time the United States fought a war on poverty here, poverty won." That's because the forces at work manufacturing this region's double-digit poverty figures and all the social disintegration that comes with those figures, are deeply imbedded in a region that was subjected to a century of economic exploitation and geographic isolation.

While poverty claimed victory 30 years ago in the first years of President Johnson's admirable battle, those of us with a deep-seated commitment to the Appalachian region knew that the task of undoing a century of destruction would not be quick in coming. ARC was borne of this commitment to see the battle against entrenched poverty through to the end—to the time when poverty would no longer be the norm.

And in fact ARC has had a dramatic effect in improving the lives of Appalachian citizens, including cutting the region's poverty rate in half, reducing the infant mortality rate by two-thirds, doubling the percentage of high school graduates, slowing the regions out migration, and reducing unemployment rates.

With 115 of the region's 399 counties still classified as economically distressed, we certainly cannot say we have won the war. But, we can say that we have weakened poverty's hold on this region. * * * that we have given the proud people of this region a finger hold in the climb back to self-sufficiency and productivity.

My colleagues should be aware that the ARC's fiscal year 1996 appropriation represents a cut of almost 40 percent from the fiscal year 1995 funding level, while the bill we're considering today makes an additional cut of $5 million for fiscal year 1997. We have already had this debate last year, when my colleague also made an attempt to cripple this program and to cripple the Nation's ability to move an entire region of the country from poverty to productivity.

On August 1 of last year, a very similar amendment offered by the Senator from Minnesota was tabled by a vote of 60 to 38. His amendment failed last year for the same reasons it should not prevail today. ARC is doing its job—helping communities put in place the building blocks of social and economic development to create self-sustaining local economies that can become contributors to the Nation's resources rather than drains on the Nation's resources.

It does this by providing the glue money that leverages other investment from the private sector, other Federal programs, or State and local funds. Since 1992, in my State alone ARC has provided over $80 million that in turn leveraged more than $115 million in additional funds. These were for a wide range of projects from water and sewage systems to tourism to adult literacy.

And as my colleagues pointed out last year, the ARC that is accomplishing this mission is lean and efficient. When it comes to administrative and personnel expenses you'd be hard pressed to find an agency as efficient. Total overhead accounts for less than 4 percent of all expenditures with State Governors contributing 50 percent of those administrative costs.

I can assure you, those Governors wouldn't be made that contribution in these tight fiscal times if they didn't believe they were getting their money's worth.

But, ARC work is far from done. As the national highway system began criss-crossing the country tying State's together and creating jobs in its wake, the mountainous Appalachian region was left behind.

Today, ARC's highway project has had a tremendous impact on the region. A 1987 survey showed that between 1980 and 1986, 560,000 jobs were created in the Appalachian counties with a major highway—4 times that of counties without.

With only 76 percent of the 3,025 mile Appalachian development highway system constructed or under contract, those figures tell all too clearly why it's so important to let ARC complete its work.

The same is true with ARC's involvement with a wide range of other projects from health care to job training to water treatment to small business assistance. And, even with ARC funding, Appalachia receives 11 percent less in total per capita Federal spending than the national average.

And, I hope my colleagues will remember that this debate takes place just 1 week after this body made huge changes in the welfare program. We cannot ignore the total impact of changes to the welfare system and crippling cuts in ARC to this region of the country.

Mr. President, I hope my colleagues will join me in defeating this amendment and sending a strong signal to the people of Appalachia that we support their tremendous efforts to move their region forward and secure productive and prosperous futures for their children.

Also, the Senator from Minnesota said that this duplicated a lot of other Federal programs. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that a statement that shows that it does not duplicate other Federal programs be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

ARC DOES NOT DUPLICATE OTHER FEDERAL PROGRAMS

Many distressed Appalachian communities lack the resources to meet the match requirement of other federal programs, making them unable to take advantage of programs from EDA, FmHA, HUD, Education or other agencies. Rather than duplicating these other programs, ARC funds essentially make the programs available to communities that otherwise could not take advantage of them. In that sense our funds are supplemental, not duplicative. This increases federal participation in Appalachian areas, which was a part of the original purpose of ARC. (The administration of these ARC grants then goes through the basic agency whose program we are supplementing.)

ARC funds are more flexible than programs from other federal agencies, allowing states and communities to tailor the projects to their individual needs. An ARC project, for example, could include elements of an EDA project, a FmHA project, or a HUD project, while it would not have been fully eligible for funding under any single program at another federal agency.

ARC projects originate from the local level and are determined by each state's governor. Unlike most other federal programs, this lets the governors decide which projects will receive federal funding.

Up until ISTEA in 1991, the ARC highway program was not on the regular federal highway system. ISTEA added all but roughly 240 miles of ARC highways to the National Highway System. Separate highway funding is important for several reasons. First, for those miles not covered by ISTEA the ARC funding is the only federal source. Second, ARC funding allows the highways to be constructed sooner than they might be if they were funded solely through ISTEA. This is in keeping with the commitment that the nation made to this region almost 30 years ago to break down the isolation that had plagued the region and link it to national and international commerce. Third, ARC sees highways as elements of an economic development strategy, rather than just a transportation strategy.

Even with ARC's special assistance to the region, Appalachia receives 11% less in total per capita federal spending (including grants, contracts, and transfer payments) than the national average.

WHY SPECIAL ASSISTANCE TO APPALACHIA?

ARC was designed to address the special problems of an entire region that had suffered from over a hundred years of neglect, a region marked by profound problems of persistent and widespread economic distress in a concentrated geographic area that set it apart from the economic mainstream of the nation.

The economic problems of Appalachia are long-term, widespread and fundamental. They are not, for example, the result of short-term cyclical changes in the economy (to which programs like EDA are designed to respond). Rather, the region's economic troubles extend back for at least four generations. Few other areas of the country have economic problems that are so deeply ingrained. In addition, ARC's problems reach broadly across state lines, affecting the economies of the 13 states. This is not a case of sporadic distress that affect single counties. Instead, it is the result of region-wide historic patterns of underdevelopment, isolation, exploitation and migration. Only a couple of other areas of the country have such profound economic problems that sweep across state lines the way Appalachia does.

The economic challenges faced by communities in Appalachia ultimately dampen the growth of the American economy. They create a drain on the national economy, through lowered productivity and reduced output, diminished economic growth and investment, increased government support through transfer payments, and a lowered standard of living. Half of the counties in the ARC region receive federal transfer payments in excess of the national average on a per capita basis. Until we help these people and communities move into the economic mainstream, they will continue to be a drain on the national resources, diminishing our national wealth. It is, therefore, in the interest of California, or Wisconsin or Florida to help Appalachian communities become economically strong and contributing their fair share to the national wealth.

Even with ARC's special assistance, Appalachia receives 11% less in per capita federal spending than the national average. Total per capita federal spending (including grants, contracts, and transfer payments) in Appalachia is $4407, while the national average is $4,917. Rather than giving Appalachia something "extra," ARC just helps the region come closer to getting its fair share of federal resources.

From its creation ARC has worked to develop regional solutions to these economic problems that reach across state lines. Much of the Commission's success flows from this regional approach. No other federal program is deliberately designed to address problems on a multistate basis.

GENERAL ACCOMPLISHMENTS

ARC's diverse programs have produced tangible results across the region:

Water and Sewer Systems. ARC funding brought the first sewer lines and clean drinking water to 700,000 residents of Appalachian counties designated as "distressed" due to high rates of poverty and unemployment, and low per capita income. This often corrected severe public health problems. About 2,000 new water and/or sewer systems have provided the infrastructure needed for job creation. As a result of these projects, thousands of jobs have been created or retained.

Access to Health Care. A network of more than 400 primary health care clinics and hospitals has been completed with ARC funding and now serves some 4 million Appalachians a year. More than 5,000 new physicians have opened practices in Appalachia just since 1980. Infant mortality has dropped from 26.5 infant deaths per 1,000 live births in 1960 to 8.3 in 1994.

Child Care Centers. ARC has supported child development in the Region by helping build child care centers that offer low-income families a full range of educational, health and social services. These services have assisted more than 220,000 pre-school-age children and allowed mothers to earn income needed to keep their families above the poverty line.

Educational Advancement. ARC has helped construct and/or equip more than 700 vocational and technical education facilities serving more than 500,000 students a year. In 1965, only 32% of Appalachians over age 25 had finished high school. Today, that figure has risen to 68.4%. Among young adults age 18-24, 77% of Appalachians have completed 12 or more years of school, compared with the national average of 76%.

Job Skills Training. In the past 10 years, about 60,000 workers who lack a high school diploma or GED have been retrained through basic skills training in the workplace. The skills of more than 30,000 other workers have been upgraded to compete for high-tech jobs or to provide specific skills required by local employers.

Affordable Housing. Housing shortages have been alleviated by the rehabilitation and construction of more than 14,000 housing units, especially in areas hampered by the lack of construction sites and construction loans. ARC has pioneered innovative approaches to housing development finance to make home ownership more affordable.

Leveraged Investments. A sample of 556 ARC community development projects that were funded between 1983 and 1996 showed that those grants had leveraged over $7.3 billion in private sector investments in the region.

Small Business Assistance. ARC grants to revolving loan funds in ten states totaled $18.7 million, thereby assisting 822 small businesses—the source of some 8,000 new jobs in Appalachia. In the past, small businesses could not start and grow due to the lack of capital and conservative lending practices in small towns and rural areas, sources of most new jobs in Appalachia. The ARC loan program has leveraged $328.9 million of small business investment in the region—a ratio of almost 20 to 1.

Local Leadership Development. ARC has actively supported the Local Development District (LDD) concept, which was in its infancy in 1965. These 69 multi-county local planning and development agencies foster cooperation in decision-making and leadership development among hundreds of locally-elected officials and private citizens who serve on their boards. LDDs have strengthened the ability of local governments to provide efficient, modern services to their constituents.

SOCIOECONOMIC ACCOMPLISHMENTS

ARC's investments in the region have yielded impressive measurable improvement in the lives of the people of Appalachia and in the economic condition of the region.

The poverty rate in has been cut in half, falling from 31.1% in 1960 to 15.2% in 1990.

The infant mortality rate has been cut by two-thirds, going from 26.5 (deaths per thousand births) in 1960 to 8.3 in 1994.

Per capita income has improved dramatically. In 1960, the region's income was 78.1% of the national average. Today it is 83.5% of the national average.

The percentage of adults with a high school degree has doubled from 32.8% in 1960 to 68.4% in 1990.

Among adults age 18-24, the high school graduation rate now equals the national average (78%).

Overall employment rates now approximate the national average.

New outmigration has slowed, from 12.2% during the 1950s to 2.2% in the 1980s.

Population in growing. Between 1990 and 1995, the region's population increased 4.6% with all parts of Appalachia showing growth over the five-year period.

Thirty-eight counties now have economies which are performing at or near national norms of income, employment, and poverty.

THE TASK IS NOT YET DONE

Despite the significant progress the region has made, many portions of Appalachia still do not participate fully in the strength of the American economy. In a word, Appalachia has become a region of contrasts in the past 30 years. The region has made enormous strides, but because it began so far behind the rest of the nation, there is need for continued special assistance that will make these hundreds of communities and millions of people contributors to, rather than drains on, the national resources.

115 of ARC's 399 counties are classified as severely distressed. This means that they suffer from unemployment rates that are at least 150% of the national average, poverty rates that are at least 150% of the national average, and per capita incomes that are no more than 2/3 of the national average. These are areas of persistent and widespread economic distress.

The region of contrasts means that while northern and southern Appalachia have done relatively well, central Appalachia is still severely distressed. In all three sections, the non-metro counties lag the nation on almost all socioeconomic measures.

The poverty rate for Appalachia is 16% higher than the national average.

Appalachia's per capita income is only 83% ($17,406) of the U.S. average ($20,800).

Over 20% of the youth in northern and southern rural areas are growing up in poverty, and an even higher 34% of youth in central Appalachia live in poverty.

Across the region as a whole, rural Appalachia is poorer than the rest of rural America, and metropolitan Appalachia is poorer than the rest of metropolitan America.

The problems are particularly acute in Central Appalachia, where the poverty rate is 27% rural per capita income is still only two-thirds of the national average, and unemployment rates are almost double the national average.

The Appalachian Regional Development Highway System, the federal government's commitment to ending the region's isolation, is only 76% complete, with major segments not yet under contract for construction.

Mr. FORD. Mr. President, I remind my colleagues that over 60 Members voted for tabling last time.

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, I rise in opposition to the amendment offered by the Senator from Minnesota that would reduce the Committee recommendation for the Appalachian Regional Commission from $165 million to $155.3 million. The House and Senate have voted on three different occasions against efforts to terminate or reduce funding for ARC, and I urge the Senate to reject again this attempt to penalize Appalachia.

The Committee recommendation already reduces ARC by $5 million below the amount requested in the President's Budget. The recommendation of the Senate Appropriations Committee is $17 million below the amount approved by the Senate last year for ARC. And when compared to prior year funding levels, ARC has already borne more than its fair share of deficit reduction in this appropriations bill. When compared to the fiscal year 1995 funding level for ARC, the amount recommended in the bill by the Appropriations Committee is down $117 million, or 41 percent. Let me repeat—in two years, the funding for this agency has decreased by $117 million.

Mr. President, the Committee's recommendation is a responsible one. Funding for ARC is already reduced below the President's budget. The Energy and Water appropriations bill is within its 602(b) allocation. Because of the efforts of Senator DOMENICI, the Energy and Water Subcommittee has a higher allocation than the House. As a result, additional funds are allocated throughout the bill to produce a more balanced, reasoned approach to funding for the programs in the bill. The Senate version of the Energy and Water bill provides more funding than the House bill for several programs—not just ARC. For example, funding for flood control along the Mississippi River and its tributaries is above the House level, as is funding for the Bureau of Reclamation construction (which benefits just the 17 States west of the Mississippi River). The Senate bill provides considerably more funding than the House bill for Atomic Energy Defense Activities. However, it is only ARC that is targeted for further reduction.

I cannot help but wonder if this type of amendment would be proposed if the name of this agency were the Rural Development Commission. Is it appropriate for the Senate to punish the people who are served by an agency's programs by virtue of where they live? I do not believe this is the tradition of the Senate. The Senate supports those who are in need—whether it is through quick response with additional funds when disaster occurs, or through assistance to improve the opportunities available to those who are struggling.

Mr. President, there are any number of programs in the Government that benefit a limited geographic area of the country. But in making decisions about Federal programs, the Appropriations Committee does not target spending reductions for programs based solely on geographic criteria. There are any number of programs that continue to receive funding even though they might not benefit all areas equally. In the Interior bill, for example, we appropriated over $113 million in fiscal year 1996 for the Payments in Lieu of Taxes program, even though 67 percent of the funds went to just eight States. Similarly, the Oregon and California Grant Lands account, which benefits just one State, continues to receive funding. So it is extremely unfair to suggest that the ARC funding should be reduced simply because of the reference to Appalachia in the title.

The mission of ARC is straightforward—to provide an effective regional development program that will create economic opportunity in distressed areas so that communities are better positioned to contribute to the national economy. Traditionally, there has been a great disparity in poverty and income levels between Appalachia and other parts of the country. And while great strides have been made, there is still much to be done. The programs of the ARC have contributed to improvements in the ability of the region to address the disparity in poverty and income levels between Appalachia and other parts of the country. Despite the progress in recent years, there is still much to be done. The income level in Appalachia is only 84 percent of the national average. The poverty rate in Appalachia is 16 percent above the national average. When it comes to United States expenditures on a per capita basis, even with the ARC funding, Appalachia receives 11 percent less in per capita Federal spending than the national average.

Mr. President, the programs of ARC help communities to develop their resources so that they will contribute to the Nation's economy. Many of the communities which benefit from the resources provided to ARC are without some of the most basic of services, including water and sewer infrastructure, access to health care, and decent roadways. Unless a transportation network is put in place that provides access to and from the rest of the Nation, Appalachia will remain isolated, and thus removed from competing for jobs with other population centers.

Some 30 years after establishment of the Appalachian Regional Corridor Highways, this network of 3,025 miles of highway is only about 76 percent complete. At the funding levels recommended in this bill, it will be well into the next century before this highway system is completed. The amendment offered by the Senator from Minnesota will delay further this access to safe and modern highways. The people of Appalachia deserve better from the United States Senate.

Sadly, there are still children in Appalachia who lack decent transportation routes to school. There are still pregnant women, elderly citizens and others who lack adequate, modern road access to area hospitals. There are thousands upon thousands of people who find it difficult to obtain sustainable, well-paying jobs because of poor road access to major employment centers. The ARC's limited resources play an important role in improving these circumstances. We should not reduce our efforts when so much work remains to be done.

ARC's programs do not duplicate those of other Federal agencies. The highway funds in ARC are the only source of Federal funding for Appalachian miles not covered in the Intermodal Surface Transportation Act [ISTEA]. Because of the poverty in Appalachia, many communities are unable to qualify for other Federal programs because they can't meet the matching requirements for local cost-sharing. How are communities ever to improve their circumstances if they are never given a helping hand? Because of the situations that exist in some of the small, isolated communities of Appalachia, flexibility is critical to successful problem solving. Thus, an existing program in one Federal agency may not suit the need—but the flexible nature of the ARC program does help solve problems.

The ARC was not set up as a temporary agency. It was set up to deal with long-term, wide-spread fundamental problems in Appalachia. The problems with which ARC deals are not short term in nature. Rather, ARC deals with region wide problems of under development, isolation, and economic disparity. In no other region of the country do such problems stretch across such a vast area.

Mr. President, we hear a great deal of talk in this body about empowering local communities and States to make decisions about what works best for them. The structure of the Appalachian Regional Commission does just that. ARC operates from the bottom up—projects originate at the local level, and the Commission is comprised of the Governors of the thirteen States in the region, along with a Federal co-chairman. At present, there are eight Republican and five Democratic Governors who serve on the Commission and who have endorsed its continuation. No policy can be set or any money spent unless the Federal representative and a majority of the Governors reach agreement.

Mr. President, I urge Senators to reject this amendment. This agency is already funded $117 million below the fiscal year 1995 level, $17 million below the fiscal year 1996 level approved by the Senate, and $5 million below the fiscal year 1997 budget request level. Cuts are already being imposed on the ARC. I urge the Senate to stand by its earlier votes in support of the Appalachian Regional Commission.

Mr. ROCKEFELLER. Mr. President, I urge all of my colleagues to vote against the Grams amendment. It would be a mistake to cut funding for the Appalachian Regional Commission, a small and valuable agency that has earned strong, bipartisan support here in Congress and in the 13 States it serves.

Some Senators may think this is an amendment that only affects those of us representing Appalachian States. I want to explain why everyone in this body has reason to reject this amendment and its call for another cut in the ARC.

The people of every State have a stake in the economic strength of the rest of the country. When floods ravage the Midwest or the Gulf States; when a major defense installation or space center is located in a State like Texas or Alabama; when payments are made to farmers for crop support or losses; when California, Colorado, or some other Western State needs water to survive; when Federal research labs are placed in New Mexico or Massachusetts—when any of this support and assistance is extended, it is the country's way of investing in each region and in the future of Americans everywhere.

The Appalachian Regional Commission is the Federal Government's principal means of helping one distinct part of the country overcome some very real barriers. Its mission is to act as a Federal partner with the States of the Appalachian region—to overcome barriers from geography to infrastructure to poverty, and to lay the foundation for economic growth and prosperity.

The ARC has not exploded in size or scope or funding. Quite the opposite. In fact, as the dividends of its work have come through, Congress has been able to reduce its budget in the recent years.

This agency is a success story, and it is in the national interest to keep its work going to get the job done.

In many parts of the region, major progress has been achieved. But the ARC's job is not quite finished, and the agency needs adequate funding to continue its partnership with West Virginia and the Appalachian region to finish the foundation we need for more growth, more jobs, and more hope for our people.

In the bill before us, ARC's budget is cut by $5 million from last year's level. And more importantly, Senators should know that last year's level was set after ARC was cut by close to 40 percent from its fiscal year 1995 funding. The ARC and the States served by this small agency are doing their share of sacrifice for deficit reduction. The appropriation in this year's bill is fully consistent with the budget resolution, which assumed the continuation of the ARC. Its funding should not be further reduced.

The Grams amendment would cause real damage to the agency and to the parts of the Appalachian region where ARC's resources and expertise are still needed.

As a former Governor, and now as a U.S. Senator from West Virginia, I know vividly the value of the ARC and how it improves the lives of many hard-working citizens. Whether the funding is used for new water and sewer systems, physician recruitment, adult literacy programs, or the Appalachian corridor highways, it has made the difference in West Virginia, Kentucky, and the other Appalachian States.

The highways are the most visible and best known investments made by the ARC for the people of Appalachia. As of today, over two-thirds of the ARC highway system have been completed. But if the ARC is further cut, the job of bringing the Appalachian States up to the level of non-Appalachian States will be further delayed or never achieved at all.

At this very moment, some of these highways are called highways halfway to nowhere, because they are just that—half built, and only halfway to their destination.

The job has to be completed, so these highways become highways the whole way to somewhere. And that somewhere is called jobs and prosperity that will benefit the rest of the country, too. Appalachia simply wants to be connected to our national grid of highways. Parts of the region weren't lucky enough to come out as flat land, so the job takes longer and costs more. But it is essential in giving the people and families in this part of the United States of America a shot—a chance to be rewarded for a work ethic and commitment with real economic opportunity and a decent quality of life.

I won't speak for my colleagues from other Appalachian States, but West Virginia was not exactly the winner in the original Interstate Highway System. And Senators here represent many States that were. As a result, areas of my State have suffered, economically and in human terms. Without roads, people are shut off from jobs. That's obvious. But without roads, people also can't get decent health care. Dropping out of school is easier sometimes than taking a 2-hour bus ride because the roads aren't there.

Long before it was fashionable, ARC used a from-the-bottom-up approach to addressing local needs rather than a top-down, one-size-fits-all mandate of the type that has become all too familiar to citizens dealing with Federal agencies. It works, too.

I urge everyone in this body to keep a promise made to a region that has been short-shrifted. Each region is unique. Solutions have to differ, depending on our circumstances. When it comes to Appalachia, a small agency called the Appalachian Regional Commission should finish its work. Cutting its budget further will only create more problems and more costs that should be avoided. I urge my colleagues to vote against the Grams amendment, and again, I remind everyone that it is in the entire Nation's interest to invest in each region and each State in ways that deal with their needs and their potential.

Mr. WARNER. Mr. President, I rise in opposition to an amendment offered by Senator GRAMS of Minnesota which would drastically reduce funding for the Appalachian Regional Commission.

At a time when we are correctly terminating or scaling back outdated Federal programs, I believe the Appalachian Regional Commission is the type of Federal initiative we should be encouraging. It is important to recognize that the ARC uses its limited Federal dollars to leverage additional State and local funding. This successful partnership enables communities in Virginia to have tailored programs which help them respond to a variety of grassroots needs.

In the Commonwealth of Virginia, 21 counties rely heavily on the assistance they receive from the Appalachian Regional Commission. Income levels for this region of Virginia further indicate that on average my constituents who reside in this region have incomes which are $6,000 below the average per capita income for the rest of the Nation.

In 1960, when the ARC was created, the poverty rate in Virginia's Appalachian region was 24.4 percent. Since that time the ARC has helped slash the region's poverty rate in half. However, we are still a long way from achieving the U.S. average poverty level of 13.1 and also the regional poverty level of other ARC-member States of 15.2 percent.

In addition to the progress made on the region's staggering poverty rate, the ARC has made important inroads curbing several other problems inherent in Appalachia. Since the inception of the ARC, the infant mortality rate in the region has fallen by two thirds. The high school graduation rate has doubled, and unemployment rates have significantly declined.

Even with these substantial improvements, however, the region still lags behind the rest of the Nation in all of these categories. Of the 339 counties within the purview of the ARC, 115 are classified as economically distressed. Meanwhile, the ARC continues with a 40-percent reduction from fiscal year 1995, and the pending Senate appropriations bill contains a further reduction of $5 billion from fiscal year 1996.

With these statistics in mind, I would like to offer some specific points one should keep in mind regarding the effectiveness of ARC programs, its relationship with the Commonwealth of Virginia, and the direct impact that this relationship has on the private sector.

In recent years, a significant portion of ARC funds have been dedicated to local economic development efforts. Were it not for this assistance, the LENOWISCO Planning District and Wise County would not have been able to complete construction of the water and sewage lines to provide utility services to the Wise County Industrial Park at Blackwood. These lines were financed by a $500,000 grant from the ARC and a $600,000 grant from the U.S. Economic Development Administration. The construction of these utilities to serve a new industrial park has attracted a major wood products manufacturing facility which has created 175 new jobs for the community.

The Fifth Planning District serving the Allegheny Highlands of Virginia is a prominent example of leveraging other State and local funds and stimulating economic development with partial funding from the ARC. For fiscal year 1995 with $350,000 from the ARC, the Allegheny Regional Commerce Center in Clifton Forge, VA was established. This new industrial center already has a commitment from 2 industries bringing new employment opportunities for over 220 persons.

The ARC funds for this project has generated an additional $500,000 in State funds, $450,000 from the Virginia Department of Transportation, $145,000 from Allegheny County, and $168,173 from the Allegheny Highlands Economic Development Authority. As a result of a limited Federal commitment, there is almost a 4 to 1 ratio of non-Federal dollars compared to Federal funds.

In many cases these funds have been the sole source of funding for local planning efforts for appropriate community development. For example, such funds have been used to prepare and update comprehensive plans which are required by Virginia State law to be updated every 5 years in revise zoning, subdivision, and other land use ordinances. In addition funds are used to prepare labor force studies or marketing plans to guide industrial development sites.

Mr. President, the mission of the Appalachian Regional Commission is as relevant today as it was when the program was created. This rural region of our Nation remains beset with many geographic obstacles that have kept it isolated from industrial expansion. It is a region that has been attempting to diversify its economy from its dependency on one industry—coal mining—to other stable employment opportunities. It is a program that provides essential services and stimulates the contributions of State and local funds.

I urge the Senate to reject the Grams amendment and supply the necessary funding for this crucial and important program.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question now occurs on agreeing to the motion to lay on the table the Grams amendment. The yeas and nays have been ordered. Those in favor of tabling the Grams amendment will vote aye. Those opposed to tabling the GRAMS amendment will vote no. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. NICKLES. I announce that the Senator from Kansas [Mrs. FRAHM] is necessarily absent.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. ASHCROFT). Are there any other Senators in the Chamber desiring to vote?

NOT VOTING—1

Frahm

The motion to lay on the table the amendment (No. 5100) was agreed to.

Mr. JOHNSTON. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. DOMENICI. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

Mr. DOMENICI. I understand Senator WELLSTONE has a colloquy in lieu of an amendment.

Mr. WELLSTONE. I ask unanimous consent to withdraw my amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Without objection, it is so ordered.

BIOMASS RURAL ELECTRICITY PROJECTS

Mr. WELLSTONE. Mr. President, let me be quite brief because I know we are going to a final vote. One of the more exciting developments for rural America are biomass rural electricity projects. I was in Granite Falls, MN, yesterday, and the high school auditorium was filled with citizens excited about a project with the alfalfa producers co-op. This is biomass rural electricity. This is a value-added, farmer-owned co-op. This is rural economic development. This is environmentally sound. This is new products for agriculture. It is renewable energy.

The question I ask the managers of the bill is, will these projects be eligible for consideration for funding in fiscal 1997 out of the funds provided? My concern, as the Senator from Minnesota, is that, as a matter of fact, these kinds of projects, based upon this renewable energy policy, based upon this concern about the environment and rural economic development, will be eligible for funding.

So my question, one more time, is whether or not these projects will be eligible for consideration of funding in fiscal 1997 out of the funds provided.

Mr. JOHNSTON. Mr. President, the answer is, yes, these projects for biomass electric will be eligible, and the Department should give full consideration to these projects along with those mentioned in the committee report. These appear to be promising technologies, and we will urge the department to fully consider them.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I have listened to the colloquy and reviewed it before. I agree.

Mr. WELLSTONE. Mr. President, I thank both the Senator from Louisiana and the Senator from New Mexico.

AMENDMENT NO. 5122

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I send an amendment to the desk and ask for its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from New Mexico [Mr. DOMENICI] proposes an amendment numbered 5122.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

On page 22, line 17, following "$92,629,000" insert the following: "Provided further, That in addition to any other payments which it is required to make under subchapter III of chapter 83 or chapter 84 of title 5, United States Code, the Department of Energy shall remit to the Office of Personnel Management for deposit in the Treasury of the United States to the credit of the Civil Service Retirement and Disability Fund an amount equal to 15 percent of the final basic pay of each employee who is covered under subchapter III of chapter 83 or chapter 84 of title 5 to whom a voluntary separation incentive has been paid under this paragraph".

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, yesterday we accepted an amendment to the bill to provide the Secretary of Energy with buyout authority in fiscal year 1997. If buyouts are offered, the Civil Service Retirement and Disability Fund would be required to make previously unanticipated payments which results in a scoring issue.

The technical amendment I offer will resolve the scoring issue by directing the Secretary of Energy to make appropriate payments to the Civil Service Retirement and Disability Fund on behalf of employees who accept buyouts.

Mr. President, I ask that the amendment be agreed to.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the amendment.

The amendment (No. 5122) was agreed to.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. JOHNSTON. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

THE ADVANCED COMPUTATIONAL TECHNOLOGY INITIATIVE

Mr. STEVENS. I would like to enter into a colloquy with the bill manager, Senator DOMENICI, and Senator BENNETT. The Advanced Computational Technology Initiative [ACTI] is an ongoing DOE advanced R&D Program involving joint research efforts by the national labs and the oil and gas industry. The program pairs the unique supercomputing capabilities of DOE's nine multi-purpose National Laboratories with the domestic oil and natural gas industry. These research capabilities that would not otherwise be readily available will enable American industry to solve some of the grand challenge problems that exist in exploration and production geophysics, engineering, and geoscience.

Mr. BENNETT. This program is a collaborative effort that will produce significant energy security benefits. For example, the program is advancing technology to reduce the costs of acquiring seismic data and enhance 3D simulation using advanced visualization and virtual reality in reservoir engineering. These advances will bring down development costs in marginal areas thereby increasing net production and reducing the surface impacts of oil drilling. The application of advanced technologies will enhance oil recovery from current producing areas in Prudhoe Bay, the Gulf of Mexico, and the Appalachian Basin.

Mr. STEVENS. The Federal funding supports the national lab and university components, no Federal funds go to the industry. The projects have been selected on a competitive basis to ensure only relevant and widely beneficial research is supported by DOE. Industry contributes over 50 percent on a cost-sharing basis.

Mr. BENNETT. In order to adequately fund this program, $9,000,000 under Engineering and Geosciences in Basic Energy Sciences, and $5,000,000 in computational technology research in other energy research programs must be committed to the Department's Advanced Computational Technology Initiative.

Mr. DOMENICI. I agree with my colleagues as to the value of the ACTI Program and support Department funding of the program at this level.

SOLAR, WIND, AND RENEWABLES ACCOUNT

Mr. JEFFORDS. Mr. President, I would like to engage in a brief colloquy with the chairman of the Energy and Water Appropriations Subcommittee regarding the amendment that was adopted yesterday restoring funding to the solar, wind, and renewables account. Is it the chairman's understanding that $23.072 million has been transferred into the solar and renewables account in this appropriations measure, leaving a total of $269.713 million for the solar and renewable energy account.

Mr. DOMENICI. That is my understanding.

Mr. JEFFORDS. Is it also your understanding that of this $23.072 million in the amendment, $16.5 million shall be for an increase in wind energy systems of which $2 million shall be for the Kotzebue, Alaska project. In addition, the amendment would provide increases of $2.0 million for international solar, $1.5 million for solar thermal; $1.0 million for resource assessment; $1.072 million for the renewable energy production incentive program; and $1 million for the utility climate challenge program.

Mr. DOMENICI. That is correct, Senator.

Mr. JEFFORDS. I would like to thank the managers of this bill for their assistance with this important amendment.

INEL

Mr. KEMPTHORNE. Mr. President, the senior Senator from Idaho, Mr. CRAIG, and I, should like to engage the chairman of the Senate Energy and Water Appropriations Subcommittee, Mr. DOMENICI, in a colloquy for purposes of clarification regarding the status of two INEL projects, funding for which is not specific in the report.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, under the Defense Environmental Restoration and Waste Management account for the Department of Energy; more specifically within the nuclear material and facility stabilization section, it is stated that the "Committee is aware that the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory has been designated the lead lab under DOE's National Spent Nuclear Fuel Program and that the Department has acknowledged that increased funding will be needed to carry out the additional responsibilities." In this regard, Mr. President, the Committee—Energy and Water Appropriations—recommendation is consistent with the Senate authorizing committee action for this activity.

Mr. KEMPTHORNE. As the distinguished chairman of the Senate Energy and Water Appropriations Subcommittee, the Senator from New Mexico, knows, the Senate Defense authorization bill for fiscal year 1997, H.R. 3230, also authorizes funding under the nuclear material and facility stabilization provision for spent fuel vulnerabilities associated with activities at INEL's power burst facility. Was it the intent of the committee recommendation, to be consistent with the Senate authorizing committee action for the national spent fuel activity, to also include funding for this provision?

Mr. DOMENICI. While the two INEL projects under the National Spent Nuclear Fuel Program were not actually described in report language, it was the intent of the committee to include both activities for funding under this section—nuclear material and facility stabilization.

Mr. CRAIG. Will the Senator from New Mexico indulge me in turning to another section of the energy and water appropriations bill, S. 1959; specifically the Waste Management Program under the Defense environmental restoration and waste management section for further clarification?

Mr. DOMENICI. Certainly.

Mr. CRAIG. The fiscal year 1997 Defense authorization bill also provided authorization for a surety program at the INEL to improve waste minimization efforts in the new stockpile management modernization program. Was it the intent of the committee to also provide funding for this activity within the waste management section, which received an additional $138.4 million from the President's budget request?

Mr. DOMENICI. The DOE Waste Management Program seeks to protect the public and workers by seeking to minimize, treat, store, and dispose of radioactive, hazardous, mixed and sanitary waste generated by past and ongoing operations at DOE facilities, which is consistent with the surety program.

INDIAN ENERGY RESOURCES PROGRAM

Mr. STEVENS. Included in this appropriations bill is funding for the Indian Energy Resources Grant program, which was originally authorized in the Energy Policy Act of 1992. As the Senator from New Mexico knows well, in its short history, this program has been put to good use in providing up to a 50-percent match for funding for sorely needed energy projects in Native communities.

Mr. DOMENICI. I share the sentiments of the Senator from Alaska regarding the importance of the grants provided under the Indian Energy Resources Program.

Mr. STEVENS. I appreciate that the Senator's work on this year's bill included funding for three important renewable energy projects in Alaska—two are clean, small hydroelectric projects to partially or fully replace 100 percent diesel-generated electricity in rural parts of Alaska, which are predominantly Native. Funding for the third project will be for the construction of a transmission intertie to bring energy from a recently completed hydroelectric project to several communities.

For rural Alaska, electric power is still expensive and limited in supply. Electricity is produced in rural Native villages by burning diesel fuel that is brought in to the villages during the summer months and stored in fuel tanks. For the past two decades the State of Alaska has been able to provide subsidies to rural Alaskans through its Power Cost Equalization Program. Because the oil fields of Alaska's North Slope are now in decline, however, and because development of the known oil field on the Coastal Plain of the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge is still restricted, the State's continuation of this program is uncertain.

Rural Alaskans, therefore could be facing an increase in their energy bills on the order of 30 cents to more than $1 per kilowatt hour. The national average for electric power is just 7 to 8 cents per kilowatt hour. For this reason, development of renewable energy and energy transmission projects in rural Alaska is all the more important.

My only disappointment regarding this program is that, with the limited funding we are able to provide this year, several worthy projects, such as the hydroelectric projects proposed for Old Harbor and Admiralty Island, Alaska, were not funded. Additionally, the authorization for the Indian Energy Resources Program is only through fiscal year 1997.

It is my hope that the Department of Energy will give what support it can to Native projects such as the Old Harbor and Admiralty Island hydroelectric projects this year. I also fully support the reauthorization of this program.

Mr. DOMENICI. I agree with the Senator that we would have hoped to provide funding to all the proposed worthy projects. As this was simply not possible, however, the absence of earmarks should not prohibit the Department of Energy from providing technical and financial assistance where possible. This program has been important to Indian projects in my State as well, and I look forward to working with the Senator from Alaska in its continuation.

TITLE XVI WATER RECYCLING PROGRAM

Mr. BENNETT. I thank my friend from New Mexico, the distinguished chairman of the Energy and Water Development Subcommittee for his leadership on this bill. I particularly wish to thank the Senator for his personal commitment to the Bureau of Reclamation's title XVI water recycling program. As the Senator knows, I am a strong advocate of this program. In arid Western States like Utah, water reuse is the next logical step, both economically and environmentally toward guaranteeing more dependable water supplies for our cities and towns.

As the Senator knows, I have sponsored legislation to expand the existing title XVI program which I am hopeful will be enacted this year. This legislation includes projects in my own State of Utah as well as projects in New Mexico, Texas, Nevada, and California. In anticipation of the enactment of that legislation, I have asked the distinguished chairman to seek the inclusion of certain language in the conference report accompanying this bill at the proper time. This language that would instruct the Bureau of Reclamation to make available to other water recycling projects authorized under title XVI any funds appropriated by this bill of title XVI projects that the Bureau may be unable to obligate for whatever reasons when it is possible.

Would the distinguished chairman agree to seek the inclusion of this language in the conference report?

Mr. DOMENICI. The Senator from Utah is correct.

Mr. BENNETT. I thank the Senator for his courtesy in this regard.

ADVANCED RESERVOIR MANAGEMENT PROGRAM

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I rise today to point out to my colleagues the importance of an initiative within the Department of Energy [DOE] that represents the proper partnership role for the Department and our private sector. I speak of the advanced reservoir management [ARM] project that has been funded under the Defense Activities, Technology Transfer account within the Energy and Water Appropriations bill. This program takes advantage of the unique computer capabilities of our national lab stockpile stewardship initiative and the common problems facing the independent oil and gas producers of the country. These problems involve complex legacy databases and require advanced computational challenges that are simply beyond the grasp of most independent oil and gas producers to solve on their own. This program represents a new model for industry-lab partnerships and serves the Nation by enhancing the stockpile stewardship mission while contributing to essential new knowledge and capability in our energy sector. In doing so, this partnership contributes to both our national defense and to the Nation's energy security. I suggest that this program should continue to be an important part of the DOE mission.

FORMERLY UTILIZED SITES REMEDIAL ACTION PROGRAM

Mr. D'AMATO. Mr. President, I wonder if the chairman will yield for a moment.

Mr. DOMENICI. I am happy to yield to my friend from New York.

Mr. D'AMATO. Thank you, Mr. President. Tonawanda, NY, is home to seven sites that are on the Department of Energy's Formerly Utilized Sites Remedial Action Program [FUSRAP] list. Four of these sites—Ashland 1, Ashland 2, Seaway Industrial Park and Linde Air Products—are collectively known as the Tonawanda Site. The Tonawanda site is a legacy of the Manhattan Project and contains approximately 350,000 cubic yards of radioactive waste. For 18 years, the Department of Energy has engaged in study after study and has spent over $20 million to determine how to permanently dispose of this waste. There is no support for Tonawanda's 80,000 residents for siting this waste within the town. For 50 years they have had to endure this waste and the blight it has cast upon their town. They are sick of it and they want it gone.

Mr. MOYNIHAN. If I may add, the citizens of Tonawanda, through their elected officials, have engaged our offices and have asked Senator D'AMATO and me to request that the Congress give direction to the Department of Energy in order to start the process towards removal and disposal of this waste. We both agreed that we would do what we could to relieve the town's burden. Now, Mr. President, this is a daunting task requiring many tens of millions of dollars. We do not believe for a moment that it will be easy. However, we are here today to ask the chairman's assistance with the next step.

Mr. D'AMATO. Mr. President, the Department of Energy has indicated that moving this waste will be expensive, however, we are not aware of any fixed price of what it would cost to remove, transport and dispose of this waste. We do not know if a business, operating in the open market, can present a reasonable, competitive bid. We do not know because no bids have been put forth by the Department that would determine the private sector's ability to manage this waste. Hence, the waste remains where it is, the studies continue and the citizens of Tonawanda grow frustrated.

Mr. MOYNIHAN. The Department should at least explore the options available to them. The private sector may be able to present a bid that would speed-up the clean-up of the Tonawanda site in a cost-effective manner. Maybe it cannot. The problem is the Department of Energy is reluctant to even find out.

Mr. DOMENICI. I appreciate hearing the concerns of my friends from New York. I can understand their wanting to see this site cleaned-up as quickly and efficiently as possible. I can also understand the concerns of the citizens of Tonawanda—they will only be pleased with the total removal of this 350,000 cubic yards of radioactive waste. Finally, I can understand the funding constraints of the FUSRAP program within the Department of Energy that can make decisions like these very difficult. Nevertheless, I believe that the Senators from the State of New York have a right to find out what analyses the Department of Energy possesses that indicate that removal, transportation and off-site storage appear unacceptable to the Department.

Mr. D'AMATO. I thank my friend from New Mexico for his indulgence.

Mr. MOYNIHAN. I thank the chairman, as well.

RENEWABLE AND CONSERVATION RESOURCES

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, if I might have the attention of my friend from New Mexico, the distinguished manager of the pending legislation, I would like to clarify a clerical error which appeared in the Senate committee report on this legislation. The item I seek to clarify involves the role of the Bonneville Power Administration in advancing the use of renewable energy resources and promoting energy conservation in the Pacific Northwest.

The following language was included in the subcommittee report to accompany S. 1959:

Renewable Resource Development.—The Committee understands that the BPA, in keeping with the goals of the 1980 Northwest Power Planning and Conservation Act, is involved in four renewable resource demonstration projects in the region. The Committee supports BPA's efforts to confirm and expand the supply of renewable resources in the Northwest, and expects BPA to complete the two wind and two geothermal projects it has underway. Completing these projects will lay the foundation for building a renewable marketplace in the region, and will benefit both the environment and the local economy. The Committee understands that BPA may spend up to $40,000,000 each year on these projects once they are all in service, and encourages BPA to move forward expeditiously on their completion. The Committee directs BPA to prepare a report on the progress of this program by March 1, 1997.

Subsequently, during the markup of S. 1959 in the full Appropriations Committee, language on renewable energy was agreed to which was intended to replace, not be added to, the above subcommittee report language. The language is as follows:

Renewable and conservation resources.—The Committee continues to strongly support conservation and renewable energy resources. These resources remain the foundation for a sustainable energy future in the Pacific Northwest as the region approaches the new century. The Committee strongly encourages the Bonneville Power Administration, the Northwest Power Planning Council, and other participants in the regional review being conducted by the Governors of the four Northwest States, to explore all innovative measures to assure achievement of pace-setting energy conservation and renewable resource targets in the coming decade. The Committee urges that new mechanisms be defined to assure adequate funding to sustain and substantially expand energy conservation and renewable resources as the electric power industry transitions to a more deregulated energy marketplace. While the Committee recognizes the BPA's need to remain competitive and assure its payments to the U.S. Treasury, BPA should make every effort to fulfill the commitments it has made to renewable energy and energy conservation resources.

To summarize, the paragraph entitled, "Renewable and conservation resources," adopted in the full committee markup, was meant to replace the paragraph entitled, "Renewable Resource Development", which was adopted in the subcommittee markup.

My purpose in speaking on this issue is to clarify this point with the chairman of the subcommittee, Mr. Domenici. Does the Senator from New Mexico's understanding of committee's intent comport with what I just described.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, the Senator from Oregon has accurately described the intent of the committee. I thank my friend for clarifying the committee's intent with regard to this clerical error.

RENEWABLE ENERGY PROGRAMS

Mr. ROTH. Mr. President, I am pleased that the Senate Energy and Water Appropriations bill includes my amendment that increase funding for renewable energy programs. My amendment restore $23 million to solar and wind energy programs, bringing funding to these programs up to last year's levels.

Mr. President, renewable energy technologies represent our best hopes for reducing air pollution, creating jobs and decreasing our reliance on imported oil and finite supplies of fossil fuels. These programs promise to supply economically competitive and commercially viable energy, while also assisting our Nation in reducing greenhouse gases and oil imports. I believe that the Nation should be looking toward alternative forms and sources of energy, not taking a step backward by cutting funding for these programs.

My own State of Delaware has a long tradition in solar energy. In 1972, the University of Delaware established one of the first photovoltaic laboratories in the Nation. The University has been instrumental in developing solar photovoltaic energy, the same type of energy that powers solar watches and calculators.

Delaware has a major solar energy manufacturer, Astro Power, which is now the fastest growing manufacturer of photovoltaic cells in the world. In collaboration with the University of Delaware and Astro Power, Delaware's major utility—Delmarva Power & Light—has installed an innovative solar energy system that has successfully demonstrated the use of solar power to satisfy peak electrical demand.

Through this collaboration, my State has demonstrated that solar energy technology can be an economically competitive and commercially viable energy alternative for the utility industry.

It is vital that we continue to manufacture these solar cell products with the high performance, high quality, and low costs required to successfully compete worldwide. Investment in Department of Energy solar and renewable energy programs has put us on the threshold of explosive growth. Continuation of the present renewable energy programs is required to achieve the goal of a healthy photovoltaic industry in the United States.

While the solar energy industries might have evolved in some form on their own, the Federal investment has accelerated the transition from the laboratory bench to commercial markets in a way that has already accrued valuable economic benefits to the Nation.

The solar energy industries—like Astro Power—have already created thousands of jobs and helped to reduce our trade deficit through exports of solar energy systems overseas, mostly to developing nations, where 2 billion people are still without access to electricity.

International markets for solar energy systems are virtually exploding, due to several key market trends. Most notably, solar energy is already one of the lowest cost options available to developing countries that cannot afford to build large, expensive centralized power generation facilities with elaborate distribution systems.

The governments of Japan, Germany, and Australia are investing heavily in aggressive technology and market development in partnership with their own solar energy industries. Until recently, Japan and Germany held the lead in world market share for photovoltaics; the United States has only recently recaptured international market dominance. Cutting funding for commercializing these technologies would have a chilling effect on the U.S. industry's ability to compete on an international scale in these billion-dollar markets of today and tomorrow. The employment potential of renewables represents a minimum of 15,000 new jobs this decade with nearly 120,000 the next decade.

It is imperative that this Senate support solar and renewable energy technologies and be a partner to an energy future that addresses our economic needs in an environmentally acceptable manner. My State has done and will continue to do its part. I hope my colleagues in the Senate will look to the future and do their part in securing a safe and reliable energy future by supporting this amendment.

Mr. MCCAIN. Mr. President, before final passage of this bill I wanted to make a few points.

First, I want to thank the managers of the bill. Their job is a thankless task and they deserve great credit for moving this important measure with such speed through the Senate.

But, Mr. President, this bill is fundamentally a flawed measure. As is the custom in the Energy and Water Appropriations bill, we put into statute all of the Army Corps of Engineer projects. This practice is very disconcerting.

After carefully examining where such funds are to be spent, one comes to the conclusion that the needs of the States represented by members of the Appropriations Committee have more weight than the needs of other States. It is for this reason that we should end this practice of earmarking Army Corps funds.

Instead, Mr. President, we should develop a system where the States and the Corps work together, develop a priority list based on national needs, and then that list is funded from a lump sum. Such a practice would eliminate the earmarking of this money as it now occurs and would—I believe—prove much more fair.

I am also concerned that some of the projects in the bill are fully funded by the Federal Government while others are not.

I note that on page 5 of the bill a project in Shreveport, LA is funded "at full Federal expense." I wonder why this is being done.

On page 7, we do the same thing with a project in West Virginia.

Mr. President, it is these kinds of earmarks that I believe we should all be concerned.

Additionally, on page 11 of the bill, section 108, we are funding a wharf at the Charleston Riverfront Park in West Virginia. Why aren't there similar sections for other parks?

Mr. President, it is this constant earmarking that leaves me no choice but to vote against this bill. I would hope that in the future we could develop a better system for spending this money.

Mr. WYDEN. Mr. President, I rise in support of S. 1959, the fiscal year 1997 energy and water development appropriations bill.

I am particularly pleased that the Senate is restoring funding for renewable energy programs. A portion of the restored funds will go to support a Federal interagency board, The Committee on Renewable Energy Commerce and Trade [CORECT]. This program came out of legislation authored by Senator HATFIELD and myself in the 97th Congress which President Reagan signed. The premise of the legislation was simple: build effectiveness of Government export assistance programs by having Federal agencies work together, team together. CORECT has worked well. Not only has United States industry identified nearly $2 billion of potential in Latin America alone, but global sales for United States renewable energy equipment and services have more than doubled over the last few years.

Mr. President, I also want to thank the chairman and ranking member for including funding for a particular project—the restoration of wetlands on the Williamson River in Oregon.

This project is one of the results of an environmental initiative by my colleague, Senator HATFIELD, over the past several years.

When endangered fish concerns and other environmental problems started coming to light on the Upper Klamath River in the southern part of our state, it was Senator HATFIELD who provided funding and direction to all the Federal agencies involved to work together on solutions, instead of standing around blaming each other for the problems. And, it was Senator HATFIELD who got them to bring the local stakeholders together to work in league with the agencies in considering those problems and trying to agree on solutions—not in the courts, but sitting down face to face with each other.

The people at that table—including the farmers who use water from the Bureau of Reclamation's Klamath project, the Klamath Tribe, hydro generators, other commercial interests, Oregon Trout, and the Nature Conservancy—probably won't ever achieve perfect harmony. They each have their own priorities. But working together, they have been able to agree on positive steps to take to solve some of the environmental problems in the Upper Klamath Basin—and the Tulana Farms wetlands restoration project at the mouth of the Williamson River is one of those.

The Fish and Wildlife Service identified this restoration as a key element in restoring two endangered fish species on the river, and the Nature Conservancy worked with CH2MHill to design the project in such a way that it adds flexibility to the use of the hydro and irrigation projects on the river, rather than constraining it.

They also designed the project to keep a parcel of the Tulana Farms property in agricultural production, because of its role as an important source of seed potatoes for neighboring farmers.

The Federal Government has a responsibility to address the sorts of problems people are facing on the Upper Klamath. But I am proud to say that the Klamath Basin Working Group working with the Klamath Ecosystem Restoration Office did not simply pass the responsibility for solving these problems—or the bill—to the Federal Government.

They have taken on a substantial part of that responsibility. The restoration work and management of the project will be done by the Nature Conservancy, PacifiCorp and the New Earth Co., both of which have operations on the Upper Klamath system, are contributing $4 million of private funding to the project.

Complaining about a problem is a whole lot easier than solving it, especially when a solution affects lots of different interests, and lots of different people. I want to congratulate the people who have worked together to make this project possible, and urge my colleagues to support the work they have taken on.

TVA COMPETING WITH PRIVATE SECTOR ON ENGINEERING WORK

Mr. COCHRAN. Mr. President, Congress has for many years provided a specific appropriation to fund the Environmental Research Center in Muscle Shoal, AL, until last year, when Congress directed TVA to begin looking for ways to finance the Center's operations with funds other than appropriations.

The Chairman of TVA's Board, Craven Crowell, acknowledged this past March in testimony before our subcommittee that TVA had prepared a plan to continue operating the Environmental Research Center using outside funding sources. It has recently come to my attention that one of the ways TVA plans to continue the Center's operation is to compete for work with the private sector.

Under the latest effort, TVA has produced and distributed materials intended to capitalize on their in-house expertise and resources to perform private sector engineering work. These services include: constructed wetland for wastewater treatment; removal of underground storage tanks; site assessment; environmental restoration; groundwater monitoring, and hazardous waste management. In Mississippi alone, there are over 78 private firms, many of them small businesses, who already provide these services.

TVA's marketing of these activities to the private sector has not only created a competitive challenge because of TVA's reputation and resources, but their Government status has created a greater financial and marketing disadvantage to hundreds of private, small business engineering firms across the seven State Tennessee Valley region who are capable and have an excellent track record in performing these kinds of activities.

I have serious concerns whenever the Federal Government or quasi-governmental agencies attempt to unfairly compete with the private sector. I raise this issue today as we consider the energy and water appropriations bill because our friends in the other body have proposed to eliminate funding for the Environmental Research Center. The effect of their provision will be for TVA to accelerate its efforts to compete for private sector work.

I encourage the Energy and Water Development Subcommittee to look into this issue to ensure that TVA is not unfairly competing with private sector engineering consulting firms.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I would like to take a moment to discuss the budget impact of S. 1959, the Energy and Water Development Appropriations Act, 1997.

This bill as reported provides $20.3 billion in budget authority and $13.1 billion in new outlays to fund the civil programs of the Army Corps of Engineers, the Bureau of Reclamation, certain independent agencies, and most of the activities of the Department of Energy. When outlays from prior year budget authority and other actions are taken into account, this bill provides a total of $19.9 billion in outlays.

The subcommittee met its budget authority allocation for defense and non-defense. The bill falls below its defense discretionary outlay allocation by $305 million and its nondefense discretionary outlay allocation by $13 million.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that a table displaying the Budget Committee scoring of this bill be printed in the RECORD at this point.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

(a) INTERSTATE WASTE.—

(1) INTERSTATE TRANSPORTATION OF MUNICIPAL SOLID WASTE.—

(A) AMENDMENT.—Subtitle D of the Solid Waste Disposal Act (42 U.S.C. 6941 et seq.) is amended by adding at the end the following new section:

"SEC. 4011. INTERSTATE TRANSPORTATION OF MUNICIPAL SOLID WASTE.

"(a) AUTHORITY TO RESTRICT OUT-OF-STATE MUNICIPAL SOLID WASTE.—(1) Except as provided in paragraph (4), immediately upon the date of enactment of this section if requested in writing by an affected local government, a Governor may prohibit the disposal of out-of-State municipal solid waste in any landfill or incinerator that is not covered by the exceptions provided in subsection (b) and that is subject to the jurisdiction of the Governor and the affected local government.

"(2) Except as provided in paragraph (4), immediately upon the date of publication of the list required in paragraph (6)(C) and notwithstanding the absence of a request in writing by the affected local government, a Governor, in accordance with paragraph (5), may limit the quantity of out-of-State municipal solid waste received for disposal at each landfill or incinerator covered by the exceptions provided in subsection (b) that is subject to the jurisdiction of the Governor, to an annual amount equal to or greater than the quantity of out-of-State municipal solid waste received for disposal at such landfill or incinerator during calendar year 1993.

"(3)(A) Except as provided in paragraph (4), any State that imported more than 750,000 tons of out-of-State municipal solid waste in 1993 may establish a limit under this paragraph on the amount of out-of-State municipal solid waste received for disposal at landfills and incinerators in the importing State as follows:

"(i) In calendar year 1996, 95 percent of the amount exported to the State in calendar year 1993.

"(ii) In calendar years 1997 through 2002, 95 percent of the amount exported to the State in the previous year.

"(iii) In calendar year 2003, and each succeeding year, the limit shall be 65 percent of the amount exported in 1993.

"(iv) No exporting State shall be required under this subparagraph to reduce its exports to any importing State below the proportionate amount established herein.

"(B)(i) No State may export to landfills or incinerators in any 1 State that are not covered by host community agreements or permits authorizing receipt of out-of-State municipal solid waste more than the following amounts of municipal solid waste:

"(I) In calendar year 1996, the greater of 1,400,000 tons or 90 percent of the amount exported to the State in calendar year 1993.

"(II) In calendar year 1997, the greater of 1,300,000 tons or 90 percent of the amount exported to the State in calendar year 1996.

"(III) In calendar year 1998, the greater of 1,200,000 tons or 90 percent of the amount exported to the State in calendar year 1997.

"(IV) In calendar year 1999, the greater of 1,100,000 tons or 90 percent of the amount exported to the State in calendar year 1998.

"(VII) In calendar year 2002 or any calendar year thereafter, 550,000 tons.

"(ii) The Governor of an importing State may take action to restrict levels of imports to reflect the appropriate level of out-of-State municipal solid waste imports if—

"(I) the Governor of the importing State has notified the Governor of the exporting State and the Administrator, 12 months prior to taking any such action, of the importing State's intention to impose the requirements of this section;

"(II) the Governor of the importing State has notified the Governor of the exporting State and the Administrator of the violation by the exporting State of this section at least 90 days prior to taking any such action; and

"(III) the restrictions imposed by the Governor of the importing State are uniform at all facilities and the Governor of the importing State may only apply subparagraph (A) or (B) but not both.

"(C) The authority provided by subparagraphs (A) and (B) shall apply for as long as a State exceeds the permissible levels as determined by the Administrator under paragraph (6)(C).

"(4)(A) A Governor may not exercise the authority granted under this section if such action would result in the violation of, or would otherwise be inconsistent with, the terms of a host community agreement or a permit issued from the State to receive out-of-State municipal solid waste.

"(B) Except as provided in paragraph (3), a Governor may not exercise the authority granted under this section in a manner that would require any owner or operator of a landfill or incinerator covered by the exceptions provided in subsection (b) to reduce the amount of out-of-State municipal solid waste received from any State for disposal at such landfill or incinerator to an annual quantity less than the amount received from such State for disposal at such landfill or incinerator during calendar year 1993.

"(5) Any limitation imposed by a Governor under paragraph (2) or (3)—

"(A) shall be applicable throughout the State;

"(B) shall not directly or indirectly discriminate against any particular landfill or incinerator within the State; and

"(C) shall not directly or indirectly discriminate against any shipments of out-of-State municipal solid waste on the basis of place of origin and all such limitations shall be applied to all States in violation of paragraph (3).

"(6) ANNUAL STATE REPORT.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—Within 90 days after enactment of this section and on April 1 of each year thereafter the owner or operator of each landfill or incinerator receiving out-of-State municipal solid waste shall submit to the affected local government and to the Governor of the State in which the landfill or incinerator is located, information specifying the amount and State of origin of out-of-State municipal solid waste received for disposal during the preceding calendar year, and the amount of waste that was received pursuant to host community agreements or permits authorizing receipt of out-of-State municipal solid waste. Within 120 days after enactment of this section and on May 1 of each year thereafter each State shall publish and make available to the Administrator, the Governor of the State of origin and the public, a report containing information on the amount of out-of-State municipal solid waste received for disposal in the State during the preceding calendar year.

"(B) CONTENTS.—Each submission referred to in this section shall be such as would result in criminal penalties in case of false or misleading information. Such information shall include the amount of waste received, the State of origin, the identity of the generator, the date of the shipment, and the type of out-of-State municipal solid waste. States making submissions referred to in this section to the Administrator shall notice these submissions for public review and comment at the State level before submitting them to the Administrator.

"(C) LIST.—The Administrator shall publish a list of importing States and the out-of-State municipal solid waste received from each State at landfills or incinerators not covered by host community agreements or permits authorizing receipt of out-of-State municipal solid waste. The list for any calendar year shall be published by June 1 of the following calendar year.

For purposes of developing the list required in this section, the Administrator shall be responsible for collating and publishing only that information provided to the Administrator by States pursuant to this section. The Administrator shall not be required to gather additional data over and above that provided by the States pursuant to this section, nor to verify data provided by the States pursuant to this section, nor to arbitrate or otherwise entertain or resolve disputes between States or other parties concerning interstate movements of municipal solid waste. Any actions by the Administrator under this section shall be final and not subject to judicial review.

"(D) SAVINGS PROVISION.—Nothing in this subsection shall be construed to preempt any State requirement that requires more frequent reporting of information.

"(7) Any affected local government that intends to submit a request under paragraph (1) or take formal action to enter into a host community agreement after the date of enactment of this subsection shall, prior to taking such action—

"(A) notify the Governor, contiguous local governments, and any contiguous Indian tribes;

"(B) publish notice of the action in a newspaper of general circulation at least 30 days before taking such action;

"(C) provide an opportunity for public comment; and

"(D) following notice and comment, take formal action on any proposed request or action at a public meeting.

"(8) Any owner or operator seeking a host community agreement after the date of enactment of this subsection shall provide to the affected local government the following information, which shall be made available to the public from the affected local government:

"(A) A brief description of the planned facility, including a description of the facility size, ultimate waste capacity, and anticipated monthly and yearly waste quantities to be handled.

"(B) A map of the facility site that indicates the location of the facility in relation to the local road system and topographical and hydrological features and any buffer zones and facility units to be acquired by the owner or operator of the facility.

"(C) A description of the existing environmental conditions at the site, and any violations of applicable laws or regulations.

"(D) A description of environmental controls to be utilized at the facility.

"(E) A description of the site access controls to be employed, and roadway improvements to be made, by the owner or operator, and an estimate of the timing and extent of increased local truck traffic.

"(F) A list of all required Federal, State, and local permits.

"(G) Any information that is required by State or Federal law to be provided with respect to any violations of environmental laws (including regulations) by the owner and operator, the disposition of enforcement proceedings taken with respect to the violations, and corrective measures taken as a result of the proceedings.

"(H) Any information that is required by State or Federal law to be provided with respect to compliance by the owner or operator with the State solid waste management plan.

"(b) EXCEPTIONS TO AUTHORITY TO PROHIBIT OUT-OF-STATE MUNICIPAL SOLID WASTE.—(1) The authority to prohibit the disposal of out-of-State municipal solid waste provided under subsection (a)(1) shall not apply to landfills and incinerators in operation on the date of enactment of this section that—

"(A) received during calendar year 1993 documented shipments of out-of-State municipal solid waste; and

"(B)(i) in the case of landfills, are in compliance with all applicable Federal and State laws and regulations relating to operation, design and location standards, leachate collection, ground water monitoring, and financial assurance for closure and post-closure and corrective action; or

"(ii) in the case of incinerators, are in compliance with the applicable requirements of section 129 of the Clean Air Act (42 U.S.C. 7429) and applicable State laws and regulations relating to facility design and operations.

"(2) A Governor may not prohibit the disposal of out-of-State municipal solid waste pursuant to subsection (a)(1) at facilities described in this subsection that are not in compliance with applicable Federal and State laws and regulations unless disposal of municipal solid waste generated within the State at such facilities is also prohibited.

"(c) ADDITIONAL AUTHORITY TO LIMIT OUT-OF-STATE MUNICIPAL SOLID WASTE.—(1) In any case in which an affected local government is considering entering into, or has entered into, a host community agreement and the disposal or incineration of out-of-State municipal solid waste under such agreement would preclude the use of municipal solid waste management capacity described in paragraph (2), the Governor of the State in which the affected local government is located may prohibit the execution of such host community agreement with respect to that capacity.

"(2) The municipal solid waste management capacity referred to in paragraph (1) is that capacity—

"(A) that is permitted under Federal or State law;

"(B) that is identified under the State plan; and

"(C) for which a legally binding commitment between the owner or operator and another party has been made for its use for disposal or incineration of municipal solid waste generated within the region (identified under section 4006(a)) in which the local government is located.

"(d) COST RECOVERY SURCHARGE.—

"(1) AUTHORITY.—A State described in paragraph (2) may adopt a law and impose and collect a cost recovery charge on the processing or disposal of out-of-State municipal solid waste in the State in accordance with this subsection.

"(2) APPLICABILITY.—The authority to impose a cost recovery surcharge under this subsection applies to any State that on or before April 3, 1994, imposed and collected a special fee on the processing or disposal of out-of-State municipal solid waste pursuant to a State law.

"(3) LIMITATION.—No such State may impose or collect a cost recovery surcharge from a facility on any out-of-State municipal solid waste that is being received at the facility under 1 or more contracts entered into after April 3, 1994, and before the date of enactment of this section.

"(4) AMOUNT OF SURCHARGE.—The amount of the cost recovery surcharge may be no greater than the amount necessary to recover those costs determined in conformance with paragraph (6) and in no event may exceed $1.00 per ton of waste.

"(5) USE OF SURCHARGE COLLECTED.—All cost recovery surcharges collected by a State covered by this subsection shall be used to fund those solid waste management programs administered by the State or its political subdivision that incur costs for which the surcharge is collected.

"(6) CONDITIONS.—(A) Subject to subparagraphs (B) and (C), a State covered by this subsection may impose and collect a cost recovery surcharge on the processing or disposal within the State of out-of-State municipal solid waste if—

"(i) the State demonstrates a cost to the State arising from the processing or disposal within the State of a volume of municipal solid waste from a source outside the State;

"(ii) the surcharge is based on those costs to the State demonstrated under clause (i) that, if not paid for through the surcharge, would otherwise have to be paid or subsidized by the State; and

"(iii) the surcharge is compensatory and is not discriminatory.

"(B) In no event shall a cost recovery surcharge be imposed by a State to the extent that the cost for which recovery is sought is otherwise paid, recovered, or offset by any other fee or tax paid to the State or its political subdivision or to the extent that the amount of the surcharge is offset by voluntarily agreed payments to a State or its political subdivision in connection with the generation, transportation, treatment, processing, or disposal of solid waste.

"(C) The grant of a subsidy by a State with respect to entities disposing of waste generated within the State does not constitute discrimination for purposes of subparagraph (A)(iii).

"(7) DEFINITIONS.—As used in this subsection:

"(A) The term 'costs' means the costs incurred by the State for the implementation of its laws governing the processing or disposal of municipal solid waste, limited to the issuance of new permits and renewal of or modification of permits, inspection and compliance monitoring, enforcement, and costs associated with technical assistance, data management, and collection of fees.

