Semiannual Regulatory Agenda

AGENCY: Office of the Secretary, Interior.

ACTION: Semiannual regulatory agenda.

SUMMARY: This notice provides the semiannual agenda of rules scheduled for review or development between October 1999 and April 2000. The Regulatory Flexibility Act and Executive Order 12866 require publication of the agenda.

ADDRESSES: Unless otherwise indicated, all agency contacts are located at the Department of the Interior, 1849 C Street NW., Washington, DC 20240.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: You should direct all comments and inquiries with regard to these rules to the appropriate agency contact. You should direct general comments relating to the agenda to the Office of Executive Secretariat, Department of the Interior, at the address above or on 202-208-5257 or 202-208-3071.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: With this publication, the Department satisfies the requirement of Executive Order 12866 that the Department publish an agenda of rules that we have issued or expect to issue and of currently effective rules that we have scheduled for review.

Simultaneously, the Department meets the requirement of the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601 et seq.) to publish an agenda in April and October of each year identifying rules that will have significant economic effects on a substantial number of small entities. We have specifically identified in the agenda rules that will have such effects.

For this edition of the Department's regulatory agenda, we have included the most important significant regulatory actions in The Regulatory Plan, which appears in part II of today's Federal Register. The table of contents below lists the Regulatory Plan entries and denotes them by a bracketed bold reference that directs the reader to the appropriate sequence number in part II.

Dated: November 4, 1999.

1521. NATURAL RESOURCE DAMAGE ASSESSMENTS: TYPE B PROCEDURES

Priority: Other Significant. Major status under 5 USC 801 is undetermined.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 9651(c)

CFR Citation: 43 CFR 11

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: CERCLA and the Clean Water Act allow natural resource trustees to bring a claim against a potentially responsible party for resources that have been injured by a release of a hazardous substance. CERCLA requires that natural resource damage assessment regulations be promulgated and that the regulations be reviewed, and revised as appropriate, every two years. This rulemaking is the biennial review of the administrative process for conducting assessments as well as the so-called "type B" procedures for determining injury and damages through scientific and economic studies. This rulemaking will also address the calculation of lost non-use values of natural resources, in compliance with State of Ohio v. Department of the Interior, 880 F.2d 432 (D.C. Cir. 1989), which ordered the Department to allow for the assessment of all reliably calculated values lost as a result of a natural resource injury.

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This proposed rule would implement the Secretary of the Interior's June 1, 1993, recommendation to Congress that the Department promulgate regulations addressing rights-of-way pursuant to R.S. 2477 across lands now administered by the Bureau of Land Management, the National Park Service, and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. R.S. 2477—a provision adopted in 1866 that granted a right-of-way for the construction of highways across public land not reserved for public uses—was repealed in 1976 but valid existing rights-of-way were not terminated. This proposed rule is intended to clarify the meaning of the statute and provide a workable administrative process and standards for recognizing valid claims.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1531 et seq

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 17

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Service proposes endangered species status pursuant to the Endangered Species Act of 1973 for the Wenatchee Mountains checker-mallow (Sidalcea oregana var calva). This plant is endemic to meadows that have surface water on saturated soil in the spring and early summer at middle elevations in the Wenatchee Mountains of Chelan county, Washington. Although five populations of this plant are known, three of these have very few individuals. The estimated total number of plants is about 3,300. The primary threats to this plant include alterations of hydrology, rural residential development and associated activities, competition from native and alien plants, recreation fire suppression and activities associated with fire suppression. To a lesser extent, the taxon is threatened by livestock grazing road construction and timber harvesting and associated impacts including changes in surface-runoff in the small watersheds in which the plant occurs. This proposal, if made final, would implement the Federal protection and recovery programs of the Act for this plant.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1531 et seq

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 17

Abstract: The Service proposes to list as endangered in the United States the short-tailed albatross. Due to an oversight when the foreign and native species lists of the 1969 Endangered Species Conservation Act were merged, the U.S. population of this species was not listed. This proposed listing, if made final, would extend endangered status throughout the species' range. The species nests on certain Japanese islands but ranges into U.S. coastal waters.

