PRESIDENT OBAMA'S INAUGURAL CEREMONY AVAILABLE ON GPO'S FEDERAL DIGITAL SYSTEM

WASHINGTON – The U.S. Government Printing Office (GPO) makes the proceedings of President Barack Obama's inauguration, including the President's inaugural address, available on GPO's Federal Digital System (FDsys). GPO launched FDsys in January 2009, at the beginning of the Obama Administration. Since that time, FDsys has expanded to include 700,000 searchable titles and has experienced more than 400 million document retrievals. FDsys is a one-stop site to authentic, published information on the three branches of the Federal Government. The public can access the record of the inauguration ceremony in the Congressional Record, which is the official publication of the inaugural proceedings.

GPO is the Federal Government's official, digital, secure resource for producing, procuring, cataloging, indexing, authenticating, disseminating, and preserving the official information products of the U.S. Government. The GPO is responsible for the production and distribution of information products and services for all three branches of the Federal Government, including U.S. passports for the Department of State as well as the official publications of Congress, the White House, and other Federal agencies in digital and print formats. GPO provides for permanent public access to Federal Government information at no charge through our Federal Digital System (www.fdsys.gov), partnerships with approximately 1,200 libraries nationwide participating in the Federal Depository Library Program, and our secure online bookstore.