"(B) The term 'processing' means any activity to reduce the volume of solid waste or alter its chemical, biological or physical state, through processes such as thermal treatment, bailing, composting, crushing, shredding, separation, or compaction.

"(e) SAVINGS CLAUSE.—Nothing in this section shall be interpreted or construed—

"(1) to have any effect on State law relating to contracts; or

"(2) to affect the authority of any State or local government to protect public health and the environment through laws, regulations, and permits, including the authority to limit the total amount of municipal solid waste that landfill or incinerator owners or operators within the jurisdiction of a State may accept during a prescribed period: Provided That such limitations do not discriminate between in-State and out-of-State municipal solid waste, except to the extent authorized by this section.

"(f) DEFINITIONS.—As used in this section:

"(1)(A) The term 'affected local government', used with respect to a landfill or incinerator, means—

"(i) the public body created by State law with responsibility to plan for municipal solid waste management, a majority of the members of which are elected officials, for the area in which the facility is located or proposed to be located; or

"(ii) the elected officials of the city, town, township, borough, county, or parish exercising primary responsibility over municipal solid waste management or the use of land in the jurisdiction in which the facility is located or is proposed to be located.

"(B)(i) Within 90 days after the date of enactment of this section, a Governor may designate and publish notice of which entity listed in clause (i) or (ii) of subparagraph (A) shall serve as the affected local government for actions taken under this section and after publication of such notice.

"(ii) If a Governor fails to make and publish notice of such a designation, the affected local government shall be the elected officials of the city, town, township, borough, county, parish, or other public body created pursuant to State law with primary jurisdiction over the land or the use of land on which the facility is located or is proposed to be located.

"(C) For purposes of host community agreements entered into before the date of publication of the notice, the term means either a public body described in subparagraph (A)(i) or the elected officials of any of the public bodies described in subparagraph (A)(ii).

"(2) HOST COMMUNITY AGREEMENT.—The term 'host community agreement' means a written, legally binding document or documents executed by duly authorized officials of the affected local government that specifically authorizes a landfill or incinerator to receive municipal solid waste generated out of State, but does not include any agreement to pay host community fees for receipt of waste unless additional express authorization to receive out-of-State waste is also included.

"(3) The term 'out-of-State municipal solid waste' means, with respect to any State, municipal solid waste generated outside of the State. Unless the President determines it is inconsistent with the North American Free Trade Agreement and the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, the term shall include municipal solid waste generated outside of the United States. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, generators of municipal solid waste outside the United States shall possess no greater right of access to disposal facilities in a State than United States generators of municipal solid waste outside of that State.

"(4) The term 'municipal solid waste' means refuse (and refuse-derived fuel) generated by the general public or from a residential, commercial, institutional, or industrial source (or any combination thereof), consisting of paper, wood, yard wastes, plastics, leather, rubber, or other combustible or noncombustible materials such as metal or glass (or any combination thereof). The term 'municipal solid waste' does not include—

"(A) any solid waste identified or listed as a hazardous waste under section 3001;

"(B) any solid waste, including contaminated soil and debris, resulting from a response action taken under section 104 or 106 of the Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation, and Liability Act of 1980 (42 U.S.C. 9604 or 9606) or a corrective action taken under this Act;

"(C) any metal, pipe, glass, plastic, paper, textile, or other material that has been separated or diverted from municipal solid waste (as otherwise defined in this paragraph) and has been transported into a State for the purpose of recycling or reclamation;

"(D) any solid waste that is—

"(i) generated by an industrial facility; and

"(ii) transported for the purpose of treatment, storage, or disposal to a facility that is owned or operated by the generator of the waste, or is located on property owned by the generator of the waste, or is located on property owned by a company in which the generator of the waste has an ownership interest;

"(E) any solid waste generated incident to the provision of service in interstate, intrastate, foreign, or overseas air transportation;

"(F) any industrial waste that is not identical to municipal solid waste (as otherwise defined in this paragraph) with respect to the physical and chemical state of the industrial waste, and composition, including construction and demolition debris;

"(G) any medical waste that is segregated from or not mixed with municipal solid waste (as otherwise defined in this paragraph); or

"(H) any material or product returned from a dispenser or distributor to the manufacturer for credit, evaluation, or possible reuse.

"(5) The term 'compliance' means a pattern or practice of adhering to and satisfying standards and requirements promulgated by the Federal or a State government for the purpose of preventing significant harm to human health and the environment. Actions undertaken in accordance with compliance schedules for remediation established by Federal or State enforcement authorities shall be considered compliance for purposes of this section.

"(6) The terms 'specifically authorized' and 'specifically authorizes' refer to an explicit authorization, contained in a host community agreement or permit, to import waste from outside the State. Such authorization may include a reference to a fixed radius surrounding the landfill or incinerator that includes an area outside the State or a reference to any place of origin, reference to specific places outside the State, or use of such phrases as 'regardless of origin' or 'outside the State'. The language for such authorization may vary as long as it clearly and affirmatively states the approval or consent of the affected local government or State for receipt of municipal solid waste from sources outside the State.

"(g) IMPLEMENTATION AND ENFORCEMENT.—Any State may adopt such laws and regulations, not inconsistent with this section, as are necessary to implement and enforce this section, including provisions for penalties."

(B) TABLE OF CONTENTS AMENDMENT.—The table of contents in section 1001 of the Solid Waste Disposal Act (42 U.S.C. prec. 6901) is amended by adding at the end of the items relating to subtitle D the following new item:

"Sec. 4011. Interstate transportation of municipal solid waste."

(2) NEEDS DETERMINATION.—The Governor of a State may accept, deny or modify an application for a municipal solid waste management facility permit if—

(A) it is done in a manner that is not inconsistent with the provisions of this section;

(B) a State law enacted in 1990 and a regulation adopted by the governor in 1991 specifically requires the permit applicant to demonstrate that there is a local or regional need within the State for the facility; and

(C) the permit applicant fails to demonstrate that there is a local or regional need within the State for the facility.

(b) FLOW CONTROL.—

(1) STATE AND LOCAL GOVERNMENT CONTROL OF MOVEMENT OF MUNICIPAL SOLID WASTE AND RECYCLABLE MATERIAL.—Subtitle D of the Solid Waste Disposal Act (42 U.S.C. 6941 et seq.), as amended by subsection (a)(1)(A), is amended by adding after section 4011 the following new section:

"SEC. 4012. STATE AND LOCAL GOVERNMENT CONTROL OF MOVEMENT OF MUNICIPAL SOLID WASTE AND RECYCLABLE MATERIAL.

"(a) DEFINITIONS.—In this section:

"(1) DESIGNATE; DESIGNATION.—The terms 'designate' and 'designation' refer to an authorization by a State, political subdivision, or public service authority, and the act of a State, political subdivision, or public service authority in requiring or contractually committing, that all or any portion of the municipal solid waste or recyclable material that is generated within the boundaries of the State, political subdivision, or public service authority be delivered to waste management facilities or facilities for recyclable material or a public service authority identified by the State, political subdivision, or public service authority.

"(2) FLOW CONTROL AUTHORITY.—The term 'flow control authority' means the authority to control the movement of municipal solid waste or voluntarily relinquished recyclable material and direct such solid waste or voluntarily relinquished recyclable material to a designated waste management facility or facility for recyclable material.

"(3) MUNICIPAL SOLID WASTE.—The term 'municipal solid waste' means—

"(A) solid waste generated by the general public or from a residential, commercial, institutional, or industrial source, consisting of paper, wood, yard waste, plastics, leather, rubber, and other combustible material and noncombustible material such as metal and glass, including residue remaining after recyclable material has been separated from waste destined for disposal, and including waste material removed from a septic tank, seepage pit, or cesspool (other than from portable toilets); but

"(B) does not include—

"(i) waste identified or listed as a hazardous waste under section 3001 of this Act or waste regulated under the Toxic Substances Control Act (15 U.S.C. 2601 et seq.);

"(ii) waste, including contaminated soil and debris, resulting from a response action taken under section 104 or 106 of the Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation, and Liability Act of 1980 (42 U.S.C. 9604, 9606) or any corrective action taken under this Act;

"(iii) medical waste listed in section 11002;

"(iv) industrial waste generated by manufacturing or industrial processes, including waste generated during scrap processing and scrap recycling;

"(B) other body created pursuant to State law; or

"(C) an authority that was issued a certificate of incorporation by a State corporation commission established by a State constitution.

"(5) PUT OR PAY AGREEMENT.—(A) The term 'put or pay agreement' means an agreement that obligates or otherwise requires a State or political subdivision to—

"(i) deliver a minimum quantity of municipal solid waste to a waste management facility; and

"(ii) pay for that minimum quantity of municipal solid waste even if the stated minimum quantity of municipal solid waste is not delivered within a required period of time.

"(B) For purposes of the authority conferred by subsections (b) and (c), the term 'legally binding provision of the State or political subdivision' includes a put or pay agreement that designates waste to a waste management facility that was in operation on or before December 31, 1988 and that requires an aggregate tonnage to be delivered to the facility during each operating year by the political subdivisions which have entered put or pay agreements designating that waste management facility.

"(C) The entering into of a put or pay agreement shall be considered to be a designation (as defined in subsection (a)(1)) for all purposes of this title.

"(6) RECYCLABLE MATERIAL.—The term 'recyclable material' means material that has been separated from waste otherwise destined for disposal (at the source of the waste or at a processing facility) or has been managed separately from waste destined for disposal, for the purpose of recycling, reclamation, composting of organic material such as food and yard waste, or reuse (other than for the purpose of incineration).

"(7) WASTE MANAGEMENT FACILITY.—The term 'waste management facility' means a facility that collects, separates, stores, transports, transfers, treats, processes, combusts, or disposes of municipal solid waste.

"(b) AUTHORITY.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—Each State, political subdivision of a State, and public service authority may exercise flow control authority for municipal solid waste and for recyclable material voluntarily relinquished by the owner or generator of the material that is generated within its jurisdiction by directing the municipal solid waste or recyclable material to a waste management facility or facility for recyclable material, if such flow control authority—

"(A)(i) had been exercised prior to May 15, 1994, and was being implemented on May 15, 1994, pursuant to a law, ordinance, regulation, or other legally binding provision of the State or political subdivision; or

"(ii) had been exercised prior to May 15, 1994, but implementation of such law, ordinance, regulation, or other legally binding provision of the State or political subdivision was prevented by an injunction, temporary restraining order, or other court action, or was suspended by the voluntary decision of the State or political subdivision because of the existence of such court action;

"(B) has been implemented by designating before May 15, 1994, the particular waste management facilities or public service authority to which the municipal solid waste or recyclable material is to be delivered, which facilities were in operation as of May 15, 1994, or were in operation prior to May 15, 1994 and were temporarily inoperative on May 15, 1994.

"(2) LIMITATION.—The authority of this section extends only to the specific classes or categories of municipal solid waste to which flow control authority requiring a movement to a waste management facility was actually applied on or before May 15, 1994 (or, in the case of a State, political subdivision, or public service authority that qualifies under subsection (c), to the specific classes or categories of municipal solid waste for which the State, political subdivision, or public service authority prior to May 15, 1994, had committed to the designation of a waste management facility).

"(3) LACK OF CLEAR IDENTIFICATION.—With regard to facilities granted flow control authority under subsection (c), if the specific classes or categories of municipal solid waste are not clearly identified, the authority of this section shall apply only to municipal solid waste generated by households.

"(4) DURATION OF AUTHORITY.—With respect to each designated waste management facility, the authority of this section shall be effective until the later of—

"(A) the end of the remaining life of a contract between the State, political subdivision, or public service authority and any other person regarding the movement or delivery of municipal solid waste or voluntarily relinquished recyclable material to a designated facility (as in effect May 15, 1994);

"(B) completion of the schedule for payment of the capital costs of the facility concerned (as in effect May 15, 1994); or

"(C) the end of the remaining useful life of the facility (as in existence on the date of enactment of this section), as that remaining life may be extended by—

"(i) retrofitting of equipment or the making of other significant modifications to meet applicable environmental requirements or safety requirements;

"(ii) routine repair or scheduled replacement of equipment or components that does not add to the capacity of a waste management facility; or

"(iii) expansion of the facility on land that is—

"(I) legally or equitably owned, or under option to purchase or lease, by the owner or operator of the facility; and

"(II) covered by the permit for the facility (as in effect May 15, 1994).

"(5) ADDITIONAL AUTHORITY.—

"(A) APPLICATION OF PARAGRAPH.—This paragraph applies to a State or political subdivision of a State that, on or before January 1, 1984—

"(i) adopted regulations under State law that required the transportation to, and management or disposal at, waste management facilities in the State, of—

"(I) all solid waste from residential, commercial, institutional, or industrial sources (as defined under State law); and

"(II) recyclable material voluntarily relinquished by the owner or generator of the recyclable material; and

"(ii) as of January 1, 1984, had implemented those regulations in the case of every political subdivision of the State.

"(B) AUTHORITY.—Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in this section (including subsection (m)), a State or political subdivision of a State described in subparagraph (A) may continue to exercise flow control authority (including designation of waste management facilities in the State that meet the requirements of subsection (c)) for all classes and categories of solid waste that were subject to flow control on January 1, 1984.

"(6) FLOW CONTROL ORDINANCE.—Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in this section, but subject to subsection (m), any political subdivision which adopted a flow control ordinance in November 1991, and designated facilities to receive municipal solid waste prior to April 1, 1992, may exercise flow control authority until the end of the remaining life of all contracts between the political subdivision and any other persons regarding the movement or delivery of municipal solid waste or voluntarily relinquished recyclable material to a designated facility (as in effect May 15, 1994). Such authority shall extend only to the specific classes or categories of municipal solid waste to which flow control authority was actually applied on or before May 15, 1994. The authority under this subsection shall be exercised in accordance with section 4012(b)(4).

"(c) COMMITMENT TO CONSTRUCTION.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding subsection (b)(1) (A) and (B), any political subdivision of a State may exercise flow control authority under subsection (b), if—

"(A) there is no evidence of ground water contamination from the municipal solid waste landfill unit or expansion; and

"(B) the municipal solid waste landfill unit or expansion serves—

"(i) a community that experiences an annual interruption of at least 3 consecutive months of surface transportation that prevents access to a regional waste management facility; or

This subsection shall apply only to solid waste landfill units that dispose of less than 20 tons of municipal solid waste daily, based on an annual average.

"(5) NO-MIGRATION EXEMPTION.—

"(A) IN GENERAL.—Ground water monitoring requirements may be suspended by the Director of an approved State for a landfill operator if the operator demonstrates that there is no potential for migration of hazardous constituents from the unit to the uppermost aquifer during the active life of the unit and the post-closure care period.

"(B) CERTIFICATION.—A demonstration under subparagraph (A) shall—

"(i) be certified by a qualified ground-water scientist and approved by the Director of an approved State.

"(6) FURTHER REVISIONS OF GUIDELINES AND CRITERIA.—Not later than April 9, 1997, the Administrator shall promulgate revisions to the guidelines and criteria promulgated under this subchapter to allow States to promulgate alternate design, operating, landfill gas monitoring, financial assurance, and closure requirements for landfills which receive 20 tons or less of municipal solid waste per day based on an annual average. Provided That such alternate requirements are sufficient to protect human health and the environment."

(2) REINSTATEMENT OF REGULATORY EXEMPTION.—It is the intent of section 4010(c)(2) of the Solid Waste Disposal Act, as added by paragraph (1), to immediately reinstate subpart E of part 258 of title 40, Code of Federal Regulations, as added by the final rule published at 56 Federal Register 50798 on October 9, 1991.

SEC. 510. SENSE OF SENATE REGARDING UNITED STATES SEMICONDUCTOR TRADE AGREEMENT.

(a) FINDINGS.—

(1) The United States-Japan Semiconductor Trade Agreement is set to expire on July 31, 1996;

(2) The Governments of the United States and Japan are currently engaged in negotiations over the terms of a new United States-Japan agreement on semiconductors;

(3) The President of the United States and the Prime Minister of Japan agreed at the G-7 Summit in June that their two governments should conclude a mutually acceptable outcome of the semiconductor dispute by July 31, 1996, and that there should be a continuing role for the two governments in the new agreement;

(4) The current United States-Japan Semiconductor Trade Agreement has put in place both government-to-government and industry-to-industry mechanisms which have played a vital role in allowing cooperation to replace conflict in this important high technology sector such as by providing for joint calculation of foreign market share in Japan, deterrence of dumping, and promotion of industrial cooperation in the design-in of foreign semiconductor devices;

(5) Despite the increased foreign share of the Japanese semiconductor market since 1986, a gap still remains between the share United States and other foreign semiconductor makers are able to capture in the world market outside of Japan through their competitiveness and the sales of these suppliers in the Japanese market, and that gap is consistent across the full range of semiconductor products as well as a full range of end-use applications;

(6) The competitiveness and health of the United States semiconductor industry is of critical importance to the United States' overall economic well-being as well as the nation's high technology defense capabilities;

(7) The economic interests of both the United States and Japan are best served by well-functioning, open markets and deterrence of dumping in all sectors, including semiconductors;

(8) The Government of Japan continues to oppose an agreement that (A) ensures continued calculation of foreign market share in Japan according to the formula set forth in the current agreement, and (B) provides for continuation of current measures to deter renewed dumping of semiconductors in the United States and in the third country markets; and

(9) The United States Senate on June 19, 1996, unanimously adopted a sense of the Senate resolution that the President should take all necessary and appropriate actions to ensure the continuation of a government-to-government United States-Japan semiconductor trade agreement before the current agreement expires on July 31, 1996.

(b) SENSE OF SENATE.—It is the sense of the Senate that if a new United States-Japan Semiconductor Agreement is not concluded by July 31, 1996, that (1) ensures continued calculation of foreign market share in Japan according to the formula set forth in the current agreement, and (2) provides for continuation of current measures to deter renewed dumping of semiconductors in the United States and in third country markets, the President shall—

(A) Direct the Office of the United States Trade Representative and the Department of Commerce to establish a system to provide for unilateral United States Government calculation and publication of the foreign share of the Japanese semiconductor market, according to the formula set forth in the current agreement;

(B) Report to the Congress on a quarterly basis regarding the progress, or lack thereof, in increasing foreign market access to the Japanese semiconductor market; and

(C) Take all necessary and appropriate actions to ensure that all United States trade laws with respect to foreign market access and injurious dumping are expeditiously and vigorously enforced with respect to U.S.-Japan semiconductor trade, as appropriate.

This Act may be cited as the "Energy and Water Development Appropriations Act, 1997".

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote by which the bill was passed, and I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that S. 1959, the fiscal year 1997 energy and water development appropriations bill, be indefinitely postponed.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I move that the Senate insist on its amendments, request a conference with the House on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses and that the Chair be authorized to appoint conferees on the part of the Senate.

The motion was agreed to; and the Presiding Officer (Mr. ASHCROFT) appointed Mr. DOMENICI, Mr. HATFIELD, Mr. COCHRAN, Mr. GORTON, Mr. MCCONNELL, Mr. BENNETT, Mr. BURNS, Mr. JOHNSTON, Mr. BYRD, Mr. HOLLINGS, Mr. REID, Mr. KERREY and Mrs. MURRAY conferees on the part of the Senate.

Mr. DOMENICI. Mr. President, I thank the combined staff—the Republican staff and the Democratic staff—for the marvelous job they did. I, most of all, thank all the Senators for being as cooperative as they were. This is a bill that is not singular in purpose but has an awful lot of facets to it. We were able in 2 days to complete it, and that is because we got great cooperation.

I yield the floor.

RECESS

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, the Senate will now stand in recess until the hour of 2:15 p.m. today.

Thereupon, at 12:42 p.m., the Senate recessed until 2:15 p.m.; whereupon, the Senate reassembled when called to order by the Presiding Officer (Mr. SMITH).

LEGISLATIVE BRANCH APPROPRIATIONS ACT, 1997

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, the Senate will now resume consideration of H.R. 3754, which the clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

A bill (H.R. 3754) making appropriations for the legislative branch for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1997, and for other purposes.

The Senate resumed the consideration of the bill.

Pending:

Chafee amendment No. 5119, to provide for a limitation on the exclusion copyrights of literary works reproduced or distributed in specialized formats for use by blind or disabled persons.

Mr. MACK addressed the Chair.
The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Florida.

AMENDMENT NO. 5119

Mr. MACK. Mr. President, I understand that there is a pending amendment before the Senate, which is the Chafee amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator is correct. The pending amendment is the amendment by the Senator from Rhode Island.

Mr. MACK. Mr. President, I understand the amendment has been cleared by both sides of the aisle, including the authorizing committee chair and ranking member. Therefore, I ask unanimous consent that Senator FORD and Senator FRIST be added as cosponsors to the Chafee amendment and that the amendment be agreed to.

The amendment (No. 5119) was agreed to.

Mrs. MURRAY. I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. MACK. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

Mr. LEAHY. Mr. President, yesterday Senator MURRAY was good enough to file on my behalf an amendment dealing with a recently adopted rule on the acceptable uses of the Senate Internet Services. I have some very serious concerns about this new rule, concerns that many of my colleagues in the Senate share.

Senator FORD and Senator WARNER have worked closely with me on this issue and I think we have reached a compromise which is very reasonable and accommodating for both the Rules Committee and the Senators who would be affected by the new Internet policy. I would like to thank them for agreeing to take another look at this policy. As a result of that compromise, I have withdrawn my amendment and am looking forward to working with the members of the Rules Committee and other Senators who are interested in the Senate Internet policy over the next 2 months. During that time, implementation of the rule dealing with promotional or commercial links on Senate home pages will be delayed.

I do want to take a moment to inform other Senators who may not have had a chance to read the new Senate Internet policy, about the issue my amendment addressed. On July 22, 1996, the Senate Committee on Rules and Administration adopted a policy for the use of the U.S. Senate Internet Services. Among other things, the rule states that "The use of Senate Internet Services for personal, promotional, commercial, or partisan political campaign purposes is prohibited."

Now most of those restrictions I would agree are appropriate and prudent. But I am concerned about the ambiguity of the terms "promotional" and "commercial". My amendment would have clarified that language by allowing a "home state exemption"—similar to the one that is included under the gift rule to allow gifts of home State products. Under my amendment, Senators would have been allowed to link to sites, businesses, and organizations in their home State as long as those links are accompanied by a disclaimer stating that the link is not an endorsement of the products, locations, or services they feature.

Like many Senators I have links on my Web page to places and organizations in my home State. My home page is a virtual office for people who may not be able to get to my offices in Montpelier or Burlington. Without the links to Vermont sites it would be a pretty uninviting place—no native Vermont art on the walls, no calendar of events, and no directory of places to go and things to see while you are in the area. That's not the kind of hospitality I like to show people who have taken the time to visit my office.

Under the July 22 rule, I will probably have to eliminate most of the home State links on my Senate Web page or defend my decision to keep those links before the Senate Ethics Committee. However I won't be alone—over half of my colleagues in the Senate have similar links on their Web pages to tourist spots, businesses or event listings in their home States, including most of the members of the Rules Committee itself. Mr. President, I do not believe that is what the committee intended. I do not believe that most Members are aware of this rule and the affect that it will have on the individuality of their home pages.

The Internet is a new milestone in communication which the Senate should be using to the advantage of all States. But it is also a rapidly changing field, and I understand completely the difficulty that Senator FORD, Senator WARNER and the other members of the Rules Committee have had in setting down a policy for Senate use of the Internet. The World Wide Web is uncharted territory when it comes to drawing the line between what is an appropriate use of Senate resources and what is not. But by opening up this dialog between all interested Senators, we can will go a long way toward finding that balance.

This will certainly not be the last time that the Senate grapples with the problem of fitting advances in telecommunications technology to a government body that pre-dates the pony express. However, I hope that the process we are establishing now of open communication between Senators who are deeply interested in this emerging technology and the Rules Committee, will continue as we travel down this road.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on the engrossment of the amendments and third reading of the bill.

The amendments were ordered to be engrossed, and the bill to be read a third time.

The bill was read a third time.

Mr. MACK. Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. COATS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. COATS. Mr. President, may I ask what the current business of the Senate is?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Under the previous order, the Senator from West Virginia is to be recognized for up to 20 minutes, followed immediately by a vote on passage of the bill.

Mr. COATS. Mr. President, I noted the absence of a quorum and thought perhaps there was a timeframe open here for me to introduce a bill; however, I see the Senator from West Virginia is here and prepared to go ahead.

Under the previous order, I am happy to abide by that and will do this at another time.

Mr. BYRD. How much time did the Senator need to introduce his bill?

Mr. COATS. There is no rush on this. I think we should stick with what was agreed upon.

Mr. BYRD. I probably have more time under the order than I will use.

Mr. COATS. I just want to introduce legislation. I can probably do it in 2 minutes.

Mr. BYRD. I yield the Senator 2 minutes, and I ask unanimous consent that he may speak as in morning business and introduce a bill.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The Senator from Indiana is recognized.

Mr. COATS. Mr. President, I thank the Chair and I thank the Senator from West Virginia.

(The remarks of Mr. COATS pertaining to the introduction of S. 2000 are located in today's RECORD under "Statements on Introduced Bills and Joint Resolutions.")

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, I rise in support of H.R. 3754, the Fiscal Year 1997 Legislative Appropriations Bill. This is the second year, I believe, that the distinguished Senator from Florida [Mr. MACK] has chaired the Legislative subcommittee and it is also the second year that the equally distinguished Senator from Washington [Mrs. MURRAY] has served as the ranking member of the subcommittee. Both Senators are to be commended for the efforts that they have made to ensure that the legislative branch of Government does its share in contributing toward deficit reduction.

As has been stated, the pending measure contains funding levels that are below the previous year's budget by a little over $22 million, or around 1 percent. Further, the proposed fiscal year 1997 funding level, in total, is $13 million less than what the legislative branch had 6 years ago in fiscal year 1991. So when we consider the cost increases that have occurred over this 6-year period, the legislative branch has taken a significant reduction in funding.

I note that the largest reduction contained in the bill is to the budget of the General Accounting Office, for which a reduction of $44 million is recommended, as well as a personnel ceiling of 3,500 positions. That reduction fulfills a commitment made by the GAO to reduce its budget by 25 percent over a 2-year period. But for that 44 million-dollar reduction, the pending measure would, in fact, show an increase above fiscal year 1996.

Overall, I believe that this bill recognizes the fact that we have reached the bottom of the barrel as far as further reductions in the legislative branch budget. A large portion of the legislative branch budget is for personnel whose purpose is to assist Members of the House and Senate in carrying out their responsibilities. It is my strongly held belief that we must be very careful in the future to avoid any further arbitrary reductions in the legislative branch. We have reached the point, by making such dramatic reductions in staff throughout the legislative branch, that it is affecting the ability of Members to adequately address issues of national importance which arise in Congress every day and to adequately serve the people who send us here. In fact, let me take this opportunity to congratulate a very commendable group of individuals. Who are they? The United States Senate staff.

Senators like to think of themselves as akin to stars in the heavens, giving off light, and giving off heat, energy and brilliance—separate and distinct suns in orbits all of our own, as it were, creating their very own blinding illumination. In truth our lights would be very dim indeed without the dedicated hard work and unbelievable loyalty of those who labor so long on our behalf and on behalf of our constituents.

The people who open our mail, who read our mail and who answer much of our mail, the people who answer our telephones, and take a great deal of guff in the process on many occasions, the people who research our issues, the people who prepare our press releases, the people who work on the Nation's problems, as well as on the problems of our respective States, the people on the committees who craft legislative language. I doubt that there is a Senator here—there may be one—who personally writes his own bills, the bills that he introduces. The people who intercede on behalf of our constituents when we cannot do so ourselves, the people who toil on the Senate floor, the people who negotiate far into the night, I am talking about our committee staffs in particular here, negotiate far into the night to reconcile intractable differences with Members of the other body sometimes, long after Senators have gone home and gone to bed. All of these individuals unselfishly give countless hours and energies in order to serve Senators and to benefit their country.

Some of those staff members may have certain advantages, this is true. But these are very special people, and they are special people who are mostly unsung and very often unappreciated. Daily, they combine demanding, stressful, and difficult careers with equally demanding private lives. When they leave home in the morning, they often have no idea what time they may return to their loved ones at night. Many of us, Senators, are here in that same boat. We do not know what time we are going to get to go home at night. But certainly those employees do not for the most part. Still they manage to rear children and cook and clean and carry out the hundreds of other chores which must be performed in their personal lives weekly, despite impossible hours.

Every Senator in this body, each and every Member on both sides of the aisle, is deeply in their debt, as are our constituents and the Nation as a whole.

So we are supposed to pay them well, and in many instances, or most instances, I think we do pay them well. But not always, by any means.

That is why I am particularly concerned that this year those same capable, hard-working, largely uncomplaining individuals have been singled out, not for praise, but, at least indirectly, for scorn. It is my understanding that, for the first time in the years in which there have been cost-of-living adjustments, the staff of the U.S. Senate are alone—alone—among all Federal employees in this land in their failure to receive the COLA. Staffers of the House of Representatives have been authorized to receive their COLAS, the entire rest of the Federal work force has already received a cost-of-living adjustment, including the employees who staff the Federal judiciary.

I often wonder. It strikes me as strange that Senators, many Senators, in thinking of reducing personnel and of not increasing salaries of the staff or of Members themselves, do not dare touch the judiciary. They do not want to touch the judiciary.

So staffers of the Federal judiciary have received the cost-of-living adjustment. I do not regret that. I am not complaining about that. But only Senate staffers have been singled out for this special kind of strange and unfair treatment. I cannot fathom any substantive reason for such gross unfairness. I cannot understand why such a situation has been allowed to develop. I am sure it is not intended to be punitive, but in a way it is punitive. When our staffs in the Senate look across at the other end of the Capitol and see the staffs of the House, when they look across the street and see the staffs of the judiciary, and when they look down Pennsylvania Avenue and see the staffs of the executive branch who received their COLA's, how could our staffs, how could our committee staffs, help but wonder, why is this? Why the difference? Why the discrimination?

Unlike most of the Federal work force that normally receives any approved cost-of-living adjustment automatically, Senate staffers may only receive such COLA if their respective Senator approves the increase for each member of his or her staff. Senators do not have to give the COLA to anyone on their staffs or anyone on their committee staffs who is under their jurisdiction if they do not wish to. But, this year even the option for Senators to do so has been effectively taken away from Members.

I would like to at least have the option. I would at least like to be able to pass the COLA's on to the lower paid members of my staff. I would like to make that judgment based on each staff person's merits. But that option I do not have. No other Senator has that option this year.

Do I hear deficit cutting given as a reason for such disparity? If we wanted to make a serious reduction in the deficit through this means, we could prohibit the cost-of-living adjustment for anyone and everyone in the Federal Government in the first place, including the judicial branch. No. Serious deficit reduction is not the issue here. Some sort of misguided symbolism can be the only reason for such an unwarranted slap in the face for our own loyal employees in the Senate on our personal staffs and on committee staffs.

In my opinion, this is a very poor way to thank the hundreds of people who toil to make Senators the celestial heavenly bodies that we sometimes believe we are. It is pretty shabby treatment, if you ask me.

In a city that is as expensive to live in and work in as is Washington, DC, how can any Senator be comfortable knowing that we are treating the very people who help us to serve our constituents in such a fashion?

I thank the managers of the bill. They have included moneys so that the COLA's can be passed on for the coming year. I hope that the leadership will authorize that this be done.

I think the extreme matter should be rectified immediately for this year and should not be repeated in 1997. Why? Because common decency and fairness demand it.

Mr. President, I yield the remainder of my time.

I yield the floor.

Mr. MACK addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Florida.

An employee's agreement to separate with an incentive payment is binding upon the employee and the Department, unless the employee and the Department mutually agree otherwise.

(1) A voluntary separation incentive payment shall be paid in a lump sum after the employee's separation and be equal to the lesser of—

(A) an amount equal to the amount the employee would have been entitled to receive under section 5595(c) of title 5, United States Code (without adjustment for any previous payment made under such section), if the employee were entitled to payment under such section; or

(B) if the employee separates during—

(i) fiscal year 1997, $25,000;

(ii) fiscal year 1998, $20,000;

(iii) fiscal year 1999, $15,000;

(iv) fiscal year 2000, $10,000;

(3) not be a basis for payment, and shall not be included in the computation of any other type of benefit;

(4) not be taken into account in determining the amount of any severance pay to which the employee may be entitled under section 5595 of title 5, United States Code, based on any other separation;

(5) be available from appropriations or funds available for the payment of the basic pay of the employee.

(d) EFFECT OF SUBSEQUENT EMPLOYMENT WITH THE GOVERNMENT.—An employee who has received a voluntary separation incentive payment under this section and accepts employment with, or enters into a personal services contract with, any Federal agency or instrumentality of the United States within 5 years after the date of the separation on which the payment is based shall be required to repay the entire amount of the incentive payment to the Department.

(1) The repayment required under this subsection may be waived only by the Secretary.

(e) ADDITIONAL AGENCY CONTRIBUTIONS TO THE RETIREMENT FUND.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—In addition to any other payments which it is required to make under subchapter III of chapter 83 or chapter 84 of title 5, United States Code, the Department shall remit to the Office of Personnel Management for deposit in the Treasury of the United States to the credit of the Civil Service Retirement and Disability Fund an amount equal to 15 percent of the final basic pay of each employee of the Department covered by chapters 83 or 84 of title 5, United States Code, to whom a voluntary separation incentive payment has been made.

(2) DEFINITION.—For the purpose of this section, the term "final basic pay," with respect to an employee, means the total amount of basic pay which would be payable for a year of service by such employee, computed using the employee's final rate of basic pay, and, if last serving on other than a full-time basis, with appropriate adjustment therefor.

(f) VOLUNTARY RELEASE PROGRAM.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the Department shall implement regulations that shall permit its employees, who are not scheduled for separation by RIF, to volunteer for RIF separation in place of other employees who are scheduled for RIF separation until September 30, 2000.

(g) CONTINUANCE OF GOVERNMENT SHARE OF HEALTH BENEFITS COVERAGE.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the Department shall pay the Government share of the health benefits coverage of any of its employees separated by RIF for up to 18 months following the employee's separation from Federal service, provided that the employee pays his requisite share of such costs over the same 18 month period.

This Act may be cited as the "Department of Transportation and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 1997".

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, I am very pleased to be able to present the fiscal 1997 appropriations bill dealing with the Department of Transportation and related agencies. The subcommittee allocation was $11.95 billion in budget authority and $35.453 billion in outlays. This allocation is $240 million lower in budget authority than the House's allocation when they passed the bill on June 28.

In spite of this limitation, I am proud of this bill because it addresses a number of concerns of not only the administration and my colleagues but also the American people. I should point out, however, that the bill is right at its allocation for both budget authority and outlays. So any amendments that increased spending would have to be offset with the necessary cuts to other parts of the bill.

This bill provides funding above that requested by the administration and above that provided by the House in two areas of critical importance: Safety and infrastructure development.

In the safety area, this bill provides the Federal Aviation Administration funding for 250 additional air traffic controllers.

In the FAA's regulation and certification area, the bill provides for more than 250 additional staff, including airworthiness inspectors, airline operations inspectors, certification inspectors of engineers and pilots, and manufacturing inspectors. However, in light of and in response to the ValuJet crash, there is also funding for an additional 130 hazardous materials inspectors in the aviation area. These inspectors were not originally requested by the administration, nor were they funded in the House appropriations bill. And the bill also provides 20 new inspectors for the Research and Special Programs Administration, the lead agency within the Department of Transportation regarding hazardous materials.

Global air transportation of hazardous materials has been growing at a steady rate of approximately 7 percent per year. The majority of these goods—60 percent—are transported on passenger-carrying equipment. And, according to the FAA, the reported incidence in air transportation associated with this type of cargo has increased 122 percent since 1991.

Although the FAA with its given resources monitors the compliance of such carriers to the extent possible, it is estimated that almost 80 percent of the problems associated with this type of cargo originates with shippers. I believe that the traveling public needs an acceptable level of safety that can be achieved, not only with air carrier inspections but also with targeted inspections of freight forwarders, repair stations, and commercial shippers.

Therefore, this bill has funding of approximately $12 million above the administration's request to address these safety problems. I believe that this is important to point out in light of the TWA Flight 800 tragedy.

This bill fully funds the administration's request for operational security of $71.9 million which funds approximately 780 security personnel. This is a 6.6 percent increase over what was provided in fiscal year 1996.

The bill also provides the full amount requested at research funding for explosives and weapons detection. That is $27.3 million.

In addition to increasing a number of positions in the aviation control, regulation, safety, and security areas, the bill provides an airport improvement program grant funding level of $1.46 billion, $160 million above the House's level, and $110 million above the administration's level.

I want to emphasize again, Mr. President, that this bill is still under the House allocation.

In the Coast Guard area, the subcommittee has provided funding for very critical maintenance activities, and is $14.3 million above the House level. The House cut was appealed directly to me by the Commandant of the Coast Guard who felt that a continued level was necessary in maintenance in the aircraft and boat area, which severely hamper the operational effectiveness of the Coast Guard in 1997.

I should also point out that the committee has not rescinded previous years' funds for the vessel traffic service systems, known as the VTS, and has provided the requested $6 million for these VTS systems in 1997. However, there is report language directing the Coast Guard to tone down their ambitious plans and to develop a common platform and common architecture for a vessel traffic system before proceeding in the future.

In the highway area, the committee rejected the administration's request that would have made some previously exempt highway programs part of the overall obligation ceiling, and would have rescinded $300 million of previously authorized ISTEA highway projects. Despite the budget constraints, there is an increase of $100 million over the House level for the Federal aid highway program of $17.6 billion. And there is $250 million for the State Infrastructure Bank Program, which was not funded in the House bill.

In the rail area, the committee has increased funding for the House bill by providing $200 million as requested for the Northeast Corridor Improvement Program, and provides $130 million above the House mark for the Amtrak Capital Program. We have also fully funded, as has the House, the $80 million requested for high-speed transits. In the transit area, we are slightly less than $100 million above the House in the formula grants program, and are $235 million above the House in the discretionary grants program. These funds are for rail modernization projects, transit new starts, and bus and bus related projects.

So you can see, despite having a lower 602(b) allocation in budget authority than the House, we have provided significant funding increases for areas that I feel very strongly about; namely, infrastructure improvement and safety related activities.

I believe that summarizes the bill. This year we received 770 separate requests from Senators, totaling $16.3 billion in earmarks and specific requests. It is difficult to balance these varied and sometimes conflicting needs, but I think this bill does a good job performing that balancing act while providing needed funds for safety improvement and infrastructure investments.

Mr. President, I am happy to yield to my colleague and former chairman of the subcommittee, a man who has been very supportive and helpful in crafting this bipartisan bill that we bring to the floor today, Senator LAUTENBERG.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New Jersey is recognized.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Mr. President, I thank the Chair.

I thank my colleague and friend, Senator HATFIELD, for his ever constructive work and comments. This may be the last bill on transportation that Senator HATFIELD will manage. Long after his actions as a Senator, as a leader in the Senate, and as someone whom we all admire and respect, I hope we will continue our friendship and contact, but I will say a little bit more about that in a couple moments, if I may.

Mr. President, I rise in strong support of the Senate amendments to H.R. 3675, the transportation appropriations bill for fiscal 1997. The bill, as we know, was reported unanimously by the Appropriations Committee on Thursday, July 18. It would be my hope we could get a similarly unanimous vote for Senate passage of the bill.

Given the overall funding limitations that we face in this year's appropriations process, I think the bill before us does an excellent job in distributing scarce resources among the Nation's critical transportation needs.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent at this moment that Michael Brennan, a legislative fellow from the Department of Transportation who works with us, be granted privileges of the floor during the Senate consideration of H.R. 3675 and the conference report that will accompany this bill.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Mr. President, this transportation bill comes before the Senate and before the Congress at a very sensitive moment in our discussions and deliberations here. The image of TWA Flight 800 is fresh in our mind. We all now grieve with those who lost loved ones, horrified at the shock that families, in some cases, lost two or three members of the family. One man lost his wife and two children. We can hardly comprehend the pain and the anguish that must go with something like that.

What an odd coincidence that at the moment we are considering how much money we spend on transportation, including safety in the air and safety in other modes of transportation, we face a time when, again, we wish that we could have done more, if it was possible, to prevent something like that.

I think it is important as we consider what the investment is going to be in transportation infrastructure in our society we not lose sight of what took place on that fateful day when TWA 800 went down. But we also cannot easily forget the ValuJet crash, the problem with the Delta Air Lines airplane as it was taking off and the mother and child were killed even though the airplane never got into the air; the engine disintegrated and tore into the fuselage.

We, unfortunately, can recall an accident in New Jersey and an accident in Maryland on the rails when Amtrak, in the Maryland instance, and, in New Jersey, the New Jersey Transit Co. lost people as a result of a crash. We are all too familiar with what happens on our highways each day in each State; that when we invest in transportation, it is not simply another way to spend money; that it has a real life-and-death effect on the way people move between work and home or recreation and home or shopping and home; and that when we look at what happens with our air quality—and everybody is concerned about what we leave to future generations—we try to improve it the best way we can. And the significant way to do that is through effective investments in transportation.

For the knowledge of the body—and I think everyone is aware of it, but I remind you even though it may be redundant—the United States, among the most advanced nations in the world, spends the least as a percentage of GDP on transportation infrastructure. When we look at the per capita spending in the United States on transportation infrastructure spending, we are the equivalent of some of the more primitive or more backward nations of the world, those on the African Continent, poor, poverty-stricken nations. I hope this year we recognize this is one area in which we cannot afford to skimp.

This is an excellent bill considering the appropriations we had to work with. It is a much more balanced approach than the House-passed bill. The bill does an excellent job of addressing to the maximum degree possible—and I emphasize the maximum degree possible—the priorities of all Members as well as the priorities of the administration. It is a testament to Chairman HATFIELD's cooperative effort that there is not even a hint of a veto overshadowing this bill. The administration has seen that the chairman has worked almost magic in terms of getting the appropriate balance with resources still too little, in my view.

For the Federal Aviation Administration, the bill includes additional funds requested by the administration to address the specific problems associated with the transportation of hazardous materials. These materials have been implicated as the possible cause of the recent tragic ValuJet crash.

Moreover, as we await answers to the many questions surrounding the tragedy on TWA flight 800, I think it is important to point out that the bill before us fully funds the administration's requested increase for civil aviation security.

For the Coast Guard, the bill comes close to fully funding the Commandant's request for operations and acquisition. The Coast Guard has implemented its own well-designed streamlining plan to reduce costs, and I am pleased that they will not be required to endure further reductions as part of this bill.

We depend on the Coast Guard to be ever ready and at their post in the event of all kinds of national contingencies, whether it is for emergency response to marine accidents and oil spills, search and rescue, national security, or, as we have seen most recently, the collection of evidence and debris from the TWA tragedy.

We depend on the Coast Guard to be ready to serve on a moment's notice. I was in East Moriches, Long Island, a week ago Saturday shortly after the crash occurred, and I couldn't have been more proud of the Coast Guard, who was there as quickly as possible. I flew with the helicopter pilot who was the first Coast Guard pilot on the scene. He said when the sea was still burning, it looked like an inferno. And I saw the loyalty, despite the terrible stress, and the commitment of each of them, their having counseling and review of their own emotions, because in each case, they see themselves and they see their own families.

The Coast Guard is a fantastic branch of service, Mr. President. Again, I do not want to leave out the NTSB and the FBI and the Navy and the others who are working so diligently to try to provide the answers that we hope will come soon. But a branch of service like the Coast Guard often does not get the credit that it deserves as we give them ever-more assignments. As one coastal State Senator, I assure you that they have served us well over last year, over the many years in the past.

Within the Federal Highway Administration, the Appropriations Committee has been able to find sufficient resources to allow full funding for prior-year highway projects. The bill before us provides an overall increase in the obligation ceiling for highway formula funds.

Within the Federal Transit Administration, the bill before us achieves a new high in the funding of transit discretionary capital grants, and while the bill freezes operations assistance at the fiscal 1996 level, it provides an increase for transit formula capital assistance.

I am especially pleased with the committee's recommendations for the Federal Railroad Administration. The House-passed bill singled out Amtrak for some truly destructive funding cuts. The bill before us takes a much more balanced approach, and it provides full funding for the President's request for the Northeast Corridor Improvement Program and the special one-time appropriations for new high-speed train assists.

The bill also provides an increase for Amtrak's capital account, permitting them to invest in capital equipment, in trackage, in signs, in electrification. The only way Amtrak can hope to become self-sufficient is if it has adequate funds to invest in its deteriorating capital plant. The bill before us makes a sizable investment toward that goal.

While there are some questions raised about Amtrak and its service in the highly populated Northeast Corridor, I remind our colleagues that were it not for Amtrak, and if we want to provide the same level of transportation facility to those who travel between Boston, New York, and Washington, we need something like 10,000 DC-9's a year to pick up that slack. Imagine, 10,000 extra airplane flights a year over our skies with all the noise and all the congestion and everything else.

So, once again, the funds that we are investing are funds that have a significant effect on the quality of life of our citizens.

Mr. President, it is with some pain that I must make note of the fact—and I have made note of the fact—that this will be the last appropriations bill that Senator HATFIELD will manage in his capacity as subcommittee chairman. In many ways, I hope it is the last and hope that it will get to the President and get signed and we don't have to do this one over again. We shouldn't have to. But as always, his openness and fair-mindedness has brought an ability to get things through the maze and bring it to this point and we hope soon to the President's desk.

In his 2 years as chairman of the Transportation Subcommittee, Senator HATFIELD has certainly distinguished himself as an informed and wise policymaker in the transportation arena. I have always admired his leadership, and I will always treasure his friendship. Mr. President, it is obvious there is only one person I would rather see as chairman of that subcommittee than Senator HATFIELD. I will not go any further. Just a joke.

Once again, I commend this bill to all my colleagues, and I hope that they will work with us to support the passage of the bill and that it does not become a forum for other discussions. It is late in the year; it is late in the week. We will soon be departing this place for other activities back home, and it would be too bad if this bill became a forum for debate that is unrelated particularly to transportation matters.

With that, I yield the floor, Mr. President.

Mr. BYRD addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from West Virginia.

Mr. BYRD. Mr. President, I rise in support of H.R. 3675, the transportation appropriations bill for fiscal year 1997. I have been a member of the Subcommittee on Transportation for many years, and was once chairman of the subcommittee. I have long been an advocate for increased and sustained funding for our Nation's transportation infrastructure.

The transportation appropriations bill is the preeminent contributor to our Nation's annual investment in infrastructure. Our Nation's economic prosperity depends heavily on the adequacy of our highways, our airports, our railroads, and our transit systems. As such, this is a critically important bill for the overall economic health of the Nation.

This bill also finances our entire Federal effort in the area of transportation safety, including the safety and security of our aviation and rail systems. The recent explosion on TWA Flight 800, which has been alluded to here already, and the associated loss of life, serve as a cruel reminder of the critical safety mission executed by our Department of Transportation.

I congratulate Senator HATFIELD, the Transportation Subcommittee chairman, and I congratulate the ranking member of the Transportation Subcommittee, Senator LAUTENBERG, for their expeditious action, their skillful and dedicated work on this bill.

Given the overall limitations we face for this year's appropriations bills, I believe that this bill represents a fair and balanced approach to the transportation needs of cities and communities throughout the Nation.

And I am particularly pleased that the committee rejected what I believe to be an ill-considered proposal by the administration that would have placed a cap on previously funded obligations for highway projects. Indeed, the bill before us provides an overall increase in the Federal aid highway obligation ceiling which provides critically needed highway funding for all 50 States.

So I commend Chairman HATFIELD and Senator LAUTENBERG for presenting to the Senate a bill that is free of controversial authorizing legislation. On balance, although I would support substantially more funding for the Nation's infrastructure than we are able to provide in this bill, I believe that H.R. 3675 deserves the support of all Senators.

Finally, Mr. President, I congratulate the efforts of the subcommittee staff—Pat McCann, Anne Miano, and Joyce Rose for the majority, and Peter Rogoff and Carole Geagley for the minority—for their outstanding work on this very important measure.

This is the last time that Senator HATFIELD will manage this transportation bill on the floor of the Senate.

I thank him for his long and illustrious service to the Senate, to his State, and to the Nation. I thank him for his steadfast friendship over the years. I thank him for his bipartisanship, his true bipartisanship, that he has demonstrated not only on this bill but on many other bills and which has been a hallmark of his service in this body. He has tremendous courage. As far as I am concerned, he is one of those few men and women in the history of the Senate who is truly a profile in courage.

I thank both the chairman and the ranking member again, as I say, for their services to the Senate and to the people of this country and to the country itself.

Emerson must have had men like these in mind when he said:

Not gold, but only men can make a nation great and strong;
Men who for truth and honor's sake stand fast and labor long;
Real men who work while others sleep,
Who dare while others fly.
They build a nation's pillars deep
And lift them to the sky.

I yield the floor.

Mr. HATFIELD addressed the Chair. The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Oregon.

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, first I thank my colleague and ranking member of the subcommittee, Senator LAUTENBERG, for his kind personal remarks. It has been a great pleasure and honor to work with Senator LAUTENBERG in this role. I am grateful to him for his many suggestions and recommendations.

I think, I say to Senator LAUTENBERG, if you and I were to really put the focus on the hard work and the effort and the accomplishment of this subcommittee, we would have to really look to our staff—your staff, Peter Rogoff, and my staff, Pat McCann and Anne Miano—who worked so well, beautifully together, meshing our common interests, crafting a bill that we are able to stand here and defend before the Senate.

I say, of Senator BYRD's very generous and kind remarks, that he has been a mentor. I should be thanking him for those remarks because I am sure that, like many, if not most of the Senate who have watched and listened to Senator BYRD over the years, we have learned a great deal not only about the Senate's history, but about the way legislation proceeds and the cooperation, collaboration that must be achieved on both sides of the aisle to pass legislation. I am very grateful for his most generous remarks.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the committee amendments be considered and agreed to en bloc and that they be considered as original text for the purpose of further amendment and that no points of order be waived thereon.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. THOMPSON). Without objection, it is so ordered.

The committee amendments were agreed to, en bloc.

AMENDMENTS NOS. 5123 THROUGH 5125, EN BLOC

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, I have three technical amendments that I offer on behalf of the committee. They have been cleared on both sides, correcting the spelling, other such technical matters.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report the amendments by number.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Oregon [Mr. HATFIELD] proposes amendments numbered 5123 through 5125, en bloc.

The amendments (Nos. 5123 through 5125) are as follows:

(3) LIMITATION.—No amount shall be payable under this section based on any separation occurring before the date of the enactment of this Act, or after September 30, 2000.

(d) ADDITIONAL AGENCY CONTRIBUTIONS TO THE RETIREMENT FUND.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—In addition to any other payments which it is required to make under subchapter III of chapter 83 of title 5, United States Code, an agency shall remit to the Office of Personnel Management for deposit in the Treasury of the United States to the credit of the Civil Service Retirement and Disability Fund an amount equal to 15 percent of the final basic pay of each employee of the agency who is covered under subchapter III of chapter 83 or chapter 84 of title 5, United States Code, to whom a voluntary separation incentive has been paid under this section.

(2) DEFINITION.—For the purpose of paragraph (1), the term "final basic pay", with respect to an employee, means the total amount of basic pay which would be payable for a year of service by such employee, computed using the employee's final rate of basic pay, and, if last serving on other than a full-time basis, with appropriate adjustment therefor.

(e) EFFECT OF SUBSEQUENT EMPLOYMENT WITH THE GOVERNMENT.—An individual who has received a voluntary separation incentive payment under this section and accepts any employment for compensation with the Government of the United States, or who works for any agency of the United States Government through a personal services contract, within 5 years after the date of the separation on which the payment is based shall be required to pay, prior to the individual's first day of employment, the entire amount of the incentive payment to the agency that paid the incentive payment.

(f) REDUCTION OF AGENCY EMPLOYMENT LEVELS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The total number of funded employee positions in an agency shall be reduced by one position for each vacancy created by the separation of any employee who has received, or is due to receive, a voluntary separation incentive payment under this section. For the purposes of this subsection, positions shall be counted on a full-time-equivalent basis.

(2) ENFORCEMENT.—The President, through the Office of Management and Budget, shall monitor each agency and take any action necessary to ensure that the requirements of this subsection are met.

(g) EFFECTIVE DATE.—This section shall take effect October 1, 1996.

AMENDMENT NO. 5124

On page 63 of the bill, line 24, strike "Arkansas" and insert "Alaska".

AMENDMENT NO. 5125

On page 60 of the bill, line 21, strike "5307" and insert "5311".

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the amendments be considered and agreed to, en bloc, and that the motions to reconsider be laid upon the table.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendments (Nos. 5123 through 5125) were agreed to.

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, I believe the parliamentary situation in the bill is open for further amendments.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator is correct.

Mr. HATFIELD. Perhaps there are none, and we could go to third reading. Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk called the roll.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

AMENDMENT NO. 5126

(Purpose: To fully fund the President's request for Aviation Security Research)

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Mr. President, I send an amendment to the desk and ask for its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from New Jersey [Mr. LAUTENBERG] proposes amendment numbered 5126.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that further reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

On page 5, line 17, strike "132,500,000" and insert "132,499,000".

On page 14, line 22, strike "187,000,000" and insert "188,490,000".

On page 38, line 5, strike "200,000,000" and insert "198,510,000".

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Mr. President, this fully funds the President's request for aviation security research. It is offset in budget authority as well as outlays.

Mr. HATFIELD. It is cleared on this side of the aisle.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the amendment.

The amendment (No. 5126) was agreed to.

Mr. HATFIELD. I move to reconsider the vote by which the amendment was adopted.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. I move to lay that motion on the table, Mr. President.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Mr. President, I want the RECORD to be clear that this is "human factors research for security." That is the title under which this legislation is proposed.

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, would the chairman yield for a question?

Mr. HATFIELD. Yes. I would be happy to yield for a question from the Senator from Alabama.

Mr. SHELBY. Mr. President, I understand the committee has included $6 million in the transportation appropriations bill for the development of vessel traffic service systems or VTS systems by the Coast Guard. I wanted to briefly ask the chairman whether it is the intent of the committee's report language that the Coast Guard undertake a review of this system, including the costs associated with implementing the program, before proceeding with their plans to install these systems in various ports around the country, including Mobile, AL.

The GAO report that the committee refers to in its report identified serious underestimations of the cost of the VTS 2000 program. I continue to have serious reservations about this system and the Coast Guard's current plan for its implementation and use. It would appear that the GAO has raised many important issues that need to be resolved before the Coast Guard proceeds in the implementation of this program. It is the intent of the committee that such a review take place by the Coast Guard before it proceeds with the VTS program?

Mr. HATFIELD. Yes. The report language directs the Coast Guard to tone down their ambitious plans, and to develop a common platform and common architecture for vessel traffic systems before proceeding in the future.

Mr. SHELBY. I appreciate the chairman's assurances on this matter.

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. REID. Mr. President, I am concerned that the committee report does not contain bus and bus facility funds for the Regional Transportation Commission of Clark County, NV. The RTC's CAT System has witnessed phenomenal growth and has seen an annual increase of ridership of over 36 percent. Its service hours and service miles per bus is more than double that of any other transit system in the United States.

The RTC has requested $5 million to complete its integrated bus maintenance facilities project to properly maintain and store its equipment fleet, and $5 million for new rolling stock to initiate express bus commuter service. Past transportation appropriations bills have provided funding for this project, recognizing its need and significance.

While I appreciate the many demands on the Senate for bus discretionary funds, I urge the chairman to give full consideration to the needs of Clark County, NV for this important funding.

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, the Senator from Nevada is correct that the RTC of Clark County is certainly a worthy candidate for discretionary bus and bus facility funds. In fiscal year 1996, nearly $17 million was provided for the project. I look forward to working with the Senator to make every effort to assist in advancing its project.

Mr. DEWINE. Mr. President, I would like to thank the distinguished chairman of the Appropriations Committee for his efforts during the appropriation process. I appreciate the fact that the Senate transportation appropriation report includes $30 million for bus and bus-related facilities in the State of Ohio. I would, however, like to make sure that this $30 million will be made available to the Ohio Department of Transportation to be used for bus and bus-related facilities in a manner determined by the Ohio Department of Transportation.

Mr. HATFIELD. I say to Senator DEWINE that it is the intent of the Appropriations Committee that the $30 million earmarked in Senate Report 104-325 for Ohio bus and bus-related facilities be available to the Ohio Department of Transportation to be used for bus and bus-related facilities in a manner determined by the Ohio Department of Transportation.

Mr. President, we have a list of notifications of Members that indicated they wished to present an amendment—about a dozen. I invite Members to the floor to present those amendments. We are going to have to finish this bill tonight, as the leader indicated earlier, and I hope the Senators would see fit, if they are interested in pursuing these amendments, to appear on the floor and make their presentation.

At some point in time I think the courtesy of waiting for those amendments will expire, and I will suggest we might go to a third reading of the bill and pass the bill. My patience is growing less at this point in time. I think every Senator is busy. I have many things I can do rather than stand here waiting for other Senators.

I make a very strong appeal to Senators, and if their staffs are present, to alert those Senators that we are here to do business. If not, we will go to third reading.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

AMENDMENTS NOS. 5127 AND 5128, EN BLOC

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, I send two amendments to the desk, en bloc, on behalf of Senator KOHL and Senator BOND, and ask for its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows: The Senator from Oregon [Mr. HATFIELD] proposes amendments numbered 5127 and 5128, en bloc.

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that reading of the amendments be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendments are as follows:

AMENDMENT NO. 5127

(Purpose: To express the sense of the Senate that Congress should establish the Saint Lawrence Seaway Development Corporation as a performance-based organization.)

At the appropriate place in the bill insert the following:

SEC. . It is the Sense of the Senate that Congress should actively consider legislation to establish the Saint Lawrence Seaway Development Corporation as a performance-based organization on a pilot basis beginning in fiscal year 1998.

AMENDMENT NO. 5128

(Purpose: To express the sense of the Congress concerning the use of full and open competition in procurement for the Federal Aviation Administration and to require an independent assessment of the acquisition management system of the Federal Aviation Administration.)

At the appropriate place, insert the following new section:

SEC. . FEDERAL AVIATION ADMINISTRATION PROCUREMENT.

(a) SENSE OF THE CONGRESS.—It is the sense of the Congress that the Administrator of the Federal Aviation Administration should promote and encourage the use of full and open competition as the preferred method of procurement for the Federal Aviation Administration.

(b) INDEPENDENT ASSESSMENT.—Not later than December 31, 1997, the Administrator of the Federal Aviation Administration shall—

(1) take such action as may be necessary to provide for an independent assessment of the acquisition management system of the Federal Aviation Administration that includes a review of any efforts of the Administrator in promoting and encouraging the use of full and open competition as the preferred method of procurement with respect to any contract that involves an amount greater than $50,000,000; and

(2) submit to the Congress a report on the findings of that independent assessment.

(c) FULL AND OPEN COMPETITION DEFINED.—For purposes of this section, the term "full and open competition" has the meaning provided that term in section 4(6) of the Office of Federal Procurement Policy Act (41 U.S.C. 403(6)).

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, these two amendments have been cleared on both sides of the aisle.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, the amendments are agreed to en bloc.

The amendments (No. 5127 and 5128), en bloc, were agreed to.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. HATFIELD. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, I make an observation that the amendments on the list that we have are all legislation—matters relating to legislation on an appropriations bill. We have indicated that in cases of emergency and timeframe problems, if they are cleared by the authorizing chairman and the authorizing committee ranking member, we would accept them. But we will not accept legislation on this appropriations bill. Our leadership, both Republican and Democratic, has already stated that we would try to resist all riders on appropriations bills, which held us up a great deal in the last fiscal year and caused us to go, in part, into that situation where we had five appropriation bills that we had to incorporate in an omnibus package 7 months into the fiscal year. We are very desperately trying to avoid that this year. I am proud to say that by the end of this week we will have passed nine appropriation bills here in the Senate. I have already signed, today, the conference report on the agricultural appropriations bill. We are hoping to have five bills passed in the conference, ready for floor action, at the end of this week.

So we are making very significant progress. We will report out the number 12 appropriation bill from our committee, State, Justice, Commerce, on Thursday of this week. We will report the last bill on the first week in September, Labor-HHS. That would give us a schedule that the Republican leader has put together, by which we would be able to meet that October deadline a week to 10 days before the expiration of this fiscal year. What a contrast to last year, and one that I would like to be able to achieve.

So, again, I want to say that we have been here now for about a half-hour waiting for amendments. I informed the Republican leader about 15 minutes ago that we were in this situation, waiting for some kind of action, and that I wanted to consider third reading at an appropriate time, which, to me, would be right now. But I am not the leader and, consequently, I will confer with the leadership on that kind of a decision. But I have to, again, assure our colleagues that we want to do business with them. We want to consider their amendments that have been cleared by both the chairman and the ranking member of authorizing committees, because most all of them are authorization actions. And that is a bipartisan policy that our leadership has established and which this committee leadership has also agreed to.

I do not know what more we can say to require some action.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Mr. President, to lend some further impetus to the remarks of the distinguished chairman of the subcommittee, I would plead with my colleagues on the Democratic side to get down here if you want to do business. I think it is a very poor reflection on what has to be done to set the stage for transportation investments in the year beginning October 1, a chance to establish the fact that things are happening, that we are responding to the need for transportation investment. For us to stand here while little, if anything, takes place, I think, reflects very poorly on the commitment to getting the job done.

I urge my colleagues, as we heard from Senator HATFIELD, to come on down, present your amendments, present the argument, and see if you can win the case. If the amendments are important, then I fail to see that there is no urgency to getting them down here, get them on the floor, and let us discuss them.

This is the transportation bill. We are talking about billions of dollars. We are talking about safety. We are talking about the way our Nation competes with other countries. We are talking about quality of air. We are talking about the consumption of fuel. We are talking about so many things here in this bill, and to permit it to languish while we sit here kind of staring at one another is, I think, unacceptable.

So I hope that we can encourage leadership on both sides, and the Senators on both sides, to get with it, get done, get going so we can get on to the next piece of business, or the next pieces of business which are very important.

With that, I note the absence of interest and the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

AMENDMENT NO. 5129

(Purpose: To respond to the tragic explosion of a sugar beet processing plant in Western Nebraska and to provide for the safe and efficient interstate transportation of sugar beets.)

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, I send an amendment on behalf of Senators

KERREY and EXON to the desk and ask for its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The bill clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Oregon [Mr. HATFIELD], for Mr. KERREY, for himself and Mr. EXON, proposes an amendment numbered 5129.

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

49 U.S.C. App. 2311 is amended by adding the following new subsection:

(D) NEBRASKA—In addition to vehicles which the State of Nebraska may continue to allow to be operated under paragraphs (1)(a) and (1)(B) of this section, the State of Nebraska may allow longer combination vehicles that were not in actual operation on June 1, 1991 to be operated within its boundaries to transport sugar beets and from the field where such sugar beets are harvested to storage, market, factory or stockpile or from stockpile to storage, market or factory. This provision shall expire on September 30, 1997.

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, this is one of those examples of a legislative action that has been cleared by the ranking member and the chairman of the Commerce Committee, so under the exigencies of the situation in Nebraska, it has been cleared on both sides to be adopted here today on our bill.

I urge its adoption.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. If there is no objection, the amendment is agreed to.

The amendment (No. 5129) was agreed to.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. HATFIELD. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 5130

(Purpose: To allow funds previously appropriated for a highway safety improvement project in Michigan to be used for construction of a highway that is part of the project)

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, I send to the desk an amendment on behalf of Senator LEVIN of Michigan.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The bill clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Oregon [Mr. HATFIELD], for Mr. LEVIN, proposes an amendment numbered 5130.

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

At the end of title IV, add the following:

SEC. 4. HIGHWAY SAFETY IMPROVEMENT PROJECT, MICHIGAN.

Of the amount appropriated for the highway safety improvement project, Michigan, under the matter under the heading "SURFACE TRANSPORTATION PROJECTS" under the heading "FEDERAL HIGHWAY ADMINISTRATION" in title I of the Department of Transportation and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 1995 (Public Law 103-331; 108 Stat. 2478), for the purposes of right-of-way acquisition for Baldwin Road, and engineering, right-of-way acquisition, and construction between Walton Boulevard and Dixie Highway, $2,000,000 shall be made available for construction of Baldwin Road.

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, this is an amendment by the Senator from Michigan, Mr. LEVIN, that would move some money from one account to another account to handle a situation in Michigan. This is not legislation on an appropriations bill, and there is a zero budget impact.

I believe it has been cleared on both sides of the aisle. So, therefore, I urge its adoption.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, the amendment is agreed to.

The amendment (No. 5130) was agreed to.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote by which the amendment was agreed to.

Mr. HATFIELD. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, we are now approaching 50 minutes that we have waited here for Senators to arrive to offer amendments—50 wasted minutes. I really think we have approached the time for calling of third reading on this bill and vote this bill out, since we have not had response from Senators.

Is the Senator from North Dakota awaiting to present an amendment? I refrain from asking for third reading at this point.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The bill clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. ABRAHAM). Without objection, it is so ordered.

AMENDMENT NO. 5131

(Purpose: To require investigation of anti-competitive practices in air transportation)

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, I send an amendment to the desk.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The bill clerk read as follows:

The Senator from North Dakota [Mr. DORGAN] proposes an amendment numbered 5131.