Abstract: The Service proposes to remove the Dismal Swamp Southeastern Shrew from the list of endangered and threatened wildlife. New data indicate that this species is more widely distributed than previously believed, is fairly abundant within its range, occurs in a wide variety of habitats, and is genetically secure. Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1531 et seq

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 17

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory, July 8, 1999.

Abstract: The Service proposes to list the contiguous States population of the Canada lynx as threatened, with a special rule, pursuant to the Endangered Species Act of 1973, as amended. This population segment includes the States of Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Montana, Utah, Wyoming, Colorado, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan, Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, New York, Pennsylvania, and Massachusetts. The contiguous U.S. population segment of the Canada lynx is threatened by human alteration of forests, low numbers as a result of past overexploitation, expansion of the range of competitors (bobcats, coyotes), and elevated levels of human access into lynx habitat. This rule also lists the captive population of Canada lynx within the coterminous U.S. (lower 48) as threatened due to similarity of appearance with a special rule.

1571. CAPTIVE-BRED WILDLIFEPriority: Substantive, NonsignificantLegal Authority: 16 USC 1531 et seqCFR Citation: 50 CFR 17Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Fish and Wildlife Service regulates certain activities involving non-native endangered or threatened wildlife species that are born in captivity in the United States. Currently, this is accomplished by requiring persons who wish to conduct otherwise prohibited activities with such wildlife to register with the Service to obtain a captive-bred wildlife or CBW registration. These regulations will be reviewed to determine if further action is necessary to relieve certain restrictions on the public that may have become burdensome, counterproductive, or outmoded.

Additional Information: On June 11, 1993, the Service published a proposed rule that would revise the captive-bred wildlife regulations and the definitions of the terms "harass" and "enhance the propagation or survival." During the 90-day comment period, extensive comments on the proposal were received. The Service has decided to eliminate education as the sole basis for justifying issuance of a captive-bred wildlife registration, and a final rule to that effect was published on December 27, 1993 (58 FR 68323). The Service will split this action into three final rules and reopen the comment period on the balance of the issues in the proposals including the question of the value of education as it relates to endangered species permits.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1531 et seq

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 17

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Recent taxonomic work concluded that specific rank is warranted for the Virgin River chub, a federally listed endangered species found in the Virgin River system of Arizona, Nevada, and Utah. Additionally, researchers concluded that the chub in the Muddy River of Nevada is conspecific with the Virgin River chub. Previously this distinctive population of the Virgin River chub a category 2 candidate for Federal listing, was considered a separate, unnamed subspecies of roundtail chub, and was referred to as the Moapa roundtail chub. Because of this recent taxonomic work, the Service accepts that specific rank is warranted for the Virgin River chub and proposes to change the listing of the Virgin River chub in the Virgin River from a subspecies to a vertebrate population segment in the List of Endangered and Threatened Wildlife. In addition, the Service initiates a status review of the Virgin River chub in the Muddy River to determine whether this vertebrate population warrants listing as a threatened or endangered species.

Abstract: The Service proposes endangered status pursuant to the Endangered Species Act of 1973 for two plants (Baker's larkspur and yellow larkspur). These species grow in a variety of habitats including coastal prairie, coastal scrub or chaparral in Sonoma and Marin counties in northern California. Habitat loss and degradation sheep grazing, road maintenance activities, and overcollection imperil the continued existence of these plants. Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1531 et seq

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 17

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Service proposed endangered status for ione buckwheat (a perennial herb) and threatened status for ione manzanita (an evergreen shrub of the heath family). These two species occur primarily on gravelly clay soils with iron-oxide crust within chaparral (derived from the iron formation) in Amador or Calaveras counties in the central Sierra Nevada foothills of California. They are imperiled by one or more of the following factors: mining, clearing of vegetation for agriculture and fire protection, disease, inadequate regulatory mechanisms, habitat fragmentation, residential and commercial development, changes in fire frequency, and continued erosion due to prior off-road vehicle use. Random events increase the risk to the few, small populations of ione buckwheat. Ownership of most occurrences of these two species is private. One population of each occurs on Federal land managed by the Bureau of Land Management. Other potential Federal involvement includes the use of Federal highway funds, the permitting of lignite or coal mines through the Office of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, and the relicensing of hydro-electric projects by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission.

