GPO'S PUEBLO DISTRIBUTION CENTER HITS THE ONE BILLION MARK

WASHINGTON – The U.S. Government Printing Office's (GPO) Congressman Frank Evans Document Distribution Center in Pueblo, Colorado achieved the milestone of distributing more than one billion consumer publications. The one billionth publication distributed was the General Services Administration's (GSA) Consumer Information Catalog, which lists approximately 200 free and low-cost publications available to the public from Federal agencies on topics related to money, health, employment, housing, federal programs, education and travel. The center started distributing the catalog in 1973 and it was one of the first publications made available to the public since the center opened in 1971.

Employees at the Congressman Frank Evans Pueblo Document Distribution Center work with GSA's Federal Citizen Information Center to process and distribute orders for consumer publications worldwide. The center has a reputation for excellent customer service and consistently scores high on customer satisfaction surveys.

"For more than 40 years, the Pueblo distribution center has helped GPO carry out its mission of Keeping America Informed by fulfilling orders for consumer-related publications," said Acting Public Printer Davita Vance-Cooks. "I congratulate the employees on achieving this milestone and helping people around the world have access to important Government information."

GPO is the Federal Government's official, digital, secure resource for producing, procuring, cataloging, indexing, authenticating, disseminating, and preserving the official information products of the U.S. Government. The GPO is responsible for the production and distribution of information products and services for all three branches of the Federal Government, including U.S. passports for the Department of State as well as the official publications of Congress, the White House, and other Federal agencies in digital and print formats. GPO provides for permanent public access to Federal Government information at no charge through our Federal Digital System (www.fdsys.gov), partnerships with approximately 1,200 libraries nationwide participating in the Federal Depository Library Program, and our secure online bookstore.