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

On page 2, line 6 after "$53,376,000," insert the following: "of which such sums as necessary shall be used to investigate anti-competitive practices in air transportation, enforce Section 41712 of Title 49, and report to Congress by the end of the fiscal year on its progress to address anticompetitive practices, and".

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, I have a couple of amendments. The amendment I have just offered is an amendment that talks about the issue of anticompetitive practices in the airline industry. I know there are some in Congress who think that the deregulation of the airline industry has been a wonderful bonanza for our country. But there are some of us who live in the more sparsely populated areas of our country who do not believe it has been such a bonanza. The sparsely populated States like North Dakota, for example, have less airline service now and pay more for it than prior to deregulation.

I am not a big fan of airline deregulation. I think I would be a big fan if I lived in Chicago and traveled to New York and Los Angeles, because then I would have far more carriers competing, lower prices, and a wide variety of flights to take. I suppose for folks who live in those markets, this has been a wonderful bonanza. For folks who live elsewhere, it has not worked out so well.

One of the interesting things about deregulation is that even when you deregulate an industry like the airlines you must also continue to have some kind of referee so that when someone does something that distorts the market or injures the market, that someone can step in, an authority can step in and say, "No, this is a practice that is anticompetitive."

The whole notion of deregulation is to set free the competitive forces by which, through competition, you have more service and lower prices. But there are practices that are or can be inherently anticompetitive, even under deregulation. That is especially the case in rural areas.

Let me give you a couple of instances. Last week, in North Dakota we learned that a jet carrier that had started up a couple of years ago to provide regional jet service to our State and some other rural areas was going to discontinue service in North Dakota. Now, that is not so unusual. We have lost Continental Airlines from North Dakota. We have lost Delta Airlines. We have lost American Airlines. Now we lose Frontier Airlines. We are getting accustomed to losing airlines under deregulation. We have one large dominant carrier left in North Dakota. It is a good carrier. I think it is a good company. I speak well of it. I admire its service. I think it does well. But we do not do well when we do not have competition. When you do not have competition, you have less service and pay higher prices.

Now, a regional jet carrier starts up to provide some regional jet service competition. What happens under today's deregulation environment when they try to do that? The large carriers squash them like bugs. They say, "We do not want competition. We do not want a new carrier to start up."

So what do they do? Well, first of all, under deregulation, the large carriers have no requirement at all to have any sort of code-sharing with any new carrier. Take the airline that started in North Dakota to fly to the Denver hub. The Denver hub is dominated by one carrier, one of the largest airline companies in the country. That carrier says to a new jet service, "We have no interest in cooperating with you in any way. We are not interested in offering you code-sharing in any circumstance." And if you want to make money you make money hauling people from point A to point B, and that is it—from Bismarck, ND, to Denver, CO. Of course most people are not traveling from Bismarck to Denver. They are traveling from Bismarck to Denver and then to Los Angeles, to Chicago, to Phoenix, to San Francisco, or elsewhere.

The result is, because a large carrier prohibits or simply refuses to cooperate in any way—especially with code-sharing—with a startup carrier, the startup carrier is severely disadvantaged.

In addition to that, the large carrier will go to the travel agents in those communities and say, "I tell you what, we do not want you to ticket on this new competitive airline. We want you to ticket with us. Go a more circuitous route, travel more miles, but travel with us. What we will do is pay the travel agents' override commissions." They effectively say to travel agents, "If you keep people off this new airline, we will pay you to do it." Of course, when the new airline leaves that community and no longer serves, all these overrides, the payments to the travel agents, will be gone. But that is the way this practice works.

Fundamentally, anticompetitive practices by airlines who have gotten big enough to wield the economic clout, the sheer muscle power, injure the startup companies. If I dominate a hub, say in Minneapolis, Denver, or some other hub, I will describe the kind of competition I have in and out of that hub, because I can enforce that competition. I can enforce it by keeping people out and by letting in only those who I choose to let in. Now, that is the circumstance under deregulation without a referee.

Now, I happen to think we do not have a very aggressive effort in the Department of Transportation dealing with these issues of anticompetitive behavior or anticompetitive practices. Am I critical of DOT? Yes, I have been after them for 2 years on these issues. If I am a new carrier that starts up to provide jet service from North Dakota to Denver, for example, I do not even show up on the first one or two computer screens when a travel agent in Los Angeles decides it will book a flight from Los Angeles to North Dakota and back. I do not show up on the screen as providing jet service. That is anticompetitive. It is a computer reservation system, controlled by a dominant carrier that is anticompetitive.

There are a number of anticompetitive practices that occur and not much is done about it. For 2 years I have been after the Department of Transportation to do something about it. They drag their feet for a year and a half, and now there is some work, maybe they are starting to do some things—probably too late, maybe not aggressive enough. My hope is that perhaps in the near future we will see the Department of Transportation do what it ought to do—become the referee, the arbiter of fairness, in what is competitive and what is anticompetitive in this industry.

The amendment I have offered simply says that the Secretary of Transportation shall use such funds as is necessary to investigate anticompetitive practices in air transportation, to enforce section 41712 of title 49, and to report to Congress by the end of the fiscal year on its progress to address anticompetitive practices.

I hope if this is accepted, and I understand it will be, that the Secretary of Transportation will take this seriously and do aggressively what it should have been doing the last couple of years.

I understand some people would like there to be no discussion on amendments that are offered that are being accepted. I am sorry about that, but the fact is I have also been waiting here for an hour, and when I offer an amendment, I intend to be able to speak on it as I wish.

I have a couple of other amendments that I will offer. But I ask that this amendment be accepted, if it is acceptable to the majority and minority.

With that, I yield the floor.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Mr. President, I think the Senator from North Dakota makes a very good case. Despite the fact that I come from one of the most active transportation centers of the country, New Jersey, and we are the most densely populated State, we need access to aviation and so forth. I agree that the problems that have developed since deregulation have not always been things that we anticipated.

I talked with the Secretary of Transportation, and I made the point that the distinguished Senator from North Dakota made so eloquently just now on the floor. He tells me—and I am sure this is nothing new to the Senator from North Dakota—about the fact that United Airlines has agreed with the cooperative baggage arrangements and cooperative ticketing, though code sharing has not yet become part of the picture.

Unfortunately, in the deregulated mode, the contracts are between airlines. But I am assured that the Secretary will be looking at the anticompetitive situation of small rural airports around the country, whether jet service is available and why it is discontinued. I have that commitment to him. I pass that on to the Senator from North Dakota, so he has a basis for review as time goes by.

We continue to subsidize essential air service in the hope that we will be of some help. Meanwhile, I think the Senator has a good point. We accept his amendment from this side. I assume that the other side also is agreeable.

Mr. STEVENS. Mr. President, has there been a modification of the amendment?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator sent up a modified version of the amendment, which is before us at this time.

Mr. STEVENS. Has the Senator modified his amendment?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Not technically.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. The Senator makes a good point. The clerk did not fully read the amendment by our request. I wonder if we could just have a reminder about what is an item to item 1 and 2, where it starts—

Mr. STEVENS. Mr. President, I merely want to find out, is the Senator going to modify the amendment in the form I have before me? This is amendment No. 5131, is that correct?

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, I can clear that up. I only offered one amendment. It is at the desk. It is the amendment that I had cleared through the manager.

Mr. STEVENS. I misunderstood the situation. I thought it was being modified from its original form.

Mr. DORGAN. The original amendment was never offered.

Mr. STEVENS. Very well. Really, as an original sponsor of the whole concept of the essential air service, I am pleased to see this amendment come forth in this form. We would have had to oppose the creation of a new office. But this does not do that, so we are prepared to accept the amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the amendment.

The amendment (No. 5131) was agreed to.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. STEVENS. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 5132

(Purpose: To reduce the level of funding for the National Railroad Passenger Corporation)

Mr. MCCAIN. Mr. President, I send an amendment to the desk and ask for its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Arizona [Mr. McCAIN] proposes an amendment numbered 5132.

Mr. McCAIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

At the appropriate place, insert the following.

On page 25, strike lines 9 through 14, provided that the $200,000,000 thus saved be made available to the Secretary for high priority rail, aviation and highway safety purposes.

On page 29, line 6, strike "$592,000,000" and insert "$462,000,000".

On page 29, line 9, strike "$250,000,000" and insert "$120,000,000, provided that the $130,000,000 thus saved be made available to the Secretary for high priority rail, aviation and highway safety purposes."

Mr. McCAIN. Mr. President, I ask if the managers would like to agree to a time agreement. I would be more than happy to discuss that.

Mr. STEVENS. I am interested in a time agreement if the Senator would indicate how long he might want.

Mr. McCAIN. If the managers are agreeable, 15 minutes on a side. Senator BIDEN asked to be notified at the time of the presentation of the amendment. He also said he would agree to a time agreement, but he would like to have time to debate this amendment.

Mr. STEVENS. The Senator wishes time to contact the Senator from Delaware. If the Senator will proceed, we will try to get a time agreement.

Mr. McCAIN. Mr. President, I fully intend to enter into a time agreement with the managers of the bill at the appropriate time when they come up with a proposal.

Mr. President, this amendment would restore Amtrak's funding to the House passed level and provide the savings to the Secretary of Transportation for high priority rail, highway, and aviation safety purposes.

The House overwhelmingly passed the fiscal 1997 Transportation appropriations bill by a vote of 403 to 2 and appropriated a total of $462 million for Amtrak's operating expenses and capital improvements.

The Senate has added $330 million to this bill for Amtrak's capital accounts, adding $200 million for the Northeast Corridor Improvement Program which the House did not fund at all. This amounts to at least a 61-percent increase in Amtrak funding over the House appropriated levels. While I understand that some of my colleagues believe that if we continue to throw additional money at Amtrak, its financial problems will disappear, I believe the House-passed funding levels are more than sufficient and I urge my colleagues to support this amendment.

I also know that some will come to the floor to argue that unless we give Amtrak this massive increase in capital grants over and above the House-passed level, Amtrak will find it even harder to reach self-sufficiency. While their intentions may be good, we have been repeatedly promised that with increased expenditures Amtrak will become self-sufficient. That has never been the case before. I do not believe that will be the case today.

Amtrak began in 1971 as a 2-year experiment. Since its creation in 1971, Amtrak has cost the American taxpayer about 418 billion. This $18 billion has gone to subsidizing rail transportation for less than one-half of 1 percent of America's intercity rail passengers. In addition, a recent study by economists Wendell Cox and Jean Love found that the vast majority of Amtrak riders earn more than $40,000 a year.

Let me just show my colleagues Amtrak funding from 1995. In 1995, there will be allotted to the State of New York $215.862 million; to the State of California, $119.531 million; the State of Pennsylvania, $11.945 million; the State of Washington $108.787 million. Those four States will receive $556.125 million. A percentage of the funding—

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Will the Senator yield?

Mr. McCAIN. Let me finish my statement, I say to the Senator.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Will the Senator yield for a question?

Mr. McCAIN. Mr. President, I have the floor. I ask for the regular order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Arizona has the floor.

Mr. McCAIN. I would appreciate it if the Senator from New Jersey would observe the regular order. I said to him I do not wish to yield the floor at this time.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. The Senator from New Jersey does not need a lesson on protocol.

Mr. McCAIN. The Senator from New Jersey obviously needs a lesson on the rules of the Senate because he interrupted me again as I have the floor.

I ask the Chair for the floor again. I hope that the Senator from New Jersey will not interrupt again as long as I choose not to yield the floor to him.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Arizona.

Mr. McCAIN. Mr. President, on chart No. 2, I would like to show Amtrak revenues and expenses for fiscal years 1988 through 1994. As we can see, the expenses continue to go up and the revenues are basically flat.

This second chart reveals how, over the years, Amtrak's expenses have steadily grown at an accelerated pace while revenue have remained virtually the same. I believe this shows that Amtrak's problems are fundamental and the only question is whether the Federal Government will, at a minimum, put some limits on the amount of taxpayer dollars we are willing to lose to a failed experiment.

The point made by this third chart is basic. Amtrak appropriations have grown over its 25-year existence, and despite this fact, Amtrak still never seems to have enough Federal subsidization to cover its losses.

Mr. President, I remember with great clarity in 1983 when I came to the House of Representatives of the United States when I was visited by a man that I admired as much as any man I have ever known in my life, the former Secretary of the Navy who I had known on my tour in the Navy, Mr. Graham Claytor, Secretary Graham Claytor. Secretary Claytor was then President of Amtrak, and Secretary Claytor assured me that Amtrak funding would no longer be needed after 5 years; absolutely that would be the end because Secretary Claytor, and the other people who ran Amtrak and other Members of Congress, said that after 5 years there would be no need for any more Federal funding because Amtrak would be self-sufficient.

I would be glad to include for the RECORD how time after time after time over many previous years since 1971 that the assurances were given to this body and to the American taxpayers. "Do not worry. Four or 5 years from now the funding required for Amtrak will be finished."

Mr. President, on October 8, 1995, George Will wrote a very interesting and entertaining article that I would like to quote. He says:

Long ago, before Washington decided it did everything so well it should start running a passenger railroad, American slang included a phrase used to express dismay about mismanagement of organizations. The phrase is "Helluva way to run a railroad." Speaking of Amtrak . . .

Congress is speaking of it because conservatives are in a Margaret Thatcher mood. It was said she could not see an institution without swatting it with her handbag. Republicans, who praise governmental minimalism, can hardly close their year of glory without asking why the government is in the railroad business.

In a sense it has been for more than a century. The word "cordial" hardly suggests the intimacy between government—federal and state—and railroads in the 19th century, when 10 percent of the public domain was given in land grants to the transcontinental railroads. The Union Pacific was given one-tenth of Nebraska—4,845,997 acres.

Amtrak began, as did so much that makes today's conservatives cross, under Richard Nixon, during whose administration there occurred the largest peacetime expansion of government power in American history (wage and price controls) and the creation of the Environmental Protection Agency, the Occupational Safety and Health Administration, forced busing and racial set-asides. He failed to get Congress to enact a new entitlement, a guaranteed annual income, and to embark on what is now called "industrial policy" by funding development of a supersonic transport aircraft.

"All through grade school," said Nixon, "my ambition was to become a railroad engineer." Would that he had. In March 1970, the largest operator of passenger trains, Penn Central, on the verge of bankruptcy, sought permission to end passenger service west of Harrisburg and Buffalo. For that, government deserved a portion of blame, the Interstate Commerce Commission having resisted rate increases commensurate with wage increases unions were winning. In a textbook example of how bad government begets more government, Amtrak was born.

It began operations in 1971, ostensibly as a two-year experiment. It has lost money since 1971, partly because it has been a mini-welfare state appended to the welfare state: It has been forbidden to contract out union jobs, and laid-off workers have been entitled to six years of severance pay. So, having helped make private railroads anemic (jet aircraft, better highways and inept railroad management contributed mightily to the anemia), the government piled on Amtrak its mandates that would keep it running in the red.

Helluva way to run a railroad? What do you expect from something created in defiance of market forces and regarded by its creators, the political class, as several varieties of pork, including an entitlement for small communities that want the government to guarantee continuing rail service for which there is weak demand?

Recently a full-page magazine ad by Amtrak bore this message at the bottom of the page: "No federal funds were used to pay for this message." What mendacity. Money is fungible, so taxpayers paid for as large a portion of the cost of that ad as they pay of the overall costs of Amtrak—about 20 percent. And Amtrak's ads are not producing congestion down at the old railroad depot. Amtrak carries less than one percent of the people who travel between cities, and half of its passengers are in the Northeast Corridor. Most passengers are middle class, many of them business travelers. Almost all have air or long-haul bus transportation alternatives.

Defenders of the subsidies say, as defenders of subsidies do, that we are all benefiting so much that the subsidies "pay for themselves." Their argument is that because of passenger trains, highways are less congested, air is less polluted, we are delaying the evil day when federal money will have to help build another airport for Boston, and so on. There is some truth in all these arguments and a lot in this one: Government even more heavily subsidizes air and road passengers. United Airlines is not expected to build airports, and Greyhound is not responsible for maintaining the highways.

However, Congress is poised to shrink Amtrak subsidies from more than $700 million next year to zero by 2002 at the latest, when Amtrak is scheduled to be privatized.

That obviously, has not been the case since Mr. Will wrote this article.

Mr. Will continues:

Its roadbed needs work, especially in the Northeast, and its rolling stock is old (the average car is 23 years old), so even with more reasonable work rules and more latitude to rationalize routes, privatization may not be possible. But trying to get the government out of railroading is not optional if the conservatives' determination to rationalize government is real.

Mr. President, this money that I am asking to be reduced would go to much needed rail, air, and road safety. We all realize how much safety is important; indeed, uppermost in the minds of many people as a result of some of the aircraft accidents that have taken place, some of the rail accidents that have taken place in America, and also some of the continued terrible tragedies that afflict the highways day in and day out.

So, Mr. President, I wonder if the managers of the bill are ready to enter into a time agreement?

In the meantime, I yield the floor.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. STEVENS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. STEVENS. I ask unanimous consent that on this amendment there be a time agreement with 30 minutes on the side of those who oppose Senator MCCAIN's amendment and another 5 minutes for Senator MCCAIN.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. If we can modify that, and that is that there be no second-degree amendments prior to a motion to table.

Mr. STEVENS. That time is on or in relation to this amendment and that there be no second-degree amendments in order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection? Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. MCCAIN. Mr. President, I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There is a sufficient second.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time?

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Mr. President, I yield 10 minutes to the Senator from Delaware.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Delaware is recognized.

Mr. BIDEN. Mr. President, I rise in strong opposition to the amendment by the Senator from Arizona. Cutting funding for Amtrak back to the inadequate level set by the House would be a big mistake and very bad public policy, in my view. It would be a formula for failure for the only intercity passenger rail service we have in America. The amendment would frustrate Amtrak's ongoing attempts to become self-sufficient. Instead of saving any money, it would waste funds already provided for passenger rail by virtually guaranteeing the demise of Amtrak.

It is a formula for failure, Mr. President, because it prevents Amtrak from completing the comprehensive reforms it needs to eventually become self-sufficient in its day-to-day operations.

I know my friends have heard me over the last 20 years make this same point. But no passenger rail service in the world—and passenger rail plays an important role all over the world—no passenger rail service in the world is, in fact, operated without public support for its capital needs. Whether it is in Europe or Japan, the most advanced industrialized economies in the world, not one passenger rail system in the world operates without support for its capital needs. It is these capital investments, the improvements to the Northeast corridor to carry high-speed trains and funds to purchase new locomotives and passenger cars for the western part of the United States as well as the Northeast corridor, that the McCain amendment hits the hardest.

Without upgrades to the bridges, without straightening out the curves, without completion of the electrification of the rail connections between Washington and Boston, Amtrak would be unable to attract the additional passengers it needs to earn more operating income.

Mr. President, we have put Amtrak on a very strict diet. We have cut service. We have cut subsidies. We have gotten a commitment that they will be self-sufficient by the year 2001. Amtrak on the east coast works on an electrification system, overhead electrical wires, and we have spent millions of dollars to upgrade the system from New York to Boston to allow high-speed Metroliner runs from Boston all the way to Washington. We have had to upgrade the bridges. We are well beyond New Haven and working our way up. This amendment would stop that project cold, absolutely cold.

The Senate is on record in support of providing a half cent from the Federal gasoline tax to provide for Amtrak's capital budget. This is a step that I believe has to be taken as soon as possible. But until then, Amtrak will continue to require adequate funding through the appropriations process. I have been working here along with my colleague, Senator ROTH, and others for years and years to get a dedicated source of funding for Amtrak. We are on the verge of doing that. Once that is done, one-half cent would provide $600 million a year in capital costs.

That dedicated capital fund would be able to underwrite the capital cost of the entire Amtrak system coast to coast. But, in the meantime, absent that funding source, to eliminate the Northeast corridor improvements and decimate the remainder of their capital budget nationwide would literally be the end of the railroad. It becomes a self-fulfilling prophecy. We say we want this outfit to be self-sufficient, and the very things needed to make it self-sufficient are the things we are going to deny it before we get to that point.

My friend from Arizona said, I am told, that the average Amtrak passenger makes $40,000 a year and does not need a subsidy, et cetera, et cetera, et cetera. I would like to put this thing in focus. My Western colleagues come to us in the East, and they say, "An integral part of our economy is water." They point out to us, time and again, that we need to vote to subsidize their farmers, to subsidize their cities, to subsidize their drinking water. And we do. We spend tens of billions of dollars a year—tens of billions of dollars a year.

I will never forget the first time, as a young man, I flew from the east coast to the west coast. I will never forget flying over the foothills of the Rocky Mountains and then on the other side, seeing all these concentric circles on the ground. I wondered what they were, these concentric circles. I had been in an airplane before, but I had never flown coast to coast.

All of a sudden, I realized that is my mother's tax dollars, on Social Security. That is my tax dollars. It is my dad's tax dollars, on Social Security. Subsidizing what? Subsidizing western farm areas, subsidizing Senator MCCAIN's in-laws and himself and others' drinking water. That is OK with me. We are one nation. The purpose of one nation is for each part of the country to work together. The whole is greater than the sum of the parts. All the parts of the Nation need different things. I do not hear Senator MCCAIN or other Western Senators coming here and saying: You know, let us do away with subsidizing those farmers. Let us do away with subsidizing the water John Doe drinks in Phoenix, AZ. And I am not here doing that.

But rail passenger service is critical to my section of the country and to the west coast. It is critical. If we eliminate Amtrak, how many more lanes of interstate highway are we going to be able to put in? What is it going to do to the environment? What is it going to do to the air? All Amtrak wants is a shot, a chance, a shot to make themselves self-sufficient.

I will not be on the floor trying to restore Amtrak money for operating costs if we get the half-cent gas tax, a measly half cent. But the fact of the matter is, the House Transportation Committee and Congressman WOLF cut this significantly, the same amount that my friend and colleague from Arizona wants to cut it. Senator HATFIELD and Senator LAUTENBERG and their colleagues in the Appropriations Committee have repaired the damage done by the House bill. And, as the chairman of the House Transportation Committee, Congressman WOLF, admitted, the House levels were wholly inadequate and were intended to force the adoption of the half-cent proposal.

I am not sure what I think of that strategy, but I certainly agree that Amtrak funding levels in the House bill, the levels called for in Senator MCCAIN's amendment, would be totally inadequate. The McCain amendment is a proposal to kill Amtrak; let there be no mistake about that. As a small

State in the Northeast corridor, Delaware would be hard hit by the loss of a major part of its transportation system. As a major center for the repair and maintenance of railroads for more than a century, Delaware also faces the loss of important jobs under the severe cuts in the Northeast corridor and the capital budget of Amtrak. But as Senator LAUTENBERG forcefully argued, Amtrak plays a key role in the whole country's transportation system. As Senator HATFIELD, the distinguished departing chair of the Appropriations Committee, well knows, the west coast is a major beneficiary of passenger rail as well.

I acknowledge that, because of all the cuts we made in Amtrak over the past, not every State or region benefits equally from Amtrak. I acknowledge that. But I do not benefit from the water subsidies either. Delaware farmers do not benefit like the farmers from Arizona. My mother does not benefit, like the Senator's family does. I understand that. That is America.

Senator MCCAIN comes from a desert. I come from a place where there is a lot of water. I come from a place where we are overgrown with highways, where we have trouble breathing the air. Passenger rail is needed to relieve traffic congestion and air pollution. It is needed badly.

I will leave Senator MCCAIN's water alone if he leaves my railroad alone.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to proceed for 1 more minute.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time?

Mr. BIDEN. May I have 1 more minute?

Mr. LAUTENBERG. I yield 1 more minute to the Senator from Delaware.

Mr. BIDEN. I want to stress that Amtrak is not important to just one part of the country or to just a few customers. I understand the distinguished majority leader has been assured by his constituents of the importance of Amtrak to the State of Mississippi. If Amtrak were an airline, it would be the largest air carrier in the country. Amtrak is the single largest individual passenger carrier on the east coast, and to replace Amtrak's service in the East, as well as around the country, would require more lanes of interstate highway and more air pollution, more airport construction, additional safety concerns and increased congestion for all parts of the Nation. So let us not kid ourselves that Amtrak is not important to all parts of our country. But I agree, it is of particular importance to my State and the east coast.

I thank the chairman and ranking member, and I yield back the 12 second I may have left.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time?

Mr. LAUTENBERG. I yield 5 minutes to the Senator from Rhode Island.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Rhode Island is recognized.

Mr. CHAFEE. Mr. President, I am pleased the Senate Appropriations Committee has approved full funding for Amtrak operations, capital support, and the Northeast Corridor Improvement Program. I regret this amendment to cut funding for Amtrak by $173 million is being offered.

Amtrak, as has been pointed out, provides service for millions of Americans, a competitive service at a competitive price. Through a modern nationwide passenger rail system, traffic congestion, and air pollution are reduced by this fuel-efficient alternative to highway and air travel. I certainly recognize that Amtrak cannot survive much longer as a viable entity in its current financial condition. Many of us are familiar with the oft-cited GAO report documenting the widening gap between Amtrak's revenues and expenses since the beginning of this decade. For the past 2 years, the question facing Congress is, what should we do about Amtrak? I do not think anyone believes that simply increasing or even continuing in perpetuity Amtrak's annual subsidy are wise solutions. Instead, a better solution has been proposed. This solution, partially embodied within the Amtrak authorization bill, will enable Amtrak to operate as much like a private business as possible.

Separate legislation, which constitutes the second part of this proposal, would redirect one-half cent of the Federal gas tax to a new passenger rail trust fund similar to those existing for highway and air travel.

I will just say this. Transporting people has never been a profitable business for railroads. At least it certainly has not been in the past 50 years. So, I believe it is unfortunate that prospects for passage of this Amtrak authorization bill and legislation to redirect the half cent of the Federal gas tax, is being proposed. I think if there is no Amtrak authorization bill and no steady revenue source to allow Amtrak to modernize and privatize, there is going to be trouble. That is the situation we have today. Funding for Amtrak operations and capital support in the Northeast corridor are urgently required for the short-term survival of intercity passenger rail service. Amtrak does want to end its dependence on Federal subsidies. However, until such a plan is in place, Amtrak simply must have the yearly support needed to continue at a minimal level.

I am a user of Amtrak, Mr. President. It is very important to the section of the country I have, and, therefore, I urge the opposition and, indeed, the defeat of the amendment proposed by the Senator from Arizona.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. GORTON). Who yields time?

Mr. LAUTENBERG. I yield 3 minutes to the Senator from North Dakota.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from North Dakota is recognized.

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, I rise in opposition to the amendment. I just heard the statement by Senator CHAFEE and agree with his comments. I would like to find a way for Amtrak to become more self-sufficient. I would like to find an additional revenue source for Amtrak. But the fact is, until that occurs, if we do not provide adequate funding, there will not be an Amtrak that represents a national rail system providing service across the country.

If this amendment is adopted, we will be left only with a Northeast corridor service for Amtrak, period. There will be no other Amtrak in the rest of the country. We will have service in the Northeast corridor, and we will have no other service anywhere else. I don't think that advances the interest of a country that does need a mix of transportation services, including rail passenger service.

In fact, the committee cut the Amtrak funding by about $40 million from last year. This amendment would then reduce it another couple hundred million dollars. This does not, in my judgment, move us in the right direction. It moves us exactly in the wrong direction, if you believe that we ought to have some kind of rail passenger system as a national system.

If you believe it only ought to be regional, then you probably will end up all right with this, although I don't think it provides sufficient funding. But if you believe we ought to have a national rail passenger system, then this amendment would severely injure the opportunity to do that, because we would not have a national rail passenger system if this amendment is adopted.

I thank the Senator from New Jersey for the time, and I yield the floor.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Mr. President, how much time do we have?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New Jersey has 13 minutes, 43 seconds.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. How many?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Thirteen minutes, 40 seconds.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. The other side has?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Five minutes.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Mr. President, I yield myself so much time as I will use between now and the 13 minutes plus.

Mr. President, I indicate my strong opposition to the amendment offered by the Senator from Arizona. It almost sounds like a vendetta. Talk about $18 billion worth of spending on Amtrak—my gosh, we spend over $8 billion a year on aviation; we spend over $20 billion a year on highways. Amtrak is the only serious railroad opportunity we have for passengers, and it has continued to prove its merit and its worth as time has gone by. Amtrak's farebox comes closer to its revenues than any other major passenger rail service in the world.

It is ridiculous for the United States of America not to have a significant passenger rail service. Just look at what would happen in the Northeast corridor where it is believed that we service almost 100 million people. The Northeast corridor would need 10,000 full DC-9's a year to carry the traffic. Well, perhaps that's not true. Maybe we could push them onto the highways. We could put some 11 million people in their cars and tell them to drive between New York and Washington or Boston and Washington or Boston and New York or Boston and New Haven or Boston and Hartford or Boston and Providence. Get in your cars, use more gas, take up more time, that will mean more congestion, more foul air. That is what the alternative is.

I have never seen anything so shortsighted in my life, but the speech sounds good—throw out statistics that have no merit in fact. One says we allocate by State, as I saw the chart displayed by the Senator from Arizona, at which time when I had a question, he refused to answer it. That is his privilege. He had the floor, and he is right, he did have the floor. But there is also something around here called common courtesy. But we pass on that these days.

Mr. President, I have a letter in hand from no fewer than 19 of the Nation's Governors, both Republican and Democratic Governors, urging adequate capital funding for Amtrak. Among the Governors that have urged the committee to provide adequate capital funding of Amtrak are several who are mentioned as the potential Vice President to the nominee—the likely nominee—of the Republican Party: Gov. Tom Ridge from the State of Pennsylvania; my own Governor, very popular, very thoughtful, very well thought of, Gov. Christine Todd Whitman; Governor Pataki of New York; Governor Weld of Massachusetts; and Governor Rowland of Connecticut. I dare say, probably six Vice Presidential candidates there.

I ask unanimous consent that this letter sent to Senator HATFIELD and myself from 19 of the Nation's Governors be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the letter was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

JUNE 25, 1996.

HON. MARK HATFIELD,
Chairman, Senate Appropriations Committee,
Capitol Building, Washington, DC.

HON. FRANK LAUTENBERG,
Ranking Member, Appropriations Subcommittee on Transportation, Dirksen Senate Office Building, Washington, DC.

DEAR SENATORS HATFIELD and LAUTENBERG: As you consider various options for the FY 1997 Transportation Appropriations bill, we urge you to provide adequate capital funding for the National Passenger Rail Corporation (Amtrak). The General Accounting Office (GAO) estimated that in order to keep Amtrak running and to reduce its dependence on federal operating assistance, Amtrak requires an annual capital subsidy of $500 to $600 million. Amtrak, the Administration and GAO agree that the future reduction of Amtrak's federal operating subsidy is dependent on continued capital investment in Amtrak's infrastructure.

Specifically, we urge you to support, at an absolute minimum, last year's level of funding for general capital—$230 million—and the Northeast Corridor Improvement Program—$115 million. These funding levels are consistent with the assumptions made in the recently-adopted budget resolution and with the authorizations levels which have passed the House and are pending in the Senate.

As you are aware, the Amtrak Board of Directors is strongly committed to eliminating its dependence on federal operating assistance over the next six years. Amtrak's ability to continue to reduce its operating costs, however, is dependent on adequate federal capital support.

While we realize the complex and difficult decisions you face this year with respect to funding transportation programs, we urge you to carefully consider the productivity improvements that have been made at Amtrak and to support an ongoing federal role in maintaining this nation's rail system, even as the federal operating subsidy is phased out.

Sincerely,

Tom Carper, Governor, State of Delaware; Gaston Caperton Governor, State of West Virginia; Howard Dean, Governor, State of Vermont; George Pataki, Governor, State of New York; Ben Nelson, Governor, State of Nebraska; Bill Weld, Governor, State of Massachusetts; Zell Miller, Governor, State of Georgia; John Rowland, Governor, State of Connecticut; Roy Romer, Governor, State of Colorado; Parris Glendening, Governor, State of Maryland; Tom Ridge, Governor, State of Pennsylvania; Mike Lowry, Governor, State of Washington; Christine Whitman, Governor, State of New Jersey; Bob Miller, Governor, State of Nevada; Mel Carnahan, Governor, State of Missouri; Evan Bayh, Governor, State of Indiana; Lawton Chiles, Governor, State of Florida; Jim Guy Tucker, Governor, State of Arkansas; Angus King, Governor, State of Maine.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Mr. President, in recent years, as Amtrak has been required to reduce service and, in some cases, eliminate service to several States, I have noticed that some of the loudest complaints have come from some of our States in the West and in the Midwest. I appreciate the fact the Senator from North Dakota had comments to make in favor of Amtrak service.

A lot of people are complaining that we have reduced or eliminated Amtrak service. Well, they just don't have the income, and when you think of what it takes to put this system in shape, it is de minimis compared to the service that is being offered. We can dress it up in various terms: high-income people ride the train. See what it looks like and see people getting on there with tattered luggage and not able to figure out another way to get there. It is easy to stand on a high horse and criticize those who ride Amtrak. Try it; you may like it.

The fact of the matter is, while Amtrak's funding levels, as contained in this bill, are higher than the House-passed level, they still remain far lower than the level requested by the administration. The Senator from Arizona wants to take the funding down by almost $400 million, when we worked like the devil, skimped and saved and moved and changed to try and get a balanced funding bill, a balanced transportation bill. And the Senator from Oregon [Mr. HATFIELD], worked very hard to do that.

So, Mr. President, the House Appropriations Committee made a calculated judgment to extract the vast majority of its transportation cuts from Amtrak's budget. I do not agree with those priorities, and neither does the chairman of the committee itself.

The one thing that we ought to be aware of is that if we eliminate Amtrak, we eliminate a serious asset that this country of ours requires. We are the only country in the world, the only country of the more developed countries in the world that does not recognize that you have to invest and you have to subsidize its national passenger rail system. Get on the TGV in France or get on the bullet trains in Japan; the Government pays an awful lot more on a proportionate basis than we are willing to put in Amtrak at our most generous moments.

Mr. President, I yield for a minute or so to my friend from Delaware who has asked to be heard.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. How much time does the Senator yield?

Mr. BIDEN. I ask for 1 minute.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. I yield 1 minute.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Delaware is recognized.

Mr. BIDEN. Mr. President, I see my friend from Arizona is still on the floor. In terms of subsidies, I point out again, because the argument was made, there is a little thing called the central Arizona water project. That is 3.5 billion bucks that my mom is helping to pay for. She will never drink a drop of the water, but Arizona needs it. It is $3.5 billion needed, badly needed—$3.5 billion.

But our country needs Amtrak as well, on the west coast and on the east coast. I yield whatever time I have left.

Mr. McCAIN addressed the Chair.

Mr. LAUTENBERG addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from New Jersey.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. The Senator from Arizona asked for the floor. It is all right with me.

Mr. McCAIN. I yield myself 1 minute.

Mr. STEVENS. Will the Senator yield for a moment?

Mr. McCAIN. Sure.

Mr. STEVENS. There is an indication that the chairman will not be able to get back in the time we thought he would get back. I think there are going to be others that seek time on this bill. Will the Senator agree we would extend time on each side for another 10 minutes? I ask unanimous consent that the current time agreement be extended for 10 additional minutes for Senator McCAIN and 10 additional minutes for Senator LAUTENBERG.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. McCAIN. Mr. President, I yield myself 3 minutes.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator is recognized for 3 minutes.

Mr. McCAIN. While my friend from Delaware is still on the floor, I will say there is no one obviously that knows Amtrak better than the Senator from Delaware, who every evening travels and takes advantage of that opportunity to be back in Delaware with his family and with his friends and his constituents. And I, for one, respect and admire that dedication that the Senator from Delaware has displayed to both his family and the people that he represents. It is obvious why they keep sending him back here.

The Senator from Delaware also mentioned to me that if we did cut Amtrak, we would probably get a lot more speeches from the Senator from Delaware, which I would find enlightening, but others may not.

I understand the commitment that the Senator from Delaware has. I point out, the central Arizona project, as the Senator from Delaware knows, was completed, and the State of Arizona will be repaying the Federal Government for the cost of that.

It is obvious that your then-dollars are not the same as now-dollars. I know the Senator from Delaware appreciates that. My problem is, I say to the Senator from Delaware, this is an unending subsidy, apparently, when the Amtrak authorities themselves maintain every few years that there is only a few more years of subsidy.

My question to the Senator from Delaware is, as they cut more and more service, and basically you are left with the Northeast Corridor and the San Diego-LA route, which is basically what is left, and it is no longer a national rail system for any intents and purposes, how long would this system, which originally was conceived in 1971 to last for 2 years—2 years of subsidies was the deal when it began in 1971—how long will be the requirement to have these subsidies provided by the taxpayers for which one-half of 1 percent of all of the users of transportation, rail transportation, in America, make use of? That is, I think, a legitimate question.

Mr. BIDEN. I would be happy to take 30 seconds to answer the question.

Mr. McCAIN. Mr. President, I reserve the balance of my time. I yield time to the Senator from Delaware from my time to respond.

Mr. BIDEN. Mr. President, I think it is a mistake, but in fact the Congress has agreed—any subsidy would end by the year 2001. The only reasonable way for that to occur, Mr. President, is if in fact we are able to get that half-cent trust fund set up. But whether we get that or not, in the year 2001 this is gone. I think Amtrak made a mistake agreeing to that, to be completely honest with my friend. But that is the answer to the question.

The drop-dead date is the year 2001. In my view, they will not make it—to be completely candid with my friend—they will not make it unless they get that half-cent trust fund.

Mr. McCAIN. I yield myself an additional 30 seconds.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Arizona.

Mr. McCAIN. Mr. President, I say with all due respect to the Senator from Delaware, wasn't that what they said in 1971 when they said it will only be 2 more years? And wasn't that what they said in 1983 when Graham Claytor, a man I respect more than almost any other man I have ever known, said, "In 4 years we'll be done"? They said, "In 4 years we'll be done." It is always, always, always 4 or 5 years out, I say to the Senator from Delaware. Really what it has proved is that once you start a system on the Federal dole, it is going to continue forever. And that is the case here, unfortunately, with Amtrak, and why this amendment will not prevail again.

Mr. BIDEN. Mr. President, will the manager yield me 2 minutes?

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Absolutely. I yield 2 minutes to the Senator from Delaware.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Delaware.

Mr. BIDEN. Mr. President, my friend from Arizona makes at least two valid points—and many more—but two valid points. One is that if Amtrak is out of business, I will be here. I will have to be in Washington; and it means I will not be running out of here after the last vote to get the train home, which means I will get to speak more. That may be inducement enough for my colleagues to vote to continue to subsidize Amtrak, so I am not here late at night debating.

But another truism that the Senator stated is that this has been a subsidy. It is an ongoing subsidy. But when he puts it in the context of being on the dole, you have to put it in the context of all other transportation systems. We subsidize airline tickets more. The average income of people flying in airlines, I suspect, is as high or higher than anyone getting on an Amtrak train.

We subsidize those airline tickets a number of ways. They are tax deductible for business expenses. We build the airports. We build the towers and pay the air traffic controllers, et cetera, et cetera, et cetera. We also subsidize the highways beyond what we collect in the highway trust fund moneys.

So, Mr. President, all modes of transportation in the United States are subsidized. It seems to me rational public policy would dictate us to look at what makes sense. Different regions have different requirements. I see my friend from North Dakota is here. Amtrak is useful to him, but he does not need Amtrak as much as he needs highways. In Delaware we do not need any more highways. We cannot afford any more highways in my State or the State of Rhode Island or the State of New Jersey or the State of New York and so on and so forth.

So every region of the country has different needs. It is true. They are all subsidized. And the question here is, it seems to me, the appropriate question is, What is an appropriate amount of subsidy? And it seems to me when Amtrak, having its budget cut by a third over the last couple years, having trimmed down significantly, this is not an appropriate cut. I thank the Chair for the time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The time has expired.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Mr. President, I yield 2 minutes to the distinguished Senator from Rhode Island.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Rhode Island.

Mr. PELL. I thank the Chair and the Senator from New Jersey.

I rise to oppose the amendment offered by my colleague from Arizona, Mr. McCAIN.

Before I outline my reasons for opposing this amendment, I would like to thank my friend and colleague, Senator HATFIELD, chairman of the Subcommittee on Transportation, and Senator LAUTENBERG, a very strong supporter of passenger rail, for their work on this bill. I believe this bill is a tremendous and necessary improvement over the one passed by the House, and we have these two gentlemen to thank for that.

Regarding the amendment offered by my colleague from Arizona, I think the point made by the Senator from Delaware is very valid. All of the modes of transportation are subsidized to a degree. We hear much about the much vaunted Swiss railroad system. They are subsidized. The one in France is subsidized. The one in Japan is subsidized. But in return for that subsidization, the people of the area get a service and a greater degree of safety and comfort that they would not get otherwise.

As some of my colleagues are aware, I wrote a book on this subject some 30 years ago, "Megalopolis Unbound." And the book remains current today because so little has been done in those 30 years.

I hope that we will sustain the effort of the Transportation subcommittee and keep the money in for Amtrak. I am hopeful that, by doing so, we can really make progress in enhancing intercity high speed passenger rail. In so doing, perhaps we can avoid having a future Member of Congress come along 30 years from now, as I am now, lamenting that much more needs to be done, and how very little has changed in the intervening years.

We should also recognize that modernizing and enhancing, not short-changing, passenger rail is the current trend in Europe and Asia. These various nations are providing their people a form of efficient and safe transportation.

Mr. President, as one who helped shepherd through Congress the High Speed Ground Transportation Act of 1965, it has been my long-held belief that passenger rail service is the most fuel-efficient; the least environmentally disruptive; and ultimately, will be the least expensive mode of transportation.

Finally, there is another thought here. We accept the idea that elevated vertical transportation should be free but not horizontal transportation like the subway because it is horizontal. I can remember when I was a boy there were buildings in Europe—still some in Europe—buildings in New York where you put a nickel in order to be transported up or down. I think this also should be kept in mind.

So for all these reasons, I believe that the money—the subsidy, if you want to call it that—for Amtrak should be preserved because it is giving our people service that the citizenry should expect. I thank the managers of this bill for their very fine efforts, efforts I am pleased to support. I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Who yields time?

Mr. McCAIN addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Arizona.

Mr. McCAIN. I yield myself 2 minutes.

Mr. President, it is all very enjoyable to debate and discuss issues with the Senator from Delaware. And I believe that he makes valid points. I also hope that we do not spend too much time on this amendment and others so he will be able to take his taxpayer-subsidized trip back to Delaware tonight.

Mr. President, I point out that less than one-half of 1 percent of America's inner-city rail passengers are subsidized by this program. It has been long recognized by Democrats and Republicans alike that we need to curtail this ever-increasing subsidy.

As early as 1979, President Carter's Secretary of Transportation, Brock Adams, acknowledged that. I quote back in 1979.

We can no longer afford to provide disproportionately large and continually increasing amounts of Federal funds for a passenger service that is used by less than one-half of 1 percent of the inner city traveling public.

Again, in 1988, the President's Commission on Privatization, established by President Reagan, recommended, as part of a multiyear plan to move to privatize Amtrak, that "Federal subsidies should be incrementally reduced and a deadline should be set for the Department of Transportation to decide whether Amtrak or portions of its operation should be continued."

Mr. President, again, I would like to see a deadline that is adhered to. I think when we have a program that began initially in 1971, that was only supposed to be there for 2 years, and now in the year 1996 we have a policy of some 4 or 5 years from now, it is time we really got realistic. If there is some cynicism on the part of some of us about these dates that continue to slide every 4 or 5 years, I think it is justified.

Mr. President, the money that is cut out of this appropriation, I point out again, will be used for aviation safety, rail safety, and highway safety, which, obviously, have a great claim to limited taxpayers' funds, greater, I think, than the rail service has been, which has not been able to obtain self-sufficiency in the last 25 years.

I reserve the remainder of my time.

Mr. DORGAN. I wonder if the Senator from New Jersey would yield 1 minute to respond to a point?

Mr. LAUTENBERG. I am delighted to yield.

Mr. DORGAN. The Senator from Arizona made a point that I think probably will mischaracterize something. The implication was that the folks in the inner cities really do not get any subsidy in this area.

My understanding is that in this bill there is $4.4 billion in subsidy for mass transit systems. Obviously, virtually all of the cities that have mass transit systems are getting subsidized on an ongoing basis, and part of this is paid for by folks in Bismarck and Fargo. That is fine. I support that. But I do not want people listening to this debate to understand there is not a subsidy for mass transit because there is a $4.4 billion subsidy.

The point I was making before was that I do not object to deciding as a public investment we want to retain an Amtrak system that is a national system. In fact, it still is a national system, but will not be under the amendment offered by the Senator from Arizona. I personally make the observation that I think it is a good investment to make.

I respect the Senator from Arizona, but we disagree on this, because I happen to think this represents a good investment as part of our transportation system.

I did want to clear up the point on whether or not mass transit is subsidized. Of course it is. It is subsidized substantially—by $4.4 billion in this bill alone.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Mr. President, I yield 2 minutes to the Senator from Vermont.

Mr. JEFFORDS. Mr. President, I rise in opposition to the McCain amendment. It is clear what he is trying to do is kill Amtrak. This is wrong.

Amtrak is integral in transporting people across this great country of ours—not just in the Northeast, although the Northeast, which has horrible problems with traffic and air pollution and everything connected with it, needs to go to railroads, needs to utilize the railroads more than it does now for personal transportation.

In addition to that, with the overload on our airplanes, trying to shuttle back and forth to New York and to Boston, the fast trains, which this would essentially eliminate, will resolve that horrible problem, much to the benefit of the people in this Nation.

Amtrak can survive on its own. We are working toward that goal. Over the last 2 years, Amtrak has restructured itself and is working to be free of Federal support in 5 years. I think they will make it.

Mr. President, do not kill our national railroad now. Give Amtrak time to build up the business and let Congress be responsible and pass the Amtrak authorization bill and move the half-cent gas tax to Amtrak. We must not eliminate Federal support until these plans are in place, until they have been given a chance to demonstrate they can work. I am confident they can.

I yield back the remainder of my time.

Mr. ROTH. Mr. President, I rise in opposition to Senator MCCAIN's amendment that would cut capital funding for Amtrak. This funding cut will cripple the Northeast Corridor Improvement Program and threaten the viability of passenger rail in this country. It is my understanding that if the Senate votes in favor of these cuts, it will have far-reaching effects nationwide.

The reduction in capital could mean the termination of the High Speed Rail Program that has the potential to revive passenger rail as an important component of our national transportation system. It will also impair Amtrak's heavy overhaul and maintenance capabilities—much of which is done in Delaware's Amtrak shops. Shortchanging maintenance will contribute to further decline of rolling stock and locomotives, reducing the quality of service, and discouraging potential passengers from choosing Amtrak.

This is a formula for failure, not a plan to make Amtrak self-sufficient or to secure the place of passenger in our country's transportation system.

Mr. President, we are all working toward an Amtrak which operates without a Federal operating subsidy, which provides quality service, and which is financially stable. Amtrak now covers approximately 80 percent of its operating costs with self-generated revenue, up from 48 percent in 1981. Yet we also know that no intercity rail passenger service anywhere in the world operates without some degree of public sector financial support.

Investment in all modes of transportation is important, but we have gone about it in a lopsided way. Purchasing power for Federal highway programs has increased by 48 percent from 1982 to 1996. It has increased 78 percent for aviation, but has decreased 46 percent for passenger rail. In fact, Amtrak currently receives less than 3 percent of all Federal transportation spending. To attain balance, we must balance our financial support to all transportation components, including passenger rail service.

Capital funding is necessary for Amtrak's future. New capital investments will allow Amtrak to operate more efficiently. With new equipment, Amtrak will attract substantial new ridership with increased revenues. It currently costs Amtrak $60 million per year to operate and maintain its old equipment, which frequently breaks down and often requires parts to be specially made.

As many Members in the Senate are aware, I am working to provide a dedicated source of capital funding for Amtrak. The Senate has overwhelmingly supported my legislation that would give Amtrak one-half cent for capital expenditures. Unfortunately, we have not yet been able to pass this legislation into law. However, I will continue to work hard and make these speeches until this legislation is passed.

Amtrak cannot survive without capital funding. If we do not provide funding for Amtrak, we will have no other option but to watch Amtrak collapse. This amendment does not move us in the right direction. If this Congress wants a national passenger rail system, it will continue to vote for capital funding for Amtrak.

I urge my colleagues to strongly oppose this amendment.

Mr. MCCAIN. Mr. President, I note the return of the distinguished chairman of the committee and the subcommittee. I really do not have anything more to add to this debate. I would be glad to discuss it further if the Senator from Oregon desires.

However, I am prepared to yield back the remainder of my time at any time that is convenient for the distinguished manager of the bill.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Mr. President, how much time remains on our side?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. On the side of the Senator from New Jersey, 7 minutes 32 seconds; and on the other side, 7 minutes 48 seconds.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. I thought I heard the Senator from Arizona yield back.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. He made an offer to the Senator from Oregon that was not responded to.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Mr. President, I will take such time as remains out of the time that I have to make a couple of points.

We hear that the subsidy for passenger rail service is an egregious purpose, something that ought not be done, and we talk about the subsidy per passenger.

However, we neglect to talk about the fact that there is over $2 billion a year that goes into maintaining FAA's services. That has nothing to do with the trust fund. That is out of the taxpayers' pocket—$2 billion a year. Those who are paying into the trust fund by virtue of a ticket tax, when that is operating, pay into the fund when, in fact, they may not use a particular routing or particular region when they pay that tax.

If we start to cut up the country into how much did you pay for how much service—I think the Senator from Delaware made the point very clearly when he described the need to subsidize water projects, irrigation projects, and flood control projects out West. It is a very divisive approach, I think, to what this country of ours is supposed to be as a single nation.

Just to remind those who are concerned about what would happen if we did not have the Amtrak service that is now available—those services would not be available, I assure you, if we further diminish the assistance that the Federal Government gives to Amtrak. Yes, the needs have been miscalculated over the years. Yes, they have grown substantially. But so has the population. The population of the country has grown significantly. To no one's surprise, much of that population growth is in the urban areas where rail is an essential factor.

Here we fail to recognize that passenger rail service is part of a balanced transportation structure that we need in a society in a country as large as ours.

Commuter lines in States like Rhode Island, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Maryland, New York, Pennsylvania, and New Jersey all use Northeast corridor lines that are owned by Amtrak. They have to function; otherwise, the costs for commuting would increase substantially, or maybe they would not be able to function altogether.

Mr. President, I hope we will defeat this amendment. I think it is very short-sighted and neglects to recognize what the needs of this country are, at a time when we are straining with every mode of transportation, including aviation, including highways, and including rail. We are underinvested in transportation infrastructure and we have to continue to plow ahead, whether we like it or not, if we are to be a mobile society, operating with as much efficiency as we can.

Mr. President, I note Chairman HATFIELD is here on the floor, and I yield the floor.

Mr. HATFIELD. The Senator from Arizona indicated to me he would be willing to yield back his time.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. I am willing to yield back the time on this side.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. All time is yielded back.

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, has the Senator from Arizona yielded back his time?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Yes. All time is yielded back.

Mr. HATFIELD. I move to table the McCain amendment, and I ask for the yeas and nays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a sufficient second?

There is a sufficient second.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the motion to table amendment No. 5132 offered by the Senator from Arizona.

The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk called the roll.

Mr. NICKLES. I announce that the Senator from Kansas [Mrs. FRAHM] is necessarily absent.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any other Senators in the Chamber desiring to vote?

NOT VOTING—1

Frahm

The motion to lay on the table the amendment (No. 5132) was agreed to.

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

Mr. HATFIELD addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the Senate be in order.

The Senator from Oregon.

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, I would just like to report to the Senate we have a few amendments yet, perhaps about 20, that we have to dispose of tonight. We will have rollcalls on some of them. There is no window. We are going to complete them. We had the window this afternoon for an hour and 10 minutes when Senator LAUTENBERG and I were ready to do business and nobody appeared. That was our window. So we will continue straight through now until we finish.

Mr. President, I would ask now that I may yield to Senator MCCAIN for 2 minutes and then the Senator from Ohio, [Mr. DEWINE], has an amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Arizona.

Mr. MCCAIN. Mr. President, I thank the majority leader for setting a date certain for us to bring up the important and compelling issues concerning aviation safety and strengthening airport security.

We know how important this issue is to the American people. I had intended earlier to bring up some of the provisions of that bill as an amendment on this appropriations bill, something I do not like to do. The majority leader has assured us he will bring this up on a date certain in September, and I believe that is a very important. I know my colleagues are in agreement with me as to how important it is to bring up these issues. We have to strengthen airport security. We have to improve aviation safety in America. It is an obligation we have to all of our citizens.

I hope in September, when we bring up this issue, we will be able to act on it quickly. I intend to work with my colleagues on both sides of the aisle to develop a set of amendments under the leadership of the distinguished chairman of the Commerce Committee, Senator PRESSLER, who has played a key and vital role in all of this legislation. Finally, I thank the 17 brave souls who voted with me on the last amendment.

Mr. President, I yield the remainder of my time.

Mr. DEWINE addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Ohio.

AMENDMENT NO. 5133

(Purpose: To provide funds and incentives for closures of rail-highway crossings)

Mr. DEWINE. Mr. President, I send an amendment to the desk and ask for its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The bill clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Ohio [Mr. DEWINE], for himself, Mr. LUGAR, and Mr. BIDEN, proposes an amendment numbered 5133.

Mr. DEWINE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

At the end of title IV, add the following:
SEC. . (a) Section 120(c) of title 23, United States Code, is amended by inserting "rail-highway crossing closure," after "carpooling and vanpooling."

(b) Section 130 of such title is amended by adding at the end the following:

"(1) INCENTIVE PAYMENTS FOR AT-GRADE CROSSING CLOSURES.—

"(1) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding any other provision of this section and subject to paragraphs (2) and (3), a State may, from sums available to the State under this section, make incentive payments to local governments in the State upon the permanent closure by such governments of public at-grade rail-way-highway crossings under the jurisdiction of such governments.

"(2) INCENTIVE PAYMENTS BY RAILROADS.—A State may not make an incentive payment under paragraph (1) to a local government with respect to the closure of a crossing unless the railroad owning the tracks on which the crossing is located makes an incentive payment to the government with respect to the closure.

"(3) AMOUNT OF STATE PAYMENT.—The amount of the incentive payment payable to a local government by a State under paragraph (1) with respect to a crossing may not exceed the lesser of—

"(A) the amount of the incentive payment paid to the government with respect to the crossing by the railroad concerned under paragraph (2); or

"(B) $7,500.

"(4) USE OF STATE PAYMENTS.—A local government receiving an incentive payment from a State under paragraph (1) shall use the amount of the incentive payment for transportation safety improvements."

Mr. DEWINE. Mr. President, this amendment is being offered by myself, Senator LUGAR, and Senator BIDEN, and it really is a fairly simple amendment.

First of all, it costs no money.

Second, it gives States more tools, more flexibility to deal with a very serious problem in this country, and that problem is that each year we lose over 500 people who are killed in collisions between automobiles and trains. In fact, the figure last year was 559 people—559 people died last year in auto-train accidents, 36 of them in my home State of Ohio.

In preparing this amendment, and having some understanding of the problem going back to my time as Lieutenant Governor in Ohio when I worked on this problem, I put together a meeting in my office where we brought together all the experts in this field. They sat down for 2, 2½ hours and discussed this. Then they got together again. One of the ideas they came up with is contained in this amendment.

Mr. President, my amendment is a simple one. It would make America's railroad crossings a lot safer—500 people are killed each year in these train-vehicle collisions. Fifty percent of these accidents occur at crossings that are already equipped with active warning devices—50 percent. So simply adding more warning devices, therefore, is not a complete solution to the problem.

Some of these railroad crossings are just simply too dangerous. They are life-threatening. They are not needed, and they ought to be closed. We all know though from our own experience that people do become accustomed to taking certain routes and communities get used to certain traffic patterns. That is why it is sometimes very difficult for localities to close these crossings, for local officials to make this decision, even when it is clear on safety grounds that a particular crossing simply needs to be closed.

Clearly, the local communities need some help, and that is the purpose of this amendment. Again, this idea did not come from me. This idea came from the safety experts who have looked at this, both in government and outside of government.

Currently, the Federal Government pays 90 percent of the cost of closing a railroad highway grade crossing, but other grade crossing safety projects, such as traffic signs, guard rails and traffic lights, are eligible for 100 percent Federal funding.

My amendment will make grade crossing closure projects eligible for that same 100 percent Federal funding. This will help remove the current incentive against closure projects. Let me emphasize, this is a State decision that will be made by the State, and that is out of the same pot of money. No additional funds will be utilized. If the safest thing to do is to close a very dangerous railroad crossing, localities should have an incentive to do that.

Let me again point out this amendment does not involve new Federal money. The CBO says no additional contract authority would be necessary. The money for this amendment is already allocated for crossing safety purposes, for the very purpose we are talking about. All we are trying to do in this amendment, Senator LUGAR, Senator BIDEN and myself, is to deploy that money in the most rational and effective way. Again, that decision is being made by the local authorities.

The second part of my amendment provides up to $7,500—again, out of the same pot of money—to a local highway authority for each crossing closed. Mr. President, $7,500 is an incentive to that local community if the State decides that is the best way to spend this money.

Furthermore, the railroad itself that is operating the crossing under this amendment has to match the money. This means up to $15,000 for a local community to close a railroad crossing. In other words, it creates an incentive to get the job done.

Safety does not come about by accident. It comes about when concerned people exercise the necessary level of prudence and the necessary level of vigilance. I have been working with the railroads, with the Federal Railroad Administration and with the Federal Highway Administration on these issues for some time now, and I believe this amendment embodies a common-sense approach to this very real issue of railroad safety. Mr. President, we have worked with the Federal Railroad Administration to develop this amendment, and the amendment has been endorsed by the Association of American Railroads.

In conclusion, let me summarize again, this costs no additional Federal dollars. Every safety expert that we have consulted says this is the thing to do. It is the most cost-effective way to preserve lives. We can close these railroad crossings, frankly, at a fraction of the cost to install the gates and the flashers. They cost anywhere between $130,00 and $135,000, and it takes some time to get them installed.

This amendment will provide more flexibility to the States to deal with this hazard. It has the endorsement of all the safety experts, as well as Senator BIDEN, Senator LUGAR and myself. And, Mr. President, if we needed any other incentive to pass this amendment, let me just hold this chart up. This is a listing for the most immediate year available. This is 1995: "Highway-Rail Grade Crossing Statistics by State." I did not have time to have this blown up, but I am going to read a couple of these, if I could. It has every State. If any Members want to see how many fatalities occurred in their home States, they can do that. South Carolina, just last year, 111 accidents, 61 injuries, 6 fatalities. Looking at the State of California, 191 accidents last year, 69 injuries, 28 fatalities. We go on and on and on.

This is a very simple amendment. It is no cost to taxpayers and gives more flexibility to States, to people who have to make the decisions to spend the finite dollars to try to save lives. I believe this amendment will save lives, and I urge its adoption.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. THOMAS). The Senator from Oregon.

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, I wonder if the Senator from Ohio will yield for a question?

Mr. DEWINE. I certainly will.

Mr. HATFIELD. As the Senator knows, we have a strict position, known here, that we do not accept legislation on appropriations unless it is cleared by the authorizing committee chairman and ranking member. We have accommodated Senators where they have cleared that with the authorizing committee, but this is not in our jurisdiction. I am asking the question as to whether or not the Senator has had clearance from the Environment and Public Works chairman and the ranking member.

Mr. DEWINE. We do not have any direct clearance. If I could finish my answer? The reality is, this is the only train that is moving. If we do not have the opportunity to put it in now, the Senator is well aware it is not going to happen for months and months and months. It is such a simple amendment. I have found no one who, on the substance, is opposed to it. I cannot find anyone opposed to it. That is why we are looking at this as the opportunity to, frankly, save some lives and give the local communities the flexibility they need. It is of such a non-controversial nature, that is why I am here.

Mr. HATFIELD. I agree the amendment is very meritorious, but it does not comply with our rules. I will have to move to table this and reject it as such. I would prefer to have, maybe, the amendment temporarily set aside until you can confer with our two colleagues who are the authorizers. If they clear it, we will accept the amendment.

Mr. DEWINE. I will be more than happy to temporarily set aside the consideration of the amendment.

Mr. HATFIELD. I thank the Senator. Has the Senator made the request to temporarily lay aside his amendment?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. EXON. Mr. President, reserving the right to object, I was distracted for a moment. I would like to be recognized in my own right to make a few comments about the amendment being offered by the Senator from Ohio. I ask that I be added as a cosponsor.

What was the suggestion of the managers of the bill? What was the unanimous-consent request?

Mr. HATFIELD. The request was to temporarily lay aside the amendment until the Senator from Ohio conferred with the authorizing leadership, and then to turn to the next amendment to be offered once it is temporarily laid aside, which is the Exon-Dorgan amendment.

Mr. EXON. The Senator from Ohio has agreed to withdraw his amendment?

Mr. DEWINE. I have agreed to temporarily lay it aside with the understanding the amendment will continue to pend.

Mr. EXON. I simply ask the Senator from Ohio, I would like to be a cosponsor of the amendment.

I remind the Senate, and the managers of the bill, this Senator offered a five-point program last year with regard to grade crossings. Three of the five were accepted and are now part of the law. The two things that were not agreed to, basically on that side of the aisle, last year are now incorporated in the amendment offered by the Senator from Ohio.

So I congratulate him for his leadership in this area. I simply remind all we should have done this last year. I hope we can do it this year in some form. So I thank my friend from Ohio.

I am very pleased to be added as a cosponsor of the amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The request is to set the amendment aside. Is there objection?

Without objection, the Senator from Nebraska is added as a cosponsor.

The Senator from North Dakota.

AMENDMENT NO. 5134

(Purpose: To prohibit the Surface Transportation Board from increasing user fees)

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, I offer an amendment on behalf of myself, Senator CONRAD, Senator HARKIN, and Senator EXON. I send the amendment to the desk and ask for its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The bill clerk read as follows:

The Senator from North Dakota [Mr. DORGAN], for himself, Mr. CONRAD, Mr. EXON, and Mr. HARKIN, proposes an amendment numbered 5134.

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

On line 12 on page 41 after the semicolon, insert the following: "Provided further, That none of the funds appropriated in this Act or otherwise made available may be used to increase fees for services in connection with licensing and related service fees, pursuant to 49 CFR Part 1002, STB Ex Parte No. 542, for services in connection with rail maximum rate complaints."

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from North Dakota.

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, the amendment that I have offered on behalf of myself, Senator CONRAD and Senator EXON is an amendment that deals with the fees charged by the Surface Transportation Board for the filing of a complaint by a shipper, a farmer or a grain elevator that might feel is necessary to file against a railroad company that is overcharging.

We have largely deregulated the railroad companies in this country. We have abolished the Interstate Commerce Commission and established the Surface Transportation Board. The question is, Where does a farmer or a grain elevator or some other small shipper go when they feel that the railroad is overcharging them? They file a complaint, under the current circumstances, with the new Surface Transportation Board.

Previously, when a shipper was to file a complaint, they would be required to pay a $1,000 fee in order to file a complaint against a railroad company saying, "This railroad company is overcharging. I am complaining and want a hearing and want some facts to be developed, and I want a judgment about my complaint." So they would file a complaint and pay a $1,000 fee.

The Surface Transportation Board issued a proposal, under the administration's directive to increase user fees.

The Surface Transportation Board proposed to increase the fees from $1,000 to $23,000, roughly, for those who file a complaint against a railroad company.

They are saying that if you are a family farmer or you are a small grain elevator or machinery and equipment dealer and you have a complaint against a big railroad company—and most of them are big—in order to file that complaint, instead of paying a $1,000 fee, we are going to increase it to a $23,000 fee.

Some of us happen to think that that is way out of line—not just out of line but way out of line—and we do not believe the Surface Transportation Board ought to do that.

I have talked to the Chair of the Surface Transportation Board, someone for whom I have great respect. I think she is doing a good job. She said, "Well, we were told that we were going to have to find our money from fees, so we had to put out a schedule."

My expectation is they will not come up with those kind of fees in their final determination. But what we want to make sure of today is, in an era of deregulation of railroads where you have very large significant concentrations of economic power, that that economic power is not wielded against small shippers in a punitive way.

We believe small shippers ought to be able to make a complaint against a predatory pricing practice on the part of a railroad company without having to fork over $23,000. All that means is a lot of small shippers are told, "You don't have the ability to file a complaint anymore. There is no way for you to complain against a railroad because we are pricing you out of existence. You can't afford to complain."

What this amendment that I have offered on behalf of myself and my colleagues does is it says:

... none of the funds appropriated in this Act or otherwise made available may be used to increase fees for services in connection with licensing and related service fees pursuant to 49 CFR Part 102, STB Ex Parte No. 542, for services in connection with rail maximum rate complaints.

Very simply, we are saying you cannot increase the fees for small shippers who are going to make a complaint against the railway companies. You cannot increase them from $1,000 to $23,000, not from $1,000 to $13,000. You cannot increase them.

We happen to think in this age where we have deregulated the railroad companies, where we have a significant concentration of economic power that it is fundamentally unfair to small shippers, especially as I mentioned to farmers and grain elevators, to say to them, We have allowed them to concentrate economic power, and when they overcharge you, you are going to have to fork over $23,000 if you feel like you need to complain about it.