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 17

Abstract: The Service proposes threatened status pursuant to the Endangered Species Act of 1973, as amended, for Newcomb's snail. This freshwater snail is restricted to the Hawaiian Island of Kauai. The known historic distribution of this snail has greatly decreased and extant populations are presently limited to restricted habitats on five perennial streams on State land. The five known populations of this snail and its habitat are currently threatened by predation by a species of non-native predatory snail and two species of non-native marsh flies. These populations are also subject to an increased likelihood of extirpation from naturally occurring events, including natural disasters such as hurricanes and landslides. All populations of this species occur on State-owned lands.

Abstract: The Service proposes to list Sidalcea keckii (Keck's sidalcea) as endangered pursuant to the Endangered Species Act of 1973. This annual herb (belonging to the mallow family) is threatened by urban development, agricultural land conversion, and random events. The species (found on sparsely vegetated slopes of serpentine-derived clay in annual grasslands) is known only from one population in the south-central Tulare County on private land and is not in an approved habitat conservation plan. The likelihood of any Federal involvement is small, however, the Bureau of Reclamation's renewal of the Central Valley Project Friant water contracts may affect the species.

Abstract: The Service proposes endangered status pursuant to the Endangered Species Act of 1973 for two animals, the Kauai Cave Wolf Spider and the Kauai Cave Amphipod. These two species are found on the Hawaiian Island of Kauai. The Kauai Cave Wolf Spider is known from two populations and the Kauai Cave Amphipod is known from four populations. These animals and their habitats have been variously affected or are currently threatened by the following: habitat degradation/loss from development; competition for space water, and nutrients by naturalized introduced animals; biological/chemical pesticide use; and an increased likelihood of extinction from proposed development activities and naturally occurring events. This proposal, if made final, would extend Federal protection and recovery provisions of the Act for these animal taxa. Additionally, Hawaii State regulations protecting these animals would be triggered. All populations of these species occur on privately owned lands.

This species is restricted to wet swales and meadows in Douglas County, Oregon where only 10 occurrences are known. Most populations are small with few individuals. The total estimated number of plants is 3,000 within a combined area of about 10 acres (most on private land). Threats to this species include destruction and/or alteration of habitat by development and hydrological changes (e.g., wetland fills, draining, construction); spring and summer grazing by domestic cattle, horses, and sheep; roadside maintenance; and competition from native and alien plant species.

1612. ENDANGERED AND THREATENED WILDLIFE AND PLANTS; PROPOSED REVISION OF SPECIAL REGULATIONS FOR GRAY WOLF

Priority: Substantive, NonsignificantLegal Authority: 16 USC 1531 et seqCFR Citation: 50 CFR 17Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: On November 22, 1994, the Service published special rules to establish nonessential experimental populations of gray wolves in Yellowstone National Park and central Idaho. The nonessential experimental population areas include all of Wyoming, most of Idaho, and much of central and southern Montana. This proposed revision is to amend a section of the special regulations so that it clearly applies within the Yellowstone nonessential experimental population area and the central Idaho nonessential experimental population area as described in 7(ii). Ongoing litigation requires the clarification of the Service's need and authority to remove these animals from the area through live capture or lethal means in the interest of attaining gray wolf recovery goals. This proposed change will not affect any of the assumptions and earlier analysis made in the environmental impact statement or other portions of the special rules.

Priority: Substantive, NonsignificantLegal Authority: 16 USC 1531 et seqCFR Citation: 50 CFR 17Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Service proposes endangered status pursuant to the Endangered Species Act of 1973, as amended, for the Oahu elepaio. This bird is endemic to the Island of Oahu, Hawaii, where it was formerly found in all forested areas on the island. It is currently found in greatly reduced numbers and range in six isolated populations occurring in mid-elevation forests in the southern Koolau mountain range and parts of the Waianae mountain range. The Oahu elepaio is now thought to occupy less than 8 percent of its original, prehistoric range. It may have been affected in the past or continue to be threatened by one or more of the following: habitat degradation, including habitat fragmentation; population fragmentation; predation by introduced alien mammals; competition from introduced alien birds, and introduced avian disease. The Oahu elepaio is also subject to an increased likelihood of extinction from naturally occurring events including natural disasters.

