Private Law 96–79
96th Congress

An Act
For the relief of Michael G. Macdonald.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the Secretary of the Treasury shall pay to Michael G. Macdonald of Alexandria, Virginia, in a lump sum, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, the sum of $12,122.21. The payment of such sum shall be in full satisfaction of all claims of such individual against the United States for the demurrage charges paid by such individual with respect to the dockside storage of the household goods and personal effects of such individual in London, England, beyond the sixty-day temporary storage time limit authorized by regulations prescribed under subchapter II of chapter 57 of title 5, United States Code. The dockside storage of such goods (from June 1974 until May 1975) was necessitated by the lack of storage space either at the United States Embassy in London, England, to which such individual had been assigned as politico-military attaché, or at the temporary accommodations occupied by such individual and his family while waiting for Government-furnished quarters to become available.

SEC. 2. It shall be unlawful for any amount in excess of 10 per centum of the lump-sum payment designated in the first section of this Act to be paid to or received by any agent or attorney in consideration for services rendered in connection with such lump-sum payment. Any person who violates the preceding provisions of this section shall be fined not more than $1,000.

Approved December 18, 1980.