Some of us say it is fundamentally unfair. We will not stand for it. We want the Senate to be on record to say none of those funds will be used for those fees. There are other fees they can charge. They can increase them. I am not here complaining about that. That is a decision they can make, but at least with respect to these fees, with respect to small shippers who make complaints about these railways, I say let's freeze these fees and let's not price those folks out of the ability to make complaints against railway companies who overcharge.

Let me make a final point. I come from a part of the country that has had some experience with railroads. I come from North Dakota where a so-called "prairie fire," which was a political fire, began in the early 1900's. The controversy was about banks and railroads and big grain millers taking advantage of our farmers. Big interests with large concentrations of economic power that were taking money from the pockets of our farmers.

That created a populist prairie fire out in my part of the country that said, "We're not going to stand for it." Those folks in the early 1900's would not have stood for this, and we should not stand for it in 1996 either.

Mr. President, let me yield the floor and have the Senator from Nebraska speak on this.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Nebraska.

Mr. EXON. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the Senator from Iowa [Mr. HARKIN] be added as a cosponsor to the amendment just offered by my friend and colleague from North Dakota.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. EXON. Mr. President, I thank my colleague from North Dakota for a very thoughtful amendment that is vitally important if you understand the peril, or the potential peril, maybe is a better word for it, that small shippers find themselves in today.

There probably has been no one in the U.S. Senate today who has spent more time and effort in committee and on the floor with regard to railroad matters generally, including grade crossing safety. I fought very hard for the Interstate Commerce Commission. When it was obvious that was not going to prevail for long, I was one of the leading proponents of the Surface Transportation Board that was created under the Department of Transportation.

I simply say, from experience and looking into the future, myself and others as original cosponsors have had firsthand experience with the situation that could affect particularly small carriers.

The most important work of the Surface Transportation Board is to protect consumers from unfair, unjust, and unreasonable rates or actions by the railroads. I mention specifically captive shippers. Captive shippers are those who are captive because they have no other way to move their products or their goods or their livestock or their grain.

So simply put, what this amendment does is to say that if you are a small shipper, you cannot be charged as originally suggested in a preliminary announcement of fees by the Surface Transportation Board.

The Senator from North Dakota touched on this, Mr. President. I emphasize it a little bit more. If somebody files a complaint against a railroad, the railroad has a whole stable of attorneys who are willing, ready, and able to act in their behalf.

Actually, unless we adopt an amendment like this, for all practicable purposes, if the fees are set too high, that small shipper, that captive shipper, that grain elevator, that small company out there could not afford to file a complaint even if he had full justification for doing so.

So I simply say that railroads need some supervision. There needs to be, especially for small and captive shippers, the right to appeal when they think they are being unfairly treated by the railroads. The Surface Transportation Board is the successor in this area to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

I think the Senate and the House should be very careful that when we talk about increasing fees, we do not allow the Surface Transportation Board arbitrarily to set fees so high that the small businessmen—captive shipper, grain elevator, farmer, call it what you will—would be discouraged from even making a legitimate complaint.

At a time when there is consolidation in the rail sector, rate oversight by the Surface Transportation Board is the best primary means to protect rural shippers, and urban shippers, as well, from a possible loss of competition for the captive shippers. It is time to stop the annual threat to the consumers of rail transportation.

The Surface Transportation Board is all that stands between small shippers and captive shippers and the big railroads. I applaud the Appropriations Committee for rejecting the user-fee-only proposition to finance the Surface Transportation Board. The Dorgan-Exon, and others, amendment assures that the rights of rural and urban shippers are not compromised by unfair, high user fees if they file a complaint with the Surface Transportation Board.

I thank my friend and colleague from North Dakota for offering this amendment. I urge its adoption. I thank the Chair and I yield the floor.

Mr. CONRAD addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from North Dakota.

Mr. CONRAD. Mr. President, I rise in strong support of the amendment by my colleague from North Dakota, Senator DORGAN, and the distinguished Senator from Nebraska, Senator EXON. This amendment addresses a very serious concern that was first raised earlier this year when a fee schedule was proposed by the Surface Transportation Board.

These fees that were announced earlier this year by that agency indicate that sometimes people completely take leave of their senses here in Washington when they have responsibility over an administrative function. If there was ever an example of an agency going off a cliff with respect to a proposal, these fees by the Surface Transportation Board are a perfect example.

Under the proposed fee schedule from earlier this year, the minimum filing fee charged rail users complaining of unlawful railroad actions would have been increased from the current $1,000 to $23,000. Let's think about a small elevator in my home State of North Dakota. They have a grievance. Just to be able to file, they would have been expected to come up with $23,000. Where is the rationale for that? If you are going to ask people to pony up $23,000 just to file a complaint, there are not going to be many complaints filed. That is for sure.

The unfortunate thing about this is people do not have an alternative. If they have not gone through the administrative process, they cannot go to the courts. And to go through the administrative process, they are told you have to come up with a $23,000 filing fee.

Let me just go through some of the other filing fees that the Surface Transportation Board proposed earlier this year. The fee for filing a formal rate complaint under the so-called stand-alone cost methodology, guidelines alleging unlawful rate practices by rail carriers, would have been increased from the current $1,000 to $233,000.

Mr. EXON. Would the Senator yield for a question?

Mr. CONRAD. I would be happy to.

Mr. EXON. With that fee schedule that you just outlined right from the Surface Transportation Board paper, how many complaints do you think small businessmen, small elevators, would file out of North Dakota?

Mr. CONRAD. The Senator asks a very good question. I think we could be quite assured that virtually no one would file, probably no one would file. I mean, who is going to pony up $23,000 for an unlawful railroad action case? Who could afford to pay, in the case of a formal rate complaint alleging unlawful rates under practices by rail carriers, an increase from $1,000 to—it makes me laugh every time I say it—an increase from $1,000 to $233,000?

The cost for seeking a regulatory exemption to construct connecting rail lines would have been increased from the current $3,000 to $41,700.

I am glad this amendment is being offered. Hopefully, it will send a message.

I do commend the Appropriations Committee for providing some funding for the Surface Transportation Board. That is an important provision in this transportation appropriations bill. The Dorgan amendment simply ensures that there is no possibility the Surface Transportation Board will even consider user fees on the scale of those which were discussed earlier this year.

Mr. EXON. If I might add a comment. It seems to me that if there is that much money out there to get this job done, we might seize on that as a means of balancing the Federal budget in 2 years. I thank my friend from North Dakota.

Mr. CONRAD. I thank the Senator from Nebraska. He makes a very good point. Unfortunately, earlier this year the Surface Transportation Board looked at the budget and the current fee schedule, and somehow believed the agency could become self-sufficient by just raising fees. Unfortunately, this proposed fee schedule did not recognize that agricultural shippers, with legitimate complaints that they need to get adjudicated, could be completely left out of the process because of the steep fees which were being proposed.

Nobody would be coming before the Surface Transportation Board, or virtually no one, because who could afford, just to have a complaint adjudicated, to pay $23,000, much less $233,000, or to deal with the question of construction of connecting rail lines, $41,000? I mean, these are not reasonable.

Hopefully, this amendment will pass and there will be no possibility of these particular fee increases taking place. I want to thank my colleague from North Dakota, Senator DORGAN, for offering this amendment with the Senator from Nebraska, Senator EXON. I am pleased to join them in this effort. I yield the floor.

Mr. DORGAN addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from North Dakota.

Mr. DORGAN. I was just asked a series of questions by the manager of the bill and the ranking member. I thought maybe I could address those because I think there are some misunderstandings about this.

It is true that the Surface Transportation Board produced a schedule that said, where as we used to charge $1,000 as a fee in order to make complaint against a railroad for unfair pricing, if we are required to raise all of our funds from fees, we will now charge $23,100 instead of $1,000. If you are complaining about the coal rates, we will go from $1,000 to $233,000 as a filing fee and so on and so on.

The ranking member made the point to me just now, well, we have increased appropriations or actually produced appropriations of some $12 million in this bill for the Surface Transportation Board and, therefore, they will not have to raise all of this money from fees. It is absolutely correct.

That $12 million has been appropriated. They will not have to raise that from fees. They will have to raise several millions of dollars from fees. The question is, how will they get that several million dollars? There are a wide range of fees from which to choose. Will they decide, with respect to those who want to file a complaint against a railroad company for unfair pricing, that that fee should go from $1,000 to $2,000, $1,000 to $5,000, $1,000 to $15,000, $1,000 to $23,000? I do not have the foggiest idea.

My amendment says, it shall go from $1,000 to $1,000. The fee is now $1,000 and the fee will be $1,000 if you feel like you need to file a complaint against a railroad company for unfair pricing.

Mr. President, we do not have an Interstate Commerce Commission in America anymore. I never thought I would mourn its passing, and I am not sure I do now, because I used to think it was one of the few agencies in Washington, DC, that had died from the neck up. However, despite the fact the ICC, in my judgment, was relatively worthless as an agency, sat around with a giant ink pad and a giant rubber stamp, and whatever the railroads wanted, they stamped OK. There was a guy named "OK Alan" that was talked about down in a Southern State, the Governor of a Southern State, because he said OK to everything. It was the "OK-ICC Commission."

I never thought I would mourn its passage, but when we deregulated the railroad industry and people said get rid of the ICC, there was a discussion that maybe there should be some referee deciding when and if there are predatory or unfair pricing practices by the railroads, that maybe the folks who are having their pockets picked by that have some opportunity to file a complaint.

So the Surface Transportation Board was created. As I mentioned, I have a fair amount of confidence in the chair of that board, and I do not believe they would increase rates, as they published, from $1,000 to $23,000. But I will make sure with my amendment that they do not with respect to complaints against the rails.

I am joined with the Senator from Nebraska and my colleague from North Dakota and others to say to those who need to file a complaint against the railroads, they ought to be able to file that complaint with a filing of $1,000, and it ought not to be doubled, tripled, or increased 23 times. This amendment says, "Freeze it where it is."

I yield the floor.

Mr. EXON. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent the minority leader, the Senator from South Dakota [Mr. DASCHLE] be added as a cosponsor to the amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. EXON. Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to temporarily lay aside the Dorgan amendment so we can clear the DeWine amendment that is being cleared by the authorizers.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

AMENDMENT NO. 5133

Mr. HATFIELD. I ask unanimous consent that the DeWine amendment, which has now been cleared by the authorizers, both the chairman and the ranking member, now be accepted.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the amendment.

The amendment (No. 5133) was agreed to.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. HATFIELD. I move to table the motion.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 5134, AS MODIFIED

(Purpose: To prohibit the Surface Transportation Board from increasing user fees)

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, I send a modification to my amendment to the desk.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment is so modified.

The amendment (No. 5134), as modified, is as follows:

On line 12 on page 41 after the semicolon, insert the following: "Provided further, That none of the funds appropriated in this Act or otherwise made available may be used to increase fees for services in connection with rail maximum rate complaint pursuant to 49 CFR Part 1002, STB Ex Parte No. 5424.

Mr. DORGAN. The modification was made necessary in order to reach an agreement with the authorizing committee. Both the majority and the minority have agreed with the amendment as it is modified, and I am told it will be acceptable, then, to the Senator from Oregon and the Senator from New Jersey.

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, I urge adoption.

Mr. EXON. It would be the same cosponsors?

Mr. DORGAN. Mr. President, might I say that the modification is purely technical. The amendment is identical to the amendment I offered previously, but we rearranged the words because there needed to be a technical change.

The modification is offered with the same cosponsors.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The question is on agreeing to the amendment, as modified, of the Senator from North Dakota.

The amendment (No. 5134), as modified, was agreed to.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. HATFIELD. I move to table the motion.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 5135

Mr. MURKOWSKI. Mr. President, I send an amendment to the desk and ask for its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

At the appropriate place add the following:
"SEC. . (a) APPLICABLE LAWS.—Section 24301 of Title 49, United States Code, as amended by Section 504 of this Act, is amended by adding at the end thereof the following:

"(q) POWER PURCHASES.—The sale of power to Amtrak for its own use, including operating its electric traction system, does not constitute a direct sale of electric energy to an ultimate consumer under section 212(h)(1) of the Federal Power Act."

"(b) CONFORMING AMENDMENTS.—Section 212(h)(2)(A) of the Federal Power Act is amended by inserting 'Amtrak;' after 'a State or any political subdivision);'."

The Senator from Alaska [Mr. MURKOWSKI] proposes an amendment numbered 5135.

Mr. MURKOWSKI. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

Mr. MURKOWSKI. Mr. President, this amendment was a consequence of discussions held in the Energy and Natural Resources Committee among the staff of the majority with regard to the dilemma surrounding Amtrak and the high cost of power that Amtrak is subjected to in the Northeast corridor where most of the rail line is electrified. As a consequence of the efforts to try and help Amtrak to reduce its costs, this amendment was suggested by Amtrak.

Mr. President, it is an extraordinary set of circumstances here when we consider that the potential cost of power wheeled in for the availability of Amtrak could be as low as 3 cents, yet Amtrak is currently paying in many cases 6 cents and, in extreme cases, up to 12 cents from a power-producing facility in New York State that is in bankruptcy. These are the result of State public utility commissions and the overall regulatory complexity associated with the jurisdiction of the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission as compared to State public utility commissions. These need to be examined.

What this amendment does, Mr. President, is to allow the FERC to order retail wheeling for Amtrak only, something which is currently prohibited under Federal law. It would exempt, therefore, Amtrak from the prohibition which prevents them from taking advantage of cheaper sources of power that would be transmitted from potential out-of-State power suppliers.

The purpose, again, of this amendment is simply to allow Amtrak to acquire electric power at a cheaper rate than it is currently paying. As we all know, Amtrak is not a private company but a quasi-governmental entity created by an act of Congress in 1970. Its stock is owned by the Federal Government. Congress mandated its mission and likewise imposes by Federal law a host of obligations and costs on Amtrak, costs that no regular private company is burdened with. Yet, each year Amtrak's losses are made up through a Federal subsidy.

In fiscal year 1996, Amtrak's Federal subsidy was $285 million, thus, this amendment would result in a savings to Amtrak that translates into about $20 million a year. That is a savings to the U.S. taxpayer that subsidizes Amtrak.

What we have done, Mr. President, in Congress is put Amtrak between the proverbial rock and a hard place. Congress has given Amtrak a mandate to decrease its reliance on Federal operating support. The House and Senate Amtrak authorization bills and the budget resolution proposed to end all operating support of Amtrak in the year 2001. What are we going to do with that? Are we going to adhere to that? Are we going to extend it and try and find ways to help Amtrak reduce its cost? The point is, we have not relieved Amtrak from its statutory obligation and, at the same time, we are taking away its Federal operating subsidy.

Mr. President, I offer this amendment not in the expectation that it is going to be adopted. I offer this amendment to point out the need to move the electric power industry from its current highly regulated, highly inefficient situation into a fully competitive, deregulated marketplace so that Amtrak, along with industrial and residential consumers, can purchase electricity at the lowest possible price. That is what deregulation is all about.

How we get there from here is a very difficult and complex problem. As chairman of the Senate Committee on Energy and Natural Resources, I recognize it, and I have had some conversations, as late as this evening, with Senator JOHNSTON, who is concerned about the issue as well. And to the question of how we address it, of course, is an issue within the jurisdiction of our committee.

The Energy Committee has held three hearings this year on the issue of competitive change in the electric power industry. We intend to hold more. We want to assure everybody that we recognize that the electric industry in this country—a very, very important and significant industry—is not broke by any means. So it is not a question of fixing it in the sense of fixing what is not wrong with it. It is more an effort to try and recognize that by directing more attention to local and State control, with the assurance that we have the availability of wheeling coming in to address cost and efficient producers and somehow try and address that narrow area of what we are going to do to protect those that have stranded costs. That is the challenge before us.

We have an inequity associated with Amtrak. While there is no consensus as to the means for how to make the electric power industry competitive, there is a consensus as to the need for making it competitive.

So what we have to do is address the inconsistencies associated with the industry. We want to have competition, which will benefit consumers—residential consumers, commercial consumers, industrial consumers and, yes, Amtrak. This amendment is but a small piece of a much larger puzzle. The Amtrak issue, along with a host of other electric power issues, such as the privatization of the Federal Power Marketing Administration, will be the subject of our legislative interests in the 105th Congress.

Mr. President, while it is my expectation that we will undertake comprehensive electric deregulation legislation next year, it should not be taken to mean that we should not proceed this year with Senator D'AMATO's PUHCA reform legislation, of which I am a cosponsor. It has been ordered reported by the Banking Committee, and the Senate should take this legislation up at the earliest possible time.

Mr. President, I am going to withdraw the amendment as a consequence of the recognition that, clearly, this is not the time or the place to resolve the wheeling issue for Amtrak. But I hope there is now attention to the inequity associated with Amtrak, and a realization that we are forcing this entity to purchase power far beyond the competitive marketplace that exists, which puts an unfair and unrealistic burden and a responsibility right back with us in the realization that it is the taxpayers that are subsidizing this quasi-government entity, or its shortfall, when indeed there are opportunities out there for Amtrak to buy power at a competitive rate and reduce the Federal subsidy by as much as $20 million a year. And current savings can easily be identified as a consequence of prevailing rates that are in existence at this time. Unless anybody cares to talk on the amendment, or ask me questions, I am prepared to withdraw the amendment at this time. I thank my colleagues.

Mr. HATFIELD. There was a Senator who was planning to be here, but he is not able to be here. I yield to the Senator to withdraw the amendment.

Mr. MURKOWSKI. Mr. President, I withdraw my amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The amendment is withdrawn.

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, I am checking on some other matters here. But I believe that it is now the Democratic side of the aisle that is going to offer an amendment. We are alternating back and forth.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Mr. President, what we are attempting to do is to get to that finite list, and that is in the process now.

I suggest the absence of a quorum. The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

AMENDMENT NO. 5136

(Purpose: To provide for loan guarantees under the Railroad Revitalization and Regulatory Reform Act of 1976)

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, I send an amendment to the desk on behalf of Senator PRESSLER and ask for its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Oregon [Mr. HATFIELD], for Mr. PRESSLER, for himself, Mr. WYDEN, Mr. EXON, Mr. HARKIN, and Mrs. BOXER, proposes an amendment numbered 5136.

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:
On page 3, line 2, strike "$4,158,000" and insert "$3,000,000".

On page 5, line 17, strike "$132,499,000" and insert "$129,500,000".

On page 26, line 8, strike "1997." and insert "1997, except for up to $75,000,000 in loan guarantee commitments during such fiscal year (and $4,158,000 is hereby made available for the cost of such loan guarantee commitments)."

Mr. PRESSLER. Mr. President, my amendment is very simple and straight forward. It would provide funding for the section 511 railroad loan guarantee program to enable needed rail infrastructure and safety improvements. I am pleased to be joined in this bipartisan effort by Senators LOTT, SNOWE, EXON, and WYDEN.

Over the years, Congress has often recognized the importance of Federal funding assistance for rail infrastructure projects. Federal appropriations through such programs as the section 511 program and the Local Rail Freight Assistance [LRFA] Program have enabled the continuation of rail service for many communities that have been on the brink of losing service. I strongly support initiatives to promote rail infrastructure rehabilitation.

The Senate Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation, which I chair, has reported legislation to permanently authorize the LRFA Program. To date, this authorizing legislation, S. 1318, the Amtrak and Local Rail Revitalization Act, has not been considered by the full Senate. Because I recognize the concerns of some of my colleagues about funding certain expired programs, my amendment only proposes funding for the permanently authorized section 511 program. However, I will continue to support LRFA reauthorization and funding in future years.

Mr. President, I want to point out the House-passed Department of Transportation appropriations bill includes $58.86 million for title V—section 505—railroad loans. At first glance, I am pleased the House recognizes the importance of funding assistance for freight rail infrastructure. Yet, I am concerned because the entire amount has been earmarked for only one project in California. Many equally important projects would be shut out of the process by the House-passed bill. This clearly ignores the national need for rail rehabilitation on light density rail projects throughout our country. It also is important to note the House approved funding has been allocated to an expired Federal loan program.

My amendment would provide $4.158 million for section 511 loan guarantees. This would permit a loan level of up to $75 million for many legitimate rail projects across our Nation. Further, my amendment includes offsets for this funding from certain administrative functions. I believe basic infrastructure investment would be a better use of scarce Federal dollars.

Mr. President, Federal involvement, while limited, would advance track and bridge projects planned in Iowa, Maine, Nebraska, New Mexico, Oregon, and South Dakota, just to name a few. In turn, rail safety and economic opportunity for these and hundreds of other communities would be promoted. I urge my colleagues to support my amendment.

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, this amendment offsets $4.1 million for the Federal Rail Administration. There is a loan program where $4.1 million can, in effect, leverage $75 million in guaranteed loans. This is basically geared for some of the rail problems in the smaller areas, or the less populated areas.

It has been cleared on both sides. It is budget neutral. As I say, it has been offset for that transfer of moneys.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Mr. President, will the manager yield for a moment?

Mr. HATFIELD. Yes.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. There seems to be a question about clearance on our side, if we can review that for a couple of minutes. I would be happy to then discuss it.

Mr. HATFIELD. I ask that we temporarily set aside Senator Pressler's amendment, and I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, I now call up again the Pressler amendment and ask unanimous consent that Senators WYDEN, EXON, HARKIN, and BOXER be added as cosponsors.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, this amendment has been cleared on both sides of the aisle. Therefore, I urge its adoption.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, the amendment is agreed to.

The amendment (No. 5136) was agreed to.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote by which the amendment was agreed to.

Mr. HATFIELD. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 5137

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, I send on behalf of Senator KEMPTHORNE an amendment to the desk and ask for its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Oregon [Mr. HATFIELD], for Mr. KEMPTHORNE, proposes an amendment numbered 5137.

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

On page 47 line 13 of H.R. 3675, strike "$5,000,000" and insert "$15,000,000".

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, this is an amendment by Senator KEMPTHORNE that is budget neutral. It moves $5 million up to $15 million for national trail rehabilitation, which particularly suffered great damage in the Pacific Northwest during the floods of recent times. It has been cleared on both sides.

I urge adoption of the amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, the amendment is agreed to.

The amendment (No. 5137) was agreed to.

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote by which the amendment was agreed to.

Mr. HATFIELD. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 5138

(Purpose: To prohibit the issuance, implementation, or enforcement of certain regulations relating to fats, oils, and greases)

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, I send an amendment on behalf of Senator PRESSLER to the desk and ask for its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Oregon [Mr. HATFIELD], for Mr. PRESSLER, for himself, Mr. HARKIN, Mr. GRASSLEY, Mr. LOTT, Mr. BOND, and Mr. LUGAR, proposes an amendment numbered 5138.

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

At the appropriate place, insert the following new section:

SEC. . LIMITATION ON FUNDS USED TO ENFORCE REGULATIONS REGARDING ANIMAL FATS AND VEGETABLE OILS.

None of the funds made available in this Act may be used by the Coast Guard to issue, implement, or enforce a regulation or to establish an interpretation or guideline under the Edible Oil Regulatory Reform Act (Public Law 104-55) or the amendments made by that Act does not recognize and provide for, with respect to fats, oils, and greases (as described in that Act or the amendments made by that Act) differences in—

- (1) physical, chemical, biological, and other relevant properties; and
- (2) environmental effects.

Mr. PRESSLER. Mr. President, earlier this year Congress passed the Edible Oil Regulatory Reform Act. That measure which became Public Law 104-55 was long overdue.

The Edible Oil Regulatory Reform Act addresses how Federal agencies regulate the shipment of edible oils, as compared with toxic oils. They require that agencies make a distinction between these two kinds of oils. This is extremely important to U.S. agricultural exports. Without Public Law 104-55, farmers faced a potential loss in agricultural exports and diminished farm income.

The law is simple and very straightforward. Unfortunately, the Coast Guard continues to issue regulations that do not comply with Public Law 104-55. The Coast Guard has issued regulations that do not provide relief to the oilseed industry due to the differentiation between shipments of edible oilseeds and shipments of toxic oils, such as petroleum.

Mr. President, the kind of enforcement found in the Coast Guard regulations was never congressional intent.

The amendment that I, and Senators HARKIN, GRASSLEY, LOTT, and BOND are offering today would prevent the Coast Guard from using funds to issue, implement, or enforce regulations or establish an interpretation or guideline that do not differentiate animal fats and vegetable oils from toxic oils. This amendment does not change the Oil Pollution Act of 1990 as it relates to toxic oils.

Without action, the Coast Guard regulations could inadvertently diminish U.S. agricultural exports. In addition, existing regulations could have a chilling effect on the development of new crops and new uses of crop production.

Farm exports are at all time highs. Future exports are expected to stay at record levels. The future for oilseeds is equally bright. However, current Coast Guard regulations could work against this progress. It has become clearly evident that existing regulations would seriously impact exports of U.S. agricultural commodities, especially vegetable oils and animal fats.

Unless we pass this amendment, U.S. animal fat and vegetable oil industries would be faced with lost export sales. Public Law 104-55 put common sense into Federal regulations regarding the shipment of animal fats and vegetable oils. The winners out of all this are our farmers and ranchers. Unfortunately, we have to pass this amendment to make sure that the Coast Guard abides by Federal law and congressional intent on this matter. I urge adoption of this amendment.

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, this is an amendment, too, that has been cleared on both sides. It is an instruction, in effect, to the Coast Guard that as it continues its work on regulations of toxic materials, it make a differentiation between shipments of edible oilseeds and shipments of toxic oils, such as petroleum.

Mr. President, I urge adoption of the amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, the amendment is agreed to. The amendment (No. 5138) was agreed to.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote by which the amendment was agreed to.

Mr. HATFIELD. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

AMENDMENT NO. 5139

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, I send on behalf of Senators GORTON and BAUCUS an amendment to the desk and ask for its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The assistant legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Oregon [Mr. HATFIELD], for Mr. GORTON, for himself and Mr. BAUCUS, proposes an amendment numbered 5139.

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that reading of the amendment be dispensed with.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

The amendment is as follows:

At the appropriate place in the bill, add the following:

SEC. . (a) In cases where an emergency ocean condition causes erosion of a bank protecting a scenic highway or byway, FY 1996 or FY 1997 Federal Highway Administration Emergency Relief funds can be used to halt the erosion and stabilize the bank if such action is necessary to protect the highway from imminent failure and is less expensive than highway relocation;

(b) In cases where an emergency condition causes inundation of a roadway or saturation of the subgrade with further erosion due to abnormal freeze/thaw cycles and damage caused by traffic, FY 1996 or FY 1997 Federal Highway Administration Emergency Relief funds can be used to repair such roadway.

(c) Not more than $8 million in Federal Highway Administration Emergency Relief funds may be used for each of the conditions referenced in paragraphs (a) and (b).

Mr. GORTON. Mr. President, along the southwest coast of Washington State, Highway 105 runs adjacent to Willapa Bay from Raymond to Aberdeen and provides an alternative route to Highway 101. While this route serves as the only direct access for residents of the Tokeland Peninsula and the Shoalwater Indian Reservation, it also acts as a dike protecting several cranberry bogs, a vital local industry, from saltwater inundation.

Unfortunately, the embankment supporting Highway 105 has eroded away under the pressure of the unstable forces in Willapa Bay. Unless something is done, preliminary engineering studies indicate that under existing conditions, the road will be washed into Willapa Bay, sometime within the next 2 years. This timeline would obviously be moved up if any type of storm hits the Washington coast later this winter. Water, telecommunications, and power utilities located within the highway right-of-way would also be severed if the highway is destroyed.

If no action is taken to remedy this problem, the estimated loss of public facilities, cranberry bogs, jobs and economic impacts is $82 million, not including additional socioeconomic impacts. An additional $40 million from the Federal Highway Administration Emergency Relief funds would also be required to relocate a new Highway 105.

A more appropriate and financially efficient alternative, in my opinion, would be to correct this problem before it becomes a reality. While diagnosing the problem, preliminary engineering studies also indicated that the erosion could be slowed considerably by dredging a relief channel in Willapa Bay, which would alter the flow of water that is currently undercutting the highway embankment.

Officials from the Washington State Department of Transportation are currently working with representatives from the affected communities to resolve this matter, however, funding continues to be the major obstacle. This prevention project, including both engineering and actual construction costs, would cost $10 million—$8 million from the Federal Highway Administration and $2 million in State and local matching funds.

I am aware that Congress no longer earmarks money in the Federal Highway Administration (FHWA) account of the Transportation appropriations bill, and therefore, I believe that the only appropriate funding available is possibly the FHWA Emergency Relief (ER) fund. While I recognize that this fund is traditionally dedicated to repairing Federal highways once a disaster has occurred, it seems that common sense dictates using $8 million to prevent a washout rather than spending $40 million to replace the road in less than 2 years.

I have been working with officials from the Federal Highway Administration, and they are aware of the pending road failure. While they support participating in this prevention project, they believe that legislative authority must be given to allow ER funds to be used in this manner. For that reason, my amendment provides legislative language in this bill that authorizes the Federal Highway Administration to use up to $8 million in Emergency Relief funds in order to prevent complete loss of the existing Highway 105.

By allowing these funds to be used in this manner, I estimate that the Federal Government will save approximately $30 million in future highway relocation funds, while also protecting the fragile environment and economy of Pacific County in Washington State.

In closing, let me thank Chairman HATFIELD for his consideration of this matter. Let me also applaud the efforts of the officials in Pacific County, as well as other individuals in the Washington State who have worked so carefully to ensure that this potential disaster is averted.

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, this provides for definition of emergency funding that can be used to relieve the situation in both Montana and Washington State. It has been cleared on both sides. It is budget neutral.

Mr. CHAFEE addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Rhode Island.

Mr. CHAFEE. Mr. President, this is an amendment that, as the distinguished chairman has said, has been cleared by both sides. It is an important amendment to the State of Washington and, indeed, to Senator BAUCUS as well. It is a good amendment.

Mr. BAUCUS. Mr. President, essentially following up, I thank the managers for the amendment. There was a natural catastrophe in the State of Montana due to abnormal weather. This amendment helps that situation.

I thank the Senators.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Mr. President, I have to reserve the right to object until we clear a matter here that, frankly, raises concerns. So I am sorry to say it, but we do have to take a couple of minutes to check this. Therefore, unless there is somebody else who we are going to go to, I would note the absence of a quorum.

Mr. HATFIELD. I apologize. I was told that it was cleared on both sides, I say to my comanager.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The assistant legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, let me return to the Gorton-Baucus amendment we were discussing a little bit earlier. We now have the clearance on the Democratic side, so I urge the adoption of that amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, the amendment is agreed to.

The amendment (No. 5139) was agreed to.

Mr. LAUTENBERG. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. HATFIELD. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

Mr. BURNS. Mr. President, I have an inquiry of the committee chairman, the Senator from Oregon [Mr. HATFIELD].

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator will state his inquiry.

Mr. BURNS. I thank the Chair. If the chairman will recall, the committee, at its meeting of July 16, included language in the Committee Report offered by the Senator from Washington [Mrs. MURRAY]. This language concerned significant costs incurred by the mid-Columbia hydroelectric projects associated with fish and wildlife mitigation due to water releases from upstream Federal facilities and how the impacts of such costs to the mid-Columbia projects could be offset. My question is this: Should no all upstream project owners incurring the same costs, from the same water releases, be treated the same as the mid-Columbia project owners? For example, the Montana Power Co. incurs the same costs at their Kerr project at Flathead Lake and Thompson Falls project on the Clark Fork River due to the large releases from the Federal Hungry Horse project. The Washington Water Power Co. incurs the same costs at their Noxon Rapids and Cabinet Gorge projects on the Clark Fork River due to these same releases from the federally owned Hungry Horse project. Does the committee also urge the BPA to enter into the same equitable energy exchange with the Montana Power Co. and the Washington Water Power Co.? Their problems with these Federal water releases are the same as those of the mid-Columbia project owners.

Mr. HATFIELD. I thank the Senator from Montana. My answer is that, "yes", all projects incurring the same impacts from the Federal water releases associated with fish and wildlife mitigation should be treated the same. That provision in the report urges BPA to enter into equitable energy exchange agreements. Moreover, such agreements should not increase costs for BPA.

Mr. BURNS. I thank the Senator from Oregon, my constituents will be very pleased. Let us hope that Bonneville will faithfully follow the committee's urging on this matter.

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, I think we are in sight of the goal line on this bill. If Members have amendments yet pending or have registered in their respective Cloakrooms an intention to offer an amendment by the terms relevant or whatever else, we would like to have them come now because we are down to the last handful of amendments and then final passage. I do not anticipate any votes on the remaining amendments. I do not think they are that controversial, but I am just making a judgment. We are inquiring as to the leadership's view about putting the final passage vote over until tomorrow to relieve other Senators who are not involved in the amendment process. As soon as we get that information, I will relay it.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. EXON. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Mr. DEWINE). Without objection, it is so ordered.

AMENDMENT NO. 5140

(Purpose: To provide funding for the Institute of Railroad Safety)

Mr. EXON. Mr. President, I send an amendment to the desk and ask for its immediate consideration.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will report.

The legislative clerk read as follows:

The Senator from Nebraska [Mr. EXON] proposes an amendment numbered 5140.

At the appropriate place in the bill add the following new section:

SEC. . THE RAILROAD SAFETY INSTITUTE.

Of the money available to the Federal Rail Administration up to $500,000 shall be made available to establish and operate the Institute for Railroad Safety as authorized by the Swift Rail Development Act of 1994.

Mr. EXON. Mr. President, this is something that the Senate approved last year. It is a very important matter with regard to railroad safety. The matter has been cleared on both sides, I believe. I urge its adoption.

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, I urge its adoption.

The amendment (No. 5140) was agreed to.

Mr. EXON. I move to reconsider the vote.

Mr. HATFIELD. I move to lay that motion on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was agreed to.

Mr. EXON. I thank the Chair and I thank the managers of the bill.

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, I think we are down now to the last three or four amendments. I hope the Senators who have those amendments—I could enumerate the Senators by name, but I do not think I want to do that at this point—at least will have the courtesy to call the floor and tell us whether they are going to offer their amendments or not. Is that asking too much? Please, please, make it a little easier to complete our business here.

To the Senators who put a place hold on amendments to the respective cloakrooms, at least let us know whether you plan to do it or not. We have contacted some Senators. They say, "Oh, I'm not going to offer that after all," but we have not been informed. I think everybody's mother taught them better manners. So much for my lecture. I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. SIMPSON. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

COMMEMORATING THE 80TH BIRTHDAY OF DAVID BRODY

Mr. SIMPSON. Mr. President, just moments ago I left a reception for a friend, David Brody. I am very pleased to just rise briefly and commemorate the 80th birthday of one of the most remarkable men who it has been my privilege to know, Mr. David Brody.

He is perhaps best known to all of us in the Senate as the "101st Senator," which was a characterization appropriately applied to him in 1989 in a Senate resolution which passed unanimously.

That resolution was passed on the occasion of David Brody's so-called "retirement" from the Anti-Defamation League of the B'Nai B'rith. As I have previously noted in other remarks, it was most carefully phrased so as to avoid any mention of the word "retirement."

There is nothing "retiring" about David Brody—nothing. He remains the essence and embodiment of energy, spirit, enthusiasm, and good will which he has always been.

It has been my personal pleasure on occasion to pay tribute to David Brody on the Senate floor, to participate in a retirement ceremony on his behalf several years ago, and most recently on March 11, 1993, on the occasion of the 50th anniversary of the wedding of Bea and David Brody. I have informed David that he and I have one thing in common for very certain above all others, and it is that we both "severely overmarried." The marriage and partnership of Bea and David enriches our lives in so many ways, a monument to their boundless love to each other, and to the innumerable good works of each of them individually.

So on David's 80th birthday, I am certain he will have cause to reflect on his good fortune in spending evermore time and more than the 50 years of life wedded to that fine lady. And all of us will have cause to reflect upon our own good fortune in having David with us for now 80 years.

And our wish for him is that he may have many more years of life to savor. My wife Ann and I wish him Godspeed and all our love. I thank the Chair and I yield the floor.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY TO DAVID BRODY

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, the Senator from Wyoming, just a few minutes ago, addressed the celebration of the 80th birthday of a friend of the U.S. Senate, a friend of most every U.S. Senator, David Brody. There was a celebration of that on the Hill this evening.

It is most appropriate that Senators help David Brody celebrate his 80th birthday because he is so well known, he has been so active on the Hill, and he has been, in the truest sense of the word, a public-spirited person, a person who has been civic-minded about his responsibilities to Government. He has represented a lot of good causes, as he has interacted with Members of the U.S. Senate throughout his career on the Hill.

A few years ago, you could have read a newspaper article that stated it better than any of us could have. It was about how David Brody is respected. In that newspaper article he was referred to as the 101st Senator.

So I wish David Brody a happy birthday. I wish him and his wife well in the future. Happy birthday.

Mr. President, I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION AND RELATED AGENCIES APPROPRIATIONS ACT, 1997

UNANIMOUS-CONSENT AGREEMENT

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, I have the following unanimous-consent agreement that has been cleared with the two leaders, Republican Senator TRENT LOTT and Democratic leader TOM DASCHLE.

I ask unanimous consent that, during the Senate's consideration of the transportation appropriations bill, the following amendments be the only first-degree amendments in order, subject to second-degree amendments which must be relevant to the first-degree they propose to amend, with the exception of the antiterrorism amendments, on which there will be 1-hour notification of the two leaders prior to the offering of any amendment regarding terrorism, and they be subject to second-degree amendments which must deal with the subject of terrorism.

The amendments are follows: Two relevant amendments by Senator LOTT; one relevant amendment by Senator MCCAIN; COHEN-SNOWE, truck weight limitations; GRAMM, highways; LOTT, six amendments regarding terrorism; MCCONNELL, bridge amendment for Kentucky; HATFIELD, relevant amendment.

For the information of all Senators, any votes ordered this evening will be stacked in a sequence beginning immediately following passage of S. 1936, with the first vote and all remaining votes in the voting sequence limited to 10 minutes only, and those votes will be ordered on a case-by-case basis. In light of this agreement on behalf of the majority leader, there will be no further votes this evening.

Mr. President, I want to amend what I said. I forgot to read the Democratic list of amendments that will be relevant and in order.

A Baucus amendment on highway obligation; five antiterrorism amendments by Senator BIDEN; a Bradley amendment on rail safety/newborns; BYRD, two relevant amendments; DASCHLE, two relevant amendments; DODD, an FMLA2 amendment; DORGAN, runaway plants and a relevant amendment; LAUTENBERG, two relevant amendments; REID, one relevant amendment; WYDEN, one relevant amendment, and WELLSTONE, one relevant amendment.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. HATFIELD. Mr. President, I believe we have run the limit of our activity for the evening. As I indicated, by a leadership agreement, there will be no further votes this evening.

I suggest the absence of a quorum.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The clerk will call the roll.

The legislative clerk proceeded to call the roll.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the order for the quorum call be rescinded.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to speak as in morning business.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

MARINE CORPS GENERALS

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I have just received a letter from the Commandant of the Marine Corps, Gen. C.C. Kruluk.

General Kruluk's letter concerns the Marine Corps' request for 12 additional general officers.

His letter responds to a letter which I sent to the House conferees on the fiscal year 1997 Defense authorization bill.

My letter urged the House conferees to hang tough and block the Senate proposal to give the Marine Corps 12 more generals.

The Senate approved the Marine Corps's request. But the House remains opposed to it.

So the request for 12 additional generals is a bone of contention in the conference.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that my letter to the conferees and the Commandant's response to it be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the letters were ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

JULY 29, 1996.

Hon. CHARLES E. GRASSLEY:
U.S. Senate, Washington, DC.

DEAR SENATOR GRASSLEY: I have been provided a copy of the letter you sent to House Conferees concerning the proposal in the Senate Authorization Bill that would give the Marine Corps twelve additional general officers. While this responds to the issues raised in your letter, it has been my desire to meet with you in person to discuss this issue. I understand our staffs have finally worked out a time to do so, and I look forward to meeting with you on Wednesday.

Those familiar with the Corps know that we pride ourselves in squeezing the most out of every dollar that you entrust to your Marine Corps. The also know that we don't ask for something unless it is truly needed.

The main thrust of your letter is that the number of general officers should be reduced consistent with force structure reductions. Reduction in end strength does not necessarily have a one-to-one correlation with command billet reduction. Permit me to explain. As you have correctly stated, the Marine Corps in 1988 had a total active duty end strength of approximately 198,000, with a general officer population of 70. Today, we have an end strength of 174,000, and a general officer population of 68. That said, please note that the 82nd Congress mandated in Title X that our Corps of Marines be "so organized as to include not less than three combat divisions and three air wings,"—as it was in 1987, it is so organized today. This point is key: While the Marine Corps has reduced its end strength by 24,000 personnel, its three division, three wing structure has remained essentially unchanged. Those familiar with the military know that the requirement for general/flag officers is tied directly to the number of combat divisions and air wings—and that number has not been reduced. Of the 70 Marine general officers in 1987, 11 were assigned to joint/external billets. Today, 16 of the 68 Marine general officers are serving in joint/external billets. Today we have 52 general officers manning essentially the same structure that was manned by 59 general officers in 1988.

Throughout our history, we Marines have prided ourselves in doing more with less. In the past, we have compensated for our general officer shortfall by "frocking" officers selected for the next higher grade to fill that position without the pay. While that practice has its own drawbacks, it did provide us with the requisite number of general officers to fill critical shortfalls. Last year, the Senate set increasingly strict limits on the number of general officers that the Services may frock. And I understand their rationale—the practice of frocking simply makes deficiencies in Service grade/billet structure. These shortages are indeed better addressed with permanent fixes rather than the stop-gap measures such as frocking. This restriction on frocking, however, has placed the Marine Corps in an untenable position. Losing six of our nine blocking authorizations means that we would now have 46 general officers manning essentially the same structure that was manned by 60 general officers in 1987. This makes it critical that we have additional general officer allotments.

In response to your remark that we are "simply trying to keep up with the Joneses" let me offer this: Other Service ratios of general officer to end strength range from one general/flag officer for 1,945 troops to one general/flag officer to 1,435 troops. Excluding the Marine Corps, the Service-wide nominal ratio of one general per 1,620 troops would give the Marine Corps a minimum of 104 general officers. The twelve additional officers that the SASC has provided would give us a total of only 80—hardly keeping up with the Joneses!

Finally, this is a matter of providing quality, experienced leadership for our Marines. We are the nation's force in readiness, standing by to go into harm's way to protect U.S. interests globally. Providing these brave Americans with an adequate number of commanders and representation in the joint arena is not just prudent—it is the right thing to do.

Senator Grassley, I am convinced that these additional general officer billets serve the best interest of our Services and our national defense. I am also convinced that the solution is not to bring the other Services down to our untenable position, but rather to grant us the minimal increase we need to properly perform those functions Congress has mandated and our nation expects. Our meeting on Wednesday afternoon should be productive—I am looking forward to an honest and open dialogue. Semper Fidelis!

Very respectfully,

C.C. KRULAK,
Commandant of the Marine Corps.

U.S. SENATE,

Washington, DC, July 24, 1996.

DEAR HOUSE CONFERENCE: I am writing to encourage you to hang tough and do everything possible to block the Senate proposal that would give the Marine Corps 12 additional general officers.

The Senate argues that these additional Marine generals are needed to two reasons:

- (1) to fill vacant warfighting positions; and
- (2) to meet the requirements of the joint warfighting area mandated by the Goldwater-Nichols Act.

These arguments are nothing but a smoke screen for getting more generals to fill fat headquarters jobs.

In 1990, your Committee took a very straightforward, common sense approach to the question of how many general officers were really needed. Your Committee could see the handwriting on the wall. The military was beginning to downsize in earnest. As the force structure shrinks, your Committee said the number of general and flag officers should be reduced. New general officer active duty strength ceilings were established. The total number authorized had been set at 1,073 since October 1, 1980. The FY 1991 legislation reduced that number to 1,030 in 1991, including 68 for the Marine Corps. However, based on the projected 25% reduction in the force structure between 1991 and 1995, which in fact occurred, the number of general officers authorized to be on active duty was lowered to 858 by October 1, 1995, including 61 for the Marine Corps.

This is how your Committee explained the decision to cut the number of generals in 1990 (Report 101-665, page 268):

"The Committee believes that the general and flag officer authorized strengths should be reduced to a level consistent with the active force structure reductions expected by fiscal year 1995."

The Senate Armed Services Committee report contained identical language (Report 101-384, page 159). But the Senate committee linked the need for fewer generals directly to a projected 25% reduction in the force structure. In addition, it provided a more detailed justification for the lower ceilings as follows:

"The committee believes that these ceilings should assist the military services in making critical decisions regarding the reduction, consolidation, and elimination of duplicative headquarters. The ceilings should also assist the military services in eliminating unnecessary layering in the staff patterns of general and flag officer positions."

In reviewing your Committee's justification for lowering the general officer ceilings, there is no mention of the need to fill vacant warfighting positions—even though the Gulf War was looming on the horizon. And there was no mention of the need to fill joint billets mandated by Goldwater-Nichols.

Your Committee gave only one reason—the right reason—for reducing the number of general officers in 1990: The number of general officers should be reduced consistent with projected force structure reductions.

So what has changed since that legislation was adopted six years ago? Why has the Marine Corps fabricated a new rationale for more generals? Nothing has changed. DOD is continuing to downsize, and according to recent testimony by Secretary Perry, that process is expected to continue into the future (refer to page 254 of his Annual Report to Congress). Your guiding principle still applies: As the force structure shrinks, we need fewer general officers. It was valid then. It's still valid today.

So why is the Marine Corps trying to topsize when its downsizing? There is no reasonable explanation for giving the Marine Corps 12 extra generals. The extra 12 generals requested this year comes on top of an extra 7 Marine generals authorized just two years ago in special relief legislation.

In my mind, the issue boils down to one indefensible point: the Marine Corps is trying to keep up with the Joneses. This is a war over stars. The Marine Corps wants to have as many generals per capita as the other services. This is not the right way to resolve the problem. There is a better way. You should fix it in exactly the same way your Committee fixed it in 1990. You should fix it by giving each service the right number of generals—a number that matches the force structure.

I hope that reason prevails on this issue. At a minimum, I think the decision on the extra 12 Marine generals should be delayed until the Inspector General has conducted an independent review of all Department of Defense headquarters, commands, and general officer billets and determined exactly what is necessary based on real military requirements.

Sincerely,

CHARLES E. GRASSLEY,
U.S. Senator.

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, I would like to respond to General Krulak's letter.

This is the main point in his letter, and I quote General Krulak's own words:

The main thrust of your letter is that the number of general officers should be reduced consistent with force structure reductions.

This is General Krulak talking:

The reduction in end strength does not necessarily have a one-to-one correlation with command billet reduction.

He goes on to say:

This point is key: While the Marine Corps has reduced its end strength by 24,000 personnel, its three division, three wing structure has remained essentially unchanged. Those familiar with the military know that the requirement for general/flag officers is tied directly to the number of combat divisions and air wings—and that number has not been changed.

Mr. President, I would like to respond to General Krulak.

First, the suggestion that the number of generals should be reduced consistent with force structure reductions is not a rule dreamed up by the Senator from Iowa.

The rule was first put forward by the Senate Armed Services Committee years ago.

It has been expressed by the House Armed Services Committee.

It was the guiding principle used in formulating current law.

It is still in current law—section 526 of title 10, United States Code.

That law places a ceiling on the number of generals and admirals allowed on active duty.

This is the rule behind the law:

As the force structure shrinks, the number of generals and admirals should come down.

If the force structure expands, then the number of generals and admirals should go up.

That simple, commonsense logic has guided military planners since time began.

Second, General Krulak agrees that end strength has fallen.

However, he contends that the Marine Corps' combat force remains essentially unchanged.

Let's briefly review the facts.

In fiscal year 1987, Marine end strength was 199,525, including 70 generals.

Today, the fiscal year 1996, there are 172,434 marines, including 68 generals.

While end strength is down and two generals are gone, the Marine Corps still has three divisions and three airwings.

General Krulak is right about that. The force structure is intact.

Unfortunately, it's not whole. Some troops are missing.

The end strength is down by 27,091 Marines.

If the structure is still there, but some people are gone, that's a hollow force, isn't it?

Mr. President, is another hollow force creeping out of the Pentagon fog?

Mr. President, on July 17, I placed a Marine Corps briefing paper in the RECORD, page S7986.

That paper was entitled "Making the Corps Fit To Fight." It was dated April 1996.

This is what it says:

Marine infantry battalions are at 57 percent of authorized requirements for platoon sergeants.

If that's true, then the Marine Corps structure is already getting hollow.

A Marine platoon can't function without a good sergeant.

Mr. President, do we need more generals to lead a hollow force?

Clearly, a hollow force doesn't demand more generals. Nor does a static force demand more generals.

Only a bigger force demands more generals, and that isn't in the cards right now.

Third, General Krulak introduces another argument to justify his request for more generals.

This one is designed to de-couple the issue from the force structure. This is how he tries to undo the logic.

He says he needs 12 more generals to fill joint billets mandated by the Goldwater-Nichols Act of 1986.

It's a distortion to suggest that Goldwater-Nichols mandates more generals when the force structure is shrinking.

Joint billets—just like service billets—should be squeezed as the force structure shrinks.

This is the message hammered home by Marine Gen. John Sheehan:

"Headquarters and defense agencies should not be growing as the force shrinks."

That's General Sheehan, commander in chief of the U.S. Atlantic Command.

All the data points indicate that downsizing is continuing and will continue for the foreseeable future.

So the argument that more generals are needed to fill joint billets doesn't hold much water, either.

A few years back, the Marine Corps had another commandant. His name was Al Gray.

He was tough as nails. He was known as a mud marine.

He didn't look at the Marine Corps' needs like a bureaucrat would. He looked at it like a Marine—from the bottom up, starting with platoons and companies.

In a December 1987 interview with the Chicago Tribune, General Gray talked about his plans to fill his units with people from the bottom up. I quote:

"If the Marines fill their need for officers and troops before they get to the big headquarters in Washington," he said with a grin, "that might be a blessing in disguise."

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that this interview be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

[From the Chicago Tribune, Dec. 13, 1987]

MARINES: MYTH VERSUS REALITY

MODERN CORPS IS BIG, COSTLY, HEAVY ON SUPPORTING CAST

(By David Evans)

WASHINGTON—The Marines have a new commandant, Gen. Alfred Gray, a veteran of the Korean and Vietnam Wars. He's characterized by marines who know him as a self-taught thinker and a "warrior's warrior."

He inherits not one, but two Marine Corps. One is the corps of myth: small, cheap, and mostly fighters. A Marine Corps, if you will, designed to kick down the door of a defended coastline and put a lot of grunts on the beach in a hurry and looking for a fight.

Then there's the real Marine Corps: big, expensive, and with relatively few fighters but a big supporting cast. This real corps plans to land ashore where the enemy isn't.

Al Gray isn't very happy with this real corps.

"We're going to make some changes," he growls. "It's time for a fresh, simple look."

People are not his problem. Today's young marines are the highest quality ever, by any measure. They're enough to make a hard-bolled commander's eyes water with joy.

The real problems are deeper, and structural. They have to do with the rising cost of the Marines, a tail-wagging-the-dog support structure that pulls marines out of fighting units, and a new-found addiction to costly, exotic equipment.

Gray is already grouching about some of these problems.

"Americans expect their Marine Corps to put fully manned infantry battalions into the field," he said in a recent interview, "not units missing 100 or more troops."

That's an unusual admission from the man in charge of a corps of 20,000 officers and 180,000 enlisted marines. But over the years the corps bought equipment that took more people to maintain and repair, and it created more and larger headquarters units. These competing demands for manpower, in secondary support and headquarters activities, siphoned marines out of the fighting units.

The slogans remain—"Every marine is a rifleman"—and ringing speeches are still made about the infantryman as the corps' ultimate weapon. But in the real Marine Corps, the infantryman is steadily becoming an endangered species. Of the 180,000 enlisted marines, about 33,000 are officially designated as infantrymen.

Throw in the artillerymen, tank crews and combat engineers, and the total number of enlistees in the "combat arms" amounts to barely 51,000. Instead of closing with and destroying the enemy, the traditional role of marine fighting men, nearly three out of four enlisted marines are now doing something else; repairing equipment, hanging bombs on airplanes, driving trucks.

In this respect, the Marine Corps looks very much like the U.S. Army, where three out of four active-duty soldiers are in support functions, too.

Mark Cancian, a Marine Reserve major, sums up recent trends with this observation: If the corps' structure of 1962 were in place today, a structure that featured larger infantry battalions and less logistics support, "there would be 17,000 more marines in Marine divisions—one entire division's worth."

"Another insight," says Cancian, "is to look at the number of 'trigger pullers' in the division."

These are the marines who personally deliver fire on the enemy: the riflemen, artillery cannoners, tank crews. Everybody else is helping to coordinate and support that fire, but the number of trigger pullers amounts to barely 7,500 in a division of 17,500 enlisted marines.

There are barely 22,500 "trigger pullers" in all three active divisions. Add a few hundred pilots flying close air support, say 500, and there are perhaps 23,000 marines in a corps of 200,000 whose primary duty is to personally fire on the enemy.

Most of these "trigger pullers" are found in the 27 infantry battalions that represent the cutting edge of the corps. Those battalions may be short the infantrymen they need, but they have plenty of headquarters over them: 29 regimental and higher level headquarters, in fact.

If the Marines have grown top-heavy with headquarters units, they've also become harder to move. Too heavy for easy deployment, despite Gen. Robert Barrow's warning as commandant in 1980 that the corps "should be light enough to get there, and heavy enough to win."

Artillery is an instructive example. The Marines "heavied up" their artillery from 105 mm. to 155 mm. howitzers, in part because the Army was shifting to heavier artillery, and in part because of the long range of Soviet guns. But the new howitzer has to be disconnected from the truck that pulls it before being loaded into the standard medium-size landing craft. And the truck doesn't have enough power to pull the gun through sand, so a forklift has to be waiting on the beach to pull the gun ashore.

Air units are more difficult to move, too. The Marines are replacing their aging F-4 fighters with new F-18s. According to the maintenance officer of a fighter group of 60 aircraft, the number of maintenance vans that must accompany the same number of F-18s went up 72 percent, from 150 vans to 260.

The Marines have become so heavy that the supplies for a full-up amphibious force of 50,000 marines fill about 6,800 containers, each as big as a small bus. Landed ashore, the containers blanket a huge area.

"About 22 acres of nothing but boxes," says a colonel, who asks: "Can we afford a target that large?"

"Amphibious operations by their very nature require bulldozers and other heavy equipment," explains Lt. Col. Ken Estes, a staff officer at Marine headquarters.

All those support marines, the heavier equipment and the stacks of supplies cost more money. An E-3 lance corporal in an infantry squad costs $15,600 a year in pay and benefits; and E-6 staff sergeant clerking in a headquarters unit costs $22,800.

The new truck carries the same 5-ton load as the vintage model it replaces, but costs $31,000 more (in constant 1986 dollars.)

Heavier artillery shells for the new howitzer cost 160 percent more.

These are just a few examples of the thousand different ways the corps' appetite for money has ratcheted steadily upward.

The Marines are no longer the K mart of national defense; they are smack in the mainstream of an upscale defense establishment where costs are rounded to the nearest tenth of a billion dollars.

The corps' annual budget now hovers at $9 billion. Since the Navy buys airplanes for the Marines out of its "blue dollar" budget, the real cost of the corps runs closer to $13.7 billion a year, according to Pentagon budget experts.

Even the Marines may not realize how expensive they have become. In 1976 the total cost of equipping, paying and training each marine was about $37,000. That's in equivalent 1987 dollars. Since then, the per capital cost has rocketed to $68,000 for each marine—a stunning 83 percent increase. Part of that jump is the extra pay for more experienced marines, with the rest driven by the rising price of equipment and operations.

The cost is still less than the $104,000 the Army spends for every soldier, but the difference is narrowing, and fast.

If the taxpayers cannot afford the money-rich diet to which the Marines have grown accustomed, the Navy can't, either. Or at least it can't afford enough of the kind of highly specialized amphibious ships the Marines want.

The biggest new class of amphibious ships, for example, costs more than $1 billion and figures prominently in the planned expansion of the amphibious fleet from 62 to 76 vessels.

The Marines have rejected cheaper ships as a solution to the numbers problem. One design concept, known in the pentagon by the codeword LTAX, would have provided the same carrying capacity as the large amphibious ships now under construction, but at one-fourth their billion-dollar cost.

"LTAX didn't have the built-in survivability or creature comforts," admits a Pentagon naval expert, "but it would have provided a way of complementing the limited number of true amphibious ships we can afford."

If the Marines have erred by growing too heavy for easy deployment, they've also strayed from Gen. Barrow's timeless dictum by not being heavy enough in the right areas to win. In antitank combat, for example, the Marines' problem is more than serious—it is critical.

With the exception of the TOW missile, the Marines' infantry antitank weapons are not up to the job, according to a recent General Accounting Office report on antitank weapons. The warhead on the shoulder-launch AT-4 antitank rocket is too small for assured frontal kills against attacking Soviet tanks. Critics, including some marines, call the AT-4 "the paint scratcher."

Worse, the Marines probably are not buying enough TOWs. Their planned consumption rate in combat is one TOW missile per launcher every two days.

The Marines have had the Dragon medium-weight antitank missile for a decade, but its accuracy and punch are dismal. In combat, the GAO estimates the Dragon may hit the target only 8 out of 100 shots. Although the corps is upgrading the Dragon with a new warhead and sight, it will be years before the new weapons are in the hands of troops.

Moreover, the new warhead adds 2½ pounds to the missile's weight, which skeptics claim will reduce the Dragon's range. The first block of "improved" missiles may be less accurate, because the pulse rockets used for guidance corrections will be used up faster to counteract the added weight.

Maj. Gen. Ray Franklin, in charge of the Dragon improvement project, claims initial warhead tests are "very impressive." He's hoping to field 15,000 new missiles for $60 million.

Other experts aren't so sure. "They're getting super performance from prototype warheads," says an ammunition expert, "and they're having nothing but problems trying to produce them in quantity."

He believes the Dragon costs "are going to go out of sight" even if the production problems are solved, and Franklin won't get nearly what he hopes for the money.

If Marines on the ground aren't equipped to kill tanks, they'll need air support to do the job.

At enormous expense—$5 billion—the Marines have equipped five squadrons with British-designed AV-8B Harrier close air support jets. The Harrier doesn't have the right weapon for killing tanks, say a number of weapons experts familiar with its performance in live-fire tests.

The Harrier's 25 mm. cannon was tested extensively against tanks at Nellis Air Force Base in 1979. In 24 passes, the Harrier fired hundreds of shells, getting plenty of hits but not a single kill. Reportedly all but seven of the shells bounced off the tanks' armor. Test reports reveal the Air Force's 30 mm. cannon did much better, killing tanks in 60 percent of the firing passes.

Tom Amlie, a Pentagon weapons expert, says the Harrier's 25 mm. gun "is too heavy for light work [shooting up trucks], and it's too light for the heavy work of killing tanks."

It may be suicidal for Harrier pilots to press their attacks to gun range, anyway. There isn't an ounce of armor on the Harrier, and its engine is wrapped in fuel tanks. A Naval Air Systems Command briefing reveals the Harrier is 10 times more vulnerable to ground fire, given a hit, than the Marines' F-18 fighter, and 20 times more vulnerable than the Navy's A-7 attack jet.

Instead of flying Harriers into the teeth of the thousands of automatic weapons found in a Soviet motorized rifle division, the preferred method is to employ so-called "stand-off" weapons. These are missiles or bombs that can be guided to their targets from outside the range of enemy weapons.

"That's why they're ga-ga for laser-guided Maverick missiles," concludes E.C. Myers, former director of air warfare in the Pentagon.

The Maverick is tricky to use against tanks, however. Of 100 Harrier test runs against tank targets in 1985, the Center for Naval Analysis found the pilots were successful in finding, locking-on and firing only 6 percent of the time.

The Marines could use their F-18 fighters armed with Rockeye cluster bombs against tanks. Because the Rockeye spreads bomblets over a wide area, it cannot be employed close to front-line marines. Even so, it is not a very effective weapon. Defense Department munitions effectiveness manuals indicate that four Rockeyes have less than 50 percent chance of killing one tank.

The real Marine Corps, it seems, is ill-equipped, both on the ground and in the air, to defeat massed tank attacks. And this kind of attack is the Sunday punch of the Soviet army and Third World armies equipped with Soviet weapons.

"We're not pleased with what we have for air work against tanks," admits Maj. Gen. Charles Pitman, the assistant chief of Marine aviation. He hopes improved Mavericks will solve the problem.

Perhaps the biggest problem is whether the country can afford the Marines' ambitious plans for the future.

The Marines are touting a new landing concept.

"We have to come from over the horizon," says Gen. Gray, to avoid exposing the amphibious fleet to shore-based antiship missiles.

But new equipment is needed to carry troops and equipment the greater distance to the beach. One is a hovercraft called LCAC (for Landing Craft Air Cushion,) which can "fly" over underwater and beach obstacles.

The Marines also say they need a new kind of aircraft called the MV-22 tilt-rotor. The MV-22 will take off like a helicopter and fly like an airplane, tilting its engines to again land like a helicopter. The new tilt-rotor would be used land marines as far as 25 miles inland.

Freed of traditional beach landing restrictions, the Marines say they can threaten a much wider coastline. The enemy commander, accordingly, will be forced to choose between spreading his forces or leaving large areas undefended.

The Marines plan to exploit either choice by punching through a weak and over-extended cordon defense, or by landing at undefended spots to quickly build up forces ashore, before the enemy can move and counterattack.

"If we're going to land where the enemy isn't," observes one colonel who's skeptical of the new concept, "why bother staying way offshore, over the horizon? We have enough trouble landing at the right spot from 4,000 yards offshore."

"For the actual landing," he says, "we've moved the mother ships from 4,000 yards offshore to 25 miles. We've increased the distance more than 12 times, but the hovercraft is only 5 times faster. We're worse off."

The speed advantage of the tilt rotor over current helicopters may be illusory, too. Three out of four tilt-rotor helicopters making the 50-mile trip from ship to inland landing zones will be toting loads that are too big and heavy to be carried inside. They'll be slung underneath, and some pilots say these "external" loads will reduce the tilt-rotor's speed further.

The experimental tilt-rotor now flying has never carried an external load.

Ultimately, the marines must use beaches accessible by conventional landing boats anyway. The new hovercraft and tilt-rotor aircraft will carry ashore only 12 percent of the troops, 6 percent of the vehicles and two-tenths of 1 percent of the ammunition and supplies. Everything else will have to be moved ashore in conventional landing craft, which will be restricted to the 17 percent of the world's coastlines where the water and beach conditions are suitable.

"The enemy will know the entry points on his own coastline that lead to meaningful objectives," says a former Defense Department official who questions the new landing concept. "That's where he's going to defend, and that's the ground the marines will have to take."

"We delude ourselves by retaining the 'assault' label," says Col. Gordon Batchellor, a highly regarded tactician, "as we quietly build a scenario where movement, but no assault, occurs."

This force structure, he maintains, "will be useless when a true assault is called for."

The new landing concept is expensive. Each air-cushioned hovercraft costs $20 million and can carry a single 70-ton tank ashore. For the same money, the Navy could buy four heavy "utility" size landing craft, called LCUs, each of which carries 175 tons.

A study by the House Armed Services Committee concluded the tilt-rotor aircraft will cost more than $35 million apiece; the CH-53E helicopter, which can carry twice the payload, costs $16 million. The extra speed and range being built into the tilt-rotor make up $15 billion of the total $25 billion cost of this program.

The Marines are buying into a number of hugely expensive and technically risky programs like the tilt-rotor. With these systems, they can range up and down enemy coastlines, jabbing here and there, but the Marines may well be giving up the capability to deliver the body blows of serious war fighting.

Gen. George Patton, no stranger to amphibious operations, once said: "A sparrow can outmaneuver an eagle, but he is not feared. Speed and mobility not linked with fighting capacity are valueless. Wars are won by killing."

Yet it seems the sparrow is the Marine Corps look for the future.

This situation may be perfect for Al Gray. After all, the warrior is the man of bold decision in the face of adversity, and Gray, as "peacetime warrior," is facing monumental problems. His budget is a fiscal Mt. St. Helens, unable to contain the explosive pressures of bills now coming due for costly programs started years ago.

"I don't believe in watering down our requirements," he says, but he's also sending out strong signals that some requirements may be revised. "We're going to look from the bottom up," he says, at the entire Marine Corps, "starting with platoons and companies."

Gray plans to fill the units with people from the bottom up, too. If the Marines fill their need for officers and troops before they get to their big headquarters in Washington, he grins, "that might be a blessing in disguise."

He wants to move with breath-taking speed, bringing all the infantry battalions up to full strength by next summer, adding a fourth rifle company to each battalion as well. Those two actions will put almost 6,000 infantrymen back into the cutting edge.

"We're going back to everybody being an infantryman, too," Gray promises. And he wants extra combat training for all marines, regardless of speciality. "The way we used to do it," he adds.

What else can he do? A number of civilian experts and Marine officers concerned about the future of the corps suggest a few basic actions.