Abstract: The Service proposes to list Howell's spectacular thelypody as threatened pursuant to the Endangered Species Act of 1973, as amended. This plant is known from 11 sites in Baker and Union Counties, OR, all on privately-owned land. This taxon is threatened by a variety of factors including habitat destruction and fragmentation from agricultural and urban development grazing by domestic livestock, competition from non-native vegetation, and alterations of wetland hydrology.

Abstract: The Service proposes endangered status pursuant to the Endangered Species Act of 1973, as amended, for Willamette daisy and Fender's blue butterfly and threatened status for Kincaid's lupine. These species are restricted to native prairie in the Willamette Valley in Oregon and currently are known from a few small remnants of a formerly widespread distribution. In addition to its Oregon occurrences, Kincaid's lupine also is known from one small site in southern Washington. The three taxa are threatened by one or more of the following: commercial and/or residential development, agriculture, silviculture, road improvement, over-collection, herbicide use, and naturally occurring demographic and random environmental events.

Abstract: The Service proposes to list the plant Zapata bladderpod as an endangered species under the Endangered Species Act of 1973, as amended. It is known from four locations in Zapata and Starr Counties, Texas (private land, highway right-of-way, and NWR land). This species is threatened by increased urban development highway construction, increased oil and gas activities alteration and conversion of native plant communities to improved pastures, overgrazing, and potential vulnerability from lowered genetic diversity due to presently low population numbers.

Abstract: The Service proposes endangered status pursuant to the Endangered Species Act of 1973, as amended, for one plant, Kneeland prairie pennycress. This plant is known from Kneeland prairie in Humboldt County, CA, where it grows in coastal prairie on serpentine outcrops. Habitat loss, potential road realignment and proposed airport expansion activities imperil the continued existence of this plant. The restricted range of this species limited to a single population, increases the risk of extinction from naturally occurring events such as fire.

Abstract: The Service proposes to list the Pecos pupfish as an endangered species under the authority of the Endangered Species Act of 1973, as amended. The historical range of the Pecos pupfish included the mainstream Pecos River from the vicinity of Roswell Chaves County, New Mexico, downstream to the vicinity of Sheffield, Pecos County, Texas, and included various lakes gypsum sinkholes, saline springs, and tributaries associated with the river. The primary reason for the rapid range reduction is hybridization with and/or replacement by the Sheepshead minnow, a nonnative species introduced into the Pecos River between 1980 and 1984.

1636. ENDANGERED AND THREATENED WILDLIFE AND PLANTS; PROPOSED ESTABLISHMENT OF NONESSENTIAL EXPERIMENTAL POPULATION STATUS FOR 16 FRESHWATER MUSSELS AND 1 FRESHWATER SNAIL

Priority: Substantive, NonsignificantLegal Authority: 16 USC 1531 et seqCFR Citation: 50 CFR 17Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Service proposes to establish nonessential experimental population (NEP) status for 16 freshwater mussels and 1 freshwater snail in the free-flowing reach of the Tennessee River below Wilson Dam, Colbert and Lauderdale Counties, Alabama. None of these species are currently known to exist in this river reach or its tributaries. Thus, to ensure that any reintroduced species that may move into the tributaries are covered by these NEP designations, we also propose that the geographic boundaries of the NEPs include the lower 5 miles (8 km) of all tributaries that enter the Wilson Dam tailwater.

