MEMORANDUM AND ORDER

This criminal case is before the court on the defendant’s motion for sentence reduction [doc. 376]. Through counsel, the defendant asks the court to reduce his sentence pursuant to 18 U.S.C. § 3582(c)(2) and in accordance with Amendments 782 and 788 to the United States Sentencing Guidelines Manual (“U.S.S.G.”). The government has responded [doc. 380], deferring to the court’s discretion whether and to what extent to grant any such reduction, subject to the limitations of 18 U.S.C. § 3582(c)(2) and U.S.S.G. § 1B1.10.

I. Authority

“Federal courts are forbidden, as a general matter, to modify a term of imprisonment once it has been imposed, but the rule of finality is subject to a few narrow exceptions.” Freeman v. United States, 131 S. Ct. 2685, 2690 (2011) (internal citation and quotation marks omitted). One such exception is identified in 18 U.S.C. § 3582(c)(2):

[I]n the case of a defendant who has been sentenced to a term of imprisonment based on a sentencing range that has subsequently been lowered by the Sentencing Commission . . . , the court may reduce the term of imprisonment, after considering the factors set forth in [18 U.S.C.] section 3553(a) to the extent that they are applicable, if such a reduction is consistent with applicable policy statements issued by the Sentencing Commission.

In determining whether a defendant has been sentenced to a term of imprisonment based on a sentencing range that has subsequently been lowered by the Sentencing Commission, the court must first identify “the amended guideline range that would have been applicable to the defendant had the relevant amendment been in effect at the time of the initial sentencing.” Dillon v. United States, 560 U.S. 817, 827 (2010) (internal quotation marks and citation omitted); see also U.S.S.G. § 1B1.10(b)(1) (2016). Amendment 782, which became effective on November 1, 2014, revised the guidelines applicable to drug-trafficking offenses by reducing the offense levels assigned to the drug and chemical quantities described in guidelines 2D1.1 and 2D1.11. See U.S.S.G. app. C, amend. 782 (2014). Amendment 788, which also became effective on November 1, 2014, identified Amendment 782 as retroactive. See id., amend. 788.

Other than substituting Amendment 782 for the corresponding provision applicable when the defendant was originally sentenced, the court “shall leave all other guideline application decisions unaffected.” See U.S.S.G. § 1B1.10(b)(1) (2016). The court “shall not” reduce a defendant’s term of imprisonment to a term “less than the minimum of the amended guideline range,” nor to a term “less than the term of imprisonment the defendant has already served.” Id. § 1B1.10(b)(2)(A), (C).¹ In addition, the commentary to guideline 1B1.10 provides that a court must also consider the § 3553(a) sentencing factors and the danger to the public created by any reduction in a defendant’s sentence. See id. cmt. n.1(B). A court may also consider a defendant’s post-sentencing conduct. See id.

II. Factual Background

By judgment dated March 9, 2010, this court sentenced the defendant to a 180-month term of imprisonment as to each of Counts One and Two (methamphetamine offenses), to be served concurrently for a net sentence of 180 months. The defendant’s guideline range was 292 to 365 months, based on a total offense level of 40 and a criminal history category of I.

Prior to sentencing, the United States filed a motion for downward departure pursuant to U.S.S.G. § 5K1.1. The court granted the motion and departed downward to 180 months, a reduction of 38 percent from the bottom of the guideline range. According to the Bureau of Prisons, the defendant is presently scheduled for release on April 3, 2022.

III. Analysis

Applying Amendment 782, the defendant’s new guideline range is 235 to 293 months, based on a total offense level of 38 and a criminal history category of I. Thus, the defendant was originally sentenced to a term of imprisonment based on a sentencing range that has subsequently been lowered by the Sentencing Commission. A corresponding 38 percent substantial assistance reduction from the bottom of the new guideline range would result in a sentence of 146 months.

The court has considered the filings in this case, along with the relevant 3553(a) factors. Additionally, the court has considered the danger to the public as the result of any reduction in the defendant's sentence, the seriousness of the offenses, the defendant's post-sentencing conduct, and the need to protect the public. See id. § 1B1.10 cmt. n.1(B)(ii). Having done so, the court finds that the defendant should be granted a sentence reduction.

The defendant has twice been sanctioned for disciplinary infractions since he was sentenced. Each infraction (use of alcohol and possession of a handcuff key) is alarming in light of the defendant's history of polysubstance abuse, his role in the offenses of conviction, and his substantial arrest record. However, the court finds that each infraction has been sufficiently sanctioned by the Bureau of Prisons through the loss of good time credit. The defendant is nonetheless reminded that upon his release from imprisonment he will be subject to a five-year term of supervision. During that period, similar violations will likely land him back before this court on a petition for revocation of his supervised release.

IV. Conclusion

For the reasons stated herein, the defendant's motion for sentence reduction [doc. 376] is GRANTED. The defendant's term of imprisonment is reduced to 146 months as to each of Counts One and Two, to be served concurrently for a net sentence of 146 months. This sentence includes a corresponding 38 percent substantial assistance reduction from the bottom of the new guideline range.

Except as provided above, all provisions of the judgment dated March 9, 2010, shall remain in effect.

IT IS SO ORDERED.