Eliminating unnecessary staffs is near the top of the list. More than half of them are not needed under the most demanding Pentagon plan for the Marine Corps, which calls for the simultaneous employment of an amphibious force and four brigades. Those commitments require only 13 of the 29 regimental and higher-level staffs the Marines now have, leaving 16 of them unemployed.

At one stroke, Gray could cut the headquarters overhead by 55 percent, saving millions of dollars in manpower costs that could be applied elsewhere.

With a quick trip to Europe, Gray can get the weapons that marine infantrymen need to kill tanks. European antitank weapons are generally heavier than their American equivalents, largely because they have bigger warheads. The West Europeans, who live much closer to those 50,000 Soviet tanks, build weapons to kill them.

The Marines don't have to wait years for an improved Dragon, which still exists largely as a "paper" design. The West German Panzerfaust III and the French Apilas, two shoulder-launched rockets now in production, are good for short-range work. For longer-range antitank engagements, the Milan missile, combat-proven in Chad, is available.

The Marines could buy 30 mm. gun pods to strap onto their close support aircraft.

"The gun is the only way to kill tanks in close," says Rep. Denny Smith (R., Ore.), who is prepared to help Gray get the pods. They're cheap at roughly $300,000 each.

For the price of half the Maverick missiles the Marines want to buy, they could buy 30 mm. gun pods for every jet aircraft in the corps. And they'd still have three times the 800 Mavericks they now possess.

Among the corps' friends and critics, there is a nearly universal belief that the Marines have lost focus. Instead of concentrating on the basics, says Smith, "they're trying to capture hardware programs for a bigger budget share."

A number of Pentagon officials, who prefer to remain anonymous, echo those sentiments, citing the "over-the-horizon" landing concept as little more than a technical scenario for justifying expensive new programs like the hovercraft and the tilt-rotor.

The concept that epitomizes what may be the most important problem Gray inherits: the pervasive failure to separate tactical needs from technical wants.

Tactically, the Marines needed a close air support aircraft. Technically, they lusted for the Harrier, a jet that could take off and land vertically. Now, they've got the most vulnerable close air support airplane in the world.

Tactically, the Marines needed lots of landing craft to get to the beach. Technically, they coveted the air-cushion hovercraft, which is quite literally a "helicopter with the roof off." Now they've sacrificed the build-up rate ashore.

Gray appears to be sensitive to these problems. While he remains outwardly committed to the Harrier and the tilt-rotor program, he worries about the pervasive fascination at the staff level with "programmatically forces" instead of real "fighting forces."

However, Gray is also sending out mixed signals to the working level marines who have to translate his reformist zeal into detailed plans and budgets. For example, he wants to buy an assault gun, a form of light tank, which resurrects a weapon that failed miserably in World War II.

When the Marines start sorting out their must-have tactical needs from nice-to-have technical wants, they're likely to discover a lot they can do without.

They just might figure out a way to produce a Marine Corps the country can afford.

If Gray is successful in making the real, the heavy and expensive corps more like the lean, tough, deployable Marine Corps of myth, the Marines will be restored to what he calls "real preparedness."

"Anybody can have a bag full of numbers to look good," he says. "We're going to make sure we have the right people and organizations for combat."

Mr. GRASSLEY. If General Krulak would look from the bottom up, instead of the top down, he would quickly realize that sergeants and lieutenants are needed more than generals.

Mr. President, I will be meeting with General Krulak in the near future to discuss this issue.

I hope we both come away from this meeting with a fresh perspective on what the Marine Corps really needs right now.

Mr. BIDEN addressed the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Delaware.

DECISION BY THE FIRST CIRCUIT COURT OF APPEALS

Mr. BIDEN. Mr. President, I rise this evening to discuss a decision handed down by the First Circuit Court of Appeals, and I will be introducing a bill to correct what I think was a serious mistake the court made.

Mr. President, let me briefly discuss the court's decision. A few months ago, the First Circuit Court of Appeals made, in my view, a serious mistake—a very big mistake. It said that the term "serious bodily injury," a phrase used in one of our Federal statutes, does not include the crime of rape.

Mr. President, let me tell you about this case. One night near midnight, a woman went to her car after work. While she was getting something out of the back seat of her car, a man came up behind her with a knife and forced her into the back seat of her own car. He drove her to a remote beach, ordered her to take off her clothes, made her squat down on her hands and knees, and he raped her. He raped her. After the rape, he drove off in her car, leaving her alone on the side of the road naked.

This man was convicted under the Federal carjacking statute. That statute provides for an enhanced sentence of up to 25 years if the convicted person inflicts serious—the term of art—serious bodily injury.

If he inflicts serious bodily injury in the course of the carjacking, the statute provides for an enhanced sentence, a longer sentence, of up to 25 years.

When this case got to the sentencing phase, after the defendant had been convicted of raping the woman in the manner that I just pointed out, the prosecutor asked the court to enhance the sentence, because under the statute if serious bodily injury occurred, then an additional 25 years was warranted. And the prosecutor reasoned, as I do, that rape constituted serious bodily injury.

The trial judge agreed with the prosecutor and gave the defendant the statutory 25-year maximum, finding that rape constituted serious bodily injury. But when the case went up to the First Circuit Court of Appeals, that court said no. It said, if you can believe it, that rape is not serious bodily injury.

Mr. President, I have spent the bulk of my professional career as a U.S. Senator and prior to that as a lawyer making the case that we do not take seriously enough in this country the crime of rape, and until we do we are not going to be the society we say we wish to be and we are not going to impact upon the injury inflicted on women in this society.

But the Circuit Court of Appeals ruled that rape does not constitute serious bodily injury under our statute. To support its ruling—and I am now quoting the opinion of the First Circuit Court of Appeals—the court said: "There is no evidence of any cuts or bruises in her vaginal area."

I apologize for being so graphic, but that is literally a quote from the court ruling. That, in my view, is absolutely outrageous.

Senator HATCH and I and Congressman CONYERS in the House are going to be offering a bill to set matters straight. Under the U.S. Criminal Code, serious bodily injury has several definitions. It includes a substantial risk of death, protracted and obvious disfigurement, protracted loss or impairment of a bodily part or mental faculty, and it also includes extreme physical pain. It takes no great leap of logic to see that a rape involves extreme physical pain. And I would go so far as to say that only a panel of male judges could fail to make that leap and even think, let alone rule, that rape does not involve extreme pain.

Rape is one of the most brutal and serious crimes any woman can experience. It is a violation of the first order, but it has all too often been treated like a second-class crime. According to a report I issued a few years ago, a robber is 30 percent more likely to be convicted than a rapist. A rape prosecution is more than twice as likely as murder prosecutions to be dismissed. A convicted rapist—and I want to get this straight—is 50 percent more likely to receive probation than a convicted robber. And you tell me that we take this crime we say is one of the most heinous crimes that can be committed by one human being on another seriously?

Look at those statistics. We treat robbery—robbery—more seriously than we do rape. No crime carries a perfect record of arrest, prosecution and incarceration, but the record for rape is especially wanting. The first circuit decision helped explain why, in my opinion. Too often our criminal justice system, as the phrase goes, just doesn't get it when it comes to crimes against women.

I acknowledge men can and have been raped as well, and a similar infliction of pain occurs, but the fact is well over 95 percent of the rapes are rapes of women.

If the first circuit decision stands, it would mean that a criminal would spend more time behind bars for breaking a man's arm than for raping a woman. If a carjacking occurred, and I was the man whose car was carjacked, and in the process of the carjacking my arm was severely broken, for that fellow who was convicted of raping the woman, had he broken my arm, there is no doubt the prosecution's request for an enhanced penalty of 25 years would have been upheld.

Think of that. We have a statute on the books that says you can enhance a penalty to 25 years for carjacking and inflicting serious bodily harm. Had it been a man with a broken arm, that guy would have been in jail for 25 years. But this was a woman who was raped. The court said, no, it does not meet the statutory requirement of serious bodily injury.

For 5 long years, Mr. President, I worked to pass a piece of legislation that I have cared about more than any other thing I have done in my entire Senate career and the thing of which I am most proud. That is the Violence Against Women Act. My staff and I wrote that from scratch. It took a long time to convince our colleagues and administrations, Democrat and Republican, that it was necessary. For 5 long years we worked to pass that law.

The act does a great many practical things. It funds more police and prosecutors specifically trained and devoted to combating rape and family violence. It trains police, prosecutors and judges in the ways of rape and family violence so that they can better understand, as, in my view, the first circuit did not understand, the nature of the problem and how to respond to the problem.

The violence against women legislation provides shelter for more than 60,000 battered women and their children. It provides extra lighting and emergency phones in subways, bus stops and parks because of the nature in which the work force has changed.

The woman sitting behind me who helped author that legislation is here at 9:30 at night. In my mother's generation, there were not many women who left work at 9:30 or 10:30 at night. Today, there are millions and millions, like men, who do, and we recognize the need to protect them better than they have been by providing the most effective—the most effective—crime prevention tool there is: lighting. It provides for more rape crisis centers. It sets up a national hotline that battered women can call around the clock to get advice and counseling.

I am working on the ability for them when they call to also be able to get a lawyer who will handle their case pro bono—for free—and help guide them through the system. They were getting rape education efforts going with our young people so we can break the cycle of violence that begets violence.

I might note parenthetically, one of the reasons I wrote this legislation initially, the Violence Against Women Act, is that I came across an incredible study, a poll done in the State of Rhode Island, of, I think, seventh, eighth and ninth graders. I am not certain, to be honest. I think seventh, eighth and ninth graders.

It asks, in the poll conducted, the survey, "If a man spends $10 on a woman, is he entitled to force sex on her if she refuses?" An astounding 30-some percent of the young men answering the question said, "Yes." But do you know what astounded me more? Mr. President, 25 percent of the young girls said "yes" as well. We have a cultural problem here that crosses lines of race, religion, ethnicity, and income. We just do not take seriously enough the battering of our women—our women, is the way our friends like to say it—of women in this country. This is especially true when it comes to victims who know their assailants. For too long we have been quick to call these private misfortunes rather than public disgraces.

The Violence Against Women Act also meant to do something else beyond the concrete measures that I mentioned. It also sent a clarion call across the land that crimes against women will no longer be treated as second-class crimes. For too long the victims of these crimes have been seen, not as innocent targets of brutality, but as participants who somehow bear some shame or even some responsibility for the violence inflicted upon them.

As I said, this is especially true when it comes to victims who know their assailants. For too long we have been quick to call theirs a private misfortune rather than a public disgrace. We viewed the crime as less than criminal, the abuser less than culpable, and the victim as less than worthy of justice.

In my own State of Delaware, until recently, if a man raped a woman he did not know, he was eligible, if he brutally did it, to be convicted of first-degree rape. But do you know what? We had a provision in our law, and many States had similar provisions, that said if the woman knew the man, if the woman was the social companion of the man, then he could only be tried for second-degree rape, the inference being that somehow she must have invited something because she knew him, she went out with him.

It seems to me we have to remain ever vigilant in our efforts to make our streets and our neighborhoods and our homes safer for all people, but in this case particularly for women. We need to make sure right now that no judge ever misreads the carjacking statute again and undermines the overwhelming purpose of my legislation in the first place, which was to change the psyche of this Nation about how we are to deal with the brutal act of rape. It is not a sex crime, it is an act of violence, a violent act.

Now, one of the most respected courts in the Nation has come down and said it does not constitute serious bodily injury. So, Mr. President, we need to make sure right now that no judge ever misreads the carjacking statute again. We need to tell them what we intend, what we always intended, that the words "serious bodily injury" mean rape, no ifs, ands, or buts. The legislation, a bill to be introduced by myself and Senator HATCH and others, does just that. It says, and I will read from one section:

Section 2119(2) of title 18, United States Code, is amended by inserting "including any conduct that, if the conduct occurred in the special maritime or territorial jurisdiction of the United States, would violate section 2241 or 2242 of this title" after "(as defined in section 1365 of this title)".

Translated into everyday English it means, serious bodily injury means rape. No judge will be able to, no matter how—I should not editorialize. No judge in the future, once we pass this legislation, will be able ever again to say that serious bodily injury does not include rape.

I thank Senator HATCH, and I would like to particularly thank Demetra Lambros, who is sitting behind me, a woman lawyer on my staff who worked with Representative CONYERS' staff to write this legislation, for the effort she has made and for calling this to my attention. I also thank Senator HATCH, who has always been supportive and very involved in this, and his staff, and Congressman CONYERS, the ranking member of the House Judiciary Committee.

I am confident if every Member—this is presumptuous for me to say, Mr. President—but as every Member of the Senate becomes aware of what this does, I cannot imagine there is anyone here or anyone in the House who will not support it.

I thank the Chair. I realize the hour is late. I thank the Chair for indulging me. Tomorrow, hopefully, we will be in a position to bring this legislation up and pass it.

I yield the floor.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senator from Iowa.

MORNING BUSINESS

Mr. GRASSLEY. Mr. President, for our distinguished majority leader, I make the following request. I ask unanimous consent that there now be a period for the transaction of morning business, with Senators permitted to speak for up to 5 minutes each.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Without objection, it is so ordered.

MARITIME SECURITY PROGRAM

Mr. LOTT. Mr. President, I have always been a strong supporter of the U.S.-flag merchant marine, and America's maritime industry. That is why, last year I introduced the Maritime Security Act of 1995. This bill is the product of nearly a decade of bipartisan and bicameral effort. It will reform, streamline, and reduce Federal support for the U.S.-flag merchant marine, while at the same time revitalizing our U.S.-flag fleet.

The starting point for the Maritime Security Program is the simple and valid premise that America's merchant marine is a vital component of our military sealift capability.

Thus, in order to protect our military presence overseas, we must have a modern, efficient, and reliable sealift. On this point, the assessment of our Nation's top military leaders is unequivocal. Our military needs a U.S.-flag merchant marine to carry supplies to our troops overseas. We cannot, in fact, we must not, rely on foreign ships and foreign crews to deliver supplies into hostile areas.

Just recently I receive a letter from Adm. Thomas Moorer, the former Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Rear Adm. Robert Spiro, a former Under Secretary of the Army. They both enthusiastically endorsed the legislation. I have added this letter to a stack of letters sitting on my desk from many other distinguished military leaders who also have strongly backed the Maritime Security Act.

Not long ago, I also received endorsements of the Maritime Security Act from the Honorable John P. White, the current Deputy Secretary of Defense, and the Honorable John W. Douglass, the current Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Research, Development and Acquisition.

I also have received numerous letters from members of the Navy League of the United States.

Clearly, there is visible support from both the active and retired military community for the recognized value of this program.

The Maritime Security Act will ensure that our Nation will continue to have access to both a fleet of militarily useful U.S.-flag commercial vessels, and a cadre of trained and loyal U.S.-citizen crews. What's more, under this bill our military planners will gain access to the onshore logistical and intermodal capabilities of these U.S.-flag vessel operators. Instead of just getting a ship, our military gets access to port facilities worldwide, state-of-the-art computer tracking systems, intermodal loading and transfer equipment, and so on. And our Nation get these benefits for less than half the cost of the current program.

This is both a fiscal and national security bargain.

Let me make this point clear. This is not a blanket handout to the maritime industry. To participate in the Maritime Security Program, each vessel must be approved by the Secretary of Defense. And participation is limited to vessels actively engaged in the international maritime trades.

Make no mistake about it—without it the American maritime flag will disappear from the high seas. The U.S.-flag merchant marine that has helped to sustain this country in peace and has served with bravery and honor in wartime will be gone.

I don't believe that any American wants that day to come.

Provisions of this bill have been considered and discussed in nearly 50 public hearings in either the House or the Senate. These hearings were full and open. All interested parties, both for and against this approach, have had notice and opportunity to make comments, criticisms and corrections. In 9 years, this inclusive process has insured the incorporation of all valid provisions into a balanced and responsible public policy which advances and revitalizes an integral segment of America's economy and culture. This inclusive process is reflected in the deep respect and support for this legislation across a wide political and social spectrum.

The House passed the bill in December on a voice vote, with overwhelming and loud bipartisan support. I have been told that the President intends to sign this bill promptly after its final passage here in the Senate.

Mr. President, the Senate has a responsibility to provide for the Nation's defense. And this bill represents the most cost-effective way to make sure that our military has the sealift capabilities it needs to protect our interests around the world. It marks a dramatic departure from our previous maritime programs. The entitlements are gone, and they have been replaced by a vigorous fiscal discipline and dynamic marketplace.

Mr. President, I urge all of my colleagues to stand with me in support of this legislation when it comes to the floor.

Mr. President, this is a bill we must pass before this Congress goes into recess for this fall's elections. It is my hope that the Senate will consider the Maritime Security Act on the floor in September.

THE VERY BAD DEBT BOXSCORE

Mr. HELMS. Mr. President, four years ago when I commenced these daily reports to the Senate I wanted to make a matter of daily record the exact Federal debt as of the close of business the previous day.

In my first report on February 27, 1992, the Federal debt the previous day stood at $3,825,891,293,066.80, at the close of business. The Federal debt has, of course, shot further into the stratosphere since then. (At the close of business yesterday, Monday, July 29, an additional $1,356,563,675,813.41 had been added to the Federal debt since February 26, 1992.)

That means, Mr. President, that the exact Federal debt stood yesterday at $5,182,454,968,880.21, which on a per capita basis means that every man, woman, and child in America owes $19,527.65 as his or her share of the Federal debt.

STATEMENTS ON INTRODUCED BILLS AND JOINT RESOLUTIONS

By Mr. COATS (for himself, Mr. STEVENS, Mr. NICKLES, Mr. ABRAHAM, Mr. DEWINE, Mr. COVERDELL and Mr. FAIRCLOTH):

S. 2000. A bill to make certain laws applicable to the Executive Office of the President, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Governmental Affairs.

THE PRESIDENTIAL AND EXECUTIVE OFFICE ACCOUNTABILITY ACT

Mr. COATS. All Members of this body remember early in this Congress we introduced and passed into law the Congressional Accountability Act which applied the various civil rights and labor laws that are currently applicable to employers and employees throughout America's workplaces, and applied this same restrictions to Members of Congress.

For too long we had exempted ourselves from the laws and regulations that we had imposed on virtually every other business operation in America. There were only a couple of workplaces that were exempted: The Labor Standards Act, the Civil Rights Act of 1964, the Americans With Disability Act, and the other items that we discussed. Those institutions were the U.S. Congress and the executive branch, in particular, the White House. We remedied that, partially, for the Congress with the adoption of the Congressional Accountability Act.

Now, these 11 specific items apply to Members of Congress as well as to the private sector. I think what we are learning is that some of these laws are good, some of these laws are applicable to what we do, but some of them are overly burdensome and overly restrictive and therefore need to be examined. Because they apply to us as they apply to everyone else, we feel that burden, and perhaps we can be reasonable when we examine these to determine whether or not reforms are needed.

This act would apply these same provisions that now apply to Congress and virtually every other workplace in the country, to the White House. This legislation, which I send to the desk for referral, was originally cosponsored by Senator STEVENS, as well as other Members including Senators NICKLES, ABRAHAM, DEWINE, COVERDELL, and FAIRCLOTH.

Mr. President, today I send to the desk a bill designed to eliminate a dubious double standard that remains in the application of our civil rights and labor protection laws.

Last year, this Congress passed the Congressional Accountability Act, requiring Congress to live under the laws it passes—and oftentimes imposes—on the rest of the Nation. Now that the Congressional Accountability Act is the law of the land, only one workplace in America remains exempt from our Nation's laws and regulations. In just one place of employment, workers do not enjoy the rights and protections afforded to all other Americans. That one place is the White House, and it's time for the White House to join the rest of the United States in living under the civil rights and labor laws governing the rest of the Nation.

For decades, Congress callously exempted itself from rules and regulations it was passing for the rest of the country. Many of us had supported the Congressional Accountability Act for years, but were thwarted in our efforts. Finally, when—for the first time in 40 years—Republicans gained control of Congress, we wasted little time and passed the Congressional Accountability Act into law.

I remain in strong support of the principle that Congress should not be exempt from the laws that apply to all other Americans, and because of the Congressional Accountability Act, Congress now is living under 11 different labor and civil rights laws from which it had previously exempted itself. I continue to believe that this is a simple issue of fundamental fairness. Congress should live under the laws it passes for everyone else. In doing so, lawmakers will learn first hand which laws work, and perhaps more often than not, which laws are overly intrusive and burdensome.

These lessons also would be appropriate for the White House, since under President Clinton the Federal Register of Government regulations now totals about 65,000 pages, the largest number in more than 15 years. Despite President Clinton's stated concerns for the working men and women of this country, the White House continues to exempt itself from the laws and regulations covering the rest of the country, including Congress and all private businesses.

For example, because of this privileged loophole, the White House does not have to abide by the minimum wage or the Family Medical Leave Act or the overtime requirements of the Fair Labor Standards Act or several of the other civil rights and labor laws that apply to all other Americans. I think America's labor leaders will agree with me when I say that employees of the White House should be protected by the same laws that the President approves for the rest of the country. Employees should have the same rights and protections regardless of where they work—whether the individual labors in the private sector, the Congress, and yes, even in the White House.

There are some in the White House who argue that this legislation is unnecessary because the White House voluntarily complies with the spirit of many of these laws. Mr. President, I argue that voluntary compliance is not good enough. How many private sector companies are allowed to voluntarily comply with the laws of the land? The answer is zero, and the White House should not be an exception.

The Congressional Accountability Act, and the proposed White House Accountability Act, give employees of these two branches of Government the same rights as any other citizen to go into a court of law and have their case heard by a jury of their peers. White House employees should not have to depend on the benevolence or arbitrary good will of a supervisor to ensure that they are not taken advantage of, sexually harassed, or otherwise dealt with in an inappropriate and possibly illegal manner. They deserve the right to be free from discrimination, the right to work in a safe and healthy work environment, the right not to be fired simply because of race, sex, disability, or age. White House workers deserve the same rights and protections that every other American enjoys in the private sector, and now in the U.S. Congress.

The White House Accountability Act also would be good policy for senior management and administrators. White House policy makers and their staffs would gain a first-hand understanding of the laws they propose and enact. Perhaps the White House will find, as many in Congress have been forced to learn, that some of the laws we pass are good, some do not go far enough and need to be strengthened, or—and this is too often the case—that many of the regulations imposed on the Nation by the Federal bureaucracy in Washington are onerous and in serious need of reform.

Writing in the Federalist Papers, James Madison instructed us that no branch of Government is above the law. Madison wrote, "Congress can make no law which will not have its full operation on themselves and their friends, as well as on the great mass of society."

Because of the Congressional Accountability Act, Federal laws and regulations now apply from our Nation's assembly lines to our Nation's general assembly. When President Clinton was inaugurated, he called the White House, "the people's house." It's time he backed up that statement by letting his workers in the White House enjoy the same civil rights and labor protections enjoyed by the rest of the people in whose house they serve.

By Mr. PELL:

S. 2001. A bill to amend the Job Training Partnership Act to improve the definition relating to eligible dislocated workers, and for other purposes; to the Committee on Labor and Human Resources.

THE FISHERMEN AS DISLOCATED WORKERS ACT

Mr. PELL. Mr. President, I am introducing legislation today that amends the Job Training Partnership Act [JTPA] to improve the definition of eligible dislocated workers. The legislation defines "dislocated worker" as any employee who "has become unemployed as a result of a Federal action that limits the use of, or restricts access to, a marine natural resource."

This language is directed at fishermen. In Rhode Island, as well as many other coastal States, customarily the crew members of fishing boats are not paid but are given a share of the day's catch. Unfortunately, this means they are neither employees of the boat nor self-employed.

Fishing has always been a difficult occupation. But now, with a declining supply, Government efforts to restore the population of various species of fish by limiting or closing access to fishing grounds, and the need to close large portions of our coastal waters after oil spills and other environmental disasters, fishermen are leaving port less and, when they do, catching less.

Some months ago, I received a letter from a Rhode Island fisherman who realized that fishing would no longer be able to support the demands of his growing family. He had, therefore, selected a new occupation—he wants to be a cabinetmaker—and on his own, he had located and been accepted into a training program. His only problem? Financial assistance.

Because he is technically not unemployed, the present system is of no help to him. My legislation would correct that unfortunate inequity.

I originally offered and had accepted a similar version of this legislation in the Labor and Human Resources Committee as an amendment to S. 143, the Workforce Development Act. Regrettably, the House-Senate work force development conference committee has only just finished its work under a cloud of partisanship and disagreement and I very much doubt any further action will take place during this Congress.

I do not believe the commercial fishermen in Galilee, RI, should suffer because of the failure of a conference committee in Washington, DC. I have, therefore, drafted this legislation.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that the text of the bill be printed in the RECORD.

There being no objection, the bill was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

S. 2001

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. DEFINITION.

Section 301(a)(1) of the Job Training Partnership Act (29 U.S.C. 1651(a)(1)) is amended—

(1) in subparagraph (C), by striking "; or" and inserting a semicolon;

(2) in subparagraph (D), by striking the period and inserting "; or"; and

(3) by adding at the end the following:

"(E) have become unemployed as a result of a Federal action that limits the use of, or restricts access to, a marine natural resource."

By Ms. SNOWE:

S. 2002. A bill to amend title 18, United States Code, to prohibit taking a child hostage in order to evade arrest; to the Committee on the Judiciary.

CRIME LEGISLATION

• Ms. SNOWE. Mr. President, over the past few years, America has witnessed an unfortunate trend involving standoffs between the U.S. Government and parties who reject its authority to enforce the laws of this land—specifically, the incidents in Waco, TX; Ruby Ridge, ID; and Garfield County, MT. Thankfully, the most recent episode involving the Freemen did not escalate to violence or bloodshed. Regrettably, this does not hold true for Waco or Ruby Ridge, where there was a tragic loss of life to civilians and Government agents alike.

Each of these situations jeopardized children's lives—innocent children who had no choice in the role they played in these standoffs. In Waco, 25 young children under the age of 15 died in the blaze that spread throughout the compound. These deaths occurred despite the repeated efforts by Federal agents to encourage Branch Davidians leaders to allow children to leave the compound.

At Ruby Ridge, a 14-year-old died after being caught in gunfire. And during the Freemen standoff, Americans across the Nation held their breath—praying that violence would not erupt. Once again, the lives of children were placed in jeopardy. But thankfully, this time, the children—and adults—emerged unharmed.

As we have seen, tragedy can occur in these very tense situations. Above all else, we need to ensure that children are kept out of these situations in the future. People who arm themselves after failing to comply with warrants or because they seek to avoid arrest must realize that, whether or not it is intended, children are implicated in these standoffs. We cannot allow this to continue any longer. We cannot allow another child's life to be endangered in this manner.

Today, I am introducing a bill which seeks to protect children from harm in these standoff situations. My bill would make it a crime to detain a child when two conditions are met: if a person is trying to evade arrest or avoid complying with a warrant, and that person uses force, or threatens to use force, against a Federal agent. Any person convicted of violating this act would be imprisoned for 10–25 years. If a child is injured, the penalty would be increased to 20–35 years. If a child is killed, the penalty would be life imprisonment.

No law can ever assure that children will be kept free from harm. But this legislation will help assure that children do not become inadvertent, innocent pawns when violent situations arise. It will provide a deterrent to involving a child in any standoff—and severe penalties for those who ignore the law.

Tense standoffs between Federal law enforcement officers and hostile fugitives are no place for children. This bill will help encourage the removal of innocent children from such dangerous situations. As a nation, we should not tolerate the use of children as pawns or human shields when people choose to evade the laws of this land. I hope my colleagues support this important piece of legislation. •

By Mr. EXON:

S. 2003. A bill to amend the Armored Car Industry Reciprocity Act of 1993 to clarify certain requirements and to improve the flow of interstate commerce; to the Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation.

THE ARMORED CAR INDUSTRY RECIPROcity IMPROVEMENT ACT

Mr. EXON, Mr. President, I introduce legislation known as the Armored Car Industry Reciprocity Improvement Act. This legislation is a companion measure to H.R. 3431 which has unanimously passed in the House of Representatives. It is my hope that this bill which makes a slight modification to its companion can be taken up and swiftly passed this year to safely expand the benefits of the Armored Car Reciprocity Act of 1993 which I introduced in the U.S. Senate. The 1993 law which had support from law enforcement, public safety and armored car industry advocates replaced a patch work of State laws with a common sense, pro-safety, pro-interstate commerce approach to weapons registration, background checks and training for armored car crew members.

The amendments to the 1993 law build on what was learned since 1993 and will make the reciprocal benefits of the law available to more States. The net result will be better screened, better qualified and better trained armored car crews.

The armored car is one of the most overlooked instrumentalities of interstate commerce. Without the ability to safely and securely move currency, securities, food stamps, gold and other valuables, interstate commerce would be impossible.

I am pleased to introduce this legislation which I encourage the U.S. Senate to overwhelmingly endorse. It is a tribute to the success of the 1993 law.

ADDITIONAL STATEMENTS

TRIBUTE TO DR. WILLIAM WHEELER, NEW HAMPSHIRE'S SUPERINTENDENT OF THE YEAR

• Mr. SMITH. Mr. President, I rise today to pay tribute to Dr. William Wheeler for receiving New Hampshire's Superintendent of the Year Award. William has served his schools with pride and dedication, always putting the best interests of New Hampshire's children first. As a former teacher and school board chairman myself, I am proud to congratulate him for receiving this prestigious award.

William received his doctorate in education from the University of Wyoming and has been a teacher, high school principal, and assistant superintendent of schools. He is currently superintendent of school in School Administrative Unit No. 38, which serves the Monadnock Regional, Hinsdale, and Winchester Schools District. In addition, he also serves as president of the New Hampshire Schools Administrators Association. William's colleagues have always been impressed with his focus and commitment to the communities he serves.

William was selected as New Hampshire's Superintendent of the Year for his leadership, communication skills, professionalism, and community involvement. He is a leader and an educator tireless in his commitment to children and community. William's efforts on behalf of New Hampshire public school children have been praised by many including the New Hampshire School Boards Association, the director of the New Hampshire School Administrator's Association, New Hampshire's Education Commissioner, and the vice president of the New Hampshire Business and Industry Association.

Our Nation's children are our future and one of our greatest treasures. Our educators have been entrusted with the care and development of these young minds and are the guardians of this treasure. As superintendent, William has done an excellent job coordinating the schools in his care. His outstanding performance is reflected in the quality of the schools in his district and the respect and admiration he has earned from fellow educators. I commend William Wheeler for a career of distinction in the field of education. New Hampshire is fortunate to have such a talented and dedicated educator devoted to our children. •

SELMA JEAN COHEN

• Ms. MIKULSKI. Mr. President, I would like to call to the attention of my colleagues the life of Selma Jean Cohen, a native Marylander who dedicated her life to caring for ill and handicapped children and adults. Mrs. Cohen passed away on July 2 at the age of 75.

Mrs. Cohen was born Selma Jean Lattin and graduated from Forest Park High School in 1930. She married Leonard Cohen in 1942, and had two sons. While raising her children, Selma Cohen was very active in her community. She was the PTA president at Louisa May Alcott Elementary School, as well as the Cub Scout den mother and president of her synagogue sisterhood.

After raising her children, Selma Cohen served as the Maryland State Health Department Director of Nursing Home Bed Registry for 25 years, finding nursing home beds for seniors and the ill across Maryland. Mrs. Cohen was instrumental in bringing nursing home quality and safety concerns to the attention of authorities. She also volunteered her time at the Levindale Hebrew Geriatric Center and Hospital.

As a volunteer manager at the Baltimore Ronald McDonald House for 10 years, Selma Cohen worked with families who had children in the hospital for serious illnesses. She also volunteered at Mount Washington Pediatric Hospital. Mrs. Cohen is remembered for the tremendous joy and fulfillment she derived from working with children and the way she cared for them as though they were her own.

Despite her long battle with cancer, Mrs. Cohen never lost her cheerful outlook, her sense of humor or her great zest for life. In fact, two days before her death, she was asking how her favorite team, the Baltimore Orioles, was doing.

I know my colleagues join me in paying tribute to Mrs. Cohen's many years of service to our community. Mrs. Cohen was a great mother, a great wife, a great advocate for seniors and children and a great Marylander. •

TRIBUTE TO OLYMPIAN JENNY THOMPSON

• Mr. SMITH. Mr. President, I rise today to pay tribute to Jenny Thompson of Dover, NH, for three gold medal performances at the 1996 summer Olympic games in Atlanta. Jenny's outstanding performances in women's swimming relay events are a tremendous achievement. She has made the Granite State very proud of her Olympic success.

Jenny swam the anchor leg in the women's 400 and 800 meter freestyle relays, setting American and Olympic records in both races. In addition, she swam in the qualifying round of the 400-meter medley relay to launch the team to gold in the final. With her three outstanding performances, Jenny proved herself a team player, giving so much of herself to the team's quest for a gold medal. The U.S. swimming team brought home its sixth straight relay gold medal, winning all of the relays that have been contested.

Jenny is a graduate of Dover High School where she swam and ran cross country track. She subsequently attended Stanford University, graduating in 1995, and began working with her current coach in California. In the 1992 Olympic games in Barcelona, Jenny won two gold medals and one silver medal. She has held American and world records in the 100 meter freestyle and an American record in the 100-yard freestyle. She was named the U.S. swimmer of the year after winning five national titles, eight NCAA titles, and six Pan-Pacific titles and is also a 12-time U.S. national champion. In 1995, she won the 100-meter freestyle and 100-meter butterfly at the world championships despite breaking her arm. At the young age of 23, Jenny now ties skater Bonnie Blair as the American woman with the highest number of Olympic gold medals.

The Olympic games are the crowning achievement of an athlete's career—the best meet the best from around the world. Years of training culminate in just a few weeks of competition in which dreams are fulfilled, records are broken, and champions are made. Jenny is one such champion with her three gold medals and two Olympic records. Dover will welcome their hometown girl as she returns on August 10 with a celebration and, appropriately, the dedication of a swimming pool in her name.

Jenny has proven herself an athlete and a winner. She has the admiration and pride of the New Hampshire seacoast and we are indeed proud of her. It is with pride that I congratulate the women's relay teams and our shining New Hampshire star, Jenny Thompson. •

CONGRATULATING MAC VAN HORN

• Mr. BUMPERS. Mr. President, on August 27, 1996, the Industrial Developers of Arkansas will honor Mac Van Horn as their Developer of the Year.

Mac Van Horn has been the backbone of industrial development for the past 25 years in Russellville, AR. Owner of a local construction firm involved in residential and commercial development, Mac began work as a cheerleader for development in the early 1970's. He began to attend seminars, visited Arkansas Industrial Development Commission project managers, and others and learned all the things that were important to industrial recruitment.

He was such a good student of industrial recruitment techniques that two Arkansas Governors placed him on the Arkansas Industrial Development Commission where he served faithfully for 15 years.

In the past 5 years, Mac and others on the Russellville Industrial Contact Team have recruited five new companies to the Arkansas River Valley. Fasco Industries, Inc., Alumax Foils, Inc., Bardcor Corp., CarMar Freezers, and Amarillo Gear Company have all chosen to locate in Russellville.

Mac combines his knowledge of industrial development recruitment and home cooking since he invites prospective company officials into his home when they visit to lure industry to Pope County.

Mac plans to retire soon from these endeavors. His leadership, years of experience and expertise, and his skills as a negotiator will be missed on the Russellville Industrial Contact Team.

This award is most deserved and I want to join in congratulating Mac Van Horn for his tireless service to the community he loves. •

Our educators have been entrusted with one of our Nation's greatest treasures, our children. They, as the guardians of this treasure, care for and ensure the development of these young minds. Throughout his career in education, Robert has done an excellent job looking out for the welfare of those in his care. SEC. 2. DECLARATION OF POLICY TO RENEW AMERICAN NEIGHBORHOODS.

The Congress hereby declares that—

(1) the Federal Government has a responsibility to promote the general welfare of the Nation—

(A) by using Federal resources to aid families and individuals seeking affordable homes that are safe, clean, and healthy and, in particular, assisting responsible, deserving citizens who cannot provide fully for themselves because of temporary circumstances or factors beyond their control;

(B) by working to ensure a thriving national economy and a strong private housing market; and

(C) by developing effective partnerships among the Federal Government, State and local governments, and private entities that allow government to accept responsibility for fostering the development of a healthy marketplace and allow families to prosper without government involvement in their day-to-day activities;

(2) the Federal Government cannot through its direct action alone provide for the housing of every American citizen, or even a majority of its citizens, but it is the responsibility of the Government to promote and protect the independent and collective actions of private citizens to develop housing and strengthen their own neighborhoods;

(3) the Federal Government should act where there is a serious need that private citizens or groups cannot or are not addressing responsibly;

(4) housing is a fundamental and necessary component of bringing true opportunity to people and communities in need, but providing physical structures to house low-income families will not by itself pull generations up from poverty;

(5) it is a goal of our Nation that all citizens have decent and affordable housing; and

(6) our Nation should promote the goal of providing decent and affordable housing for all citizens through the efforts and encouragement of Federal, State, and local governments, and by promoting and protecting the independent and collective actions of private citizens, organizations, and the private sector to develop housing and strengthen their own neighborhoods.

TITLE I—GENERAL PROVISIONS

SEC. 101. STATEMENT OF PURPOSE.

The purpose of this Act is to promote safe, clean, and healthy housing that is affordable to low-income families, and thereby contribute to the supply of affordable housing, by—

(1) deregulating and decontrolling public housing agencies, which in this Act are referred to as "local housing and management authorities", and thereby enable them to perform as property and asset managers;

(2) providing for more flexible use of Federal assistance to local housing and management authorities, allowing the authorities to leverage and combine assistance amounts with amounts obtained from other sources;

(3) facilitating mixed income communities;
(4) increasing accountability and rewarding effective management of local housing and management authorities;

(5) creating incentives and economic opportunities for residents of dwelling units assisted by local housing and management authorities to work, become self-sufficient, and transition out of public housing and federally assisted dwelling units;

(6) recreating the existing rental assistance voucher program so that the use of vouchers and relationships between landlords and tenants under the program operate in a manner that more closely resembles the private housing market; and

(7) remedying troubled local housing and management authorities and replacing or revitalizing severely distressed public housing developments.

(2) EFFECT OF FAILURE TO EXEMPT FROM TAXATION.—Notwithstanding paragraph (1), a local housing and management authority that does not comply with the requirements under such paragraph may receive a block grant under this title, but only if the State, city, county, or other political subdivision in which the development is situated contributes, in the form of cash or tax remission, the amount by which the taxes paid with respect to the development exceed 10 percent of the gross rent and utility cost charged in the development.

(E) have an estimate cost of continued operation and modernization as public housing that exceeds the cost of providing choice-based rental assistance under title III for all families in occupancy, based on appropriate indicators of cost (such as the percentage of the total development cost required for modernization).

Local housing and management agencies shall identify properties that meet the definition of subparagraphs (A) through (E).

(2) USE OF OTHER AMOUNTS.—In addition to grant amounts under this title attributable (pursuant to the formulas under section 204) to the building or buildings identified under paragraph (1), the Secretary may use amounts provided in appropriation Acts for choice-based housing assistance under title III for families residing in such building or buildings or for appropriate site revitalization or other appropriate capital improvements approved by the Secretary.

(6) USE OF BUDGET AUTHORITY.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, if a building or buildings are identified pursuant to paragraph (1), the Secretary may authorize or direct the transfer, to the choice-based or tenant-based assistance program of such authority or to appropriate site revitalization or other capital improvements approved by the Secretary, of—

(A) in the case of an authority receiving assistance under the comprehensive improvement assistance program, any amounts obligated by the Secretary for the modernization of such building or buildings pursuant to section 14 of the United States Housing Act of 1937, as in effect immediately before the date of enactment of this Act;

This subsection may not be construed to preclude changes or amendments to the plan, as authorized under section 108(e) or any actions authorized by this Act to be taken without regard to a local housing management plan.

SEC. 204. DETERMINATION OF GRANT ALLOCATION.

(a) IN GENERAL.—For each fiscal year, after reserving amounts under section 112 from the aggregate amount made available for the fiscal year for carrying out this title, the Secretary shall allocate any remaining amounts among eligible local housing and management authorities in accordance with this section, so that the sum of all of the allocations for all eligible authorities is equal to such remaining amount.

(b) ALLOCATION AMOUNT.—The Secretary shall determine the amount of the allocation for each eligible local housing and management authority, which shall be—

(1) for any fiscal year beginning after the enactment of a law containing the formulas described in paragraphs (1) and (2) of subsection

(c), the amount determined under such formulas; or

(2) for any fiscal year beginning before the expiration of such period, the sum of—

(A) the operating allocation determined under subsection (d)(1) for the authority; and

(B) the capital improvement allocation determined under subsection (d)(2) for the authority.

(C) PERMANENT ALLOCATION FORMULAS FOR CAPITAL AND OPERATING FUNDS.—

(1) ESTABLISHMENT OF CAPITAL FUND FORMULA.—The formula under this paragraph shall provide for allocating assistance under the capital fund for a fiscal year. The formula may take into account such factors as—

(A) the number of public housing dwelling units owned or operated by the local housing and management authority, the characteristics and locations of the developments, and the characteristics of the families served and to be served (including the incomes of the families);

(B) the need of the local housing and management authority to carry out rehabilitation and modernization activities, and reconstruction, production, and demolition activities related to public housing dwelling units owned or operated by the local housing and management authority, including backlog and projected future needs of the authority;

(C) the cost of constructing and rehabilitating property in the area; and

(D) the need of the local housing and management authority to carry out activities that provide a safe and secure environment in public housing units owned or operated by the local housing and management authority.

(2) ESTABLISHMENT OF OPERATING FUND FORMULA.—The formula under this paragraph shall provide for allocating assistance under the operating fund for a fiscal year. The formula may take into account such factors as—

(A) standards for the costs of operating and reasonable projections of income, taking into account the characteristics and locations of the public housing developments and characteristics of the families served and to be served (including the incomes of the families), or the costs of providing comparable services as determined in accordance with criteria or a formula representing the operations of a prototype well-managed public housing development;

(B) the number of public housing dwelling units owned or operated by the local housing and management authority; and

(C) the need of the local housing and management authority to carry out anti-crime and anti-drug activities, including providing adequate security for public housing residents.

(3) DEVELOPMENT UNDER NEGOTIATED RULEMAKING PROCEDURE.—The formulas under this subsection shall be developed according to procedures for issuance of regulations under the negotiated rulemaking procedure under subchapter III of chapter 5 of title 5, United States Code, except that the formulas shall not be contained in a regulation.

(4) REPORT.—Not later than the expiration of the 18-month period beginning upon the enactment of this Act, the Secretary shall submit a report to the Congress containing the proposed formulas established pursuant to paragraph (3) that meets the requirements of this subsection.

(d) INTERIM ALLOCATION REQUIREMENTS.—

(1) OPERATING ALLOCATION.—

(A) APPLICABILITY TO 50 PERCENT OF APPROPRIATED AMOUNTS.—Of any amounts available for allocation under this subsection for a fiscal year, 50 percent shall be used only to provide amounts for operating allocations under this paragraph for eligible local housing and management authorities.

(B) DETERMINATION.—The operating allocation under this subsection for a local housing and management authority for a fiscal year shall be an amount determined by applying, to the amount to be allocated under this paragraph, the formula used for determining the distribution of operating subsidies for fiscal year 1995 to public housing agencies (as modified under subparagraph (C)) under section 9 of the United States Housing Act of 1937, as in effect before the enactment of this Act.

(C) TREATMENT OF CHRONICALLY VACANT UNITS.—The Secretary shall revise the formula referred to in subparagraph (B) so that the formula does not provide any amounts, other than utility costs and other necessary costs (such as costs necessary for the protection of persons and property), attributable to any dwelling unit of a local housing and management authority that has been vacant continuously for 6 or more months. A unit shall not be considered vacant for purposes of this paragraph if the unit is unoccupied because of rehabilitation or renovation that is on-schedule.

(D) INCREASES IN INCOME.—The Secretary may revise the formula referred to in subparagraph (B) to provide an incentive to encourage local housing and management authorities to increase nonrental income and to increase rental income attributable to their units by encouraging occupancy by families with a broad range of incomes, including families whose incomes have increased while in occupancy and newly admitted families. Any such incentive shall provide that the local housing and management authority shall derive the full benefit of an increase in nonrental income, and such increase shall not directly result in a decrease in amounts provided to the authority under this title.

(2) CAPITAL IMPROVEMENT ALLOCATION.—

(A) APPLICABILITY TO 50 PERCENT OF APPROPRIATED AMOUNTS.—Of any amounts available for allocation under this subsection for a fiscal year, 50 percent shall be used only to provide amounts for capital improvement allocations under this paragraph for eligible local housing and management authorities.

(B) DETERMINATION.—The capital improvement allocation under this subsection for an eligible local housing and management authority for a fiscal year shall be determined by applying, to the amount to be allocated under this paragraph, the formula used for determining the distribution of modernization assistance for fiscal year 1995 to public housing agencies under section 14 of the United States Housing Act of 1937, as in effect before the enactment of this Act, except that Secretary shall establish a method for taking into consideration allocation of amounts under the comprehensive improvement assistance program.

(e) ELIGIBILITY OF UNITS ACQUIRED FROM PROCEEDS OF SALES UNDER DEMOLITION OR DISPOSITION PLAN.—If a local housing and management authority uses proceeds from the sale of units under a homeownership program in accordance with section 251 to acquire additional units to be sold to low-income families, the additional units shall be counted as public housing for purposes of determining the amount of the allocation to the authority under this section until sale by the authority, but in any case no longer than 5 years.

SEC. 205. SANCTIONS FOR IMPROPER USE OF AMOUNTS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—In addition to any other actions authorized under this title, if the Secretary finds pursuant to an annual financial and performance audit under section 432 that a local housing and management authority receiving grant amounts under this title has failed to comply substantially with any provision of this title, the Secretary may—

(1) terminate payments under this title to the authority;

(2) withhold from the authority amounts from the total allocation for the authority pursuant to section 204;

(3) reduce the amount of future grant payments under this title to the authority by an amount equal to the amount of such payments that were not expended in accordance with this title;

(4) limit the availability of grant amounts provided to the authority under this title to programs, projects, or activities not affected by such failure to comply;

(5) withhold from the authority amounts allocated for the authority under title III; or

(6) order other corrective action with respect to the authority.

(b) TERMINATION OF COMPLIANCE ACTION.—If the Secretary takes action under subsection (a) with respect to a local housing and management authority, the Secretary shall—

(1) in the case of action under subsection (a)(1), resume payments of grant amounts under this title to the authority in the full amount of the total allocation under section 204 for the authority at the time that the Secretary first determines that the authority will comply with the provisions of this title;

(2) in the case of action under paragraph (2), (5), or (6) of subsection (a), make withheld amounts available as the Secretary considers appropriate to ensure that the authority complies with the provisions of this title; or

Subtitle B—Admissions and Occupancy Requirements

SEC. 221. LOW-INCOME HOUSING REQUIREMENT.

(a) PRODUCTION ASSISTANCE.—Any public housing produced using amounts provided under a grant under this title or under the United States Housing Act of 1937 shall be operated as public housing for the 40-year period beginning upon such production.

(b) OPERATING ASSISTANCE.—No portion of any public housing development operated with amounts from a grant under this title or operating assistance provided under the United States Housing Act of 1937 may be disposed of before the expiration of the 10-year period beginning upon the conclusion of the fiscal year for which the grant or such assistance was provided, except as provided in this Act.

(c) CAPITAL IMPROVEMENTS ASSISTANCE.—Amounts may be used for eligible activities under section 203(a)(2) only for the following housing developments:

(1) LOW-INCOME DEVELOPMENTS.—Amounts may be used for a low-income housing development that—

(A) is owned by local housing and management authorities;

(B) is operated as low-income rental housing and produced or operated with assistance provided under a grant under this title; and

(C) is consistent with the purposes of this title.

Any development, or portion thereof, referred to in this paragraph for which activities under section 203(a)(2) are conducted using amounts from a grant under this title shall be maintained and used as public housing for the 20-year period beginning upon the receipt of such grant. Any public housing development, or portion thereof, that received the benefit of a grant pursuant to section 14 of the United States Housing Act of 1937 shall be maintained and used as public housing for the 20-year period beginning upon receipt of such amounts.

(2) MIXED INCOME DEVELOPMENTS.—Amounts may be used for mixed-income developments, which shall be a housing development that—

(A) contains dwelling units that are available for occupancy by families other than low-income families;

(B) contains a number of dwelling units—

(i) which units are made available (by master contract or individual lease) for occupancy only by low- and very low-income families identified by the local housing and management authority;

(ii) which number is not less than a reasonable number of units, including related amenities, taking into account the amount of the assistance provided by the authority compared to the total investment (including costs of operation) in the development;

(iii) which units are subject to the statutory and regulatory requirements of the public housing program, except that the Secretary may grant appropriate waivers to such statutory and regulatory requirements if reductions in funding or other changes to the program make continued application of such requirements impracticable;

(iv) which units are specially designated as dwelling units under this subparagraph, except the equivalent units in the development may be substituted for designated units during the period the units are subject to the requirements of the public housing program; and

(v) which units shall be eligible for assistance under this title; and

(C) is owned by the local housing and management authority, an affiliate controlled by it, or another appropriate entity.

Notwithstanding any other provision of this title, to facilitate the establishment of socioeconomically mixed communities, a local housing and management authority that uses grant amounts under this title for a mixed income development under this paragraph may, to the extent that income from such a development reduces the amount of grant amounts used for operating or other costs relating to public housing, use such resulting savings to rent privately developed dwelling units in the neighborhood of the mixed income development. Such units shall be made available for occupancy only by low-income families eligible for residency in public housing.

SEC. 222. FAMILY ELIGIBILITY.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Dwelling units in public housing may be rented only to families who are low-income families at the time of their initial occupancy of such units.

(b) INCOME MIX WITHIN DEVELOPMENTS.—A local housing and management authority may establish and utilize income-mix criteria for the selection of residents for dwelling units in public housing developments that limit admission to a development by selecting applicants having incomes appropriate so that the mix of incomes of families occupying the development is proportional to the income mix in the eligible population of the jurisdiction of the authority, as adjusted to take into consideration the severity of housing need. Any criteria established under this subsection shall be subject to the provisions of subsection (c).

(c) INCOME MIX.—

(1) LHMA INCOME MIX.—Of the public housing dwelling units of a local housing and management authority made available for occupancy after the date of the enactment of this Act not less than 35 percent shall be occupied by low-income families whose incomes do not exceed 30 percent of the area median income, as determined by the Secretary with adjustments for smaller and larger families, except that the Secretary, may for purposes of this subsection, establish income ceilings higher or lower than 30 percent of the median for the area on the basis of the Secretary's findings that such variations are necessary because of unusually high or low family incomes.

(2) PROHIBITION OF CONCENTRATION OF LOW-INCOME FAMILIES.—A local housing and management authority may not comply with the requirements under paragraph (1) by concentrating very low-income families (or other families with relatively low incomes) in public housing dwelling units in certain public housing developments or certain buildings within developments. The Secretary may review the income and occupancy characteristics of the public housing developments, and the buildings of such developments, of local housing and management authorities to ensure compliance with the provisions of this paragraph.

(d) WAIVER OF ELIGIBILITY REQUIREMENTS FOR OCCUPANCY BY POLICE OFFICERS.—

(1) AUTHORITY AND WAIVER.—To provide occupancy in public housing dwelling units to police officers and other law enforcement or security personnel (who are not otherwise eligible for residence in public housing) and to increase security for other public housing residents in developments where crime has been a problem, a local housing and management authority may, with respect to such units and subject to paragraph (2)—

(A) waive—

(i) the provisions of subsection (a) of this section and section 225(a);

(ii) the applicability of—

(I) any preferences for occupancy established under section 223;

(II) the minimum rental amount established pursuant to section 225(b) and any maximum monthly rental amount established pursuant to such section;

(III) any criteria relating to project income mix established under subsection (b);

(IV) the income mix requirements under subsection (c); and

(V) any other occupancy limitations or requirements; and

(B) establish special rent requirements and other terms and conditions of occupancy.

(2) CONDITIONS OF WAIVER.—A local housing and management authority may take the actions authorized in paragraph (1) only if authority determines that such actions will increase security in the public housing developments involved and will not result in a significant reduction of units available for residence by low-income families.

(e) LOSS OF ASSISTANCE FOR TERMINATION OF TENANCY.—A local housing and management authority shall, consistent with policies described in the local housing management plan of the authority, establish policies providing that a family residing in a public housing dwelling unit whose tenancy is terminated for serious violations of the terms or conditions of the lease shall—

(1) lose any right to continued occupancy in public housing under this title; and

(2) immediately become ineligible for admission to public housing under this title or for housing assistance under title III—

(A) in the case of a termination due to drug-related criminal activity, for a period of not less than 3 years from the date of the termination; or

(B) for other terminations, for a reasonable period of time as determined period of time as determined by the local housing and management authority.

SEC. 223. PREFERENCES FOR OCCUPANCY.

(a) AUTHORITY TO ESTABLISH.—Any local housing and management authority may establish a system for making dwelling units in public housing available for occupancy that provides preference for such occupancy to families having certain characteristics.

(b) CONTENT.—Each system of preferences established pursuant to this section shall be based upon local housing needs and priorities, as determined by the local housing and management authority using generally accepted data sources, including any information obtained pursuant to an opportunity for public comment as provided under section 107(e) or under the requirements applicable to comprehensive housing affordability strategy for the relevant jurisdiction.

SEC. 224. ADMISSION PROCEDURES.

(a) ADMISSION REQUIREMENTS.—A local housing and management authority shall ensure that each family residing in a public housing development owned or administered by the authority is admitted in accordance with the procedures established under this title by the authority and the income limits under section 222.

(b) AVAILABILITY OF CRIMINAL RECORDS.—A local housing and management authority may request and obtain records regarding the criminal convictions of applicants for, or tenants of, public housing as provided in section 646 of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1992.

(c) NOTIFICATION OF APPLICATION DECISIONS.—A local housing and management authority shall establish procedures designed to provide for notification to an applicant for admission to public housing of the determination with respect to such application, the basis for the determination, and, if the applicant is determined to be eligible for admission, the projected date of occupancy (to the extent such date can reasonably be determined). If an authority denies an applicant admission to public housing, the authority shall notify the applicant that the applicant may request an informal hearing on the denial within a reasonable time of such notification.

(d) CONFIDENTIALITY FOR VICTIMS OF DOMESTIC VIOLENCE.—A local housing and management authority shall be subject to the restrictions regarding release of information relating to the identity and new residence of any family in public housing that was a victim of domestic violence that are applicable to shelters pursuant to the Family Violence Prevention and Services Act. The authority shall work with the United States Postal Service to establish procedures consistent with the confidentiality provisions in the Violence Against Women Act of 1994.

(e) TRANSFERS.—A local housing and management authority may apply, to each public housing resident seeking to transfer from one development to another development owned or operated by the authority, the screening procedures applicable at such time to new applicants for public housing.

SEC. 225. FAMILY RENTAL PAYMENT.

(a) RENTAL CONTRIBUTION BY RESIDENT.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—A family shall pay as monthly rent for a dwelling unit in public housing the amount that the local housing and management authority determines is appropriate with respect to the family and the unit, which shall be—

(A) based upon factors determined by the authority, which may include the adjusted income of the resident, type and size of dwelling unit, operating and other expenses of the authority, or any other factors that the authority considers appropriate; and

(B) an amount that is not less than the minimum monthly rental amount under subsection (b)(1) nor more than any maximum monthly rental amount established for the dwelling unit pursuant to subsection (b)(2).

Notwithstanding any other provision of this subsection, the amount paid by an elderly family or a disabled family for monthly rent for a dwelling unit in public housing may not exceed 30 percent of the family's adjusted monthly income. Notwithstanding any other provision of this subsection, the amount paid by a family whose head (or whose spouse) is a veteran (as such term is defined in section 203(b) of the National Housing Act) for monthly rent for a dwelling unit in public housing may not exceed 30 percent of the family's adjusted monthly income. In determining the amount of the rent charged under this paragraph for a dwelling unit, a local housing and management authority shall take into consideration the characteristics of the population served by the authority, the goals of the local housing management plan for the authority, and the goals under the comprehensive housing affordability strategy under section 105 of the Cranston-Gonzalez National Affordable Housing Act (or any consolidated plan incorporating such strategy) for the applicable jurisdiction.

(2) EXCEPTIONS.—Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, the amount paid for monthly rent for a dwelling unit in public housing may not exceed 30 percent of the family's adjusted monthly income for any family who—

(A) upon the date of the enactment of this Act, is residing in any dwelling unit in public housing and—

- (i) is an elderly family; or
- (ii) is a disabled family; or
- (B) has an income that does not exceed 30 percent of the median income for the area (as determined by the Secretary with adjustments for smaller and larger families).

(b) ALLOWABLE RENTS.—

(1) MINIMUM RENTAL.—Each local housing and management authority shall establish, for each dwelling unit in public housing owned or administered by the authority, a minimum monthly rental contribution toward the rent (which rent shall include any amount allowed for utilities), which—

(A) may not be less than $25, nor more than $50; and

(B) may be increased annually by the authority, except that no such annual increase may exceed 10 percent of the amount of the minimum monthly rental contribution in effect for the preceding year.

Notwithstanding the preceding sentence, a local housing and management authority may, in its sole discretion, grant an exemption in whole or in part from payment of the minimum monthly rental contribution established under this paragraph to any family unable to pay such amount because of severe financial hardships. Severe financial hardships may include situations where the family is awaiting an eligibility determination for a Federal, State, or local assistance program, where the family would be evicted as a result of imposition of the minimum rent, and other situations as may be determined by the authority.

(2) MAXIMUM RENTAL.—Each local housing and management authority may establish, for each dwelling unit in public housing owned or administered by the authority, a maximum monthly rental amount, which shall be an amount determined by the authority which is based on, but does not exceed—

(A) the average, for dwelling units of similar size in public housing developments owned and operated by such authority, of operating expenses attributable to such units;

(B) the reasonable rental value of the unit; or

(C) the local market rent for comparable units of similar size.

(c) INCOME REVIEWS.—If a local housing and management authority establishes the amount of rent paid by a family for a public housing dwelling unit based on the adjusted income of the family, the authority shall review the incomes of such family occupying dwelling units in public housing owned or administered by the authority not less than annually.

(d) REVIEW OF MAXIMUM AND MINIMUM RENTS.—

(1) RENTAL CHARGES.—If the Secretary determines, at any time, that a significant percentage of the public housing dwelling units owned or operated by a large local housing and management authority are occupied by households paying more than 30 percent of their adjusted incomes for rent, the Secretary shall review the maximum and minimum monthly rental amounts established by the authority.

(2) POPULATION SERVED.—If the Secretary determines, at any time, that less than 40 percent of the public housing dwelling units owned or operated by a large local housing and management authority are occupied by households whose incomes do not exceed 30 percent of the area median income, the Secretary shall review the maximum and minimum monthly rental amounts established by the authority.

(3) MODIFICATION OF MAXIMUM AND MINIMUM RENTAL AMOUNTS.—If, pursuant to review under this subsection, the Secretary determines that the maximum and minimum rental amounts for a large local housing and management authority are not appropriate to serve the needs of the low-income population of the jurisdiction served by the authority (taking into consideration the financial resources and costs of the authority), as identified in the approved local housing management plan of the authority, the Secretary may require the authority to modify the maximum and minimum monthly rental amounts.

(4) LARGE LHMA.—For purposes of this subsection, the term "large local housing and management authority" means a local housing and management authority that owns or operates 1250 or more public housing dwelling units.

(e) PHASE-IN OF RENT CONTRIBUTION INCREASES.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Except as provided in paragraph (2), for any family residing in a dwelling unit in public housing upon the date of the enactment of this Act, if the monthly contribution for rental of an assisted dwelling unit to be paid by the family upon initial applicability of this title is greater than the amount paid by the family under the provisions of the United States Housing Act of 1937 immediately before such applicability, any such resulting increase in rent contribution shall be—

(A) phased in equally over a period of not less than 3 years, if such increase is 30 percent or more of such contribution before initial applicability; and

(B) limited to not more than 10 percent per year if such increase is more than 10 percent but less than 30 percent of such contribution before initial applicability.

(2) EXCEPTION.—The minimum rent contribution requirement under subsection (b)(1)(A) shall apply to each family described in paragraph (1) of this subsection, notwithstanding such paragraph.

SEC. 226. LEASE REQUIREMENTS.

In renting dwelling units in a public housing development, each local housing and management authority shall utilize leases that—

(1) do not contain unreasonable terms and conditions;

(2) obligate the local housing and management authority to maintain the development in compliance with the housing quality requirements under section 232;

(3) require the local housing and management authority to give adequate written notice of termination of the lease, which shall not be less than—

(A) the period provided under the applicable law of the jurisdiction or 14 days, whichever is less, in the case of nonpayment of rent;

(B) a reasonable period of time, but not to exceed 14 days, when the health or safety of other residents or local housing and management authority employees is threatened; and

(C) the period of time provided under the applicable law of the jurisdiction, in any other case;

(4) require that the local housing and management authority may not terminate the tenancy except for violation of the terms or conditions of the lease, violation of applicable Federal, State, or local law, or for other good cause;

(5) provide that the local housing and management authority may terminate the tenancy of a public housing resident for any activity, engaged in by a public housing resident, any member of the resident's household, or any guest or other person under the resident's control, that—

(A) threatens the health or safety of, or right to peaceful enjoyment of the premises by, other residents or employees of the local housing and management authority or other manager of the housing;

(B) threatens the health or safety of, or right to peaceful enjoyment of their premises by, persons residing in the immediate vicinity of the premises; or

(C) is criminal activity (including drug-related criminal activity) on or off such premises;

(6) provide that any occupancy in violation of the provisions of section 105 shall be cause for termination of tenancy; and

(7) specify that, with respect to any notice of eviction or termination, notwithstanding any State law, a public housing resident shall be informed of the opportunity, prior to any hearing or trial, to examine any relevant documents, records or regulations directly related to the eviction or termination.

(2) PRIORITY FOR OCCUPANCY.—In determining priority for admission to public housing developments (or portions of developments) that are designated for occupancy as provided in paragraph (1), the local housing and management authority may make units in such developments (or portions) available only to the types of families for whom the development is designated.

(3) ELIGIBILITY OF NEAR-ELDERLY FAMILIES.—If a local housing and management authority determines that there are insufficient numbers of elderly families to fill all the units in a development (or portion of a development) designated under paragraph (1) for occupancy by only elderly families, the authority may provide that near-elderly families may occupy dwelling units in the development (or portion).

(b) STANDARDS REGARDING EVICTIONS.—Except as provided in section 105(b)(1)(B), any tenant who is lawfully residing in a dwelling unit in a public housing development may not be evicted or otherwise required to vacate such unit because of the designation of the development (or portion of a development) pursuant to this section or because of any action taken by the Secretary or any local housing and management authority pursuant to this section.

(c) RELOCATION ASSISTANCE.—A local housing and management authority that designates any existing development or building, or portion thereof, for occupancy as provided under subsection (a)(1) shall provide, to each person and family who agrees to be relocated in connection with such designation—

(3) payment of actual, reasonable moving expenses.

(d) REQUIRED INCLUSIONS IN LOCAL HOUSING MANAGEMENT PLAN.—A local housing and management authority may designate a development

(or portion of a development) for occupancy under subsection (a)(1) only if the authority, as part of the authority's local housing management plan—

(1) establishes that the designation of the development is necessary—

(A) to achieve the housing goals for the jurisdiction under the comprehensive housing affordability strategy under section 105 of the Cranston-Gonzalez National Affordable Housing Act; and

(B) to meet the housing needs of the low-income population of the jurisdiction; and

(2) includes a description of—

(A) the development (or portion of a development) to be designated;

(B) the types of tenants for which the development is to be designated;

(C) any supportive services to be provided to tenants of the designated development (or portion);

(D) how the design and related facilities (as such term is defined in section 202(d)(8) of the Housing Act of 1959) of the development accommodate the special environmental needs of the intended occupants; and

(E) any plans to secure additional resources or housing assistance to provide assistance to families that may have been housed if occupancy in the development were not restricted pursuant to this section.

For purposes of this subsection, the term 'supportive services' means services designed to meet the special needs of residents. Notwithstanding section 108, the Secretary may approve a local housing management plan without approving the portion of the plan covering designation of a development pursuant to this section.

(e) EFFECTIVENESS.—

(1) Initial 5-year effectiveness.—The information required under subsection (d) shall be in effect for purposes of this section during the 5-year period that begins upon notification under section 108(a) of the local housing and management authority that the information complies with the requirements under section 107 and this section.

The Secretary may not limit the number of times a local housing and management authority extends the effectiveness of a designation and information under this paragraph.

(3) TREATMENT OF EXISTING PLANS.—Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, a local housing and management authority shall be considered to have submitted the information required under this section if the authority has submitted to the Secretary an application and allocation plan under section 7 of the United States Housing Act of 1937 (as in effect before the date of the enactment of this Act) that has not been approved or disapproved before such date of enactment.

(4) TRANSITION PROVISION.—Any application and allocation plan approved under section 7 of the United States Housing Act of 1937 (as in effect before the date of the enactment of this Act) before such date of enactment shall be considered to be the information required to be submitted under this section and that is in effect for purposes of this section for the 5-year period beginning upon such approval.

(h) USE OF AMOUNTS.—Any amounts appropriated pursuant to section 10(b) of the Housing Opportunity Program Extension Act of 1996 (Public Law 104-120) may also be used for choice-based rental housing assistance under title III for local housing and management authorities to implement this section.