The wool and shawls made from it are in great demand on the black market, resulting in the slaughter of thousands of these animals annually. Priority: Other Significant

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1; 16 USC 3; 16 USC 20

CFR Citation: 36 CFR 51

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The National Park Service is proposing to revise existing regulations governing the award of concession contracts. Title IV of Public Law 105-391 (the National Park Service Concessions Management Improvement Act of 1998) became effective on November 13, 1998, and repealed Public Law 89-249, the Concessions Policies Act of 1965. The new Act mandates revised procedures for issuing concession contracts as well as revised terms and conditions to be included in concession contracts. Section 417 of Public Law 105-391 requires the Secretary to issue implementing regulations as soon as practicable after the effective date of the Act. Existing regulations governing the concession contracting process are in conflict with several provisions of the new law and must be revised to reflect new statutory requirements. The proposed rule will affect approximately 625 concessioners operating within areas administered by NPS.

a section designating areas open to aircraft use within the Park. This addition is necessary because National Park Service general regulations require such special regulatory designations for areas in parks open to the operation or use of aircraft. The intended effects are to increase safety, protect resources, and provide appropriate enjoyment to park users.

Abstract: This rule will designate trail crossings of snowmobile trails at three locations along the Appalachian National Scenic Trail. These trail crossings are part of a State-approved network of snowmobile routes that exist on adjacent State lands. These crossings existed prior to the NPS assuming management of the National Scenic Trail. Designating these crossings fulfills assurances made by the NPS at the time of land acquisition that establishment of the permanent linear trail corridor would not sever established snowmobile routes.

Priority: Other Significant. Major status under 5 USC 801 is undetermined.

Legal Authority: 25 USC 640(d)

CFR Citation: 25 CFR 161

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: These regulations are necessary for implementation of the livestock and grazing control provisions of 25 USC 640(d). In 1982 the Federal District Court for Arizona abolished 25 CFR 153 Grazing Regulation for the Joint Use Administrative Area and ordered the Secretary to promulgate new regulations for the control of grazing and livestock for the former Joint Use Administrative Area. Due to a lack of tribal concurrence regulations were not promulgated for lands partitioned to the Navajo tribe. Navajo tribal concurrence has been recently obtained; therefore, the BIA needs to move forward with publication of these regulations. Any cost associated with the implementation of these regulations will be assumed within the BIA annual budget. Cost associated with compliance of the provisions of these regulations will be borne by the Navajo tribe or its members. There is no associated cost to the general public.

This rule will implement the terms of the memorandum. It will ensure that 35 Gulf of Mexico and 10 California producer-operated pipelines are regulated by the Department of the Interior.

Priority: Substantive, Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 43 USC 1331 et seq

CFR Citation: 30 CFR 250

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Recent rapid growth in offshore exploration and production activities in the Gulf of Mexico has led to an increase in accidents and fatalities. Since safety is our top priority, we must upgrade our accident investigation functions. To do this, we need accurate and timely information. This rule is the only way to require operators, lessees, and permit holders in the Outer Continental Shelf (OCS) to give us a written report about each OCS accident. It will also establish clearer guidelines for accident reporting thresholds and timing.

Abstract: This rule is a complete rewrite in plain English and changes the current regulation by both adding and deleting language. Although some of these changes could be considered significant when compared to the current regulations, they support the policies and procedures now in place. Abstract: Responsibilities of Minerals Management Service include the collection of royalties, bonuses, rentals, and related revenues from Federal and Indian mineral leases. These monies are, for the most part, collected from the current designated payor on the lease. However, if MMS is unable to collect from the current payor, it must pursue collections from prior payor(s), the lessee, or an assignee of the lease. Existing regulations are unclear as to the responsibilities and liabilities of the parties involved. Therefore, MMS is amending its regulations to clarify payor, lessee, and assignee requirements and responsibilities for Indian mineral leases and Federal solid mineral and geothermal leases.

Priority: Other Significant

Legal Authority: 43 USC 390aa to 390zz

CFR Citation: 43 CFR 428

Abstract: During the Reclamation Reform Act of 1982 (RRA) rulemaking completed in December 1996, the Department of the Interior received a number of comments regarding the compliance of certain large trusts with the acreage limitation provisions of the RRA. Comments expressed a variety of viewpoints, including the assertion that some trusts with landholdings (owned and leased land) in excess of 960 acres may circumvent the requirements of Federal reclamation law. The Department is now evaluating comments received and developing a final rule to address this issue.
