WHAT:

The U.S. Government Printing Office (GPO) will host the INTERQUEST 2012 Digital Printing in Government & Higher Education Forum. Acting Public Printer Davita Vance-Cooks will deliver the keynote address focusing on GPO's Strategic Plan and use of digital technology to transform the agency into the digital information platform for the Federal Government and provider of secure credentials. Today, 97 percent of Government information is born digital and only published to the Web, thus GPO has reinvented itself to serve the digital information needs of Congress, Federal agencies, and the public. INTERQUEST is a market and technology research and consulting firm in the field of digital printing and publishing.