(2) the local housing and management authority does not take any action to dispose of any unit until any resident to be displaced is relocated in accordance with paragraph (1); and

(B) if an organization or corporation submits notice of interest in accordance with subparagraph (A), before the expiration of the period during which such organization or corporation may obtain a commitment for financing to purchase the property, which shall be the 60-day period beginning upon the submission to the authority of the notice of interest; or

(C) if, during the period under subparagraph (B), an organization or corporation obtains such financing commitment and makes a bona fide offer to the authority to purchase the property for a price equal to or exceeding the applicable offer price under paragraph (3).

SEC. 435. PERFORMANCE AGREEMENTS FOR AUTHORITIES AT RISK OF BECOMING TROUBLED.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Upon designation of a local housing and management authority as at risk of becoming troubled under section 431(a)(2)(C), the Secretary shall seek to enter into an agreement with the authority providing for improvement of the elements of the authority that have been identified. (2) strategies for meeting such targets;

(3) sanctions for failure to implement such strategies; and

(4) to the extent the Secretary deems appropriate, a plan for enhancing resident involvement in the management of the local housing and management authority.

(c) LOCAL ASSISTANCE IN IMPLEMENTATION.—The Secretary and the local housing and management authority shall, to the maximum extent practicable, seek the assistance of local public and private entities in carrying out an agreement under this section.

(d) DEFAULT UNDER PERFORMANCE AGREEMENT.—Upon the expiration of the 12-month period beginning upon entering into an agreement under this section with a local housing and management authority, the Secretary shall review the performance of the authority in relation to the performance targets and strategies under the agreement. If the Secretary determines that the authority has failed to comply with the performance targets established for such period, the Secretary shall take the action authorized under subsection (b)(2) or (b)(5) of section 438.

(e) CDBG SANCTION AGAINST LOCAL GOVERNMENT CONTRIBUTING TO TROUBLED STATUS OF LHMA.—If the Secretary determines that the actions or inaction of any unit of general local government within which any portion of the jurisdiction of a local housing and management authority is located has substantially contributed to the conditions resulting in the authority being designated under section 431(a)(2)(D) as a troubled authority, the Secretary may redirect or withhold, from such unit of general local government any amounts allocated for such unit under section 106 of such Act.

SEC. 437. OPTION TO DEMAND CONVEYANCE OF TITLE TO OR POSSESSION OF PUBLIC HOUSING.

(a) AUTHORITY FOR CONVEYANCE.—A contract under section 201 for block grants under title II (including contracts which amend or supersede contracts previously made (including contracts for contributions)) may provide that upon the occurrence of a substantial default with respect to the covenants or conditions to which the local housing and management authority is subject (as such substantial default shall be defined in such contract) or upon designation of the authority as dysfunctional pursuant to section 431(a)(2)(E), the local housing and management authority shall be obligated, at the option of the Secretary, to—

(1) convey title in any case where, in the determination of the Secretary (which determination shall be final and conclusive), such conveyance of title is necessary to achieve the purposes of this Act; or

(2) deliver to the Secretary possession of the development, as then constituted, to which such contract relates.

(b) OBLIGATION TO RECONVEY.—Any block grant contract under title II containing the provisions authorized in subsection (a) shall also provide that the Secretary shall be obligated to reconvey or redeliver possession of the development, as constituted at the time of reconveyance or redelivery, to such local housing and management authority or to its successor (if such local housing and management authority or a successor exists) upon such terms as shall be prescribed in such contract, and as soon as practicable after—

(1) the Secretary is satisfied that all defaults with respect to the development have been cured, and that the development will, in order to fulfill the purposes of this Act, thereafter be operated in accordance with the terms of such contract; or

(2) the termination of the obligation to make annual block grants to the authority, unless there are any obligations or covenants of the authority to the Secretary which are then in default.

Any prior conveyances and reconveyances or deliveries and redeliveries of possession shall not exhaust the right to require a conveyance or delivery of possession of the development to the Secretary pursuant to subsection (a) upon the subsequent occurrence of a substantial default.

(c) CONTINUED GRANTS FOR REPAYMENT OF BONDS AND NOTES UNDER 1937 ACT.—If—

(1) a contract for block grants under title II for an authority includes provisions that expressly state that the provisions are included pursuant to this subsection, and

(2) the portion of the block grant payable for debt service requirements pursuant to the contract has been pledged by the local housing and management authority as security for the payment of the principal and interest on any of its obligations, then—

(A) the Secretary shall (notwithstanding any other provisions of this Act), continue to make the block grant payments for the authority so long as any of such obligations remain outstanding; and

(B) the Secretary may covenant in such a contract that in any event such block grant amounts shall in each year be at least equal to an amount which, together with such income or other funds as are actually available from the development for the purpose at the time such block grant payments are made, will suffice for the payment of all installments of principal and interest on the obligations for which the amounts provided for in the contract shall have been pledged as security that fall due within the next succeeding 12 months.

In no case shall such block grant amounts be in excess of the maximum sum specified in the contract involved, nor for longer than the remainder of the maximum period fixed by the contract.

SEC. 438. REMOVAL OF INEFFECTIVE LHMA'S.

(a) CONDITIONS OF REMOVAL.—The actions specified in subsection (b) may be taken only upon—

(2) designation of the authority as dysfunctional pursuant to section 431(a)(2)(E);

(3) in the case only of action under subsection (b)(1), failure of a local housing and management authority to obtain reaccreditation upon the expiration of the term of a previous accreditation granted under this subtitle; or

(4) submission to the Secretary of a petition by the residents of the public housing owned or operated by a local housing and management authority that is designated as troubled or dysfunctional pursuant to section 431(a)(2).

(b) REMOVAL ACTIONS.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law or of any block grant contract under title II or any grant agreement under title III, in accordance with subsection (a), the Secretary may—

(1) solicit competitive proposals from other local housing and management authorities and private housing management agents (which, in the discretion of the Secretary, may be selected by existing public housing residents through administrative procedures established by the Secretary) and, if appropriate, provide for such agents to manage all, or part, of the housing ad-

(2) take possession of the local housing and management authority, including any developments or functions of the authority under any section of this Act;

(3) solicit competitive proposals from other local housing and management authorities and private entities with experience in construction management and, if appropriate, provide for such authorities or firms to oversee implementation of assistance made available for capital improvements for public housing;

(5) petition for the appointment of a receiver for the local housing and management authority to any district court of the United States or to any court of the State in which any portion of the jurisdiction of the local housing and management authority is located, that is authorized to appoint a receiver for the purposes and having the powers prescribed in this section.

(c) EMERGENCY ASSISTANCE.—The Secretary may make available to receivers and other entities selected or appointed pursuant to this section such assistance as is fair and reasonable to remedy the substantial deterioration of living conditions in individual public housing developments or other related emergencies that endanger the health, safety and welfare of public housing residents or assisted families under title III.

(d) POWERS OF SECRETARY.—If the Secretary takes possession of an authority, or any developments or functions of an authority, pursuant to subsection (b)(2), the Secretary—

(2) may demolish and dispose of assets of the authority in accordance with subtitle E of title II;

(3) where determined appropriate by the Secretary, may require the establishment of one or more new local housing and management authorities;

(4) may consolidate the authority into other well-managed local housing and management authorities with the consent of such well-managed authorities;

(5) shall not be subject to any State or local laws relating to civil service requirements, employee rights, procurement, or financial or administrative controls that, in the determination of the Secretary, substantially impede correction of the substantial default or improvement of the classification; and

(6) shall have such additional authority as a district court of the United States has the authority to confer under like circumstances upon a receiver to achieve the purposes of the receivership.

The Secretary may appoint, on a competitive or noncompetitive basis, an individual or entity as an administrative receiver to assume the Secretary's responsibility under this paragraph for the administration of a local housing and management authority. The Secretary may delegate to the administrative receiver any or all of the powers of the Secretary under this subsection. Regardless of any delegation under this subsection, an administrative receiver may not require the establishment of one or more new local housing and management authorities pursuant to paragraph (3) unless the Secretary first approves such establishment. For purposes of this subsection, the term "local housing and management authority" includes any developments or functions of a local housing and management authority under any section of this title.

(e) RECEIVERSHIP.—

(1) REQUIRED APPOINTMENT.—In any proceeding under subsection (b)(5), upon a determination that a substantial default has occurred, and without regard to the availability of alternative remedies, the court shall appoint a receiver to conduct the affairs of the local housing and management authority in a manner consistent with this Act and in accordance with such further terms and conditions as the court may provide. The receiver appointed may be another local housing and management authority, a private management corporation, the Secretary, or any other appropriate entity. The court shall have power to grant appropriate temporary or preliminary relief pending final disposition of the petition by the Secretary.

(D) except as provided in subparagraph (C), shall not be subject to any State or local laws relating to civil service requirements, employee rights, procurement, or financial or administrative controls that, in the determination of the receiver, substantially impede correction of the substantial default or improvement of the classification.

For purposes of this paragraph, the term "local housing and management authority" includes any developments or functions of a local housing and management authority under any section of this title.

(3) TERMINATION.—The appointment of a receiver pursuant to this subsection may be terminated, upon the petition of any party, when the court determines that all defaults have been cured or the local housing and management authority will be able to make the same amount of progress in correcting the management of the housing as the receiver.

(f) LIABILITY.—If the Secretary takes possession of an authority pursuant to subsection (b)(2) or a receiver is appointed pursuant to subsection (b)(5) for a local housing and management authority, the Secretary or the receiver shall be deemed to be acting in the capacity of the local housing and management authority (and not in the official capacity as Secretary or other official) and any liability incurred shall be a liability of the local housing and management authority.

(g) EFFECTIVENESS.—The provisions of this section shall apply with respect to actions taken before, on, or after the effective date of this Act and shall apply to any receivers appointed for a public housing agency before the date of enactment of this Act.

SEC. 702. CONGRESSIONAL FINDINGS.

The Congress hereby finds that—

(1) the Federal Government has a responsibility to promote the general welfare of the Nation—

(A) by using Federal resources to aid families and individuals seeking affordable homes that are safe, clean, and healthy and, in particular, assisting responsible, deserving citizens who cannot provide fully for themselves because of temporary circumstances or factors beyond their control;

(B) by working to ensure a thriving national economy and a strong private housing market; and

(C) by developing effective partnerships among the Federal Government, State and local governments, and private entities that allow government to accept responsibility for fostering the development of a healthy marketplace and allow families to prosper without government involvement in their day-to-day activities;

(2) there exists a unique relationship between the Government of the United States and the governments of Indian tribes and a unique Federal responsibility to Indian people;

(3) the Constitution of the United States invests the Congress with plenary power over the field of Indian affairs, and through treaties, statutes, and historical relations with Indian tribes, the United States has undertaken a trust responsibility to protect Indian tribes;

(4) the Congress, through treaties, statutes, and the general course of dealing with Indian tribes, has assumed the responsibility for the protection and preservation of Indian tribes and for working with tribes and their members to improve their socio-economic status so that they are able to take greater responsibility for their own economic condition;

(5) providing affordable and healthy homes is an essential element in the special role of the United States in helping tribes and their members to achieve a socio-economic status comparable to their non-Indian neighbors;

(6) the need for affordable and healthy homes on Indian reservations, in Indian communities, and in Native Alaskan villages is acute and the Federal Government should work not only to provide housing assistance, but also, to the extent practicable, to assist in the development of private housing finance mechanisms on Indian lands to achieve the goals of economic self-sufficiency and self-determination for tribes and their members; and

(7) Federal assistance to meet these responsibilities should be provided in a manner that recognizes the right of tribal self-governance by making such assistance available directly to the tribes or tribally designated entities.

WELCOME TO THE REVEREND SYLVESTER SHANNON

(Mr. TOWNS asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. TOWNS. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize the esteemed Reverend Doctor Sylvester Lorenzo Shannon, our guest Chaplain, the pastor of the Siloam Presbyterian Church, Brooklyn, NY. He is a graduate of the Florida A&M University, where he received both a B.A. and a B.S. degree.

Reverend Shannon earned a master's degree in divinity from Duke University, a master's degree in counseling psychology from the University of Colorado, a doctor of philosophy degree in human relations and speech communications from the University of Kansas.

Dr. Shannon is married to Doris Brooks Shannon, and has three grown children and three grandchildren. His friends refer to him as a man of action. They say that he is a tremendous coalition builder. But it should be noted for my colleagues here in the House of Representatives that Dr. Shannon made a decision a long time ago not to give the Devil a ride. He knew if he gave the Devil a ride, the Devil would want to drive.

Mr. Speaker, we are delighted today to have as our guest minister Dr. Sylvester Lorenzo Shannon, pastor of the Siloam Presbyterian Church, Brooklyn, NY. Welcome.

THE WORKING FAMILIES FLEXIBILITY ACT

(Mr. BALLENGER asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. BALLENGER. Mr. Speaker, as the percentage of employees who must balance work and family or personal interests grows rapidly, employers face obstacles in Federal law which prohibit them from providing flexible scheduling arrangements to their employees. The Working Families Flexibility Act gives employers the ability to offer their employees the option of receiving paid compensatory time off in lieu of overtime wages.

Since 1985, the public sector has had the ability under the Fair Labor Standards Act to use so-called comp time in lieu of overtime pay. H.R. 2391 extends this option to the private sector, with some adjustments, taking into account the inherent differences between the public and private sectors.

Comp time could only be provided at the request of an employee. An employee could, under an agreement with the employer, voluntarily choose to have time-and-one-half comp time over cash wages. If that same employee later decides that cash wages would be preferable to time off, then the employee could simply request to be compensated in wages. Nothing in the bill precludes employees from changing their minds. An employee could also request, at any time, to be paid cash wages for any accrued comp time.

It is time that the private sector is given the same flexibility which the public sector had had for some time. Support the Working Families Flexibility Act—to provide employees with options and greater control in balancing work and family responsibilities.

GIVE FLORIDA TOMATO FARMERS SOME JUSTICE

(Mr. TRAFICANT asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. TRAFICANT. Mr. Speaker, Florida tomato farmers used to supply 50 percent of all our tomatoes. They lost $1 billion last year. The reason: Mexico is literally throwing tomatoes at Uncle Sam. Mexican tomatoes are so low they could roll under a closed door with a top hat on.

Check this out. A 25-pound box of Mexican tomatoes sells for $2, while it costs Florida tomato farmers $6 just to grow them. If that is not enough to stew your homegrown, check this out. The International Trade Commission ruled that Mexico's illegal dumping of tomatoes is not injuring Florida tomato farmers. Unbelievable. Who is on this Commission, the Three Amigos?

Let us tell it like it is. After NAFTA, GATT, and WTO, we have gone from a Nation that cannot spell potato to a Nation that cannot sell tomatoes. Beam me up, Mr. Speaker, and give these Florida tomato farmers some justice.

URGING THE PRESIDENT TO SIGN THE WELFARE REFORM BILL

(Mr. HOKE asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. HOKE. Mr. Speaker, in his 1935 State of the Union Address, Franklin Roosevelt called welfare a narcotic, a subtle destroyer of the human spirit. John Kennedy in 1962 said, "No lasting solution to the problem of poverty can be bought with a welfare check."

In 1965, Washington launched a war on poverty with the very best of intentions, but some three decades and $5.5 trillion later we have a welfare system that has arguably done more harm than it has done good, because a basic law of nature has been ignored. When a person is given handout after handout without asking anything in return, he or she is condemned to a dependency and the loss of dignity and self-worth.

So Congress passed a plan to reform welfare that is based on the simple premise that welfare recipients should work for their benefits, just like you work to support your family and pay your taxes. Our reforms make sense. Welfare should not be a way of life. Work should replace welfare for the able-bodied. States should have the power and flexibility to implement their own reforms. Noncitizens and felons should not receive welfare benefits.

Mr. President, we ask that you sign the bill.

SPEAKER GINGRICH SHOULD BRING TO THE FLOOR BILLS RELATING TO DIABETES

(Ms. FURSE asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. FURSE. Mr. Speaker, last week there was a historic meeting here in Washington. All the organizations who are working to end diabetes came to Washington for a call for action. The reason for this event was to celebrate that there are now 234 cosponsors of H.R. 1073 and 1074, but they also came here to call on the Speaker to bring those bills to the floor so we can vote on them.

These bills are bipartisan. They were introduced by myself and the gentleman from Washington [Mr. NETHERCUTT]. As parents of children with diabetes, we know that if we can improve coverage for diabetes education and supplies, people can better manage this disease, which affects over 16 million Americans. We know that that will be a saving in the long run.

As a result of this knowledge, we formed the Diabetes Caucus last year and we have introduced these bills. However, it is the Speaker who is able to bring bills to the floor. So today we ask the gentleman from Georgia [Mr. GINGRICH] to bring these bills. He has previously stated his support for this issue. Bring them to the floor for a vote. Let us make a difference now for those 16 million Americans.

DEMOCRATS ARE DETERMINED TO PROTECT MEDICARE

(Mr. PALLONE asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, today is the 31st anniversary of President Johnson's signature of the Medicare bill. I want to affirm that Democrats remain committed to improving Medicare in a commonsense fashion. It took Democrats 13 years to overcome Republicans' opposition to Medicare and enact the program.

In 1965, Mr. Speaker, 93 percent of the House Republicans, including then-Representative Bob Dole, voted for a substitute that would have killed Medicare as we know it. Unfortunately, the Republican leadership in this House of Representatives is continuing that effort essentially to change Medicare in a fashion so it will not be the Medicare that we know.

Unlike our Republican counterparts, we as Democrats are not sorry that hundreds of thousands of seniors rely on Medicare. Instead, we are pleased that it has doubled the number of seniors who now receive health care. Medicare is a proven success worth protecting. Democrats are determined to do that.

MEDICARE

(Ms. DELAURO asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. DELAURO. Mr. Speaker, today is the 31st anniversary of Medicare. Let's stop to think about what a difference Medicare has made in the lives of our seniors. Before Medicare, only 46 percent of American seniors had health insurance. Today 99 percent are covered. In 1966, the poverty rate for seniors was almost 30 percent. Today, fewer than 10 percent of our Nation's elderly live in poverty.

Can this possibly be the same Medicare Program that Bob Dole bragged about "fighting the fight * * * voting against Medicare in 1965 * * * because we knew it wouldn't work?" And the same program that Speaker GINGRICH expects to "wither on the vine?" And is it the same Medicare that the chair of the Health Subcommittee, BILL THOMAS called "the old-fashioned, socialist 1960's top-heavy bureaucratic system."

Medicare works. The seniors in my district know it and seniors across the country know it. And these same seniors are deeply set against cutting Medicare to pay for tax breaks for the wealthy. We made a pledge to seniors 31 years ago—Medicare must be protected and continue to provide quality health care that seniors can rely on.

PERMISSION FOR SUNDRY COMMITTEES AND THEIR SUBCOMMITTEES TO SIT TODAY DURING 5-MINUTE RULE

Mr. SCHAEFER. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the following committees and their subcommittees be permitted to sit today while the House is meeting in the Committee of the Whole House under the 5-minute rule: the Committee on Banking and Financial Services; the Committee on Economic and Educational Opportunities; the Committee on Government Reform and Oversight; the Committee on International Relations; the Committee on the Judiciary; the Committee on National Security; the Committee on Resources; the Committee on Science; and the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure.

It is my understanding that the minority has been consulted and that there is no objection to these requests.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Colorado?

There was no objection.

ENERGY POLICY AND CONSERVATION ACT AMENDMENTS

Mr. SCHAEFER. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 3868) to extend certain programs under the Energy Policy and Conservation Act through September 30, 1996.

The Clerk read as follows:

H.R. 3868

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. ENERGY POLICY AND CONSERVATION ACT AMENDMENTS.

The Energy Policy and Conservation Act is amended—

(1) by amending section 166 (42 U.S.C. 6246) to read as follows:

"AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS

"SEC. 166. There are authorized to be appropriated for fiscal year 1996 such sums as may be necessary to implement this part.";

(2) in section 181 (42 U.S.C. 6251) by striking "June 30, 1996" both places it appears and inserting in lieu thereof "September 30, 1996";

(3) by adding at the end of section 256(h) (42 U.S.C. 6276(h)) "There are authorized to be appropriated for fiscal year 1996 such sums as may be necessary to carry out this part.";

and
(4) in section 281 (42 U.S.C. 6258) by striking "June 30, 1996" both places it appears and inserting in lieu thereof "September 30, 1996".

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Colorado [Mr. SCHAEFER] and the gentleman from New Jersey [Mr. PALLONE] each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Colorado [Mr. SCHAEFER].

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. SCHAEFER. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks on H.R. 3868.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Colorado?

There was no objection.

Mr. SCHAEFER. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, this bill reauthorizes certain provisions contained in the Energy Policy and Conservation Act. Specifically, this bill assures that if there is an energy emergency during the August recess, the President's authority to drawdown the Strategic Petroleum Reserve and the ability of U.S. oil companies to participate in the International Energy Agreement without violating antitrust laws is preserved.

It is important that the United States maintain a strong Strategic Petroleum Reserve to protect American citizens from shutoffs in imported oil. Similarly, the President's authority to order a drawdown of that stored oil in an emergency must also be maintained. This bill assures the President's drawdown authority is kept intact until the end of the fiscal year.

This bill does not address the issue of maintaining adequate levels of oil in the Reserve. Over the past 18 months, I have been greatly troubled by the trend of selling oil from the Strategic Petroleum Reserve to meet budgetary goals.

The Reserve is our first line of defense in an energy emergency. This energy security insurance policy for which we have paid over $200 billion should not be squandered carelessly to meet short-term budgetary objectives.

I have directed staff to work on a long-term EPCA extension which would make it more difficult for the Reserve to be raided by people willing to sacrifice long-term energy security for short-term budget goals. In the meantime, this short-term extension of certain EPCA authorities protects Americans in the event of an energy emergency and gives us time to pass a long-term extension before the 104th Congress adjourns.

I believe these provisions of EPCA are too important for us to leave for August recess without reauthorizing them. While an energy emergency which would require the Reserve to be drawn down during August is unlikely, it is not impossible. Consider the implications of the recent terrorist attack in Saudi Arabia on our energy security. I believe this Nation must have the ability to use all its tools to deal with an energy emergency so I urge my colleagues to support this bill.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to support this temporary reauthorization of the most important provisions of Energy Policy and Conservation Act, through September 30 of this year. While I would prefer a simple extension of EPCA—one that covered its State Energy Conservation programs and other authorities—I support this legislation because it ensures the United States and industry are able to fulfill their major emergency-related responsibilities. These include planning for international oil crises and management of the Strategic Petroleum Reserve.

I thank Chairman SCHAEFER for bringing this extension to the House floor, and I look forward to working with him in September to resolve the remaining issues.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. SCHAEFER. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I certainly am willing to work with my good friend, the gentleman from New Jersey [Mr. PALLONE], to extend this a bit further. We will have to sit down and decide on how we are going to do this. But we are giving the President the authority during the August recess in order to adapt to any emergency that might exist.

Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Colorado [Mr. SCHAEFER] that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 3868.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the bill was passed.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

DEVELOPMENTAL DISABILITIES ASSISTANCE AND BILL OF RIGHTS ACT AMENDMENTS OF 1996

Mr. FRISA. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 3867) to amend the Developmental Disabilities Assistance and Bill of Rights Act to extend the Act, and for other purposes.

The Clerk read as follows:

H.R. 3867

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the "Developmental Disabilities Assistance and Bill of Rights Act Amendments of 1996".

SEC. 2. REAUTHORIZATION OF ALLOTMENTS FOR STATES.

Section 130 of the Developmental Disabilities Assistance and Bill of Rights Act (42 U.S.C. 6030) is amended by striking "the fiscal years 1995 and 1996" and inserting "the fiscal years 1995 through 1999".

SEC. 3. REAUTHORIZATION OF AUTHORITIES RELATING TO PROTECTION AND ADVOCACY OF INDIVIDUAL RIGHTS.

Section 143 of the Developmental Disabilities Assistance and Bill of Rights Act (42 U.S.C. 6043) is amended by striking "the fiscal years 1995 and 1996" and inserting "the fiscal years 1995 through 1999".

SEC. 4. REAUTHORIZATION OF AUTHORITIES RELATING TO UNIVERSITY AFFILIATED PROGRAMS.

Section 156(a) of the Developmental Disabilities Assistance and Bill of Rights Act (42 U.S.C. 6066(a)) is amended by striking "the fiscal years 1995 and 1996" and inserting "the fiscal years 1995 through 1999".

SEC. 5. REAUTHORIZATION OF AUTHORITIES RELATING TO PROJECTS OF NATIONAL SIGNIFICANCE.

Section 163(a) of the Developmental Disabilities Assistance and Bill of Rights Act (42 U.S.C. 6083(a)) is amended by striking "the fiscal years 1995 and 1996" and inserting "the fiscal years 1995 through 1999".

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from New York [Mr. FRISA] and the gentleman from California [Mr. WAXMAN] each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from New York [Mr. FRISA].

Mr. FRISA. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, it is my pleasure to bring to the floor this legislation which is entitled the Developmental Disabilities Assistance and Bill of Rights Reauthorization Act and to urge its adoption.

This is, I think, an excellent example of how the Federal Government can best help to coordinate resources with the States as well as localities and other private sector programs to effectuate improvements in the lives of those who have suffered disabilities which do not enable them to live as full a life as possible. This program is now being reauthorized through 1999.

I think it is important to point out that the gentleman from Virginia [Mr. BLEY], the chairman of the Committee on Commerce, along with the gentleman from Michigan [Mr. DINGELL], his counterpart on the other side, as well as the gentleman from Florida [Mr. BILIRAKIS], the subcommittee chairman, and the gentleman from California [Mr. WAXMAN], I think put forward an excellent bipartisan effort to ensure that this bill would come to the floor with unanimous approval of the Committee on Commerce.

Mr. Speaker, briefly this legislation will reauthorize 4 particular programs: The basic State council grant program; the protection and advocacy systems program; university-affiliated programs, which coordinates with some 59 universities throughout these United States to coordinate available programs and training programs as well for individuals; and, finally, projects of national significance.

Mr. Speaker, I would urge adoption of this measure.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. WAXMAN. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I am pleased that the House is considering today the reauthorization of important programs under the Developmental Disabilities Assistance and Bill of Rights Act.

These programs address the special concerns and needs of over 3 million Americans affected by developmental disabilities. Conditions such as cerebral palsy, mental retardation, epilepsy, and autism manifest themselves early in life, result in varying degrees of disability, and affect both individuals and families for many years. Serving these people effectively requires cooperation between the Federal Government and States, local communities, and the private sector. The goal is to ensure that affected individuals and their families have access to appropriate services; that programs promote productivity, independence, and appropriate integration into the community; and that affected people and families have an opportunity to participate in program development and implementation.

H.R. 3867 extends the authorization of four effective programs that provide for research, training and education, and a variety of social and support services.

First, the bill provides for continued assistance to States to support activities of developmental disabilities councils. These activities include the design and promotion of comprehensive, statewide systems that are consumer- and family-oriented, to help developmentally disabled people achieve their maximum productive potential. To qualify for these funds, a State must have established a council which is comprised of at least 50 percent representation from people with developmental disabilities and their families or guardians. The State also must have a comprehensive plan that includes development and operation of programs of training, outreach, prevention, education, and collaboration with a variety of service agencies at the State and local levels.

H.R. 3867 also reauthorizes State protection and advocacy programs that are designed and maintained by States to protect the legal and human rights of people with developmental disabilities. Protection and advocacy systems operate based on individual State needs, are independent of any service agency, and perform an essential role in ensuring protection and quality care for vulnerable citizens.

Finally, this bill, H.R. 3867, reauthorizes university-affiliated research, education, training, and information dissemination activities; and special research projects of national significance. These programs are designed to develop and apply creative approaches to service delivery and care that are workable and sensitive to special needs; to disseminate information about successful activities; and to provide technical assistance. The goal of all of this research is to enhance the ability of individuals with developmental disabilities to live and work in their communities in the most effective ways.

All of the activities under the Developmental Disabilities Act are designed to recognize differing needs within States and communities, and to capitalize on successful ideas and actions that originate at the State or local level. This is a system that is working for people, and H.R. 3867 recognizes that success by reauthorizing the programs without change. These programs deserve our continuing support.

H.R. 3867 is supported by a broad spectrum of individuals and organizations whose expertise and work is dedicated to providing the best care and services for individuals with developmental disabilities.

An identical bill was passed by the Senate, July 12, by unanimous consent, and I urge my colleagues to support this bill so that it can be signed into law as expeditiously as possible.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. FRISA. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to thank the gentleman from California for his support of this legislation and helping to craft it originally, and certainly this reauthorization, and would just add that there were many organizations, as has been noted, that have worked on the Task Force on Developmental Disabilities. I would just like to share some of them because it is such a wide-ranging group:

The American Association on Mental Retardation; the American Association of University Affiliated Programs; the American Network of Community Options and Resources; the American Occupational Therapy Association; the American Rehabilitation Association; the Autism National Committee; the Epilepsy Foundation of America; the International Brain Injury Society; the Joseph P. Kennedy Foundation; Justice For All; the Learning Disabilities Association; the National Association of Developmental Disabilities Councils; the National Association of Protective and Advocacy Systems; the National Easter Seals Society; the National Parent Network on Disabilities; the National Therapeutic Recreation Society; the ARC; the Association for People With Severe Disabilities; the United Cerebral Palsy Associations; and the list goes on and on and on.

Once again, in conclusion, Mr. Speaker, I would advocate the passage of this measure which will help enhance the lives of those who are afflicted with these disabilities, in such a way as to make the very best use of precious small Federal resources in coordination with our State, local governments, educational institutions, health care organizations, as well as private sector organizations.

Mrs. SMITH of Washington. Mr. Speaker, I join my colleagues today in lending my support for H.R. 3867, legislation that reauthorizes the Developmental Disabilities and Bill of Rights Act. As a longtime advocate of individuals with developmental disabilities and their families, it gives me great pleasure to see the House take up a bill that provides necessary services and programs for individuals seeking aid and the skills necessary to their well being. During my years in the Washington State legislature, I worked with the many families who desired to provide for their children's real and often very unique needs. As chairwoman of the Children and Family Services Committee, I witnessed first hand how the developmental disability councils defined the priorities of the developmentally disabled and consequently coordinated their funding requests. The university affiliated programs in the State of Washington also provided invaluable information to professionals and families alike. Having seen these different programs at work in Washington State, I applaud Congress' commitment to these invaluable services. I urge my colleagues to join me in supporting this important legislation.

Mr. FRISA. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from New York [Mr. FRISA] that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 3867.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the bill was passed.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. CRANE] and the gentleman from Florida [Mr. GIBBONS] each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. CRANE].

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. CRANE. Mr. Speaker I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks on H.R. 3815.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Illinois?

There was no objection.

Mr. CRANE. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of H.R. 3815, a bill to make technical corrections and miscellaneous amendments to trade laws.

H.R. 3815 is a package of miscellaneous trade provisions and other technical and clerical corrections that were introduced originally as separate bills. The provisions in H.R. 3815 fall into four broad categories of miscellaneous trade proposals. The Committee on Ways and Means and the House already have approved the first group of proposals, which were included in last year's Balanced Budget Act, which was vetoed.

The second group of miscellaneous trade proposals was favorably reported by the Ways and Means Subcommittee on Trade on May 9 and by the full committee on July 26.

The third group includes two additional individual provisions, both of which received public comment. These two provisions also were favorably reported by the full committee on July 26.

The final group of provisions is a collection of purely technical and clerical corrections submitted by the Office of Law Revision. These items also were favorably reported by the subcommittee on May 9 and by the full committee on July 26.

During its consideration of the bill, the Ways and Means Committee approved an amendment to H.R. 3815, involving a 1-year moratorium on changes in regulations or administrative rulings relating to the importation of metal forgings for hand tools. The amendment also includes a 60-day consultation and layover provision for any significant policy changes with regard to rules of origin or country of origin marking requirements for all products.

The amendment and additional changes incorporated here today, represent a bipartisan compromise on this matter.

An additional amendment which clarifies that the moratorium applies only to hand tools and metal forgings covered by preexisting rulings rather than new products was included as part of H.R. 3815 subsequent to the filing of the committee report. I support this final compromise and applaud my colleagues on the Ways and Means Committee, especially Mrs. JOHNSON, Mrs. KENNELLY, and Mr. NEAL, for working closely with me on this issue.

Let me add that collecting these highly technical miscellaneous bills into a single legislative package is an enormous task undertaken in each Congress. H.R. 3815 groups roughly half the total number of miscellaneous trade bills introduced during the 104th Congress.

An effort has been made to include only those bills which are non-controversial and revenue neutral. On average, it takes a continuous effort over two or three Congresses to pass such a bill, even those which make purely technical and clerical corrections.

Given these difficulties, it is my hope that we might be able to develop a set of transparent ground rules for handling miscellaneous trade proposals in the future. In my view, any bill which has the approval of the Congress and the administration, is unopposed by business and industry, and is revenue neutral, should move forward under expedited procedures. Business and industry often rely on the ability of Congress to update the trade laws to conform with commercial reality. I think we should be responsive to the needs of the trade community by developing some transparent, expedited procedures.

I look forward to working with my colleagues on both sides of the aisle to establish such rules and procedures.

I urge my colleagues to vote "yes" on H.R. 3815.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. GIBBONS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I rise in support of H.R. 3815, as amended.

H.R. 3815 consists of a large number of miscellaneous trade provisions and technical corrections to various trade laws. These changes were proposed by Members, the administration, the private sector, or the law revision counsel. They facilitate customs administration, suspend duties on specific products, or correct errors in tariff treatment or in the technical drafting of various trade statutes.

The committee amendment to section 30 of the bill as reported clarifies that preexisting rulings or other administrative decisions of the Treasury Department or Customs Service regarding rules of origin or country of origin marking requirements for handtools or metal forgings for handtools govern during a 1-year moratorium period with respect to tools or forgings covered by the decisions and defined in the bill.

The amendment also defines the scope of significant policy changes in rule of origin and marking requirements that would be subject to new congressional consultation and layover procedures. These modifications to the bill as reported are agreed among the interested parties involved.

The provisions of H.R. 3815 were subject to public comment and are non-controversial. I urge passage of H.R. 3815.

Mrs. JOHNSON of Connecticut. Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of H.R. 3815, a bill to make technical and miscellaneous changes to our trade laws. In particular, I want to call attention to a very important section of the bill which is necessary to provide clear direction to the Customs Service, preventing it from improperly administering country of origin rules. Section 30 of the bill is intended to prevent the Customs Service from proceeding with any action that would change the status quo for the rules of origin governing the American hand tool industry.

Section 30 of the bill represents the Ways and Means Committee's concern that Customs is attempting to significantly change longstanding rules of origin on which American manufacturers have relied, without authorization from Congress. First, the contention by Customs that a 1992 decision by the U.S. Court of International Trade in the National Hand Tool case, which upheld a determination by Customs that specific articles were not "substantially transformed," directed Customs to abrogate prior determinations for different products involving different domestic processing is not supported by the decision of the presiding judge. Given the record in the National Hand Tool case, the Government's contemporaneous arguments, and the court's silence as to any intent to overturn precedent, no weight or credibility can be given to the present contention by Customs that National Hand Tool changed the law and now mandates the revocation of the long-standing ruling letters for hand tools manufactured in the United States from imported metal forgings. Second, Customs' proposal to apply a tariff-shift standard to supplant the traditional case-by-case substantial transformation test which follows the time-tested judicial interpretation of the marking statute and its criteria of changes in name, character, or use has not been authorized by Congress. On July 8, 1996, the U.S. Court of International Trade ruled that in attempting to overrule or abrogate the substantial transformation test Customs "contravenes Congressional intent, exceeds Customs' authority to promulgate regulations . . . and therefore is arbitrary and . . . not in accordance with law."

Section 30 of H.R. 3815 is a bipartisan approach adopted unanimously by the committee after extensive debate. It would impose a 1-year moratorium on any actions by the administration to revoke administrative ruling letters in effect on July 17, 1996. Additionally, it would require the Secretary of the Treasury, prior to issuing any significant policy change to the rules of origin, to consult with interested parties, and report to the congressional committees of jurisdiction the rationale for the proposed policy change. Under section 30, a proposal to revoke longstanding ruling letters relied on by hand tool manufacturers at least since the early 1980's, would constitute a significant policy change.

The moratorium will provide a period for the committees of jurisdiction to review, study and determine the appropriate rules of origin for hand tools manufactured in the United States from imported forgings. The required consultation with the Congress upon the expiration of the moratorium is an added precaution to ensure that no policy changes are implemented by administrative action that amount to abrogation of longstanding court rulings and Congressional intent. Finally, the moratorium will provide time for the WTO working group on the harmonization of rules of origin to continue their work without interim changes by the Customs Service that may be disruptive to and have potentially profound adverse impact on American hand tool manufacturers and other manufacturing sectors of our economy.

At this point, I would also like to submit the following letter from the Joint Industry Group [JIG], a coalition of over 100 companies and associations of importers who have also expressed concerns regarding origin rules.

THE JOINT INDUSTRY GROUP,

Washington, DC, May 15, 1996.

Hon. ROBERT E. RUBIN,
Secretary of the Treasury, Department of the Treasury, Washington, DC.

DEAR MR. SECRETARY: Earlier this year, Deputy Secretary Summers advised Congressman Crane that the Customs Service had been instructed to withhold publication of a final rule that would have extended Part 102 of the Customs Regulations (NAFTA Annex 311 Rules of Origin) to trade with all countries. The Joint Industry Group (JIG) is a coalition of over 100 companies, associations and firms that represent billions of dollars annually in trade. Therefore, as importers and associations of importers that would have been badly damaged had those rules gone into effect, we were pleased by and fully supported that decision.

There now appears to be a concerted effort underway, sponsored by a small group of manufacturers calling itself the American Hand Tool Coalition, to gain a competitive advantage by having the Treasury Department reverse its position. The implications of applying Part 102 to all trade are very broad and potentially unsettling.

The proponents of such action suggest that the Treasury Department could limit it to a specific product, but adoption of rules under Part 102 on a piecemeal basis would be bad policy and set a disastrous precedent. To do so would inevitably lead to an endless succession of changes and or exceptions and a proliferation of different origin rules for different industries. Similar problems previously occurred when Customs first implemented regulations in 1985 which nominally applied to textile products, but the principles of which have been extended on a piecemeal basis to all other commodities. From a practical standpoint, it would be virtually impossible to adopt any segment of Part 102 without also adopting the Part's general interpretative rules, many of which are unsatisfactory and result in an unwarranted departure from existing law.

We respectfully ask the Department to abide by its commitment not to publish the rule that would extend Part 102 to trade from all countries other than our NAFTA partners, Canada and Mexico.

Sincerely,

EVELYN SUAREZ,
Chairperson,
Rules of Origin Committee.

Mr. CRANE. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. CRANE] that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 3815, as amended.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the bill, as amended, was passed.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

REGULATING FISHING IN CERTAIN WATERS OF ALASKA

Mr. CALVERT. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 1786) to regulate fishing in certain waters of Alaska, as amended.

The Clerk read as follows:

H.R. 1786

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. DESCENDANTS' LAND USE.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Local residents who are descendants of Katmai residents who lived in the Naknek Lake and River Drainage shall be permitted, subject to reasonable regulations established by the Secretary of the Interior, to continue their traditional fishery for red fish within Katmai National Park (the national park and national preserve redesignated, established, and expanded under section 202(2) of the Alaska National Interest Lands Conservation Act (16 U.S.C. 410hh-1)).

(b) RED FISH DEFINED.—For the purposes of subsection (a), the term "red fish" means spawned-out sockeye salmon that has no significant commercial value.

SEC. 2. EFFECT ON TITLE AND JURISDICTION OF TIDAL AND SUBMERGED LANDS.

(a) TITLE.—No provision of this Act shall be construed to invalidate or validate or in any other way affect any claim by the State of Alaska to title to any or all submerged lands, nor shall any actions taken pursuant to or in accordance with this Act operate under any provision or principle of the law to bar the State of Alaska from asserting at any time its claim of title to any or all of the submerged lands.

(b) JURISDICTION.—Nothing in this Act nor in any actions taken pursuant to this Act shall be construed as expanding or diminishing Federal or State jurisdiction, responsibility, interests, or rights in management, regulation, or control over waters of the State of Alaska or submerged lands under any provision of Federal or State law.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from California [Mr. CALVERT] and the gentleman from South Dakota [Mr. JOHNSON] each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from California [Mr. CALVERT].

Mr. CALVERT. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, H.R. 1786 is the result of cooperative efforts of the Alaska Federation of Natives, the Bristol Bay Native Association, the Department of the Interior, and Resources Committee staff.

This bill is necessary to allow approximately 40 local residents of the Alaska Peninsula to harvest traditional red fish within the boundaries of Katmai National Park. Red fish is spawned out sockeye salmon which has traditional significance for the residents of this region. The harvest of red fish takes place from August to October each year. When Katmai National Park was designated in the 1930's, the local residents were prohibited from the taking of fish by traditional means. This bill would allow the local residents to again harvest this culturally significant red fish by traditional means.

I want to thank Bristol Bay Native Association, Department of the Interior, the Alaska Federation of Natives and staff for their work on this bill.

I urge my colleagues to support this noncontroversial bill.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. CALVERT. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks on H.R. 1786.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from California?

There was no objection.

Mr. CALVERT. Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. JOHNSON of South Dakota. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

The majority has had an opportunity to examine this legislation and has no objection to the bill.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. CALVERT. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from California [Mr. CALVERT] that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 1786, as amended.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the bill, as amended, was passed.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

NATIONAL GEOLOGIC MAPPING REAUTHORIZATION ACT OF 1996

Mr. CALVERT. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 3198) to reauthorize and amend the National Geologic Mapping Act of 1992, and for other purposes.

The Clerk read as follows:

H.R. 3198

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the "National Geologic Mapping Reauthorization Act of 1996".

SEC. 2. FINDINGS.

Congress finds that—

(1) in enacting the National Geologic Mapping Act of 1992 (43 U.S.C. 31a et seq.), Congress found, among other things, that—

(A) during the 2 decades preceding enactment of that Act, the production of geologic maps had been drastically curtailed;

(B) geologic maps are the primary data base for virtually all applied and basic earth-science investigations;

(C) Federal agencies, State and local governments, private industry, and the general public depend on the information provided by geologic maps to determine the extent of potential environmental damage before embarking on projects that could lead to preventable, costly environmental problems or litigation;

(D) the lack of proper geologic maps has led to the poor design of such structures as dams and waste-disposal facilities;

(E) geologic maps have proven indispensable in the search for needed fossil fuel and mineral resources; and

(F) a comprehensive nationwide program of geologic mapping is required in order to systematically build the Nation's geologic-map data base at a pace that responds to increasing demand;

(2) the geologic mapping program called for by that Act has not been fully implemented; and

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from California [Mr. CALVERT] and the gentleman from South Dakota [Mr. JOHNSON] each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from California [Mr. CALVERT].

Mr. CALVERT. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of H.R. 3198, a bill to reauthorize and amend the National Geologic Mapping Act of 1992 which established a cooperative program between the U.S. Geological Survey, the various State geological surveys, and academia. After 4 years, it is time to reauthorize this program for another 4 years and to modify its terms slightly based upon the experience the cooperators have gained.

First, let me say that our colleague from West Virginia, NICK RAHALL, joined by a large bipartisan group of Members, was the lead sponsor of the bill which became law in 1992 first authorizing the cooperative geologic mapping program. That action was taken, Mr. Speaker, in the wake of a study by the National Academy of Sciences which expressed alarm at the decline of detailed geologic mapping efforts nationwide over the last decade.

The National Geologic Mapping Act then, as now, was a codification of "cooperative federalism" in that it expressly authorized the practice of the USGS using a small but significant portion of its geologic mapping budget to fund mapping projects of priority to the State geologic surveys on a 50/50 matching share basis. Furthermore, a component of the program was designed to set aside a smaller portion of the budget for universities to compete for funds to support student training in geologic mapping skills and field studies.

Mr. Speaker, the basic scientific endeavor of mapping the bedrock geology and surficial deposits of this country is the foundation upon which society's needs for identification and abatement of geologic hazards such as seismic zones, volcanic activity, and landslides. Such mapping is also key to delineation and protection of sources of safe drinking water, sound land-use planning, and initial mineral resources assessments as well.

Since its passage of the 1992 Act, staffing at the USGS, particularly for this type of work, has declined dramatically. A significant reduction-in-force in the Geologic Division begun by the fiscal year 1995 budget and continued last year has made it all the more necessary to full involve the State surveys in the prioritization of national geologic mapping needs and cooperative use of their staffs to get the job done.

H.R. 3198 reauthorizes this cooperative program for 4 more years and establishes thresholds for the sharing of funds between the Federal, State, and academic components. In general, the administration has agreed to dedicate not less than 20 percent of the budget line for geologic mapping to the cooperative State map component, and not less than 2 percent to the educational component.

Mr. Speaker, by way of reference, the fiscal year 1996 appropriation for this subactivity of the USGS was approximately $22 million, meaning that $4 million is in the grant pool for matching with State moneys on geologic mapping projects upon approval by a peer review panel. The administration's fiscal year 1997 budget requested level funding for this program and the full House voted in agreement earlier this month on H.R. 3662, the Interior and Related Agencies appropriations bill.

H.R. 3198 will reauthorize this valuable program for 4 more years and ratify some very minor changes negotiated between the three participant groups—Feds, States, and academia. Specifically, these are definitional name changes, a slight modification of the congressional findings, and a paring down of the size of the Advisory Committee to the USGS Director. The current act has an unwieldy 16 member board. This reauthorization calls for downsized 10-member advisory board, made up of Federal representatives as well as State geologists and university members.

Mr. Speaker, let me finish by thanking the ranking member of the Energy and Mineral Resources Subcommittee, Mr. ABERCROMBIE of Hawaii, for his cooperation on this reauthorization. H.R. 3198 has the full support of the administration and I urge its passage.

□ 1045

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. JOHNSON of South Dakota. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Hawaii [Mr. ABERCROMBIE], the ranking member of the Subcommittee on Energy and Mineral Resources of the Committee on Resources has been detained; however, I am advised that he is in full support of this legislation. The minority is in support of the legislation. The Clinton administration has expressed its support, and so we have no objection to this legislation. We support its passage.

Mr. Speaker, I will submit a statement from the gentleman from Hawaii [Mr. ABERCROMBIE] for the RECORD.

Mr. ABERCROMBIE. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to rise in support of H.R. 3198, a bill that would reauthorize the 1992 Geologic Mapping Act through fiscal year 2000, and amend the act to designate that 20 percent of the total amount appropriated be allocated to the State component of the program. I would note that both the Clinton administration and the State Geologists support this bill.

Congress enacted the National Geologic Mapping Act of 1992—Public Law 102-285 and 43 U.S.C. sections 31a-h—in order to expedite the production of a geologic map data base for the Nation, which can be applied to land-use management, assessment, and utilization, conservation of natural resources, groundwater management, and environmental protection. The act designated the U.S. Geological Survey as the Federal agency responsible for planning, coordinating, and managing the National Cooperative Geologic Mapping Program. This program is carried out by a consortium of geologic mapping partners including State geological Surveys, universities, other Federal agencies, and the USGS.

Geologic maps are the primary data base for nearly all applied and basic earth science investigations. Federal agencies, State and local governments, private industry, and the general public depend on the information provided by geologic maps. The current geologic map data base is inadequate to meet these needs and development of a comprehensive nationwide program of geologic mapping is required at a pace that responds to increasing demand for mapping in high-priority areas. The States and the USGS each conduct a yearly, needs-based survey to determine program priorities.

Improved geologic map information has been shown, using benefit-cost analyses, to be of significant value in many decisionmaking processes, including:

Exploring for and developing mineral, energy, and water resources;

Screening and characterizing sites for toxic and nuclear waste disposal;

Land use evaluation and planning for environmental protection;

Earthquake hazards reduction;

Predicting volcanic hazards;

Designing and constructing infrastructure requirements such as utility lifelines, transportation corridors, and surface-water impoundments;

Reducing losses from landslides and other ground failures;

Mitigating effects of coastal and stream erosion; and

Siting of critical facilities.

I urge my colleagues to support enactment of this bill.

Mr. JOHNSON of South Dakota.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. CALVERT. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. EWING). The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from California [Mr. CALVERT] that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 3198.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the bill was passed.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. CALVERT. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on H.R. 3198, the bill just passed.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from California?

There was no objection.

CRAWFORD NATIONAL FISH HATCHERY CONVEYANCE ACT

Mr. SAXTON. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 3287) to direct the Secretary of the Interior to convey the Crawford National Fish Hatchery to the city of Crawford, NE, as amended.

The Clerk read as follows:

H.R. 3287

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the "Crawford National Fish Hatchery Conveyance Act".

SEC. 2. CONVEYANCE OF CRAWFORD NATIONAL FISH HATCHERY TO THE CITY OF CRAWFORD, NEBRASKA.

(a) CONVEYANCE REQUIREMENT.—Within 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of the Interior shall convey to the city of Crawford, Nebraska, without reimbursement, all right, title, and interest of the United States in and to the property described in subsection (b), for use by the city for a city park and other public recreational purposes.

(b) PROPERTY DESCRIBED.—The property referred to in subsection (a) is the property known as the Crawford National Fish Hatchery, located in the city of Crawford, Nebraska, consisting of 5.95 acres (more or less), and all improvements and related personal property under the control of the Secretary that is located on that property, including buildings, structures, equipment, and all easements, leases, and water rights relating to that property.

(c) USE AND REVERSIONARY INTEREST.—If any of the property conveyed to the city of Crawford, Nebraska, under this section is used by the city for any purpose other than the uses authorized under subsection (a), all right, title, and interest in and to all property conveyed under this section shall revert to the United States. The city of Crawford, Nebraska, shall ensure that all property that reverts to the United States under this subsection is in substantially the same or better condition as at the time of conveyance to the city.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from New Jersey [Mr. SAXTON] and the gentleman from Massachusetts [Mr. STUDDS] each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from New Jersey [Mr. SAXTON].

Mr. SAXTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I appreciate the opportunity to discuss H.R. 3287, the Crawford National Fish Hatchery Conveyance Act. This bill was introduced by Congressman BILL BARRETT on April 23, 1996. Under the terms of this bill, the Secretary of the Interior shall convey to the city of Crawford, within 180 days of enactment and without reimbursement, all right, title, and interest to the Crawford hatchery facility to the city of Crawford. This facility will be used as a city park and for other public recreation purposes. The proposal also contains a reversionary clause that stipulates that the property will be returned to the Federal Government if it is used for something other than recreational purposes.

It is important to note that the hatchery is located in the middle of an existing city park. While the city has spent a considerable amount of money restoring those parklands under their jurisdiction, the hatchery buildings and ponds are in a highly deteriorated state. There is little likelihood that this facility will ever again be used by either the State of Nebraska or the Federal Government as a hatchery.

I urge all Members to support this noncontroversial bill.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. STUDDS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, the tension is palpable here. This is an extraordinary moment. We have already given more time to this than I think it really deserves. It is utterly noncontroversial. This is the standard procedure by which, for many years, we have approved the transfer of these hatcheries.

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Mr. Speaker, I strongly support H.R. 3287, the Crawford National Fish Hatchery Conveyance Act, introduced by our colleague from Nebraska, BILL BARRETT.

This measure is somewhat different from other fish hatchery transfer bills in that it will convey about 6 acres of Federal lands not to the State, but to the city of Crawford, NE.

For nearly 62 years, this hatchery was used by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and the Nebraska State Game and Park Commission to produce millions of bluegill, channel catfish, largemouth bass, various species of trout, and their eggs.

Unfortunately, in 1991, the Crawford National Fish Hatchery was severely damaged from flooding of the White River. The facilities were closed, no repairs were made, the buildings have not been maintained, and there is no likelihood that either the Federal or the State Government will reopen this hatchery in the future.

Furthermore, the hatchery is located in the middle of the city park. While the local community has spent a substantial amount of money to rebuild its park facilities, these efforts have been undermined by this unwanted, rapidly deteriorating, and increasingly dangerous fish hatchery.

H.R. 3287 will convey the hatchery property to the city of Crawford, which has made a commitment to restore and use certain buildings for various recreational activities. In addition, the bill contains the standard reversionary clause that requires the city of Crawford to return this property to the Federal Government, if it is used for anything other than the authorized purposes.

I urge an "aye" vote on this legislation and compliment BILL BARRETT for his outstanding leadership in this matter.

Mr. BARRETT of Nebraska. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in support of H.R. 3287, a bill to transfer the old Crawford National Fish Hatchery to the city of Crawford. I'd also like to extend my thanks to Chairman SAXTON for his assistance with this bill, and the Lake Minatare legislation.

Crawford is a small town with approximately 1,300 residents in northwest Nebraska. It's a friendly town with large city park on its western city limit. However, within the boundaries of the city park is an abandoned fish hatchery.

In the 1920's Crawford granted the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service the rights to build a fish hatchery in the city park. It was successfully operated by the Service from 1929 to 1983. It was mainly used to breed trout. During the early 1980's, Federal financial support for the hatchery diminished, and the State Game and Parks Commission took over the operation and maintenance of the facility.

In 1991, the Game and Parks Commission completed construction of a new facility and prepared to close the Crawford site. Later that year, Crawford sustained heavy damage caused by a 100-year flood. The hatchery was severely damaged, and essentially destroyed. Currently, neither the Service nor the State operate the facility, and the ruined buildings continue to fall apart, creating an eyesore in the city park.

Due to the lack of interest in repairing the hatchery, the Fish and Wildlife Service is preparing to declare the property as excess to its needs and turn it over to the General Services Administration for disposition, with the recommendation that the property be returned to the city. Unfortunately, the disposition process is often slow, and, in the case of Crawford, the outcome may not be what the city desires.

In the regard, I introduced a bill, H.R. 3287, a transfer the property back to the city. The city intends to restore some of the damaged buildings and use them for public meeting rooms. These improvements will greatly enhance the city park.

This action has the support of the city, the State Game and Parks Commission, and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. I urge my colleagues to support this bill.

Mr. STUDDS. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. SAXTON. Mr. Speaker, I have no more requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from New Jersey [Mr. SAXTON] that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 3287, as amended.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the bill, as amended, was passed.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. SAXTON. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on H.R. 3287, the bill just passed.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from New Jersey?

There was no objection.

WALHALLA NATIONAL FISH HATCHERY CONVEYANCE ACT

Mr. SAXTON. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 3546) to direct the Secretary of the Interior to convey the Walhalla National Fish Hatchery to the State of South Carolina, as amended.

The Clerk read as follows:

H.R. 3546

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the "Walhalla National Fish Hatchery Conveyance Act".

SEC. 2. CONVEYANCE OF WALHALLA NATIONAL FISH HATCHERY TO THE STATE OF SOUTH CAROLINA.

(a) CONVEYANCE REQUIREMENT.—Within 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of the Interior shall convey to the State of South Carolina without reimbursement all right, title, and interest of the United States in and to the property described in subsection (b), for use by the South Carolina Department of Natural Resources as part of the State of South Carolina fish culture program.

(b) PROPERTY DESCRIBED.—The property referred to in subsection (a) is the property known as the Walhalla National Fish Hatchery, located on Indian Camp Creek and the East Fork of Chattooga River off of State Secondary Highway 325 in northern Oconee County, South Carolina, consisting of 76.2 acres (more or less), all improvements and related personal property under the control of the Secretary that is located on that property, including buildings, structures, and equipment, and all easements, leases, and water rights relating to that property.

(c) REVERSIONARY INTEREST.—If any of the property conveyed to the State of South Carolina under this section is used for any purpose other than the use authorized under subsection (a), all right, title, and interest in and to all property conveyed under this section shall revert to the United States. The State of South Carolina shall ensure that all property reverting to the United States under this subsection is in substantially the same or better condition as at the time of transfer to the State.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from New Jersey [Mr. SAXTON] and the gentleman from Massachusetts [Mr. STUDDS] each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from New Jersey [Mr. SAXTON].

Mr. SAXTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I appreciate the opportunity to take action on H.R. 3546, the Walhalla National Fish Hatchery Conveyance Act.

H.R. 3546 was introduced by Congressman LINDSEY GRAHAM on May 29, 1996. Under the terms of this bill, the Secretary of the Interior shall convey to the South Carolina Department of Natural Resources, within 180 days of enactment and without reimbursement, all right, title, and interest to the Walhalla Hatchery facility for use as a State hatchery. Furthermore, the proposal contains a reversionary clause that stipulates that the property will be returned to the Federal Government if it is used for something other than fishery resources management.

This facility is extremely important to the State of South Carolina because it is the only public source for brown trout; there is no reasonable alternative for stocking the State's waters; and without these fish, there is no viable sport fishing for trout. While privately produced trout are available, this option was explored and rejected because of lack of supply control, cost fluctuations, and the potential introduction of diseases.

I urge all Members to support this noncontroversial bill.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. STUDDS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I congratulate the gentleman from New Jersey [Mr. SAXTON], the distinguished subcommittee chairman, for his legislative stature. It is growing by the minute.

This is identical in its substances to the preceding bill.

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of H.R. 3546, the Walhalla National Fish Hatchery Conveyance Act, introduced by our colleague from South Carolina, LINDSEY GRAHAM.

This noncontroversial bill is nearly identical to measures the House of Representatives has approved to transfer certain Federal fish hatcheries to non-Federal control.

This hatchery, which consists of about 78 acres, is currently being operated by the South Carolina Department of Natural Resources under a long-term agreement with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

This hatchery was 1 of 11 identified by the Clinton administration for transfer to the States in fiscal year 1996 because it is no longer an essential component of the Fish and Wildlife Service's nationwide stocking program.

Based on testimony the subcommittee received, however, it is clear that Walhalla is extremely important to the State of South Carolina because it is the only public source for brown trout, there is no reasonable alternative for stocking the State's waters, and, without these fish, there is no viable sport fishing for trout. There are 45,800 trout anglers in the State of South Carolina and this activity produces an annual economic impact of over $12 million.

This bill contains language that stipulates the property will be returned to the Federal Government if it is used for something other than the authorized purposes.

I urge an "aye" vote on this legislation and compliment LINDSEY GRAHAM for his outstanding leadership in this matter.

Mr. STUDDS. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. SAXTON. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from New Jersey [Mr. SAXTON] that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 3546, as amended.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the bill, as amended, was passed.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. SAXTON. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks and to include extraneous material on H.R. 3546, the bill just passed.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from New Jersey?

There was no objection.

MARION NATIONAL FISH HATCHERY CONVEYANCE ACT

Mr. SAXTON. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 3557) to direct the Secretary of the Interior to convey the Marion National Fish Hatchery to the State of Alabama, as amended.

The Clerk read as follows:

H.R. 3557

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE.

This Act may be cited as the "Marion National Fish Hatchery Act".

SEC. 2. CONVEYANCE OF MARION NATIONAL FISH HATCHERY AND CLAUDE HARRIS NATIONAL AQUACULTURAL RESEARCH CENTER TO THE STATE OF ALABAMA.

(a) CONVEYANCE REQUIREMENT.—Within 180 days after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of the Interior shall convey to the State of Alabama without reimbursement all right, title, and interest of the United States in and to the property described in subsection (b) for use by the Game and Fish Division of the Alabama Department of Conservation and Natural Resources as part of the State of Alabama fish culture program.

(b) PROPERTY DESCRIBED.—The property referred to in subsection (a) consists of—

(1) that portion of the Marion National Fish Hatchery leased to the Alabama Game and Fish Division, located on State Highway 175 seven miles northeast of Marion, Alabama, as described in Amendment No. 2 to the Cooperative Agreement dated June 6, 1974, between the United States Fish and Wildlife Service and the State of Alabama, Department of Conservation and Natural Resources, Game and Fish Division, comprised of approximately 300 acres (more or less), and the Claude Harris National Aquacultural

Research Center, located on State Highway 175 seven miles northeast of Marion, Alabama, as described in a United States Fish and Wildlife Service document entitled "EXHIBIT A" and dated March 19, 1996, comprised of approximately 298 acres (more or less);

(2) all improvements and related personal property under the control of the Secretary that is located on that property, including buildings, structures, equipment, and all easements and leases relating to that property; and

(3) all water rights relating to that property.

(c) REVERSIONARY INTEREST.—If any of the property conveyed to the State of Alabama under this section is used for any purpose other than the use authorized under subsection (a), all right, title, and interest in and to all property conveyed under this section shall revert to the United States. The State of Alabama shall ensure that all property reverting to the United States under this subsection is in substantially the same or better condition as at the time of transfer to the State.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from New Jersey [Mr. SAXTON] and the gentleman from Massachusetts [Mr. STUDDS] each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from New Jersey [Mr. SAXTON].

Mr. SAXTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I appreciate the opportunity to discuss this bill, H.R. 3557, the Marion National Fish Hatchery Conveyance Act. H.R. 3557 was introduced by Congressman EARL HILLIARD on May 30, 1996.

This bill is similar to measures that transferred the Corning, Fairport, and New London Fish Hatcheries to the States. Under the terms of this bill, the Secretary of the Interior shall convey to the State of Alabama, within 180 days of enactment and without reimbursement, all right, title, and interest to the Marion Hatchery. The facility will be used by the Game and Fish Division of the Alabama Department of Conservation and Natural Resources for the State's fish culture program. The proposal also contains a reversionary clause that stipulates that the property will be returned to the Federal Government if it is used for something other than fishery resources management and fisheries-related activities.

In the most recent real estate assessment in 1994, the property was valued at $465,000 and the structures have been assessed at $1,062,000 according to the Realty Division of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. The State has indicated that it has spent over $2 million on facility improvements and renovations since it assumed operational control in 1974.

I urge all Members to support this noncontroversial bill.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. STUDDS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, once again this is a bill without controversy, a transfer of a hatchery. We also have an amendment offered breathtakingly at the last moment by the distinguished gentleman from Alabama [Mr. HILLIARD] which caused a flurry of parliamentary frowns, though I trust no procedural nightmares have been elicited by the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from Alabama [Mr. HILLIARD] to explain his amendment, so long as it is not too much.

Mr. HILLIARD. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Massachusetts [Mr. STUDDS] very much for yielding.

Mr. Speaker, to the Speaker, the minority leader and the majority leader, let me say that this is a bill with an amendment. The bill, in essence, seeks to transfer from the control of the Federal Government to the State of Alabama the Marion Fish Hatchery.

The amendment seeks to transfer from the Federal Government not only the Marion Fish Hatchery, but also the Marion Research Center. At the same time, the amendment renames the Marion Fish Hatchery the Claude Harris National Aquatic Research Center.

Claude Harris was my predecessor here. He worked tirelessly to put together the Marion Fish Hatchery and Research Center and we feel it would be fitting to name it after him.

Mr. STUDDS. Mr. Speaker, in closing I note that the gentleman from New Jersey is apparently in possession of the pen that the President will use to sign the extension of the Magnuson Act when the time comes.

Mr. YOUNG of Alaska. Mr. Speaker, I support H.R. 3557, the Marion National Fish Hatchery Conveyance Act, introduced by our colleague from Alabama, EARL HILLIARD.

The legislation will transfer the 300 acres that comprise the Marion Hatchery to the State of Alabama. This facility has been effectively operated by the Alabama Game and Fish Division for over 20 years and during that time it has produced thousands of bluegills, channel catfish, largemouth bass, striped bass, and hybrid striped bass fingerlings. These fish are used to stock over 500,000 acres of public waters in the State of Alabama and they are available to over 530,000 licensed sport anglers.

In addition, the Marion Fish Hatchery has provided over 1.3 million gulf striped bass fry to 3 Federal and 2 neighboring State hatcheries and over 270,000 gulf striped bass fingerlings to support Federal and State programs in the State of Florida.

Finally, the State of Alabama has spent over $2 million on facility improvements and renovations at the Marion National Fish Hatchery since it assumed operational control. The Alabama Game and Fish Division has stated that "the Division will continue to utilize the facility for the production of fish to enhance the freshwaters of Alabama and the thousands of people who enjoy fishing these waters."

I urge an "aye" vote on this legislation which has been endorsed by both the Clinton administration and the Governor of the State of Alabama, the Honorable Fob James, Jr.

Mr. STUDDS. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. SAXTON. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from New Jersey [Mr. SAXTON] that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 3557, as amended.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the bill, as amended, was passed.

The title of the bill was amended so as to read: "A bill direct the Secretary of the Interior to convey the Marion National Fish Hatchery and the Claude Harris National Aquacultural Research Center to the State of Alabama."

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. SAXTON. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks and to include extraneous material on H.R. 3557, the bill just passed.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from New Jersey?

There was no objection.

2002 WINTER OLYMPIC GAMES FACILITATION ACT

Mr. HANSEN. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and pass the bill (H.R. 3907) to facilitate the 2002 Winter Olympic Games in the State of Utah at the snowbasin ski area, to provide for the acquisition of lands within the Sterling Forest Reserve, and for other purposes, as amended.

The Clerk read as follows:

H.R. 3907

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

TITLE I—SNOWBASIN SKI AREA

SEC. 101. SHORT TITLE.

This title may be cited as the "2002 Winter Olympic Games Facilitation Act".

SEC. 102. FINDINGS AND DETERMINATION.

(a) FINDINGS.—The Congress finds that—

(1) in June 1995, Salt Lake City, Utah, was selected to host the 2002 Winter Olympic Games, and the Snowbasin Ski Resort, which is owned by the Sun Valley Company, was identified as the site of six Olympic events: the men's and women's downhill, men's and women's Super-Gs, and men's and women's combined downhill; (2) in order to adequately accommodate these events, which are traditionally among the most popular and heavily attended at the Winter Olympic Games, major new skiing, visitor, and support facilities will have to be constructed at the Snowbasin Ski Resort on land currently administered by the United States Forest Service;

(3) while certain of these new facilities can be accommodated on National Forest land under traditional Forest Service permitting authorities, the base area facilities necessary to host visitors to the ski area and the Winter Olympics are of such a nature that they should logically be located on private land;

(4) land exchanges have been routinely utilized by the Forest Service to transfer base area lands to many other ski areas, and the Forest Service and the Sun Valley Company have concluded that a land exchange to transfer base area lands at the Snowbasin Ski Resort to the Sun Valley Company is both logical and advisable;

(5) an environmental impact statement and numerous resource studies have been completed by the Forest Service and the Sun Valley Company for the lands proposed to be transferred to the Sun Valley Company by this title;

(6) the Sun Valley Company has assembled lands with outstanding environmental, recreational, and other values to convey to the Forest Service in return for the lands it will receive in the exchange, and the Forest Service has identified such lands as desirable for acquisition by the United States; and

(7) completion of a land exchange and approval of a development plan for Olympic related facilities at the Snowbasin Ski Resort is essential to ensure that all necessary facilities can be constructed, tested for safety and other purposes, and become fully operational in advance of the 2002 Winter Olympics and earlier pre-Olympic events.

(b) DETERMINATION.—The Congress has reviewed the previous analyses and studies of the lands to be exchanged and developed pursuant to this title, and has made its own review of these lands and issues involved, and on the basis of those reviews hereby finds and determines that a legislated land exchange and development plan approval is necessary to meet Olympic goals and timetables.

SEC. 103. SNOWBASIN LAND EXCHANGE.

(a) PURPOSE AND INTENT.—The purpose of this section is to authorize and direct the Secretary to exchange 1,320 acres of federally-owned land within the Cache National Forest in the State of Utah for lands of approximately equal value owned by the Sun Valley Company. It is the intent of Congress that this exchange be completed without delay within the period specified by subsection (d).

(b) DEFINITIONS.—As used in this section:

(1) The term "Sun Valley Company" means the Sun Valley Company, a division of Sinclair Oil Corporation, a Wyoming Corporation, or its successors or assigns.

(2) The term "Secretary" means the Secretary of Agriculture.

(c) EXCHANGE.—

(1) FEDERAL SELECTED LANDS.—(A) Not later than 45 days after the final determination of value of the Federal selected lands, the Secretary shall, subject to this section, transfer all right, title, and interest of the United States in and to the lands referred to in subparagraph (B) to the Sun Valley Company.

(B) The lands referred to in subparagraph (A) are certain lands within the Cache National Forest in the State of Utah comprising 1,320 acres, more or less, as generally depicted on the map entitled "Snowbasin Land Exchange—Proposed" and dated October 1995.

(2) NON-FEDERAL OFFERED LANDS.—Upon transfer of the Federal selected lands under paragraph (1), and in exchange for those lands, the Sun Valley Company shall simultaneously convey to the Secretary all right, title and interest of the Sun Valley Company in and to so much of the following offered lands which have been previously identified by the United States Forest Service as desirable by the United States, or which are identified pursuant to subparagraph (E) prior to the transfer of lands under paragraph (1), as are of approximate equal value to the Federal selected lands:

(A) Certain lands located within the exterior boundaries of the Cache National Forest in Weber County, Utah, which comprise approximately 640 acres and are generally depicted on a map entitled "Lightning Ridge Offered Lands", dated October 1995.

(B) Certain lands located within the Cache National Forest in Weber County, Utah, which comprise approximately 635 acres and are generally depicted on a map entitled "Wheeler Creek Watershed Offered Lands—Section 21" dated October 1995.

(C) Certain lands located within the exterior boundaries of the Cache National Forest in Weber County, Utah, and lying immediately adjacent to the outskirts of the City of Ogden, Utah, which comprise approximately 800 acres and are generally depicted on a map entitled "Taylor Canyon Offered Lands", dated October 1995.

(D) Certain lands located within the exterior boundaries of the Cache National Forest in Weber County, Utah, which comprise approximately 2,040 acres and are generally depicted on a map entitled "North Fork Ogden River—Devil's Gate Valley", dated October 1995.

(E) Such additional offered lands in the State of Utah as may be necessary to make the values of the lands exchanged pursuant to this section approximately equal, and which are acceptable to the Secretary.

(3) SUBSTITUTION OF OFFERED LANDS.—If one or more of the precise offered land parcels identified in subparagraphs (A) through (D) of paragraph (2) is unable to be conveyed to the United States due to appraisal or other reasons, or if the Secretary and the Sun Valley Company mutually agree and the Secretary determines that an alternative offered land package would better serve long term public needs and objectives, the Sun Valley Company may simultaneously convey to the United States alternative offered lands in the State of Utah acceptable to the Secretary in lieu of any or all of the lands identified in subparagraphs (A) through (D) of paragraph (2).

(4) VALUATION AND APPRAISALS.—(A) Values of the lands to be exchanged pursuant to this section shall be equal as determined by the Secretary utilizing nationally recognized appraisal standards and in accordance with section 206 of the Federal Land Policy and Management Act of 1976. The appraisal reports shall be written to Federal standards as defined in the Uniform Appraisal Standards for Federal Land Acquisitions. If, due to size, location, or use of lands exchanged under this section, the values are not exactly equal, they shall be equalized by the payment of cash equalization money to the Secretary or the Sun Valley Company as appropriate in accordance with section 206(b) of the Federal Land Policy and Management Act of 1976 (43 U.S.C. 1716(b)). In order to expedite the consummation of the exchange directed by this section, the Sun Valley Company shall arrange and pay for appraisals of the offered and selected lands by a qualified appraiser with experience in appraising similar properties and who is mutually acceptable to the Sun Valley Company and the Secretary. The appraisal of the Federal selected lands shall be completed and submitted to the Secretary for technical review and approval no later than 120 days after the date of enactment of this Act, and the Secretary shall make a determination of value not later than 30 days after receipt of the appraisal. In the event the Secretary and the Sun Valley Company are unable to agree to the appraised value of a certain tract or tracts of land, the appraisal, appraisals, or appraisal issues in dispute and a final determination of value shall be resolved through a process of bargaining or submission to arbitration in accordance with section 206(d) of the Federal Land Policy and Management Act of 1976 (43 U.S.C. 1716(d)).

(B) In order to expedite the appraisal of the Federal selected lands, such appraisal shall—

(i) value the land in its unimproved state, as a single entity for its highest and best use as if in private ownership and as of the date of enactment of this Act;

(ii) consider the Federal lands as an independent property as though in the private marketplace and suitable for development to its highest and best use;

(iii) consider in the appraisal any encumbrance on the title anticipated to be in the conveyance to Sun Valley Company and reflect its effect on the fair market value of the property; and

(iv) not reflect any enhancement in value to the Federal selected lands based on the existence of private lands owned by the Sun Valley Company in the vicinity of the Snowbasin Ski Resort, and shall assume that private lands owned by the Sun Valley Company are not available for use in conjunction with the Federal selected lands.

(d) GENERAL PROVISIONS RELATING TO THE EXCHANGE.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The exchange authorized by this section shall be subject to the following terms and conditions:

(A) RESERVED RIGHTS-OF-WAY.—In any deed issued pursuant to subsection (c)(1), the Secretary shall reserve in the United States a right of reasonable access across the conveyed property for public access and for administrative purposes of the United States necessary to manage adjacent federally-owned lands. The terms of such reservation shall be prescribed by the Secretary within 30 days after the date of the enactment of this Act.

(B) RIGHT OF RESCISSION.—This section shall not be binding on either the United States or the Sun Valley Company if, within 30 days after the final determination of value of the Federal selected lands, the Sun Valley Company submits to the Secretary a duly authorized and executed resolution of the Company stating its intention not to enter into the exchange authorized by this section.

(2) WITHDRAWAL.—Subject to valid existing rights, effective on the date of enactment of this Act, the Federal selected lands described in subsection (c)(1) and all National Forest System lands currently under special use permit to the Sun Valley Company at the Snowbasin Ski Resort are hereby withdrawn from all forms of appropriation under the public land laws (including the mining laws) and from disposition under all laws pertaining to mineral and geothermal leasing.

(3) DEED.—The conveyance of the offered lands to the United States under this section shall be by general warranty or other deed acceptable to the Secretary and in conformity with applicable title standards of the Attorney General of the United States.

(4) STATUS OF LANDS.—Upon acceptance of title by the Secretary, the land conveyed to the United States pursuant to this section shall become part of the Wasatch or Cache National Forests as appropriate, and the boundaries of such National Forests shall be adjusted to encompass such lands. Once conveyed, such lands shall be managed in accordance with the Act of March 1, 1911, as amended (commonly known as the "Weeks Act"), and in accordance with the other laws, rules and regulations applicable to National Forest System lands. This paragraph does not limit the Secretary's authority to adjust the boundaries pursuant to section 11 of the Act of March 1, 1911 ("Weeks Act"). For the purposes of section 7 of the Land and Water Conservation Fund Act of 1965 (16 U.S.C. 4601-9), the boundaries of the Wasatch and Cache National Forests, as adjusted by this section, shall be considered to be boundaries of the forests as of January 1, 1965.

(e) PHASE FACILITY CONSTRUCTION AND OPERATION.—

(1) PHASE I FACILITY FINDING AND REVIEW.—

(A) The Congress has reviewed the Snowbasin Ski Area Master Development Plan dated October 1995 (hereinafter in this subsection referred to as the "Master Plan"). On the basis of such review, and review of previously completed environmental and other resource studies for the Snowbasin Ski Area, Congress hereby finds that the "Phase I" facilities referred to in the Master Plan to be located on National Forest System land after consummation of the land exchange directed by this section are limited in size and scope, are reasonable and necessary to accommodate the 2002 Olympics, and in some cases are required to provide for the safety of skiing competitors and spectators.

(B) Within 60 days after the date of enactment of this Act, the Secretary and the Sun Valley Company shall review the Master Plan insofar as such plan pertains to Phase I facilities which are to be constructed and operated wholly or partially on National Forest System lands retained by the Secretary after consummation of the land exchange directed by this section. The Secretary may modify such Phase I facilities upon mutual agreement with the Sun Valley Company or by imposing conditions pursuant to paragraph (2) of this subsection.

(C) Within 90 days after the date of enactment of this Act, the Secretary shall submit the reviewed Master Plan on the Phase I facilities, including any modifications made thereto pursuant to subparagraph (B), to the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources of the United States Senate and the Committee on Resources of the United States House of Representatives for a 30-day review period. At the end of the 30-day period, unless otherwise directed by Act of Congress, the Secretary may issue all necessary authorizations for construction and operation of such facilities or modifications thereof in accordance with the procedures and provisions of paragraph (2) of this subsection.

(2) PHASE I FACILITY APPROVAL, CONDITIONS, AND TIMETABLE.—Within 120 days of receipt of an application by the Sun Valley Company to authorize construction and operation of any particular Phase I facility, facilities, or group of facilities, the Secretary, in consultation with the Sun Valley Company, shall authorize construction and operation of such facility, facilities, or group of facilities, subject to the general policies of the Forest Service pertaining to the construction and operation of ski area facilities on National Forest System lands and subject to reasonable conditions to protect National Forest System resources. In providing authorization to construct and operate a facility, facilities, or group of facilities, the Secretary may not impose any condition that would significantly change the location, size, or scope of the applied for Phase I facility unless—

(A) the modification is mutually agreed to by the Secretary and the Sun Valley Company; or

(B) the modification is necessary to protect health and safety.

Nothing in this subsection shall be construed to affect the Secretary's responsibility to monitor and assure compliance with the conditions set forth in the construction and operation authorization.

(3) CONGRESSIONAL DIRECTIONS.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, Congress finds that consummation of the land exchange directed by this section and all determinations, authorizations, and actions taken by the Secretary pursuant to this section pertaining to Phase I facilities on National Forest System lands, or any modifications thereof, to be non-discretionary actions authorized and directed by Congress and hence to comply with all procedural and other requirements of the laws of the United States. Such determinations, authorizations, and actions shall not be subject to administrative or judicial review.

(f) NO PRECEDENT.—Nothing in subsection (c)(4)(B) of this section relating to conditions or limitations on the appraisal of the Federal lands, or any provision of subsection (e), relating to the approval by the Congress or the Forest Service of facilities on National Forest System lands, shall be construed as a precedent for subsequent legislation.

TITLE II—STERLING FOREST

SEC. 201. FUNDING FOR PALISADES INTERSTATE PARK COMMISSION.

The Secretary of the Interior is authorized to provide funding to the Palisades Interstate Park Commission to be used for the acquisition of lands and interests in lands within the area generally depicted on the map entitled "Boundary Map, Sterling Forest Reserve", numbered SFR-60,001 and dated July 1, 1994. The Secretary shall consult with the Governor of any State in which such unreserved unappropriated lands are located prior to carrying out such exchange. The lands acquired by the Secretary under this section shall be transferred to the Palisades Interstate Park Commission to be included within the Sterling Forest Reserve. The lands exchanged under this section shall be of equal value, as determined by the Secretary utilizing nationally recognized appraisal standards. The authority to exchange lands under this section shall expire on the date 18 months after the date of enactment of this Act.

TITLE III—ANAKTUVUK PASS LAND EXCHANGE AND WILDERNESS REDESIGNATION

SEC. 301. ANAKTUVUK PASS LAND EXCHANGE.

(a) FINDINGS.—The Congress makes the following findings:

(1) The Alaska National Interest Lands Conservation Act (94 Stat. 2371), enacted on December 2, 1980, established Gates of the Arctic National Park and Preserve and Gates of the Arctic Wilderness. The village of Anaktuvuk Pass, located in the highlands of the central Brooks Range, is virtually surrounded by these national park and wilderness lands and is the only Native village located within the boundary of a National Park System unit in Alaska.

(2) Unlike most other Alaskan Native communities, the village of Anaktuvuk Pass is not located on a major river, lake, or coastline that can be used as a means of access. The residents of Anaktuvuk Pass have relied increasingly on snow machines in winter and all-terrain vehicles in summer as their primary means of access to pursue caribou and other subsistence resources.

(3) In a 1983 land exchange agreement, linear easements were reserved by the Inupiat Eskimo people for use of all-terrain vehicles across certain national park lands, mostly along stream and river banks. These linear easements proved unsatisfactory, because they provided inadequate access to subsistence resources while causing excessive environmental impact from concentrated use.

(4) The National Park Service and the Nunamiut Corporation initiated discussions in 1985 to address concerns over the use of all-terrain vehicles on park and wilderness land. These discussions resulted in an agreement, originally executed in 1992 and thereafter amended in 1993 and 1994, among the National Park Service, Nunamiut Corporation, the City of Anaktuvuk Pass, and Arctic Slope Regional Corporation. Full effectuation of this agreement, as amended, by its terms requires ratification by the Congress.

(b) RATIFICATION OF AGREEMENT.—

(1) RATIFICATION.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—The terms, conditions, procedures, covenants, reservations and other provisions set forth in the document entitled "Donation, Exchange of Lands and Interests in Lands and Wilderness Redesignation Agreement Among Arctic Slope Regional Corporation, Nunamiut Corporation, City of Anaktuvuk Pass and the United States of America" (hereinafter referred to in this section as "the Agreement"), executed by the parties on December 17, 1992, as amended, are hereby incorporated in this title, are ratified and confirmed, and set forth the obligations and commitments of the United States, Arctic Slope Regional Corporation, Nunamiut Corporation and the City of Anaktuvuk Pass, as a matter of Federal law.

(B) LAND ACQUISITION.—Lands acquired by the United States pursuant to the Agreement shall be administered by the Secretary of the Interior (hereinafter referred to as the "Secretary") as part of Gates of the Arctic National Park and Preserve, subject to the laws and regulations applicable thereto.

(2) MAPS.—The maps set forth as Exhibits C1, C2, and D through I to the Agreement depict the lands subject to the conveyances, retention of surface access rights, access easements and all-terrain vehicle easements. These lands are depicted in greater detail on a map entitled "Land Exchange Actions, Proposed Anaktuvuk Pass Land Exchange and Wilderness Redesignation, Gates of the Arctic National Park and Preserve", Map No. 185/80,039, dated April 1994, and on file at the Alaska Regional Office of the National Park Service and the offices of Gates of the Arctic National Park and Preserve in Fairbanks, Alaska. Written legal descriptions of these lands shall be prepared and made available in the above offices. In case of any discrepancies, Map No. 185/80,039 shall be controlling.

(c) NATIONAL PARK SYSTEM WILDERNESS.—

(1) GATES OF THE ARCTIC WILDERNESS.—

(A) REDESIGNATION.—Section 701(2) of the Alaska National Interest Lands Conservation Act (94 Stat. 2371, 2417) establishing the Gates of the Arctic Wilderness is hereby amended with the addition of approximately 56,825 acres as wilderness and the rescission of approximately 73,993 acres as wilderness, thus revising the Gates of the Arctic Wilderness to approximately 7,034,832 acres.

(B) MAP.—The lands redesignated by subparagraph (A) are depicted on a map entitled "Wilderness Actions, Proposed Anaktuvuk Pass Land Exchange and Wilderness Redesignation, Gates of the Arctic National Park and Preserve", Map No. 185/80,040, dated April 1994, and on file at the Alaska Regional Office of the National Park Service and the office of Gates of the Arctic National Park and Preserve in Fairbanks, Alaska.

(2) NOATAK NATIONAL PRESERVE.—Section 201(8)(a) of the Alaska National Interest Land Conservation Act (94 Stat. 2380) is amended by—

(A) striking "approximately six million four hundred and sixty thousand acres" and inserting in lieu thereof "approximately 6,477,168 acres"; and

(B) inserting "and the map entitled "Noatak National Preserve and Noatak Wilderness Addition" dated September 1994" after "July 1980".

(3) NOATAK WILDERNESS.—Section 701(7) of the Alaska National Interest Lands Conservation Act (94 Stat. 2417) is amended by striking "approximately five million eight hundred thousand acres" and inserting in lieu thereof "approximately 5,817,168 acres".

(d) CONFORMANCE WITH OTHER LAW.—

(1) ALASKA NATIVE CLAIMS SETTLEMENT ACT.—All of the lands, or interests therein, conveyed to and received by Arctic Slope Regional Corporation or Nunamiut Corporation pursuant to the Agreement shall be deemed conveyed and received pursuant to exchanges under section 22(f) of the Alaska Native Claims Settlement Act, as amended (43 U.S.C. 1601, 1621(f)). All of the lands or interests in lands conveyed pursuant to the Agreement shall be conveyed subject to valid existing rights.

(2) ALASKA NATIONAL INTEREST LANDS CONSERVATION ACT.—Except to the extent specifically set forth in this section or the Agreement, nothing in this section or in the Agreement shall be construed to enlarge or diminish the rights, privileges, or obligations of any person, including specifically the preference for subsistence uses and access to subsistence resources provided under the Alaska National Interest Lands Conservation Act (16 U.S.C. 3101 et seq.).

SEC. 302. ALASKA PENINSULA SUBSURFACE CONSOLIDATION.

(6) SECRETARY.—Except as otherwise provided, the term "Secretary" means the Secretary of the Interior.

(7) SELECTION RIGHTS.—The term "selection rights" means those rights granted to Koniag and confirmed as valid selections (within Koniag's entitlement), pursuant to subsections (a) and (b) of section 12, and section 14(h)(8), of the Alaska Native Claims Settlement Act (43 U.S.C. 1611 and 1613(h)(8)), to receive title to the oil and gas rights and other interests in the subsurface estate of the approximately 275,000 acres of public lands in the State of Alaska identified as "Koniag Selections" on the map entitled "Koniag Interest Lands, Alaska Peninsula", dated May 1989.

(b) VALUATION OF KONIAG SELECTION RIGHTS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Pursuant to paragraph (2) of this subsection, the Secretary shall value the Selection Rights which Koniag possesses within the boundaries of Aniakchak National Monument and Preserve, Alaska Peninsula National Wildlife Refuge, and Becharof National Wildlife Refuge.

(2) VALUE.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—The value of the selection rights shall be equal to the fair market value of—

(i) the oil and gas interests in the lands or interests in lands that are the subject of the selection rights; and

(ii) in the case of the lands or interests in lands for which Koniag is to receive the entire subsurface estate, the subsurface estate of the lands or interests in lands that are the subject of the selection rights.

(B) APPRAISAL.—

(1) SELECTION OF APPRAISER.—

(I) IN GENERAL.—Not later than 90 days after the date of enactment of this section the Secretary and Koniag shall meet to select a qualified appraiser to conduct an appraisal of the selection rights. Subject to subclause (II), the appraiser shall be selected by the mutual agreement of the Secretary and Koniag.

(II) FAILURE TO AGREE.—If the Secretary and Koniag fail to agree on an appraiser by the date that is 60 days after the date of the initial meeting referred to in subclause (I), the Secretary and Koniag shall, by the date that is not later than 90 days after the date of the initial meeting, each designate an appraiser who is qualified to perform the appraisal. The 2 appraisers so identified shall select a third qualified appraiser who shall perform the appraisal.

(ii) STANDARDS AND METHODOLOGY.—The appraisal shall be conducted in conformity with the standards of the Appraisal Foundation (as defined in section 1121(9) of the Financial Institutions Reform, Recovery, and Enforcement Act of 1989 (12 U.S.C. 3350(9))).

(iii) SUBMISSION OF APPRAISAL REPORT.—Not later than 180 days after the selection of an appraiser pursuant to clause (i), the appraiser shall submit to the Secretary and to Koniag a written appraisal report specifying the value of the selection rights and the methodology used to arrive at the value.

(C) DETERMINATION OF VALUE.—

(i) DETERMINATION BY THE SECRETARY.—Not later than 60 days after the date of the receipt of the appraisal report under subparagraph (B)(iii), the Secretary shall determine the value of the selection rights and shall notify Koniag of the determination.

(ii) ALTERNATIVE DETERMINATION OF VALUE.—

(I) IN GENERAL.—Subject to subclause (II), if Koniag does not agree with the value determined by the Secretary under clause (i), the procedures specified in section 206(d) of the Federal Land Policy and Management Act of 1976 (43 U.S.C. 1716 (d)) shall be used to establish the value.

(II) AVERAGE VALUE LIMITATION.—The average value per acre of the selection rights shall not be less than the value utilizing the risk adjusted discount cash flow methodology, but in no event may exceed $300.

(c) KONIAG ACCENT.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—(A) The Secretary shall enter into negotiations for an agreement or agreements to exchange Federal lands or interests therein which are in the State of Alaska for the Selection Rights.

(B) If the value of the Federal property to be exchanged is less than the value of the Selection Rights established in subsection (b), and if such Federal property to be exchanged is not generating receipts to the Federal Government in excess of $1,000,000 per year, then the Secretary may exchange the Federal property for that portion of the Selection Rights having a value equal to that of the Federal property. The remaining selection rights shall remain available for additional exchanges.

(C) For the purposes of any exchange to be consummated under this section, if less than all the selection rights are being exchanged, then the value of the selection rights being exchanged shall be equal to the number of acres of selection rights being exchanged multiplied by a fraction, the numerator of which is the value of all the selection rights as determined pursuant to subsection (b) hereof and the denominator of which is the total number of acres of selection rights.

(2) ADDITIONAL EXCHANGES.—If, after 10 years from the date of the enactment of this section, the Secretary was unable to conclude such exchanges as may be required to acquire all of the selection rights, he shall conclude exchanges for the remaining selection rights for such Federal property as may be identified by Koniag, which property is available for transfer to the administrative jurisdiction of the Secretary under any provision of law and which property, at the time of the proposed transfer to Koniag is not generating receipts to the Federal Government in excess of $1,000,000 per year. The Secretary shall keep Koniag advised in a timely manner as to which properties may be available for such transfer. Upon receipt of such identification by Koniag, the Secretary shall request in a timely manner the transfer of such identified property to the administrative jurisdiction of the Department of the Interior. Such property shall not be subject to the geographic limitations of section 206(b) of the Federal Land Policy and Management Act and may be retained by the Secretary solely for purposes of transferring it to Koniag to complete the exchange. Should the value of the property so identified by Koniag be in excess of the value of the remaining selection rights, then Koniag shall have the option of (A) declining to proceed with the exchange and identifying other property, or (B) paying the difference in value between the property rights.

(3) REVENUES.—Any property received by Koniag in an exchange entered into pursuant to paragraph (1) or (2) shall be deemed to be an interest in the subsurface for purposes of section 7(i) of the Alaska Native Claims Settlement Act (43 U.S.C. 1601 et seq.): Provided however, That should Koniag make a payment to equalize the value in any such exchange, then Koniag will be deemed to hold an undivided interest in the property equal in value to such payment which interest shall not be subject to the provisions of section 7(i) of that Act.

(d) AUTHORITY TO APPOINT AND REMOVE TRUSTEE.—In establishing a Settlement Trust under section 39 of the Alaska Native Claims Settlement Act (43 U.S.C. 1629c), Koniag may delegate, in whole or in part, the authority granted to Koniag under subsection (b)(2) of such section to any entity that Koniag may select without affecting the status of the trust as a Settlement Trust under such section.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. EWING). Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Utah [Mr. HANSEN] and the gentleman from California [Mr. MILLER] each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Utah [Mr. HANSEN].

Mr. HANSEN. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

A half a century ago, the civic and business leaders in northern Utah joined together and acquired a magnificent mountain area called Snowbasin, just miles away from the city of Ogden.

They envisioned a ski area at Snowbasin with world class potential that would attract skiers from all over the world.

Today, their dream is a reality.

On June 16, 1995, the International Olympic Committee [IOC] awarded the honor of hosting the 2002 winter Olympic games to Salt Lake City. In so doing, Olympic experts chose Snowbasin as the site for the prestigious downhill skiing events of the winter games. Considered by Olympic experts to be one of the best downhill ski areas in North America, Snowbasin is an outstanding selection for Olympic competition because of its huge vertical and technical difficulty. In truth, the IOC members saw the very same ski potential in Snowbasin that the leaders of Ogden imagined decades ago.

As a result of this Olympic decision, I am very pleased to present to the House H.R. 3907, the 2002 Winter Olympic Games Facilitation Act, a measure that is urgently needed to enable these major men's and women's downhill ski events to occur at Snowbasin in the year 2002.

I am grateful for the tremendous support and endorsements received from those in Utah including Gov. Michael Leavitt, the Utah State Legislature, the city of Ogden, civic organizations, numerous citizens and even members of the media. I thank the chairman of the Salt Lake Olympic Organization Committee, Mr. Frank Joklik, who twice came to Washington to inform Congress of Snowbasin's importance to the winter games.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. MILLER of California. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, as the gentleman from Utah has properly explained, this legislation provides for the Snowbasin land exchange as it was considered in the committee, and this is to facilitate the winter Olympics in Salt Lake City in 2002. We believe that that is in fact proper.

I do continue to have some reservations about our approval of a privately prepared master development plan and the sufficiency language which I believe is still in this legislation, but I also believe that this legislation is important to the facilities for the Olympics. This legislation also includes a provision for the funding of the Palisades Interstate Park Commission for acquisition of lands within Sterling Forest.

Many of our colleagues, the gentleman from New York, Mr. HINCHEY, the gentleman from New Jersey, Mr. MARTINI, the gentlewoman from New Jersey, Mrs. ROUKEMA, Senator BRADLEY, Senator LAUTENBERG, the gentleman from New Jersey, Mr. TORRICELLI, virtually the whole New Jersey delegation and much of the New York delegation has worked on this legislation for a considerable period of time.

This is a very important piece of legislation as is Snowbasin because this also provides for the protection of habitat of some 27 rare and endangered species and also provides the protection of a very significant watershed area for northern New Jersey and providing drinking water for approximately 25 percent of that State's population. The legislation will allow for the joint Federal-State venture to acquire lands from a willing seller and a willing buyer to be managed by a commission which will permanently protect the watershed outdoor recreational resources and open space of the area.

Finally, this legislation includes, I believe, now a third title dealing with lands within Alaska, the Anaktuvuk pass legislation which was non-controversial and passed this House before, and Koniag, what was originally a wilderness bill authored by the gentleman from Alaska [Mr. YOUNG], the chairman of our committee. As I understand it now, the wilderness provisions have been dropped for that but provides authority for selection rights.

I would like to ask the gentleman from Utah [Mr. HANSEN], chairman of the subcommittee, a question, if I might. It is my understanding that it has been amended so that the Secretary is authorized to purchase only those lands which in fact the natives actually own and not their selection rights as originally written. Is that the gentleman's understanding of the amendment?

Mr. HANSEN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. MILLER of California. I yield to the gentleman from Utah.

Mr. HANSEN. Mr. Speaker, that would be my understanding of the legislation also.

Mr. MILLER of California. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for accepting that amendment. I think it makes this legislative package much less controversial and its success chances much higher. It was my understanding that the administration did have serious problems with the Koniag portion of this legislation in the sense that the Government might get itself, under the original legislation, into the payment of rights that, in fact, perhaps were not even owned by the native corporation. I think this amendment takes care of it. I think, with that, this legislation deserves the support of all of the Members of the House.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. HANSEN. Mr. Speaker, I appreciate the comments of the gentleman from California.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentlewoman from New Jersey [Mrs. ROUKEMA], one who has worked very diligently on this bill.

Mr. ROUKEMA. Mr. Speaker, I certainly want to thank the gentleman from Utah, Chairman HANSEN, for his help.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of H.R. 3907 and urge my colleagues on both sides of the aisle to support this important legislation.

Today, we are here with good news for the people of New Jersey and New York—H.R. 3907 is the key that will unlock the appropriated money that Congress has included in this year's Interior appropriations bill to help purchase Sterling Forest.

East has finally met West and Sterling Forest is no longer part of gridlock in this Congress. Enactment of this legislation is essential, if the Federal Government is to play a role in this public-private partnership.

We are clearing an important hurdle here today in our commitment to preserve and protect Sterling Forest once and for all.

First, I want to thank Chairman HANSEN for recognizing the overriding interests of the Nation—and for his willingness to understand that Sterling Forest is more than just a pristine piece of open space for camping, skiing, hiking, and fishing as significant an asset as this open space is to our region. It is the source of clean, safe drinking water for some 3 million northern New Jersey residents. If we allow that drinking water to be contaminated by development, we will pay the purchase price many times over in cleanup cost and the cost of building new water treatment plants. With this legislation, we are not being penny wise and pound foolish. Instead of reacting to a crisis after the fact, we are anticipating the problem now and taking steps to avoid it. This legislation is good public policy.

As you know, Sterling Forest is one of the largest tracts of privately owned, undeveloped forest land in the mid-Atlantic United States. This is heavily forested land—10 percent of which is located in my district in northern New Jersey and the remaining 90 percent of which is located in orange County, NY, our colleague BEN GILMAN's district. It currently provides countless recreational opportunities to millions of nearby residents and visitors. Again, it is not only recreation that brings me here today as high a priority as open space is to our region, but something far more fundamental—water.

As the primary source of drinking water to over 3 million residents of my State, preservation of Sterling Forest is essential. Numerous tributaries and feeder streams flow south from Sterling Forest right into the Wanaque reservoir, which supplies drinking water for 25 percent of all residents of New Jersey.

Consequently, the protection of this unique natural resource in a region struggling to grapple with urban sprawl is a matter of utmost importance. This is a critical issue for the most densely populated area of the Nation's most densely populated State, northern New Jersey.

Simply put: preserving Sterling Forest protects the drinking water supply of northern New Jersey and New York, and it is imperative for the 104th Congress to take action.

At the State level, the support for preserving Sterling Forest is equally strong.

Governor Whitman has already signed into law legislation that commits our State to spending $10 million to help with the purchase of the forest. In addition, Governor Pataki has committed his administration in Albany to match New Jersey's contribution dollar-for-dollar.

Here in Congress, legislation to protect Sterling Forest has enjoyed bipartisan support in both the New Jersey and New York delegations, as witnessed by the presence of those Members who are speaking today.

In these times of tight budget constraints, it is simply unrealistic to expect the Government to carry the burden by itself. From the beginning the coalition behind Sterling Forest firmly believed that the best method to use in preserving and protecting Sterling Forest was a public-private partnership, with its purchase price being funded using private, State and Federal funds. That is why I introduced H.R. 194 in 1995 and have consistently supported H.R. 400 as passed by the Senate last July as the most expeditious solution to seeing that Sterling Forest was protected.

To date, at least $5 million in private contributions have been committed toward helping protect Sterling Forest. These efforts will continue, and private funds are expected to play an important role in the purchase of this land.

And, as I have already mentioned, New Jersey and New York have committed to spending $10 million each.

I want to emphasize something about these Federal funds: this is a one-time funding request, because this legislation provides for the Palisades Interstate Park Commission [PIPC] and the State of New York to accept financial responsibility for the long-term management of the Sterling Forest. This cost sharing is consistent with my legislation H.R. 194.

I also want to thank Chairman REGULA. For years, I have worked with him in an effort to secure appropriate funding levels for this important project. I am happy to report that this year Chairman REGULA was instrumental in seeing that language was included in the Interior appropriations bill which ranked Sterling Forest as one of the Nation's top two priorities for land acquisition and recommended that Sterling Forest receive $9 million as a down payment on the Federal Government's $17.5 million share of the purchase price.

Finally, I want to thank the Speaker for his strong endorsement of this important project to New Jersey. In March Speaker GINGRICH visited Sterling Forest and promised that Congress would pass legislation to protect Sterling Forest this year. Clearly, his advocacy has been an important factor in reaching this point today, and I want to express my appreciation for his assistance.

On behalf of the 3 million New Jersey residents who depend on this area for clean safe drinking water and the millions of recreational users who treasure this pristine open space, I urge you to support H.R. 3907.

Mr. MILLER of California. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. HANSEN. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself 5 minutes.

Mr. Speaker, this legislation accomplishes two important objectives. First, it completes a land exchange that is key to preparing base facilities at Snowbasin for the 2002 Olympics. Second, it provides the means to allow Olympic Phase I. Facilities to be built on National Forest System lands at Snowbasin in a timely manner.

THE LAND EXCHANGE

Let me first discuss the land exchange. This legislation completes a land trade that has been under administrative review by the U.S. Forest Service for more than a decade. In the 1940's the ownership of Snowbasin was transferred to the Forest Service, who at the time was actively engaged in promoting skiing interests.

The need to finalize the Snowbasin land exchange was heightened when the IOC awarded the 2002 Winter Olympics to Salt Lake City. In order to accommodate the downhill ski events, which attract large crowds and extensive media coverage, major new visitor and support facilities must be constructed at the base of Snowbasin. Therefore, the need to prepare base facilities at Snowbasin for the Olympics provides greater urgency to complete the land exchange as soon as possible.

The provisions set forth in the 2002 Winter Olympic Games Facilitation Act make this a traditional land exchange in all respects, namely: The Forest Service will receive high priority lands it has designated for acquisition; Public and private lands will be appraised in accordance with Uniform Standards for Federal Land Acquisition and FLPMA; Land exchange values will be exactly equal through traditional cash equalization payments, and Public and private lands will be conveyed simultaneously.

I want to emphasize that in exchange for the 1,320 acres of land at Snowbasin, the United States will receive at least 4,100 acres of land in the same vicinity. This is beautiful mountain land that possesses outstanding recreational and environmental values. One of the exchange parcels Taylor Canyon lies directly on the outskirts of the city of Ogden. It is a magnificent canyon area that the Forest Service and residents of Ogden have desired for public acquisition. Another parcel is Lighting Ridge located about 20 miles from Ogden. Not only is this beautiful mountain land but this parcel will open public access to 4,000 acres of National Forest land. Once this land exchange is completed, the National Forest in Utah will increase in size by more than four square miles while providing public access to thousands of additional acres of National Forest land that has long been isolated.

Environmentally, the Snowbasin land exchange is based on sound merit. Numerous resource studies, including an Environmental Impact Statement, have already been completed by the Forest Service at Snowbasin. These studies, which span more than a decade, have been extensive and cover such areas as fish, wildlife, plant, water, soil, geologic, cultural, and socio-economic aspects of Snowbasin. The Forest Service has supplemented this work with specific studies on areas of special concern. Furthermore, Olympic planners also chose Snowbasin because it raised far fewer environmental concerns than other potential sites. When environmental impacts of all possible ski areas in northern Utah were considered, Snowbasin represented the best alternative.

PHASE I FACILITIES—CONSTRUCTION & OPERATION

The second—and perhaps most important—reason for the 2002 Winter Olympic Games Facilitation Act relates to timing. Since the Snowbasin ski area will remain in the National Forest after the trade, the downhill courses, snowmaking, chair lifts, safety netting, and equipment and other facilities must be built on National Forest land for the Olympics. These facilities are needed to accommodate the athletes, spectators and the media. My subcommittee heard compelling testimony that construction of these facilities must begin soon to prepare Snowbasin for both Olympic and pre-Olympic—World Cup—events. The first international test events at Snowbasin are scheduled for the winter of 1998-99. This Olympic timetable represents a unique circumstance and the Forest Service indicates that an expedited review and implementation process is necessary.

CONCLUSION

Snowbasin is the only venue of the 2002 Winter Olympic Games that will be held on National Forest land. As such, it presents a remarkable opportunity for America to showcase these magnificent lands to a worldwide television audience of about 3 billion people.

Throughout this legislative effort I have sought out the ideas and concerns of Forest Service officials, Members of Congress and professional staff, as well as senior administration officials. I have also listened closely to my Utah constituency. As a result, I can honestly say we have made a good faith effort to incorporate the views and suggestions I received. I believe we now have a very good bill that will enable Olympic progress at Snowbasin to proceed in a timely and environmentally sound manner. Therefore, I invite and ask my colleagues from both sides of the aisle to join me in supporting this very important legislation for the 2002 Olympics.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 5 minutes to the gentleman from New Jersey [Mr. MARTINI], who has worked so hard on the portion of the bill on Sterling Forest.

Mr. MARTINI. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of this bill—a product of much debate over the course of my service here in the House of Representatives. I must begin by thanking Speaker GINGRICH for his commitment to the acquisition of Sterling Forest, as well as to extend my thanks to Resources Subcommittee on Parks, Forests and Lands Chairman JAMES HANSEN, for working with me on this legislation to authorize both the acquisition of Sterling Forest and the Snow Basin Land exchange.

Furthermore, Mr. Speaker, I must thank the New Jersey and New York delegation for their efforts. It was our collective pursuit of Sterling Forest that has today brought it to possible fruition.

With that said, I would like to take a moment to share with my colleagues the importance of acquiring Sterling Forest.

H.R. 3907 authorizes $17.5 million for the purchase of the most environmentally sensitive portion of the land—approximately 90 percent that has already been negotiated with the current owner. It also offers a land exchange opportunity for the remaining 10 percent of the land, a portion that is now partially developed.

As a Passaic County Freeholder, I understood early on the need to take action to protect Sterling Forest. In fact, during my service on the Passaic County Board of Freeholders, the board was the first entity to secure part of the Sterling Forest in 1993—purchasing 2,000 acres. I have since been looking forward to the day that the reserve would have compete Federal protection.

Located in southern New York and bordering northern New Jersey, Sterling Forest, in its current undeveloped state, is important to the residents of both States for a variety of reasons. I like to think of it as a 21st Century equivalent to Central Park. While today Sterling Forest is removed from densely populated areas, just as Central Park was at its inception, decades from now the importance of this preserved open space will be ten-fold.

Sterling Forest is a 17,500 acre water and recreational reserve that area residents and public officials have repeatedly requested the Federal Government protect. As a recreational area for New York and New Jersey, Sterling Forest offers a haven for families and individuals interested in leaving behind stresses of everyday life. The picturesque beauty of this natural sanctuary provides a wide variety of outdoor activities for the enjoyment of everyone. Sterling Forest even serves as a connection to the Northeast with the Appalachian trail winding its way through the forest's rough terrain.

Most importantly, however, Sterling Forest is a watershed for most of northern New Jersey and the surrounding area. It provides nearly 2 million New Jersey residents with clean and safe drinking water.

Proposed development and urbanization of this area will destroy a great bounty of natural resources to the entire Northeast. Furthermore, if the land is developed, the water that flows from Sterling Forest could become polluted. The only viable solution at that point would be to build a water treatment center at the cost of $150 million to New Jersey taxpayers. Not only would this cost the taxpayers revenue they just don't have but it is, at best, a second-rate solution. Truthfully, Mr. Speaker, there is just no comparison between treated water and water from a natural watershed such as Sterling Forest.

I see it as fitting that we pass today's legislation during the same week as we take up both the Water Resources Development Act of 1996 and the conference report for the Safe Drinking Water Act Amendments. This string of legislation demonstrates the 104th Congress' commitment to providing safe drinking water and protecting our nations water resources for generations to come.

Some naysayers continue to challenge this Congress's record on the environment. However, the fact is that Sterling Forest has come further in the 104th Congress than ever before.

This Congress, as well as this legislation, also recognizes that the fiscal order of the House of Representatives has been neglected for too many years. There must be a balance between our fiscal responsibility and environmental protection, for the two are intertwined.

We, as a nation are now realizing that to do otherwise would be a travesty of justice—to leave our children with a nation either in financial ruin or a nation in environmental ruin. Both are unacceptable.

This legislation sets up a unique management and fiscal partnership between all levels of government. Governor Christine Todd Whitman of New Jersey signed the appropriation and authorization of $10 million towards the project, Governor George Pataki of New York approved the 1995-96 budget including $18 million for land conservation, and private interest are also involved in the funding of this acquisition.

In fact, purchasing this land is a just a one-time expense. The Department of the Interior will not be burdened by the costs of managing and maintaining the forest, for this will be done jointly by New York and New Jersey. A partnership such as this of local, State, and Federal governments is positive for all involved and should serve as a model for future land acquisition.

To those who claim that you cannot protect the economy and the environment simultaneously, I say that our efforts demonstrate a proper balance of the two. The acquisition of Sterling Forest should clearly be viewed by my colleague here in the House of Representatives as an investment in the future of the tri-state region.

In closing, I would like to applaud the joint effort that has existed for a number of years toward this common goal. An alliance of governmental agencies and public interest groups have joined together to save this vital resource. It is through this collective effort and I believe we will finally reach our goal and save Sterling Forest from development.

No matter how you look at this project, saving the forest yields no negative repercussions. The preservation of a vital source of water to one of the most populated areas of the country is not simply a laudable aspiration, but rather a necessary undertaking.

Furthermore, the residents are opposed to development; the local governments are opposed to development; and the taxpayers are opposed to development.

I am confident that we will all share in the success of the acquisition of Sterling Forest in the very near future and for many generations to come. Please support H.R. 3907.

Mr. HANSEN. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to another gentleman from New Jersey [Mr. FRELINGHUYSEN], who has worked very diligently on this bill.

Mr. FRELINGHUYSEN. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding this time to me.

Mr. Speaker, I rise today in support of H.R. 3907, and I thank the gentleman from Utah [Mr. HANSEN] and the ranking member for their support and hard work in helping this long sought objective be realized.

I strongly support the provisions for the acquisition of Sterling Forest, this important largest undeveloped property in the New York-New Jersey metropolitan area. It is a water and recreational reserve area and especially a valuable watershed for northern New Jersey. Approximately 3½ million citizens depend on this area for clean water.

Let me thank the Speaker, the gentleman from Georgia [Mr. GINGRICH], the gentlewoman from New Jersey [Mrs. ROUKEMA], my colleague, the gentleman from New Jersey [Mr. MARTINI], for their leadership in preserving this valuable and scarce open space. Without their efforts, and most particularly the efforts of the gentleman from Utah [Mr. HANSEN], we would not be here today, and I am here today to support this proposal, and I urge my colleagues to adopt it.

Mr. Speaker, I rise today in strong support of H.R. 3907, the Snowbasin Land Exchange and Sterling Forest Land Acquisition Act. I strongly support the provisions in this legislation that authorize $17.5 million for the acquisition of Sterling Forest.

Sterling Forest consists of 20,000 acres in New York and New Jersey and is currently owned by the Sterling Forest Corp., which plans to develop residences, retail, and light industrial properties on the site. If development takes place, it will impact this critical watershed that provides water for over 3½ million people in northern New Jersey. This is almost 28 percent of New Jersey's water supply that would be negatively affected by development of the land tract and would possibly cost New Jersey hundreds of millions of dollars in construction costs for new water treatment plants.

This issue has been a priority for the State of New Jersey for some time, and a priority for me as well. When I served in the State Legislature as chairman of the Assembly Appropriations Committee, I was able to provide $10 million for the acquisition of the land in the State budget. Gov. Christine Whitman has worked in conjunction with Gov. George Pataki of New York to secure adequate funding to see that both our States contribute these essential dollars toward the overall purchase price.

This legislation today continues this effort at the Federal level. And, upon authorization of this bill, I am committed to pursuing funding as a member of the Appropriations Committee. I have also received assurances from Secretary of the Interior Bruce Babbitt on several occasions that he will support funding for Sterling Forest once the project is authorized.

Let me make clear that this authorization is a one-time cost to the Federal Government. The $17.5 million authorized in this legislation is for acquisition costs only after that point, the area will be fully operated and managed by the Palisades Interstate Park Commission. In fact, the long-term costs to the local and State Governments for water treatment and road construction will be far greater if this purchase is not made. And, the Federal Government's cost is small relative to the total amount needed to buy and maintain the property—a major commitment made by New Jersey and New York and a testament to the importance of the preservation of Sterling Forest to our area. Sterling Forest is the largest remaining undeveloped wilderness tract in the New York metropolitan region.

Mr. Speaker, I thank you for your commitment to preserving this land, as well as Congressman MARTINI and Congresswoman ROUKEMA for all of their work on this issue. This acquisition is for the public benefit and will serve the interest of present as well as future generations. Again, I strongly support this legislation and urge support for the bill.

Mr. HANSEN. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from New York [Mr. FORBES].

Mr. FORBES. Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of H.R. 3907 and compliment my colleagues from New Jersey and New York who have previously spoken on this very important measure.

The Sterling Forest Preserve is critical to our region of New York and New Jersey, and I want to also salute Governors Pataki and Whitman and of course the bipartisan cooperation that existed in allowing for this open space preservation.

This is a legacy, Mr. Speaker, to our children and to future generations. We want very much to make sure that this recreation preserve and the water resource that would be protected by the acquisition of these 17,500 acres must go forward. It is critical to our area, and I thank the gentleman from Utah [Mr. HANSEN] and the committee for their leadership in allowing us to come forward, and again I want to compliment the Speaker for his leadership in allowing for this preservation.

Mr. HANSEN. Mr. Speaker, I yield such time as she may consume to the gentlewoman from New Jersey [Mrs. ROUKEMA].

Mrs. ROUKEMA. Mr. Speaker, I really want to take this opportunity for unanimous consent to revise and extend my remarks and acknowledge the essential role of the gentleman from New York [Mr. GILMAN], who could not be here today. He represents the New York portion of Sterling Forest. He is at a memorial service for former Congressman Fish this morning. But the gentleman from New York [Mr. GILMAN] played an invaluable role here, and I want him to be recognized here today.

Mr. GILMAN. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support for H.R. 3109, compromise legislation that includes the Utah snowbasin ski area and provides for the acquisition of Sterling Forest.

I wish to thank Chairman HANSEN, my colleagues from New Jersey, MARGE ROUKEMA and BILL MARTINI, and my friend from New York, SHERRY BOEHLERT, for all of their hard work and persistence in bringing this bill to the floor.

In addition, I want to thank Speaker GINGRICH for all of his efforts on this matter. As my colleagues may remember the Speaker during his visit to Sterling Forest promised that the 104th Congress would preserve Sterling Forest. Today the Speaker has fulfilled his promise.

The passage of this bill will guarantee that Sterling Forest will be protected, and will ensure that the last underdeveloped tract of land in the Metropolitan New York area will be conserved, while protecting a vital watershed, wildlife, and providing additional recreational opportunities.

As the Representative of the 20th Congressional District which includes 17,500 acres of Sterling Forest, I can attest to the beauty, historical significance, and environmental need to preserve this unique tract of land.

This has been a long time coming. I am especially pleased that we are able to vote for a bill today that will benefit Utah as well as the New York metropolitan region. This is an example of what we can accomplish for the environment when East and West come together.

I urge all of my colleagues to vote for this important environmental measure.

Mr. FORBES. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in support of H.R. 3907, a bill to authorize the acquisition of Sterling Forest and the Snow Basin land exchange.

Sterling Forest is a unique area just 35 miles from New York City. Comprised of dense woodland, undisturbed meadows, and majestic ridgetops, Sterling Forest is host to a number of unique biological communities and numerous sensitive wildlife species. It also consists of a major part of the watershed for the reservoirs that provide water to 25 percent of all residents in New Jersey and most New York City residents. To maintain, not only these valuable natural resources but the quality of these waters, acquisition of Sterling Forest has been a priority for many years.

Recently, an innovative partnership strategy was developed with the States of New Jersey and New York to bring the preservation of Sterling Forest within reach. Each State has set aside $10 million to contribute toward the acquisition and private philanthropy has donated another $7.5 million. The final contribution needed is $17.5 million from the Federal Government.

The House Appropriations Committee realized the need to purchase this land and has recommended $9 million for the first-year funding of this project. This legislation will move us one step closer toward acquiring Sterling Forest. It authorizes $17.5 million for acquisition of the most environmentally sensitive portion of the forest—90 percent of the tract—and includes a land swap for the remaining 10 percent of the property. It also directs the Secretary of the Interior to designate excess Federal lands to be sold to raise money to fund the purchase of the additional 10 percent of the land.

Mr. Speaker, the owners of the remainder of Sterling Forest have agreed to sell the majority of the property—including the most critical watershed natural, and recreation lands. Unfortunately, we only have 2 years in which to purchase the property or else the owners will move forward with a plan to build thousands of homes and millions of square feet of office and commercial space on Sterling Forest.

I commend the House of Representatives for considering H.R. 3907. After several years of stalemate on this issue we are now one step closer to preserving Sterling Forest forever.

Mrs. KELLY. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of H.R. 3907, legislation which authorizes $17.5 million for the acquisition of the important 17,500 acres Sterling Forest reserve, located in southern New York and northern New Jersey. The acquisition of the Sterling Forest represents perhaps the most important environmental issue for our region, and represents an outstanding environmental accomplishment for the 104th Congress.

Sterling Forest is at the headwaters of a system of reservoirs which provide water for 1.8 million Metropolitan area residents. It is heavily forested, accommodating a wide variety of wildlife and plant species, and also includes a portion of the Appalachian Trail. Twenty-six million Americans live within a 2-hour drive of this important environmental resource.

The acquisition of the Sterling Forest represents a unique partnership between the Federal Government, the States of New York and New Jersey, and environmental and other private sector interests. The States have each pledged $10 million toward acquisition, and the private sector will put up $5 million.

Protecting the Sterling Forest makes sense from an environmental standpoint, it makes sense from a recreational standpoint, and it represents a good deal for the taxpayer. In New Jersey alone, an estimated $150 million in water treatment costs will be required if the reservoirs adjacent to the forest are polluted from runoff resulting from over-development. The modest Federal investment authorized by this legislation will protect these reservoirs for generations to come, and do so in a very cost-effective and environmentally sound manner.

I urge my colleagues to join me in supporting this important legislation.

Mr. HANSEN. Mr. Speaker, following is the Congressional Budget Office cost estimate for H.R. 3907, a bill to facilitate the 2002 Winter Olympic Games in the State of Utah at the Snowbasin Ski area, to provide for the acquisition of lands within the Sterling Forest Reserve, and for other purposes, that passed the House on Tuesday, July 30, 1996.

U.S. CONGRESS,
CONGRESSIONAL BUDGET OFFICE,
Washington, DC, July 29, 1996.

Hon. DON YOUNG,
Chairman, Committee on Resources, U.S. House of Representatives, Washington, DC.

DEAR MR. CHAIRMAN: The Congressional Budget Office has reviewed H.R. 3907, a bill to facilitate the 2002 Winter Olympic Games in the state of Utah at the Snowbasin Ski Area, to provide for the acquisition of lands within the Sterling Forest Reserve, and for other purposes, as introduced in the House of Representatives on July 26, 1996. Assuming appropriation of the necessary sums, CBO estimates that the federal government would spend $17.5 million over the next several years to implement Title II of this bill. In addition, Title I of the bill would affect direct spending; therefore, pay-as-you-go procedures would apply. However, we estimate that any change in direct spending would be insignificant.

FEDERAL BUDGETARY IMPACT

Title I would authorize and direct the Secretary of Agriculture to transfer to the Sun Valley Company 1,230 acres of federally owned land for the Snowbasin Ski Area, located within the Cache National Forest in Utah. In exchange, the Forest Service would receive about 4,100 acres of privately owned land of roughly equal value located within the Cache National Forest. Based on conversations with the committee staff, we understand that the map designations are intended to be the same as those in H.R. 2402, as reported by the Committee on Resources on December 15, 1995. Based on information from the Forest Service, CBO estimates that this exchange would cause the federal government to lose receipts from permit fees totaling less than $25,000 annually. We estimate that no significant change in discretionary spending would result from implementing this title.

Title II would authorize the Secretary of the Interior to transfer funds to the Palisades Interstate Park Commission for the purpose of acquiring lands and related interests in the Sterling Forest Reserve in New York. The title would authorize the appropriation of up to $17.5 million for this purpose. In addition, section 202 would authorize the Secretary to exchange unreserved federal lands for about 2,220 acres of nonfederal property in Sterling Forest. The Secretary would be directed to transfer to the commission any land acquired by exchange.

Assuming that the entire amounts authorized for land acquisition would be appropriated as needed by the commission, CBO estimates that the Secretary of the Interior would transfer $17.5 million to the commission over the next several years. It is unlikely that any land exchanges would be executed under the authority provided in this title because there is probably no federal land suitable for exchange purposes in New York, and any federal land located in other states could probably not be used for the exchange without specific legislative authority.

IMPACT ON STATE, LOCAL, AND TRIBAL GOVERNMENTS

H.R. 3907 contains no intergovernmental mandates as defined in the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act of 1995 (Public Law 104-4). The state of Utah would lose a small amount of receipts as a result of the proposed land transfer in Title I because it receives 25 percent of the permit fees paid by ski areas on federal lands within the state. The bill would impose no other costs on state, local, or tribal governments.

IMPACT ON THE PRIVATE SECTOR

This bill would impose no new private-sector mandates as defined in Public Law 104-4.

PREVIOUS CBO ESTIMATES

On March 17, 1995, CBO completed a cost estimate for S. 223, the Sterling Forest Protection Act of 1995, as ordered reported by the Senate Committee on Energy and Natural Resources on March 15, 1995. S. 223 also would authorize the appropriation of $17.5 million for acquisition and transfer of the Sterling Forest lands. The Senate bill contains other provisions that would have cost the federal government about $200,000. Because these provisions are not included in H.R. 3907, estimated costs for this bill are lower.

On December 1, 1995, CBO completed a cost estimate for H.R. 2402, the Snowbasin Land Exchange Act of 1995, as ordered reported by the House Committee on Resources on November 16, 1995. H.R. 2402 contains provisions that are very similar to those of Title I of H.R. 3907, and the estimated costs for those provisions in the two bills are identical.

If you wish further details on this estimate, we will be pleased to provide them. The CBO staff contacts are Deborah Reis and Victoria V. Held (for federal costs), who can be reached at 226-2860, and Marjorie Miller (for the state and local impact), who can be reached at 225-3220.

Sincerely,

JUNE E. O'NEILL,
Director.

SEC. 215. DAM SAFETY PROGRAM.

(a) SHORT TITLE.—This section may be cited as the "National Dam Safety Program Act of 1996".

(b) FINDINGS.—Congress finds the following:

(1) Dams are an essential part of the national infrastructure. Dams fail from time to time with catastrophic results; thus, dam safety is a vital public concern.

(2) Dam failures have caused, and can cause in the future, enormous loss of life, injury, destruction of property, and economic and social disruption.

(3) Some dams are at or near the end of their structural, useful, or operational life. With respect to future dam failures, the loss, destruction, and disruption can be substantially reduced through the development and implementation of dam safety hazard reduction measures, including—

(A) improved design and construction standards and practices supported by a national dam performance resource bank;

(B) safe operations and maintenance procedures;

(C) early warning systems;

(D) coordinated emergency preparedness plans; and

(E) public awareness and involvement programs.

(4) Dam safety problems persist nationwide. The diversity in Federal and State dam safety programs calls for national leadership in a cooperative effort involving Federal and State governments and the private sector. An expertly staffed and adequately financed dam safety hazard reduction program, based on Federal, State, local, and private research, planning, decisionmaking, and contributions, would reduce the risk of such loss, destruction, and disruption from dam failure by an amount far greater than the cost of such program.

(5) There is a fundamental need for a national dam safety program and the need will continue. An effective national program in dam safety hazards reduction will require input from and review by Federal and non-Federal experts in dams design, construction, operation, and maintenance and in the practical application of dam failure hazards reduction measures. At the present time, there is no national dam safety program.

(6) The coordinating authority for national leadership is provided through the Federal Emergency Management Agency's (hereinafter in this section referred to as "FEMA") dam safety program through Executive Order 12148 in coordination with appropriate Federal agencies and the States.

(7) While FEMA's dam safety program shall continue as a proper Federal undertaking and shall provide the foundation for a National Dam Safety Program, statutory authority to meet increasing needs and to discharge Federal responsibilities in national dam safety is needed.

(8) Statutory authority will strengthen FEMA's leadership role, will codify the national dam safety program, and will authorize the Director of FEMA (hereinafter in this section referred to as the "Director") to communicate directly with Congress on authorizations and appropriations and to build upon the hazard reduction aspects of national dam safety.

(c) PURPOSE.—It is the purpose of this section to reduce the risks to life and property from dam failure in the United States through the establishment and maintenance of an effective national dam safety program which will bring together the Federal and non-Federal communities' expertise and resources to achieve national dam safety hazard reduction. It is not the intent of this section to preempt any other Federal or State authorities nor is the intent of this section to mandate State participation in the grant assistance program to be established under this section.

(d) DEFINITIONS.—In this section, the following definitions apply:

(1) FEDERAL AGENCY.—The term "Federal agency" means any Federal agency that designs, finances, constructs, owns, operates, maintains, or regulates the construction, operation, or maintenance of any dam.

(2) NON-FEDERAL AGENCY.—The term "non-Federal agency" means any State agency that has regulatory authority over the safety of non-Federal dams.

(3) FEDERAL GUIDELINES FOR DAM SAFETY.—The term "Federal Guidelines for Dam Safety" refers to a FEMA publication number 93, dated June 1979, which defines management practices for dam safety at all Federal agencies.

(4) PROGRAM.—The term "program" means the national dam safety program established under subsection (e).

(5) DAM.—The term "dam" means any artificial barrier with the ability to impound water, wastewater, or liquid-borne materials for the purpose of storage or control of water which is—

(A) 25 feet or more in height from (i) the natural bed of the stream or watercourse measured at the downstream toe of the barrier, or (ii) from the lowest elevation of the outside limit of the barrier if the barrier is not across a stream channel or watercourse, to the maximum water storage elevation; or

(B) has an impounding capacity for maximum storage elevation of 50 acre-feet or more.

Such term does not include any such barrier which is not greater than 6 feet in height regardless of storage capacity or which has a storage capacity at maximum water storage elevation not greater than 15 acre-feet regardless of height, unless such barrier, due to its location or other physical characteristics, is likely to pose a significant threat to human life or property in the event of its failure. Such term does not include a levee.

(6) HAZARD REDUCTION.—The term "hazard reduction" means those efforts utilized to reduce the potential consequences of dam failure to life and property.

(7) STATE.—The term "State" means each of the 50 States of the United States, the District of Columbia, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, Guam, American Samoa, the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands, and any other territory or possession of the United States.

(8) PARTICIPATING STATE.—The term "participating State" means any State that elects to participate in the grant assistance program established under this Act.

(9) UNITED STATES.—The term "United States" means, when used in a geographical sense, all of the States.

(10) MODEL STATE DAM SAFETY PROGRAM.—The term "Model State Dam Safety Program" refers to a document, published by FEMA (No. 123, dated April 1987) and its amendments, developed by State dam safety officials, which acts as a guideline to State dam safety agencies for establishing a dam safety regulatory program or improving an already-established program.

(e) NATIONAL DAM SAFETY PROGRAM.—

(1) AUTHORITY.—The Director, in consultation with appropriate Federal agencies, State dam safety agencies, and the National Dam Safety Review Board established by paragraph (5)(C), shall establish and maintain, in accordance with the provisions and policies of this Act, a coordinated national dam safety program. (iv) NONAPPLICABILITY OF FEDERAL ADVISORY COMMITTEE ACT.—The Federal Advisory Committee Act (5 U.S.C. App.) shall not apply to the Board.

(D) MAINTENANCE OF EFFORT.—No grant may be made to a participating State under this subsection in any fiscal year unless the State enters into such agreement with the Director as the Director may require to ensure that the participating State will maintain its aggregate expenditures from all other sources for programs to assure dam safety for the protection of human life and property at or above the average level of such expenditures in its 2 fiscal years preceding the date of the enactment of this Act.

(E) PROCEDURE FOR APPROVAL OF STATE PARTICIPATION.—Any program which is submitted to the Director for participation in the assistance program under this subsection shall be deemed approved 120 days following its receipt by the Director unless the Director determines within such 120-day period that the submitted program fails to reasonably meet the requirements of subparagraphs (A) and (B). (4) EXTENSION.—Notwithstanding the 2-year deadline established in paragraph (1), the Secretary may provide a 1-time 6-month extension of such deadline if the Secretary determines that the non-Federal public water supply customers are making progress in establishing an entity pursuant to subsection (a) and that such an extension would likely result in the establishment of such an entity.

(d) INTERIM BORROWING AUTHORITY.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Subject to paragraph (2), there is authorized to be appropriated to the Secretary for fiscal years 1997 and 1998 borrowing authority in amounts sufficient to cover those obligations which the Army Corps of Engineers is required to incur in carrying out capital improvements during such fiscal years for the Washington Aqueduct to assure its continued operation until such time as the transfer under subsection (c) has taken place, provided that such amounts do not exceed $16,000,000 for fiscal year 1997 and $54,000,000 for fiscal year 1998.

(2) TERMS AND CONDITIONS.—The borrowing authority under paragraph (1) shall be provided to the Secretary by the Secretary of the Treasury under such terms and conditions as the Secretary of the Treasury determines to be necessary in the public interest and may be provided only after each of the non-Federal public water supply customers of the Washington Aqueduct has entered into a contractual agreement with the Secretary to pay its pro rata share of the costs associated with such borrowing.

(3) IMPACT ON IMPROVEMENT PROGRAM.—Not later than 6 months after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary, in consultation with other Federal agencies, shall transmit to the Committee on Environment and Public Works of the Senate and the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure of the House of Representatives a report that assesses the impact of the borrowing authority provided under this subsection on near-term improvement projects

TITLE VI—EXTENSION OF EXPENDITURE AUTHORITY UNDER HARBOR MAINTENANCE TRUST FUND

SEC. 601. EXTENSION OF EXPENDITURE AUTHORITY UNDER HARBOR MAINTENANCE TRUST FUND.

Paragraph (1) of section 9505(c) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 (relating to expenditures from Harbor Maintenance Trust Fund) is amended to read as follows:

"(1) to carry out section 210 of the Water Resources Development Act of 1986 (as in effect on the date of the enactment of the Water Resources Development Act of 1996)."

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. SHUSTER] and the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. BORSKI] will each be recognized for 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. SHUSTER].

Mr. SHUSTER. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

(Mr. SHUSTER asked and was given permission to speak out of order.)

BIPARTISAN COOPERATION CONTRIBUTED TO AVERSION OF NATIONAL RAILROAD STRIKE

Mr. SHUSTER. Mr. Speaker, with the Speaker's permission I will first inform the House of another matter of great importance to the country and to the Congress.

With regard to the potential national railroad strikes, as of early this morning, labor and management have reached agreement on all the outstanding disputes, thereby averting the possibility of a shutdown and averting the need for congressional intervention. We are extremely pleased about this.

The parties reached a voluntary agreement. The House and Senate, the White House, and the Department of Transportation made it very clear that labor and management should work out their differences on their own. They did that. Labor and management deserve great credit for having done it.

Here in the House, certainly the gentlewoman from New York, Ms. MOLINARI, the gentleman from Minnesota, Mr. OBERSTAR, and the gentleman from West Virginia, Mr. WISE, worked diligently with us; in the Senate, Senators KASSEBAUM and KENNEDY; with the White House working very closely, Mr. Panetta and Mr. Ickes, and indeed, the Secretary of Transportation, Mr. Peña.

So we all worked together to present a united front. The bipartisan effort created an environment in which this agreement could be reached and a national rail strike averted. I thank the chairman for being able to make these comments on my time before we move to the legislation before us today, the Water Resources Development Act of 1996.

Mr. Speaker, H.R. 3592, the Water Resources Development Act of 1996, is a comprehensive authorization of the water resources programs of the Army Corps of Engineers. It represents 4 years of bipartisan effort to preserve and develop the water infrastructure that is so vital to the Nation's safety and economic well-being.

First, let me thank and congratulate my colleagues on the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure for their vision and tireless efforts in helping move this legislation. I want to give special thanks to Committee Ranking Member JIM OBERSTAR, Subcommittee Chairman SHERRY BOEHLERT, and Subcommittee Ranking Member BOB BORSKI. Their leadership and contributions have been outstanding.

H.R. 3592 is the end result of 4 years of review and preparation. In the 103d Congress, the House overwhelmingly passed H.R. 4460, a bill that should have become the Water Resources Development Act of 1994. Unfortunately, that bill did not become law, and for the first time since 1986, Congress was unable to enact WRDA legislation.

During the 104th Congress, we committed to restoring certainty to the process and fulfilling our commitment to non-Federal project sponsors, most of whom had already committed substantial funds to projects.

We conducted 4 days of hearings, receiving testimony from over 90 witnesses, including numerous members of Congress, the administration, project sponsors, national water resources and environmental organizations, and State and local officials.

The bill we bring to the floor today truly represents a fair and balanced proposal.

Mr. Speaker, H.R. 3592 accomplishes three important objectives:

First, it reflects the committee's continued commitment to improving the Nation's water infrastructure.

Second, it responds to policy initiatives to modernize Corps of Engineers activities and to achieve programmatic reforms.

Third, and this is very important, it takes advantage of Corps capabilities and recognizes evolving national priorities by expanding and creating new authorities for protecting and enhancing the environment.

In developing this bill, we have tried hard to be responsive to Members' requests; however, in today's tight fiscal climate, we simply had to establish and adhere to reasonable criteria. For example, we adhered to the cost-sharing rules established in 1986.

In fact, in the area of flood control, we have actually increased the non-Federal share for future projects. In another area, dredging for navigation projects, we have revised the rules to assure consistency and fairness in selecting methods for the disposal of dredged material.

Another criteria used in preparing this legislation was the availability of a Corps report. We have adhered to the requirement that new projects have a final Corps of Engineers report, or will have one within the next few months. This assures that projects that have undergone the Corps review process receive top priority.

Is the bill perfect? Probably not. We have heard concern about a handful of provisions and intend to address those as the bill progresses. There are some differences between H.R. 3592 and its Senate counterpart that must be resolved. In addition, I understand that the administration, while generally supportive of our approach, will suggest some changes to the bill.

Therefore, as we move forward with this important legislation, I intend to work with all parties to assure that the final product reflects a balance of all interests.

H.R. 3592 is a strong bipartisan bill. It reflects balance in every sense of the word and a responsible approach to developing water infrastructure, preserving and enhancing the environment, and strengthening Federal, State, and local partnerships.

Mr. Speaker, I strongly urge my colleagues to support the bill, and I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. BORSKI. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, it is a pleasure to join with Chairman SHUSTER, Chairman

BOEHLERT, and ranking member OBERSTAR in support of the Water Resources Act of 1996.

I want to compliment Chairman SHUSTER and Chairman BOEHLERT for the totally fair and bipartisan manner in which this bill was drafted.

The Transportation and Infrastructure Committee works best when we work together.

I am pleased that this bill marks a return to the bipartisan spirit that existed in the past.

The bill also demonstrates the Transportation and Infrastructure Committee's continuing strong commitment to investment in the Nation's infrastructure.

Harbor deepening, inland waterway improvements and flood control are vital cornerstones of our Nation's economic vitality.

The ports of America are the doors that link our Nation to billions of dollars of international trade.

In the Philadelphia area, our port supports 50,000 jobs—making a vital contribution to our regional economy.

The 11,000 mile inland waterway system provides vital transportation for bulk farm products and coal.

It is essential that we continue to provide funding for port and inland waterway projects.

We are also proposing to continue the expansion of the mission of the Corps of Engineers to improvement of environmental infrastructure.

We should be aggressive in using the talents and abilities of the Corps of Engineers to meet our huge infrastructure needs.

We should also redirect the corps' program to address the infrastructure needs of our Nation's metropolitan areas.

In flood control, this bill makes important changes that I strongly support.

We have proposed to increase the requirements for mitigation planning before structural flood control projects are built.

An upgraded mitigation program will save us money from start to finish. We will be able to reduce the cost of project construction and it is likely that we will reduce disaster relief costs.

We are also proposing an increase in the non-Federal cost sharing for flood control projects from the current minimum of 25 percent to 35 percent.

This increase is a simple recognition of our Federal budget situation.

We have dwindling resources available for these programs.

An increase in the local share will help spread Federal dollars to more projects and will help FOCUS resources on more worthy projects.

The administration proposed a 50 percent non-Federal share which would have done even more to spread scarce Federal dollars and weed out poor quality projects.

The 50 percent cost-share is something to consider in the future.

At a hearing last year, I pointed out that we should be prepared for cuts in the Corps of Engineers programs as part of general spending reductions. Unfortunately, my prediction has become a reality.

The inadequate 602(b) allocation for energy and water development appropriations shows the clear impact of the balanced budget.

We risk lasting, negative impacts on our infrastructure investment programs in the future.

We must work together on a bipartisan basis to ensure that while we are getting our Federal fiscal house in order, programs to invest in critical infrastructure needs are protected.

I hope to work with Chairman SHUSTER, Chairman BOEHLERT, and ranking member OBERSTAR in that effort in the same bipartisan manner in which we drafted the Water Resources Development Act of 1996.

I urge support for the bill.

Mr. Speaker, I want to express my thanks to the people who really made this Bill Happen—Ken Kopocis, Art, Chan, Barbara Rogers, and Pam Keller of the Democratic staff of the Water Resources and Environment Subcommittee, and Mike Strachn and the Republican staff of the subcommittee.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. SHUSTER. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to yield 2 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from Texas [Mr. DELAY], the majority whip.

Mr. DELAY. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of this legislation. While this bill authorizes a number of much needed projects to address infrastructure needs and environmental restoration throughout the Nation, I am particularly pleased with two provisions in this bill.

One of these is the authorization of funding to deepen and widen the Houston ship channel. These improvements are essential to the economic development not only of the region, but of the country generally.

The Houston ship channel is a critical economic lifeline between our Nation and the rest of the world. The Port of Houston draws cargo from every State in the Nation. It is the No. 1 U.S. port in foreign tonnage and the second busiest in total tonnage.

To remain competitive, however, the ship channel must be improved to permit faster, safer handling of cargo vessels.

The improvements authorized are also consistent with the port's and my enduring commitment to the environment.

By working with 13 Federal and State agencies, the port and the Corps of Engineers arrived at a plan that will use the dredged material from the ship channel project to create over 4,000 acres of additional marsh land to be used in developing bird islands, boater destinations, and shoreline erosion projects.

These beneficial uses have received the very strong support of several key environmental groups in the Galveston Bay area.

The second provision allows certain flood control districts to carry out flood control projects with far greater flexibility than ever before. The Harris County Flood Control District will demonstrate to the Corps of Engineers that it can design and construct flood projects faster and cheaper when it is not burdened by Federal redtape.

For too long, excessive Federal regulation has slowed the design and construction of flood projects. Many Harris County flood control projects currently in the design stage were first authorized for study in the 1940's.

Bringing these projects to the local level has the potential to save the Federal Government hundreds of millions of dollars. Without the unnecessary redtape, there can be greater efficiency and greater input from the affected community. The result will be taxpayer savings and projects being completed much more quickly.

Again, I strongly support this legislation and urge my colleagues to support it, as well.

Mr. BORSKI. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from New Jersey [Mr. PALLONE].

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding time to me.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in today in support of the Water Resources Development Act of 1996 for very important reasons: Shore protection and responsible disposal of contaminated dredged materials. I would like to thank Chairman SHUSTER Ranking Member JIM OBERSTAR, Subcommittee Chairman SHERRY BOEHLERT, and Ranking Member BOB BORSKI for their support on these critical issues—issues that are particularly important for my State, New Jersey.

Included as part of this bill is the Shore Protection Act, a bill sponsored by CLAY SHAW and myself as the co-chairs of the Congressional Coastal Caucus. This bill will clarify and reaffirm the role of the Federal Government in shore protection, and—in particular—beach nourishment activities. Congress has repeatedly rejected the administration policy to end Army Corps participation inshore protection projects. By passing this bill, we are taking the additional step of actually mandating the Federal Government's role in shore protection. And for that reason, I am pleased to support this bill.

In addition, WRDA 1996 contains provisions that are greatly significant to the responsible disposal of contaminated dredged material, and by that I mean disposal that does not include ocean dumping. These provisions will allow our ports to be dredged without threatening our ocean environment or our coastal economy. I would like to thank my colleagues from New Jersey who are on the committee—and in particular, BOB FRANKS and BOB MENENDEZ—for their hard work and support on this issue.

The port provisions in this bill will take us a long way to getting out of the ocean for dredged material disposal by providing for Federal/non-federal cost-sharing of confined disposal facilities, it will open up the Harbor Maintenance Trust Fund for use on these disposal facilities, it will allow for tipping fees to be levied for use of these facilities, it authorizes a much needed confined disposal facility for the Port of New York and New Jersey, and it reauthorizes the ongoing sediment decontamination technology demonstration project for the Port of New York and New Jersey.

Mr. Speaker, I really do again want to thank the committee, and the ranking members and the chairman of both the full committee and subcommittee, for their support. This is a very important bill for the State of New Jersey, and does a lot and goes a long way towards protecting our ocean environment.

Mr. SHUSTER. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to yield 1 minute to the distinguished gentleman from Illinois [Mr. WELLER].

Mr. WELLER. I thank the chairman of the committee for yielding time to me, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of the Water Resources Development Act, 1996, which I note passed unanimously with strong bipartisan support on the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure. This legislation is essential if we want to improve our Nation's infrastructure by improving and protecting our communities from flood problems and improve water infrastructure. This bipartisan bill will create jobs, protect property, lives, and protect the environment.

I do want to note that approximately one-fourth of the funding authorized in this bill is directly related to preserving and protecting the environment.

□ 1145

Mr. Speaker, I would like to speak very briefly about two provisions in this bill that are very important to my home State of Illinois and also to my congressional district, two provisions that will create jobs, protect property from flooding, and preserve the environment.

First, this bill authorizes a much needed stormwater retention facility in the village of Frankfort. The village experiences constant flooding of the intersections of two strategic regional arterial highways following any significant rain. Construction of this water retention facility will greatly reduce the flow rate during heavy rainfall.

The second provision I would like to touch on would provide for improvements near lock 14 for future development of a marina on the north side of the Illinois River, will bring jobs, promote tourism, and promote recreation. Both projects have bipartisan support locally.

Mr. Speaker, I thank the chairman for his help, and I ask for bipartisan support for this important legislation.

Mr. BORSKI. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Texas [Mr. BENTSEN].

Mr. BENTSEN. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. SHUSTER], the chairman of the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure, the gentleman from Minnesota [Mr. OBERSTAR], ranking member, the gentleman from New York [Mr. BOEHLERT], subcommittee chairman, and the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. BORSKI] for the opportunity to speak on this important legislation.

Mr. Speaker, the Water Resources Development Act is vital to thousands of Americans that live along our Nation's shores including those in my district. There are two important parts of this bill I would like to recognize. The first is the Houston Ship Channel widening and dredging project which will expand the capabilities of the Port of Houston to meet the challenges of expanding global trade and maintain its competitive edge as a major international port.

This port brings $5 billion annually to our area, providing 200,000 jobs and will be important as it continues to expand. It also is important because of its environmental impact, which my colleague the gentleman from Texas [Mr. DELAY] spoke of which affects Galveston Bay which part of is also in my district.

This legislation also constructively addresses the issue of Federal flood control polity reform. As Congress seeks to balance the budget, the scarcity of Federal dollars for watershed management threatens hundreds of projects in southeast Texas and around the country.

I greatly appreciate that the committee adopted legislative language proposed by myself and the gentleman from Texas [Mr. DELAY], my fellow Texan, the distinguished majority whip, which will give local agencies more control.

Giving these agencies more control, such as the Harris County Flood Control District, with the ability to construct these projects will save precious time and thus lives and property, cut Federal costs, better protect the environment, and reduce Federal disaster assistance needed to bail out communities in times of floods.

This legislation is important because it designates three test sites in Harris

County providing for local control over project design, implementation, and construction. Under this plan the Federal Government would remain a partner in flood control but local governments would gain the authority to respond more quickly and innovatively to their community's flood control needs. Federal flood control policy must adapt to increasing budgetary constraints without sacrificing public safety and environmental protection. The bottom line will be safer communities and savings for the taxpayers.

I thank my colleagues for including this in the bill, and I strongly urge all my colleagues to support the bill.

Mr. SHUSTER. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from Illinois [Mr. FLANAGAN].

Mr. FLANAGAN. Mr. Speaker, this is a great day for America as well as a great day for the residents and businesses of the Chicagoland area. After nearly a decade of fruitless effort, both Houses of Congress are finally approving a plan to preserve and protect the Chicago lakefront which is in serious jeopardy of being washed away due to the severe erosion of its protective seawall.

Included in this WRDA bill is an authorization for the Illinois Erosion Protection Project which will direct the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to assist the city of Chicago in restoring 8 miles of Lake Michigan shoreline.

The existing shoreline protection system was built between 1910 and 1930, and has outlived its design life by more than 30 years. Significant deterioration of the existing shore structures is obvious to those who live and work in that area or drive along Chicago's magnificent Lake Shore Drive.

Mr. Speaker, Lake Shore Drive, a Federal highway—US 41—as well as a major local expressway carrying traffic to and from the center of the city, was a victim of the deteriorating seawall this past spring.

On March 19th, high winds caused Lake Michigan waters to overtop the current deteriorated structures, flooding the drive and hurling chunks of the seawall onto the roadway. If the protection project is not authorized, the Army Corps predicts partial failure of the structure supporting the shorelines by 1998.

According to a Chicago Tribune editorial from this past April; "The seawall project, in which Chicago would shoulder a third of the $200 million cost, has nothing to do with pork. It has everything to do with government's responsibility to maintain public-works infrastructure that is crucial to the well-being of its citizens."

I am happy to report that today the Federal Government will not shrink from its responsibility.

Before I close, I want to take a moment to express my appreciation to Chairman SHUSTER and Water Resources Subcommittee Chairman BOEHLERT for their help and leadership in guiding this bill to the floor. My Chicago colleague, BILL LIPINSKI, a member of the Transportation and Infrastructure Committee, was instrumental in authorizing the shoreline protection project, and I thank him as well.

Mr. BORSKI. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from West Virginia [Mr. WISE], the distinguished ranking member of the Subcommittee on Railroads.

Mr. WISE. Mr. Speaker, I particularly want to thank Chairman SHUSTER, ranking Member OBERSTAR, Chairman BOEHLERT, and ranking Member BORSKI for getting this bill to the floor and impressively getting it to the floor in this fashion where it can move without controversy and move. That is the important thing.

Mr. Speaker, this bill is about investment. It is about moving coal and chemicals and commerce along our Nation's inland waterway system and through our ports. It is about providing flood protection and preventing soil erosion.

Most important for West Virginia, this bill provides the authorization to build the important Marmet locks, which are at the top of the priority list for the Army Corps of Engineers. It is about ending uncertainty for the almost 200 families in that area that have been waiting and waiting to see whether or not real estate acquisition and appraisal would begin. Not everyone supports the locks in the area but most understand that it is going to happen and the question is when.

Mr. Speaker, this bill is about giving the go to the Huntington District Corps of Engineers to get under way and to get those engineers working now and to get the real estate acquisition project started as soon as possible. It was only last week that this House was not able to fund the real estate acquisition because of the policy that the Committee on Appropriations had of not funding new starts, that is, construction starts that had not been authorized. This bill is the authorization. With this bill, that then gives the ability to begin to seek the funding that is necessary.

Mr. Speaker, with this authorization bill that passes the House today, we now have to go and conference with the Senate and work out differences in that bill. Hopefully in September, we can conference with the Senate and we can also then bring that bill back, get it approved and sent to the President and make it law before the Congress adjourns in October, and then we can begin the process of seeking the funding.

Mr. Speaker, this is an important bill, and I certainly appreciate those that have made it possible. I know a lot of people in the Marmet and Belle areas of West Virginia appreciate it, also.

Mr. SHUSTER. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from New Jersey [Mr. MARTINI].

Mr. MARTINI. I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support for the Water Resources Development Act of 1996. I want to thank the gentleman from Pennsylvania, Chairman SHUSTER, as well as the gentleman from New York, Mr. BOEHLERT, chairman of the Subcommittee on Water Resources and Environment, who worked tirelessly to put together a fair and economically responsible bill.

This bill has carefully balanced the interests of environmentalists with those in the business community and provided the language that will enable our ports to once again flourish, our citizens to be protected from flooding; our environment to be protected and our taxpayers' dollars to be wisely and not frivolously spent.

Mr. Speaker, I am also pleased to state that this bill includes authorized funds for a buyout alternative to the Passaic River Flood Tunnel. In 1994 when I ran for Congress I recognized the importance of flood protection to the citizens of my district. In addition, I recognized that there must be a more economical and environmentally sound flood control alternative to a $1.9 billion proposed flood tunnel with potential negative effects on area wetlands and the existing ecosystems.

By authorizing $194 million for the buyout alternative, we are taking great strides toward both flood protection for our citizens and environmental protection for the Passaic River, while saving taxpayers money.

The bill also includes authorization for the Molly Ann's Brook flood protection project and I am pleased that the committee treated this project with the urgency and priority that it deserves.

Once again, Mr. Speaker, I extend my thanks to the chairman for his vigorous activity in making this bill a good bill to come to the floor in a bipartisan manner and urge my colleagues to support its passage.

Mr. BORSKI. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from South Dakota [Mr. JOHNSON].

Mr. JOHNSON of South Dakota. Mr. Speaker, there is a great deal about the Water Resources Development Act of 1996 which is excellent, which is a very positive constructive piece of legislation. I have to join my colleagues, however, the gentleman from Montana [Mr. WILLIAMS] and the gentleman from North Dakota [Mr. POMEROY] in expressing my very strong opposition to one particular provision within this bill which frankly makes a mockery of the Missouri River management process that is currently taking place by the Corps of Engineers.

Currently, Mr. Speaker, we are in the midst of a 6-year, $23 million process in rewriting the Master Manual for the management of the Missouri River. Despite that, however, there is a provision within this legislation which gives priority to navigation, despite the fact that navigation accounts only for 1 percent of the economic benefit that flows from the uses of the Missouri River. It disregards flood control, recreation, drinking water, power production and wildlife, and our opposition is shared not just by the Northern Plains Members but by this administration, by the American Rivers Group, by the National Audubon Society, by the National Wildlife Federation, by the Environmental Defense Fund, by the Sierra Club, by Friends of the Earth, by the Bass Angler Sportsmens Society, the Western Association of Fish and Wildlife Agencies and other recreation, wildlife and conservation organizations.

There is no doubt that this provision, if it remains in place, would threaten water supply by mandating yearly extra releases of water from upstream reservoirs, drawing down water reserves needed in times of drought. It would increase flood risks by mandating releases of water in December after the Missouri River is frozen. It will increase power rates to western area power administration users by lowering water levels, especially during the winter, thus in turn lowering generating capacity. It will be an environmental disaster drawing down reservoir levels, pose a threat to endangered and threatened species of native fisheries, and, frankly, it will waste Federal resources already devoted to the Master Manual design.

This Congress would be better served by allowing the Corps of Engineers to pursue their Master Manual, redesign a $23 million project rather than intervening legislative with no hearings, with no public input on this major change in the management of the Missouri River.

If this bill were not on this calendar, I would be offering an amendment with my colleagues. Since it is not, and no amendments are permitted, I want to share with my colleagues that we will be working with the conference committee very carefully to see to it that this particular provision of this needed legislation is in fact stricken and that the Missouri River management can be conducted on the basis of science and proper management processes rather than by arbitrary legislative effort.

Mr. SHUSTER. Mr. Speaker, I yield such time as she may consume to the gentlewoman from Washington [Mrs. SMITH].

Mrs. SMITH of Washington. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of this legislation because it's going to create new jobs and economic opportunity in Washington State's Third Congressional District.

This bill includes a proposal that settles 20 years of controversy between the city of North Bonneville and the Federal Government. This conflict started after the town was literally moved so that the Government could build a powerhouse at the Bonneville Dam.

A key part of this settlement will free up parcels of land that the city can use for economic development.

This bill will give community leaders a chance to bring in family wage jobs and give the people of Skamania County more hope.

In addition to creating new jobs, this bill will help keep the thousands of jobs supported by international trade on the Columbia River.

This bill ensures that the Corps of Engineers will maintain safe passage on the Columbia by calling for aggressive maintenance work in the channel.

If ports in cities like Vancouver, Kalama, and Longview, are going to remain competitive internationally, they need the certainty that larger shipping vessels will be able to navigate the Columbia River safely and efficiently.

I commend Chairman BOEHLERT and Chairman SHUSTER for their hard work on this bill and I urge my colleagues to support this legislation.

Mr. SHUSTER. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from Louisiana [Mr. TAUZIN].

Mr. TAUZIN. Mr. Speaker, I thank Chairman SHUSTER and his committee for the excellent work they have done on this bill. I want to particularly call to the chairman's attention language in the bill that is extremely vital for safety, health, hurricane protection, and environmental protection matters dealing with the Parish of Terrebonne in the heart of the Third District of Louisiana. Terrebonne in French means good Earth. Yet it is threatened more and more every day by saltwater intrusion. Parish residents' safe drinking water has been threatened by rising levels of salinity. Hurricane threats to the community have been largely accumulating as a result of damage and erosion to its coastal barriers and to its coastal marshlands. One particular problem involves the Houma Navigation Canal which is a direct outlet to the Gulf of Mexico. As salinity levels rush into this canal, some 200,000 acres of sensitive marshlands are being destroyed and salinity levels are increasingly putting at risk the drinking water of the communities.

□ 1200

My understanding is that this bill will allow the corps to separate from its 3-to-5-year work on the entire Morganza, LA, to the Gulf of Mexico feasibility study the central issue of a lock structure, which the corps has already identified, under its reconnaissance and feasibility studies, as a necessary feature in its overall plans; that will permit the independent study of this lock structure in the hopes of hastening its authorization and completion; and that this particular project has been recommended not only by the State of Louisiana but by the Federal task force of the Coastal Wetlands

Planning and Protection Restoration Act, the Federal act designed to protect those sensitive coastal wetlands.

It is my understanding that that language is included. Yet because the corps may not finish this independent study by December, the bill does not yet contain an authorization to proceed with this lock structure; is that correct, Mr. Chairman?

Mr. SHUSTER. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. TAUZIN. I yield to the gentleman from Pennsylvania.

Mr. SHUSTER. Mr. Speaker, I would say to the gentleman that that is correct. Certainly it is our intention to pursue this vigorously to get the job done as quickly as possible.

Mr. TAUZIN. I would also assume that, if and when this independent study is completed, as we expect it will be, that we will have the full cooperation of the chairman of the committee in hastening the completion of this?

Mr. SHUSTER. That would certainly be my intention.

Mr. TAUZIN. I thank the chairman and appreciate his help on this.

Mr. BORSKI. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from North Dakota [Mr. POMEROY].

Mr. POMEROY. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time.

As we have heard throughout this debate, this is an important bill. It accomplishes a lot of good for many parts of the country. Unfortunately, this bill contains a poison pill relative to my part of the country, and that is the provision in this legislation that would direct the Corps of Engineers to extend navigation on the Missouri River by 1 month.

The management of our Nation's rivers is a complex thing. The more expertise we get on this issue, the more we begin to understand just how complex it is. The Corps of Engineers, in fact, are looking at the management issues attendant to the management of the Missouri River and will end up investing nearly 10 years in a revision manual effort, an effort that will cost up to $24.5 million. By exhaustive hearings and research, they will weigh and come out with a product that ultimately directs the management of this river.

Now, we are all frustrated that this process has taken so long. Upstream is frustrated, downstream is frustrated. But the way the downstream interests are reacting to their frustration is just to direct with legislative language a management priority for navigation and extend it 1 month while we are at it. It is not that simple.

That directive would shortchange and injure a variety of upstream interests, including irrigation, hydropower, municipal water supply, and flood control. The economic interests in comparison do not even compare, $1 billion of economic activity from the collection of upstream interests compared to the $10 million directly related to downstream navigation.

It is not simply an upstream-downstream deal. In fact, downstream interests are injured as well by this provision. The fact is when we extend navigation on the Missouri through the month of December, we get freeze-up, and freeze-up causes ice jams, and ice jams cause flooding ironically to the areas of the very proponents of this measure. Missouri, Iowa, Nebraska, all would be hit with floods as a result of this provision.

We need to work collectively and collaboratively in developing a plan for the Missouri River, and that effort is underway locally right now. I have a clipping quoting the Governor of Iowa opposing extending the navigation season, even though he is a downstream interest, saying, "I hate to see this become a legislative football. I think there is enough other important issues for Congress to address."

They are working and trying to resolve locally these competing interests. We should not be preempting the upstream interests with a show of legislative clout from downstream interests. That is simply not the way to manage our Nation's precious water issues.

Finally, and of great concern, is the fact that this poison pill does more than cause me heartburn. This poison pill threatens enactment of this legislation. We have assurances from the Senate that this provision will never pass and, if it is insisted in the bill, the bill will never pass. Let us pull this provision out in conference committee and enact this comprehensive very important water bill.

Mr. SHUSTER. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the distinguished gentleman from Ohio [Mr. LATOURETTE].

Mr. LATOURETTE. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time.

I rise today in the strongest support of the Water Resources Development Act of 1996. On behalf of the people that I represent back in Ohio, I want to commend the gentleman from Pennsylvania, Chairman SHUSTER, and chairman of our subcommittee, the gentleman from New York, Congressman BOEHLERT, and also the ranking members of our fine committee, the gentleman from Minnesota, Congressman OBERSTAR, and the gentleman from Pennsylvania, Mr. BORSKI, for making this a truly bipartisan bill that we can all be proud of.

This bill is good for the water resources of the Nation, it is good for the environment, and for the Great Lakes it is great. Many of the ports and harbors within the Great Lakes are suffering from light loading problems, where because of our inability to open late, dispose of dredge spoils, contaminated and otherwise, we have a situation that makes our ports and harbors non-competitive.

The environmental dredging section of this particular bill will again allow the Great Lakes' ports and harbors to be competitive for areas like Eastlake and Ashtabula and also the City of Cleveland, OH.

I thank the chair and committee for bringing this bill forward today in this manner, and I would urge every Member of this House to vote in favor of its passage.

Mr. BORSKI. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Montana [Mr. WILLIAMS].

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, I thank the ranking member for yielding me this time.

My colleagues, recognizing the importance of enacting a good Water Resources Development Act and, sadly, recalling that this bill failed to pass into law in the last Congress, and I want to see it pass this Congress, I nonetheless take this opportunity early on here to rely my objection to language in this bill which would create an entirely inappropriate mandated intervention into the proper management of the Missouri-Mississippi system.

I join my colleagues, the gentleman from South Dakota [Mr. JOHNSON] and the gentleman from North Dakota [Mr. POMEROY]. My objection as an upstream Representative is very similar to theirs.

This bill, we have been told, contains congressional directive to the Army Corps of Engineers concerning the regulation of the Missouri's main stem. The Corps of Engineers is, as we have heard, in the process of completing their plan for managing the main flow of the Missouri. This is a 10-year plan. They are in about their 6th year of it. They are very carefully developing that plan by balancing the needs of all the users along the main stem of the Missouri. Now along comes this legislation and, through a kind of a midnight slam dunk of language, we insert the mandate that upsets what the Corps of Engineers has spent all this time and money trying to do, and that is balance the uses of the Missouri.

If this bill became law as is, it would mandate, against the objections of the Corps, a late release of water downstream from the upstream reservoirs, which is greater than the Corps now things should be done.

If that late release of water goes forward, it will threaten water supply in the upstream States in a drought year. It will increase flood risks in the very critical downstream States. It is likely to raise the power rates of consumers who use WAPA. And finally, it will threaten species and native fisheries. That is probably why most of the major conservation groups in this country are opposing this language in this bill.

I urge my colleagues to agree in conference with the Senate to take this language out.

Mr. SHUSTER. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from Tennessee [Mr. WAMP], vice chairman of the subcommittee.

Mr. WAMP. Mr. Speaker, I thank the chairman and all those involved from both sides of the aisle on a job well done.

As the vice chairman of the Subcommittee on Water Resources and Environment, I strongly encourage our colleagues to support the Water Resources Development Act and remind our colleagues that behind the national defense of our country, as our ranking member, the gentleman from Minnesota [Mr. OBERSTAR] so eloquently reminds us on the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure, this was the second function of the Federal Government, to meet the basic infrastructure needs of a thankful nation. The natural disasters that we have, flooding, bank stabilization along our riverways and waterways. Very essential function of our Federal Government.

Many of these needs are met by the Army Corps of Engineers. Ladies and gentlemen, my father wore the castles of the Army Corps of Engineers on his lapels. They do good work and we are grateful for their service. The Water Resources Development Act meets real needs in real people's lives all across the country.

Earlier this year I held a field hearing in northeastern Oklahoma, where Kansas and Oklahoma and Missouri all meet. This bill meets real needs in that part of the world, in my part of the world, in the Southeastern United States. This is one of those critical functions that we are here to deliver to the people and they are waiting for this bill. Many people.

Let us come together today with an overwhelming show of support. This bill will save money. I encourage my colleagues to have an impact on the people that we are elected to represent. Vote yes enthusiastically for WRDA.

Mr. BORSKI. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself 30 seconds.

Mr. Speaker, I rise to discuss with the chairman of the committee an issue of great importance concerning a provision in this bill to extend the navigation season on the Missouri River. As my three preceding colleagues on this side of the aisle have said, extending navigation and drawing down the reservoirs in the upper Mississippi basin have the potential to negatively impact irrigation, drinking water, recreation, and hydropower uses of the river.

I am concerned this particular provision was inserted in the bill without the benefit of a hearing or comment with upstream Missouri River interests. I seek the assurances of the chairman that as we work through the conference he will be open to the concerns of the upper basin States.

Mr. SHUSTER. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. BORSKI. I yield to the gentleman from Pennsylvania.

Mr. SHUSTER. Mr. Speaker, it is certainly not the intent of the committee to harm any of the Missouri River interests with this language.

While the provision was put in response to concerns to several of our committee members, clearly all Missouri River interests must be addressed before making significant changes to the management of the Missouri River system.

I certainly will work with all Missouri River interests to bring this matter to resolution.

Mr. BORSKI. Mr. Speaker, I appreciate the assurances of the chairman. This is an important bill to many Members of the body. Many of us were disappointed when the 1994 Water Resources Development Act stalled in the Senate, in part over disputes between upstream and downstream Missouri River interests.

The Senate bill contains no provision to extend Missouri River navigation. It is my sincere desire that such disputes do not prevent passage of the 1996 water resources bill.

Mr. SHUSTER. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman will continue to yield, I thank him and the other gentlemen who have spoken on this issue for bringing their concerns to our attention. We will certainly take all of the interested parties' concerns into consideration as the bill progresses. Let me assure all of the parties that we intend to resolve this important issue in a mutually agreeable manner.

Mr. BORSKI. Mr. Speaker, I yield the balance of my time to the distinguished gentleman from Minnesota, [Mr. OBERSTAR], the ranking member of the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure.

Mr. OBERSTAR. Mr. Speaker, I want to thank the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. BORSKI] on our side for the splendid work he has done over many, many months in crafting this bill, and the gentleman from New York [Mr. BOEHLERT] for the work that he has contributed, of course to our full committee chairman, the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. SHUSTER], for bringing about a truly inclusive process to bring us to this point where we can bring this massive bill for the first time in my recollection on the suspension calendar on the House floor.

I would also like to express great appreciation to the staff members on both sides, without mentioning names, because I will certainly forget somebody. They have really worked hard and carried the burden of this very complex legislation.

Most of the cities, the great cities of our country, are cities because they were ports. They started out as ports. Seventy-five percent of the population of our Nation lives along the water. We are a Nation inextricably tied to the water as a means of transportation, as a means of commerce, as a means of livelihood, and as a means of enjoyment.

This legislation dates back to the roots of our history as a Nation and as a committee. The earliest works of the Congress were the works that our committee brings to the floor today, those that the gentleman from Tennessee [Mr. WAMP], I thought so very warmly and touchingly described in talking about his father's having served in the corps. The corps has done so much to increase the yield of our Nation by the water resources development that it undertakes in the navigation, the locks and dams, the ports, the harbors, the riverways, and we advance that cause with all of the many provisions that we bring together in this legislation.

For flood control we raise a minimum non-Federal share from 25 to 35 percent. And to help communities in the transition, we applied the new minimum only prospectively. I think that is a reasonable and responsible prudent step to undertake.

□ 1215

We also deal with the matter of dredged disposal material from the Great Lakes by providing for cost sharing and confined disposal facilities vitally important for this one-fifth of all the fresh water on the face of the Earth to provide this protection. There are many other provisions in this legislation.

Suffice it to say, this is one of the finest bills our committee has ever brought forward. I urge its adoption by the House and express my fervent hope that the other body will concur with us and bring this legislation to the President's desk for signature as soon as possible.

Mr. SHUSTER. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I particularly want to recognize the staff who made such a great contribution to this legislation and the senior staff on both sides of the aisle: Mike Strachn, Lee Forsgren, Ken Kopocis, and Art Chan, as well as the other staff who really performed in an outstanding manner.

Mr. Speaker, I yield the balance of my time to the distinguished gentleman from New York [Mr. BOEHLERT], chairman of the Subcommittee on Water Resources and Environment.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. EWING). The gentleman from New York [Mr. BOEHLERT] is recognized for 3½ minutes.

Mr. BOEHLERT. Mr. Chairman, let me begin by thanking the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. SHUSTER] and the gentleman from Minnesota [Mr. OBERSTAR], ranking minority member, for their significant input into this legislative process. And, Mr. Speaker, to the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. BORSKI], my good friend, the ranking member of the subcommittee, my special thanks for all that he has done.

Mr. Speaker, this is a product of Members of Congress from all sections of the country, from different political persuasions coming together and working together because it makes good sense for America.

I particularly want to thank Mike Strachn of the professional staff. He came to us from the Corps of Engineers. He had a very distinguished career and he has lent his expertise to us as we fashioned this very important bill. All the staff is good, but Mike is very special in my heart, and I thank him.

This bill reflects regional, environmental and Political balance. Every single American will benefit from the water resources improvements provided for in this legislation.

Our Nation's water infrastructure is critical to both the economic and environmental health of our Nation and the proposal before us today provides for continued improvement in both of these areas.

I am particularly proud of the new course that the Water Resources Development Act of 1996 charts on the environment. WRDA '96 is the "greenest" Corps bill in the history of the republic. Perhaps since the original 1899 Rivers and Harbors Act, no Congress has placed a greater emphasis than the 104th Congress on using the Corps of Engineers' considerable engineering expertise to improve the environmental quality of our Nation's lakes, rivers, and harbors.

Nearly 25 percent of all the funding in this bill will go to environmentally sensitive water infrastructure programs and projects. The legislation before us also seeks to maximize the amount of flood protection we receive for our Federal resources by changing the Federal-local cost share from 75 percent Federal-25 percent local to 65 percent Federal-35 percent local.

This change in cost share is also viewed by members of the environmental community as a step toward ensuring that the wisest path for flood control management is pursued. I strongly support this adjustment and believe it demonstrates this committee's commitment to sensible fiscal and environmental policies.

The Water Resources Development Act of 1996, beyond its impressive environmental mission, also ensures that our Nation's ports and rivers will continue to be efficient conduits for commerce.

Many claim that water transportation is the most efficient form of transportation in this country, and with the passage of WRDA '96, our Nation will enjoy this efficient mode of transportation well into the next century. Though we often take it for granted, most of the fuel we consume and the food we eat has traveled on our Nation's waterways.

I think it is evident from my remarks I am very proud of the bipartisan water resources bill, not just because I am privileged to serve as chairman of the subcommittee of jurisdiction, but because I am privileged to work with people like the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. SHUSTER], and the gentleman from Minnesota [Mr. OBERSTAR], and the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. BORSKI]; Republicans and Democrats alike, taking seriously the people's business and the mission of shaping responsible public policy.

Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to give this bill the overwhelming and enthusiastic support it deserves for all the right reasons.

Mr. DEFAZIO of Oregon. Mr. Speaker, I would like to take a moment to thank the members and staff of the Transportation and Infrastructure Committee for including language in the Water Resources Development Act which will help advance an important project in my district known as the Lower Amazon Creek restoration and protection project.

The project, which received approval previously from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers under the Water Resources Development Act section 1135 program, is currently moving into the design and cost estimate phases. Yet a small portion of the project, which was originally constructed jointly by the Corps of Engineers and the Soil Conservation Services, now known as the Natural Resources Conservation Service [NRCS], had previously been left out of the project because of an apparent lack of statutory authority by the Corps of Engineers. This portion of the project is critical to the restoration of the Lower Amazon Creek and I am encouraged that this language will foster the necessary cooperation between the Corps and the NRCS to complete this important project.

Again, I thank my colleagues for their support of this critical legislation and urge my counterparts in the Senate to support this provision of the bill.

Mr. WAMP. Mr. Speaker, I applaud the work Chairman SHUSTER and Chairman BOEHLERT, and Transportation Committee Ranking Members OBERSTAR and BORSKI have put into this bill, in a bipartisan manner, and for the excellent support the staff has given us on this bill. Their expertise on the vital issues contained in this bill is something of which the citizens of this country should be proud, and this story of how Congress helps better the lives of every American is too often untold. I'm proud of the work we're doing here.

As I recently expressed to the majority leader, it is important that we deliver on promises to our districts in ways that our constituents tell me are most vital to their everyday health and safety. Poll after poll tells us that these bread-and-butter issues are far more important to average Americans than broad, theoretical policy objectives. This bill accomplishes just that. WRDA will benefit many of our communities.

My district has several pressing needs in flood control, stream bank protection, inland waterway navigation, basic infrastructure, and environmental protection. The fundamental mission of the Corps of Engineers is widely recognized in east Tennessee. Fulfillment of our commitments to these communities, which are faced with both safety and economic concerns, can happen if H.R. 3592 gets passed into law swiftly. Unlike the fate of the WRDA bill from the last Congress, I believe that this work will get done. The other body is poised and ready, and today, we take another huge step forward.

I expect that these vital issues will not get bogged down in Presidential politics or die in conference. Ironically, these are issues in which the other body has taken the lead and House action will bring us tangible results. Mr. Speaker, I encourage our colleagues not to shrink from this task at hand because some may call this bill pork. Our process here has revolved around sound science and engineering, authorizing those projects that fit criteria and pass muster from the Corps of Engineers. My father served in the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers—wore castles on his lapels—and I know the quality of the work done through their civilian works program.

This bill is about responsibly authorizing needed works in a cost-effective manner, not simply allowing Congress to appropriate money without due process. In some cases, this bill will authorize projects at dollar amounts below original estimates because we worked with the involved parties to find better solutions than the most expensive plans out there. We increase local responsibility and expect the Federal Government to be responsive to local needs.

One final note, Mr. Speaker, You will notice that while the Corps of Engineers is very active in Tennessee, in my home State, and the six other Southeastern States served by the Tennessee Valley Authority, which also falls under the jurisdiction of this committee, we have many ongoing projects and needs that are not mentioned in this bill. That is because TVA, in its ongoing mission and existing authorization, carries out projects every year that have to compete for those same scarce appropriations dollars coming out of the energy and water bill. We all know what a squeeze is on for these dollars this year and the situation may get worse before it gets better, as we balance the Federal budget. I want to remind our colleagues that although you will see no TVA project mentioned in H.R. 3592, the Tennessee Valley region still has needs that TVA is expected to meet in the coming years. Because TVA has ongoing authority, I hope that this committee, the Appropriations Committee, and the Congress will not prejudice any TVA project that meets the same criteria as these projects listed in this bill when it comes time to funding just because it is not listed in this bill.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker, and I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. GOSS. Mr. Speaker, coming from the beautiful coastal area of southwest Florida, I know that the protection and proper stewardship of our coastal resources is vital. The Water Resources Development Act authorizes funding for the Army Corps of Engineers. The corps is doing good work in Florida—from its high-profile role in the restoration of our unique Everglades, to assisting local governments like Captiva Island with shoreline protection. I would note that the Clinton administration has tried to end the involvement of the corps in joint shoreline projects. I am pleased this bill includes legislation introduced by my Florida colleague CLAY SHAW that will overturn the President's policy and ensure the continued involvement of the corps in worthwhile beach restoration projects. Overall, this is a responsible authorization bill, and I urge my colleagues to support it.

Mr. WAMP. Mr. Speaker, I applaud the work you, Chairman BOEHLERT and ranking Members OBERSTAR and BORSKI have put into this bill, in a bipartisan manner, and for the excellent support the staff has given us during the hearing process and drafting of this bill. The expertise within this committee on the vital issues contained in this bill is something of which the citizens of this country should be proud, and this story of how Congress helps better the lives of every American is too often untold. I'm proud of the work we're doing here, and it's one of the reasons I asked to serve on this committee and under your leadership, Chairman SHUSTER.

As I recently expressed to our House majority leader, it is important that we deliver on promises to our districts in ways that our constituents tell me are most vital to their everyday health and safety. Poll after poll tells us that these bread-and-butter issues are far more important to average Americans than broad, theoretical policy objectives. This bill accomplishes just that. The fundamental mission of the Corps of Engineers is widely recognized in east Tennessee. Fulfillment of our commitments to these communities, which are faced with both safety and economic concerns, can happen if H.R. 3592 gets passed into law, and I hope that this bill will not suffer the same fate of the WRDA bill from the last Congress. Today, we take another huge step forward.

I hope these vital issues do not get bogged down in Presidential politics or die in conference. Ironically, these are issues in which the Senate has taken the lead and House action will bring us tangible results. Mr. EWING. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in support of H.R. 3592, the Water Resources Development Act of 1996. Chairman SHUSTER and Water Resources Subcommittee Chairman BOEHLERT both deserve credit for the bipartisan cooperation they have demonstrated in putting this legislation together. Because of their efforts it is no surprise that H.R. 3592 was unanimously approved by the Transportation and Infrastructure Committee.

H.R. 3592 authorizes the activities of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers through fiscal year 2000. Many provisions in the bill relate to critical flood control and marine transportation projects that will save lives and property, protect the environment, and improve commerce along many of our Nation's great rivers.

One flood control project of critical importance to my central Illinois district is in the city of Villa Grove. This is the second of the last 3 years that Villa Grove, and Douglas County, have been placed on the State and Federal disaster lists because of flooding. The city faces flooding threats from the Embarras River, which flows north-south through the city; the Jordan Slough, a tributary of the Embarras River; and the West Ditch, which collects storm water runoff from farms west of the city and runs directly through the center of Villa Grove.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has surveyed the latest damage and agreed that corrective action is appropriate. City officials have suggested diverting water from the West Ditch by grading certain runoff areas, installing box culverts in several locations, and possibly modifying the river's path outside of the city. Clearly, Villa Grove's flooding problems will only become more frequent and severe if they are not addressed in the near future.

While the Villa Grove flood control project is only a small portion of this bill, I believe it is illustrative of the kind of flood relief that many communities around the United States desperately need. To the residents of Villa Grove, H.R. 3592 is one of the most important bills this Congress will act on, and I urge all of my colleagues to support its adoption.

Mr. CRANE. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in support of H.R. 3592, the Water Resources Development Act [WRDA] of 1996. Not only is this bill a fiscally responsible approach to America's need for inland waterway and flood control projects, but it will be of substantial benefit to the environment as well. As a matter of fact, almost one quarter of the entire bill is devoted to programs and projects of an environmentally sensitive nature.

An excellent case in point is the 550 acre Des Plaines River Wetlands Demonstration Project [DPRWDP] in northern Illinois which would be reauthorized by section 502 of this bill. Originated in 1983 as a cooperative Federal, State, local, and private venture, the purpose of this project was to produce significant research information on the creation, maintenance, and restoration of wetlands. Since then, almost $9 million has been spent—$1.9 million by the Federal Government, another $1.8 million by the State of Illinois, nearly $1.7 million by local government entities, and $3.4 million by the private sector—in pursuit of that objective. The results speak for themselves, and for the reauthorization of this project so that the $2.2 million in Federal money authorized by the Water Resources Development Act of 1988 can be fully appropriated.

Since its inception 13 years ago, the DPRWDP has become an internationally recognized wetlands research effort that not only features 6 experimental wetlands cells but also a pair of wetlands mitigation banks that are demonstrating just how effectively the pressures of economic development can be reconciled with the need for environmental protection. Land that was once devoted to farming and gravel mining operations has been converted into a carefully monitored and controlled wetlands laboratory in which no less than 12 research teams from 14 different organizations, including 9 universities, have conducted, and continue to conduct, investigations into the way in which wetlands work and how they can affect such things as flooding, water quality, and habitat preservation.

As a result of all this work, over 150 articles, reports, proceedings, book chapters, abstracts, technical papers, theses, and dissertations have been published, not to mention the 50 plus newspaper, magazine, and newsletter articles that have written on the DPRWDP's research and its implications for such important public policy matters as flood control, species preservation, and water quality enhancement. For example, the August 25, 1995 New York Times carried a 2 page feature article on the DPRWDP, and a similar project in St. Charles, IL, which focused on the extent to which the existence of wetlands could prevent flooding.

So that the significance of these findings is not lost upon my colleagues, let me mention several of them specifically. One, based on the determination that a wetland can trap more than 80 percent of the sediments and nutrients contained in incoming river water, concluded that water quality in a given watershed could be improved if as little as 2 to 4 percent of that watershed were converted to wetlands. Another, evidenced by the return of flora, fauna, and four State-endangered birds to the DPRWDP site, speaks to the potential of wetlands for accommodating endangered or threatened species. And then there is the matter of flooding, the indication being that only 2 to 6 percent of a watershed need be devoted to wetlands in order to accommodate floodwaters. However, more work needs to be done before the full benefit of these and other findings can be realized. If we are to understand more fully how wetlands may best be restored and if a detailed "how-to" manual is to become available by the end of the century, then the Federal Government needs to invest more money in this project in the near future.

To achieve those objectives within that timeframe, another $7 million and perhaps more will be needed, sooner rather than later. Revenues realized from the wetlands mitigation banks at the DPRWDP site will account for some of that money and private sources may provide additional financial support. But the funds generated from those sources alone is unlikely to be sufficient to get the job done by the year 2000 unless the remainder of the $2.2 million authorized by the 1988 WRDA is actually appropriated. To date, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, whose good works are authorized by WRDA legislation, has only invested a small portion of either the $1.9 million spent by the Federal Government on the DPRWDP or the $1 million earmarked for the project in the 1992 Energy and Water appropriations measure. Not only that, but of the $125,000 or so the Corps has invested to date, none has been devoted to construction work.

Due to that combination of circumstances, the DPRWDP was deauthorized in 1993, even though it had been the recipient of nearly $2 million in Federal money over the years and it had received an appropriation as late as 1992. As a consequence, statutory language reauthorizing the project became necessary, otherwise it would not be in a position to compete effectively for subsequent Federal appropriation. WRDA legislation being the proper place for such language, I was pleased with, and gratified by, its inclusion in the committee-reported version of H.R. 3592. My thanks go to the chairman and members of the Transportation and Infrastructure Committee, and especially to the chairman and members of its Water Resources and Environment Subcommittee, for their consideration in that regard.

In closing, let me just say that enactment of this reauthorization language will pay big dividends in the future. Not only will the research data, instruction manuals, and mitigation banks generated by the DPRWDP enable Americans to conserve, construct, and restore valuable wetlands, but the insights provided will be of great benefit to those interested in controlling flooding or in accommodating necessary economic growth without compromising important environmental values. In short, the DPRWDP is a winner in every sense of the word and I urge my colleagues to give it their support by passing the legislation that contains its statutory reauthorization.

Mr. POMEROY. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong opposition to a provision in the Water Resources Development Act of 1996 which could potentially cause grave harm to the upper Missouri River basin and at the same time set a dangerous and far-reaching precedent for water management in this Nation. I am speaking of section 545 in the bill before us today. This section proposes to extend the navigation season on the Missouri River by 1 month from the current 8-month season. While seemingly insignificant, extension of the navigation season would impact irrigation, drinking water supplies, hydropower generation, flood control efforts, recreational activities, and native fisheries.

According to the Army Corps of Engineers, the most severe impacts of extending the navigation season would be on water supply upstream and flood control downstream. Extension of navigation service by 1 month would require draining almost 1 million acre feet of drought reserve storage from each of the upper basin reservoirs, including Lake Sakakawea in North Dakota. Under this provision the corps would be required to release that water regardless of upstream weather conditions. During a series of drought years, farmers in Montana, North Dakota, and South Dakota could be caught without needed irrigation water, cities and towns could be left with insufficient clean drinking water supplies, hydropower plants could lose generating capacity, and recreation areas may be left high and dry literally miles from the water. These upstream uses of the river, which result in over $1 billion in economic activity annually, would be sacrificed in a short-sighted attempt to support navigation, a minor use of the river, generating only $10 million each year.

The corps has also indicated that this reckless provision may actually lead to increased flooding risks throughout the Missouri basin. Under section 545 the corps would be required to continue navigation releases throughout December, even after the river freezes at Bismarck, ND, and Pierre, SD, increasing the risk of ice jam floods in those cities. The effects downstream, however, could be even worse. The corps has identified the stretches of the river between northwest Iowa and central Missouri as areas most heavily prone to ice jam formation. With the increased water releases expected from extending the navigation season, floods behind ice jams would be more severe than under normal flows. The ice chunks would also be larger, damaging riverbanks, dikes, and possibly even major structures like the Gavins Point Dam. Clearly, extending the navigation season makes little sense from a flood control standpoint.

Diverse interests have expressed their extreme dismay over inclusion of this provision in WRDA. The administration has asked for its removal from the bill. Eight leading environmental advocacy organizations have sent a letter to Congress opposing this attempt to hijack Missouri River management. American Rivers, National Audubon Society, National Wildlife Federation, Environmental Defense Fund, Sierra Club, Friends of the Earth, Sierra Club Legal Defense Fund, and Bass Anglers Sportsman Society all agree that lengthening the navigation season will negatively impact the entire Missouri River basin. The Western Association of Fish and Wildlife Agencies oppose inclusion of this language in the WRDA bill. Even the Governor of Iowa, a downstream State, recently spoke out against extension of navigation through legislation.

If the resounding opposition to this provision and the potential damages from enactment of this provision do not provide enough evidence for its removal its precedent-setting nature should. Section 545 was slipped into the manager's amendment of the WRDA bill at the full committee markup and only subsequently made public. No hearings were conducted to determine its effect on the Missouri basin and not 1 minute of debate was conducted about the advisability of implementing such a scheme. Now this bill is brought up under suspension with no opportunity to have a stand-alone vote on this special-interest perk. Never before has Congress spelled out specific water management policy in statute, and it should not be doing so today.

Compare, if you will, that process to the one the corps is currently completing to review and update the Missouri River master manual. The corps has spent 6 years and $23 million to conduct a thorough revision of water management on the Missouri River. Many of us are frustrated by the continual delays in the release of the master manual but that does not mean that Congress should circumvent the process. For decades, the professional engineers of the Army Corps have done their best to manage the waters of the United States to the benefit of all uses. To turn water management over to the whim of special interests and political deal-making should make all members with rivers in their districts shudder. We cannot allow the corps to be placed in a statutory straightjacket when it comes to making sound decision about water management.

Finally, Mr. Speaker, I would like to remind Members that final consideration of the 1994 WRDA stalled over upstream-downstream struggles over flood control and navigation. Many Members have necessary and valuable projects in this bill. We must not allow this provision on the Missouri River to hold up the passage of this bill through conference. I urge the chairman and ranking members of the House and Senate committees to strike this language so this necessary water bill can be enacted without delay. Upstream and downstream interests can work together to solve the vexing differences between our regions over Missouri River management. Local representatives have already begun to discuss these issues on the local level. I fervently believe that we should do everything we can to encourage those efforts and stop trying to direct water policy through congressional fiat.

AMERICAN RIVERS, BASS ANGLERS SPORTSMAN SOCIETY, ENVIRONMENTAL DEFENSE FUND, FRIENDS OF THE EARTH, NATIONAL AUDUBON SOCIETY, NATIONAL WILDLIFE FEDERATION, SIERRA CLUB, SIERRA CLUB LEGAL DEFENSE FUND

JULY 25, 1996.

DEAR MEMBER OF CONGRESS: The undersigned conservation groups are deeply concerned that a provision in H.R. 3592, the Water Resources Development Act of 1996, would lead to the extinction of several fish and wildlife species that inhabit the Missouri River and reduce opportunities for recreation. Representatives Earl Pomeroy (D-ND), Tim Johnson (D-SD), and Pat Williams (D-MT) will offer an amendment to strip H.R. 3592 of this provision, and we urge you to support this amendment.

Section 541 of H.R. 3592 would require the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to release water from the Missouri's six mainstem dams to support navigation from April 1 to December 15, regardless of the amount of water available to support other river uses. Dam releases designed solely to support navigation would not only have devastating environmental consequence but would also reduce economic benefits from hydropower, recreation and water supply. These industries—which generate more than $1 billion in economic benefits annually—would be sacrificed to support an industry that generates a mere $10 million each year.

Despite the economic and environmental impacts of the provision, the Transportation and Infrastructure Committee added Sec. 541 during full committee mark-up without hearing from a single witness. The two-page provision was included in a 70-page manager's amendment that was released to conservation groups after the Committee had already acted.

The Missouri River has been dramatically altered to support navigation. The river's six dams impound the world's largest reservoir system, blocking fish passage and altering the movement of sediment. The river between Sioux City and St. Louis, channelized to one-third of its original width, has lost more than 90 percent of its wetlands, islands, chutes and sandbars. Three federally endangered species are already jeopardized by current water management, according to the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. Many others species, including popular sportfish like blue catfish, have fallen to less than 10 percent of their historic populations. This provision would prevent the Corps of Engineers from taking steps necessary to reverse their decline and prevent their extinction.

This amendment will prevent the Corps of Engineers from reducing flood losses. Landowners farming converted side channels and backwaters are among the most flood-prone in the nation. In the wake of flooding in 1993 and 1995, federal programs rebuilt many levees twice, often spending more federal funds on repairs than the protected land was worth. Section 541 would prohibit the Corps from using the conveyance capacity of floodplain lands acquired from willing sellers to protect other floodplain land owners.

This amendment will also have high economic costs. Originally forecast to carry 12 to 20 million tons annually, commercial navigation on the Missouri River peaked at 3.3 million tons in 1977 and has fallen to just 1.5 million tons, generating $10 million in economic benefits. By contrast, Missouri River recreation generates $75 million in economic benefits, water supply generates $450 million, and hydropower generates $625 million. Missouri River navigation accounts for just 1 percent of the economic benefits produced by the river, and is the means of transportation for only one-tenth of 1 percent of the corn produced in Missouri, Kansas, Iowa and Nebraska. Just 2 percent of the wheat produced in those states is shipped by Missouri River barge.

Despite the economic insignificance of Missouri River navigation, Section 541 would direct the Corps of Engineers to extend the navigation season at enormous expense to other river industries. The provision would prevent the Corps from managing the Missouri's dams to support Mississippi River navigation during periods of low water. Section 541 would also require dam releases to support Missouri River navigation regardless of the amount of water in the system, potentially exacerbating downstream flooding or wasting precious water during droughts.

We urge you to support the amendment offered by Representatives Earl Pomeroy (D-ND), Tim Johnson (D-SD), and Pat Williams (D-MT) to strip H.R. 3592 of this provision.

STATE OF NORTH DAKOTA,

Bismarck, ND, July 26, 1996.

HON. BUD SHUSTER,

Chairman, Transportation and Infrastructure Committee, Washington, DC.

DEAR CONGRESSMAN SHUSTER: I am deeply concerned with the obviously flawed provision in H.R. 3592, the Water Resources Development Act of 1996. The bill contains language requiring the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to extend the navigation season on the Missouri River by one month, regardless of the amount of water available to support the other authorized primary uses. This provision would be devastating, especially during drought periods when system releases are to be reduced to save and ensure water in storage for all users, including navigation. This provision is ill-conceived and irresponsibly allows for abuse of our precious natural resources and is a license to steal water.

The economic and environmental impacts of Section 541 of H.R. 3592 would cause severe economic impacts to all Missouri River Basin states and their stakeholders. The current system operation is already extremely biased and heavily favors a minuscule, dwindling, archaic, heavily subsidized and highly marginal Missouri River navigation. Barge traffic produces only one percent of the annual net economic benefits derived from the management of the Missouri River. A decision by the political winds and pork barrel special interests of Washington should not destroy sensible water management. The Missouri River and its reservoirs are under the care of all of us, not a special interest group. I ask that you strike this language and leave the complicated matters of reservoir operations in the hands of the U.S. Corps of Engineers and the basin states.

Sincerely,

EDWARD T. SCHAFER

Governor.

WESTERN ASSOCIATION OF FISH AND WILDLIFE AGENCIES, RESOLUTION, OPPOSITION TO EXTENDED NAVIGATION ON THE LOWER MISSOURI RIVER

Whereas, the uses of Missouri River water for fish, wildlife, recreation, and other related beneficial purposes have been well documented; and

Whereas, the benefits of these fish, wildlife, and water-based activities have been shown to generate millions of dollars to the citizens of the United States; and

Whereas, the Corps of Engineers is nearing completion of a long-term, $20+ million review of its operating criteria and procedures (Master Manual review process) of six Missouri River impoundments; and

Whereas, all eight Missouri River basin states and all basin tribes have supported the Corps Master Manual review process; and

Whereas, the U.S. Congress is poised to legislatively require a one-month extension of navigation flow which will lower water levels in Missouri River mainstream reservoirs and severely limit the Corps operational flexibility, and this would be in contradiction to the findings of the Corps Master Manual review; and

Whereas, the impacts of lowering the water level in these reservoirs have been shown to be detrimental to fish species including native and endangered species; and

Whereas, the benefits of retaining water in mainstream reservoirs have been shown to far exceed the benefits of moving water downstream for navigation purposes on the lower Missouri; Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, that the Western Association of Fish and Wildlife Agencies, at its annual meeting on July 26, 1996, at Honolulu, Hawaii, supports deletion of Section 541 of the Water Resources Development Act of 1996 (H.R. 3592) which would require a one-month extension of the navigation season on the lower Missouri River, despite accelerating the dewatering of the reservoirs which support fish and wildlife uses, and would circumvent the Corps own review of their operating procedures.

Mrs. KELLY. Mr. Speaker, I rise in very strong support of H.R. 3592, the Water Resources Development Act, which authorizes projects and programs of the civil works program of the Army Corps of Engineers.

Mr. Speaker, this legislation is strongly bipartisan, and places special emphasis on protecting the environment. In fact, I believe it should be stressed that passage of this legislation represents an important environmental accomplishment for this Congress.

Of particular importance to the Hudson Valley, I would like to draw attention to section 551 of the act, which incorporates the provisions of legislation that I have introduced, H.R. 3471, the Hudson River Habitat Restoration Act. The legislation which we are considering today authorizes $11 million for at least four habitat restoration projects along the Hudson River basin.

Mr. Speaker, the Hudson River estuary is an important habitat to a wide range of waterfowl and aquatic species. Many important habitats along the river—wetlands, marshes, and so forth—have been degraded over the past century as industry and agriculture grew along the river. The legislation that I have introduced seeks Federal funding for critical habitat projects identified by the Corps of Engineers and New York's Department of Environmental Conservation.

I recently had the pleasure of touring one of the proposed sites, the Manitou Marsh near Philipstown in my district. Tidal marshes such as this one represent a very productive ecosystem, a wonderful habitat for raptors, waterfowl and fish, and serve to clean pollutants from the river. Road and factory construction dating from the 19th century has adversely affected the tidal flows in and out of the marsh, a problem this legislation seeks to correct.

This legislation supports an ongoing and cooperative effort that has involved various levels of government, including the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and the New York Department of Environmental Conservation, local environmental organizations, such as the Museum of the Hudson Highlands, Scenic Hudson, and the Audubon Society, as well as private sector businesses, such as Metro North Railroad.

I urge my colleagues to join me in support of this important and vital environmental legislation.

Mr. SCARBOROUGH. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in support of the Water Resources Development Act of 1996 which is being considered under suspension of the rules. It is my hope that my colleagues will support this bill and that it will be conferenced soon and sent to the President for his prompt signature.

I would like to take this opportunity to commend Chairman SHUSTER and his staff for their work on behalf of a very important project in my district. As my colleagues are aware, last year's hurricane season was especially rough on the beaches of the Florida Panhandle. We took direct hits from two major storms, Hurricanes Opal and Erin. Major damage was inflicted on northwest Florida with the most severe destruction appearing along the beautiful beaches of the Gulf of Mexico.

Panama City Beach sustained a considerable amount of damage to structures along the beach as well as to the beach itself. Since before 1970, Panama City Beach has suffered damage due to storms and erosion, a significant portion due to federally sponsored activities. In October 1995, Hurricane Opal aggravated the deterioration of the beach significantly by washing away millions of cubic yards of sand and destroying over 1,000 homes and exposing upland development to damage from future storms.

The community has been seeking Federal help since 1970 but has yet to see a single dollar. It has, however, received the commitment of over $10 million from the State of Florida as well as the commitment of local funds. Unfortunately, as of yet, the Federal share has not been appropriated even though the project meets all the criteria for Federal assistance.

However, through this bill, we were able to make this project eligible for Federal reimbursement through project modification language. This will give the community a much-needed opportunity to proceed with the project without waiting any longer for the Federal share. The residents of this coastal community cannot afford to wait another year to begin this essential beach protection project. However, it is my sincerest wish that the Panama City Beach project will receive its Federal share as soon as possible to help the community's efforts.

On behalf of the people of Panama City and its surrounding communities, I would like to thank the chairman for his work on this very important piece of legislation.

Mr. SHUSTER. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. SHUSTER] that the House suspend the rules and pass the bill, H.R. 3592, as amended.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds having voted in favor thereof) the rules were suspended and the bill, as amended, was passed.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

Mr. SHUSTER. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to take from the Speaker's table the Senate bill (S. 640) to provide for the conservation and development of water and related resources, to authorize the Secretary of the Army to construct various projects for improvements to rivers and harbors of the United States, and for other purposes, and ask for its immediate consideration in the House.

The Clerk read the title of the Senate bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Pennsylvania?

There was no objection.

The Clerk read the Senate bill, as follows:

S. 640

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SEC. 303. NATIONAL DAM SAFETY PROGRAM.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress finds that—

(1)(A) dams are an essential part of the national infrastructure;

(B) dams fail from time to time with catastrophic results; and

(C) dam safety is a vital public concern;

(2) dam failures have caused, and may cause in the future, loss of life, injury, destruction of property, and economic and social disruption;

(3)(A) some dams are at or near the end of their structural, useful, or operational life; and

(B) the loss, destruction, and disruption resulting from dam failures can be substantially reduced through the development and implementation of dam safety hazard reduction measures, including—

(i) improved design and construction standards and practices supported by a national dam performance resource bank located at Stanford University in California;

(ii) safe operation and maintenance procedures;

(iii) early warning systems;

(iv) coordinated emergency preparedness plans; and

(v) public awareness and involvement programs;

(4)(A) dam safety problems persist nationwide;

(B) while dam safety is principally a State responsibility, the diversity in Federal and State dam safety programs calls for national leadership in a cooperative effort involving the Federal Government, State governments, and the private sector; and

(C) an expertly staffed and adequately financed dam safety hazard reduction program, based on Federal, State, local, and private research, planning, decisionmaking, and contributions, would reduce the risk of the loss, destruction, and disruption resulting from dam failure by an amount far greater than the cost of the program;

(5)(A) there is a fundamental need for a national program for dam safety hazards reduction, and the need will continue; and

(B) to be effective, such a national program will require input from, and review by, Federal and non-Federal experts in—

(i) dam design, construction, operation, and maintenance; and

(ii) the practical application of dam failure hazard reduction measures;

(6) as of the date of enactment of this Act—

(A) there is no national dam safety program; and

(B) the coordinating authority for national leadership concerning dam safety is provided through the dam safety program of the Federal Emergency Management Agency established under Executive Order 12148 (50 U.S.C. App. 2251 note) in coordination with members of the Interagency Committee on Dam Safety and with States; and

(7) while the dam safety program of FEMA is a proper Federal undertaking, should continue, and should provide the foundation for a national dam safety program, statutory authority is needed—

(A) to meet increasing needs and to discharge Federal responsibilities in dam safety;

(B) to strengthen the leadership role of FEMA;

(C) to codify the national dam safety program;

(D) to authorize the Director of FEMA to communicate directly with Congress on authorizations and appropriations; and

(E) to build on the hazard reduction aspects of dam safety.

(b) PURPOSE.—The purpose of this section is to reduce the risks to life and property from dam failure in the United States through the establishment and maintenance of an effective national dam safety program to bring together the expertise and resources of the Federal and non-Federal communities in achieving national dam safety hazard reduction.

(c) DAM SAFETY PROGRAM.—Public Law 92-367 (33 U.S.C. 467 et seq.) is amended—
